Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : Sir, I support the demand made by the Honourable Minister. The G. T. Hospital certainly does require an X-ray and Electro-Medical Department. But to my regret I find that a special post of a sister in charge is created. The general practice in Bombay and other hospitals is this. At the J. J. Hospital, there is no sister in charge, nor does the practice obtain in the King Edward Memorial Hospital, because the X-ray and Electro-Medical Departments are more concerned with casualties and out-door work, and there the medical man in charge is quite able to look after the work with the assistance of the other male staff. I do not think it is at all necessary to have a sister in charge for this work, but if the Honourable Minister does want to keep a nurse as it is done in the Soonderdas Medical College and Hospital, an ordinary nurse must be deputed for that work, and if it is really necessary I would request the Honourable Minister for Education to depute one of the Indian nurses for the work, a nurse trained in the nurses' course from the local Nurses' Association, and she may be given a moderate sum for the extra work which she will have to do. I do not think such a large sum should be spent for a sister in charge, who might perhaps be a raw nurse, just passed out of the nurses' course. With these words, I support the demand for the grant.

Mr. C. W. A. TURNER : Sir, I wish to inform the honourable House that the proposal is made following the advice of the Superintendent of the G. T. Hospital. The sister they propose to employ is a fully trained certificated sister, holding certificates from several medical institutions of Great Britain. They consider an expert nurse is essential for this work.

Dr. M. D. GILDER : The medical officers are there, they have got a sub-assistant surgeon there and there is the electrical assistant.

Mr C. W. A TURNER : I only wish to tell this House that this is the advice of our best expert. Dr. Gilder is no doubt an expert, but we have also....

An Honourable MEMBER : Who are your experts ?

Mr. C. W. A. TURNER : We have also to weigh the expert advice of the Surgeon General and the Superintendent in charge. These terms have been framed after a careful study of the terms in the X-ray branches of hospitals in Madras, and the salaries are on the same basis as the salaries given in Madras. I think therefore that the House will agree that these terms have been framed with some care and consideration by Government and their experts. Some of the honourable members seem to think that the allowances proposed are excessive, but I should like to inform them that they are the same as given in Madras.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA : Is there not an X-ray Department in the Soonderdas Medical College ?

Mr. C. W. A. TURNER : Yes. The allowances for the Assistant and Sub-Assistant Surgeons are on the usual scale paid to officers who happen to work in the X-ray Department which, I may add, is very expert work and entails a certain amount of risk to the operator.

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : On a point of information, is the sister in charge contemplated to be put in charge of this department a person who has received special expert training in X-rays, or is she an expert in the nursing profession only ?

Mr. C. W. A. TURNER : She is to be one who holds the certificates of C.S.M.M.G., M.E., S.R.E.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM (Eastern Sind): Sir, I would not have wished to take up the time of the House over a demand on which I think almost everybody is agreed, but for the fact that I think there is some necessity of guarding against an inference being drawn in case this demand is granted. I find that there are two donations from the same gentleman, one of which has been accepted by Government, and is now put before the House for its acceptance. The other donation is also for a similar object and is intended to make the X-Ray Department more useful. I find it is stated in the note that the acceptance of the donation of Rs. 10,000 by Mr. Samaldas is still under consideration. All that I want to suggest is that if this grant is accepted it does not mean that the House will be in a mood to accept the other when it is put before it. Government should be reluctant to add to their recurring expenditure when there are so many other demands to be satisfied.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD (Central Division): Sir, I think the Honourable Minister is fortunate in not having very severe criticism from this side of the House. I should like to know the name, the qualification of the sister. The salary of the sister is 250—10—300 and the salary of all the members of the staff put together do not come to that amount. I therefore should like to know why the Honourable Minister has agreed to engage her. As has been pointed out by an honourable member, if an Indian sister can be found possessing the same qualifications, why should she not be put in this place? Certainly on a question of this kind which is likely to give rise to racial considerations this House is always very particular. I have already been anticipated in my remarks in connection with this from the honourable member from Sukkur. In such cases the Honourable Minister should try to see as far as possible Indian agency employed in hospitals. I hope he will satisfy this House in this respect and then of course there will be no difficulty in supporting the grant. I should like him to give a satisfactory explanation. It is not a party question when reason has no chance here. Without making any reflection on any one I should request the Honourable Minister to exercise his own mind upon this question.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Sir, I think the Honourable Minister must satisfy this House that he will advertise for the post and appoint an Indian sister. There are many Indian ladies receiving education and there are many Indian lady medical graduates. The work can be done by an Indian lady. Therefore we require an assurance that he will employ an Indian sister. If he is not prepared to give that assurance we will be compelled to vote against the demand.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Sir, I thank the honourable members for the constructive criticism they have offered on this question, which would be helpful in putting this scheme into operation. The proposals were originally made by Lieutenant-Colonel Hutchinson who was in charge of the hospital. Thereafter they passed through the hands of the Surgeon-General to the Government of Bombay. Relying upon the two experts the Government of Bombay have placed the estimates before this honourable House. I have taken note of the various suggestions that have been made by honourable members and the views expressed by them will receive due consideration. We are not committed to employ any one. We are not committed to the fact that a sister is absolutely necessary. But we will look into the matter, obtain advice and if necessary then only one will be engaged. Even in the selection of a sister the views of the honourable members will receive due consideration. I hope this assurance will suffice for honourable members to sanction this grant.

A question was asked by the honourable member Mr. Jairamdas why we have not accepted the other two donations. We do not want to add to our recurring expenditure and we did not even want to accept this donation without the consent of the House. That is why we have placed the scheme before the House for its sanction. The department will pay due attention to the remarks that have fallen from the medical members of this honourable House. I hope honourable members will sanction the grant.

Question put and carried.

*Supplementary grant for Rs. 3,16,284 under 42, Civil Works for the Industrial Housing Scheme.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Mr. President, I rise to make a demand for a supplementary grant of Rs. 3,16,284 under 42, Civil Works. This does not represent any extra expenditure. This is merely a formal matter. A new account head has to be opened and the sanction of the Secretary of State has been received. I place this before the House for its approval.

Question proposed.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City) : Sir, the Honourable the General Member stated that it was merely a matter relating to book entry. In the previous debate I closely listened to the replies given by the Honourable the General Member but he failed to answer one pertinent point that was raised and that was with regard to the establishment of the chief engineers and other highly paid officials.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : Is the honourable member in order in referring to a matter on which the debate has concluded ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I was going to point it out. We deal with items as they appear and the discussion should be within the scope of that particular item. The matter referred to by the honourable member has been disposed of. We are here concerned with the demand arising out of a new system of accounting.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : This includes Rs. 1,28,000 for establishment. I thought I was in order in trying to get a reply from the Honourable the General Member.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I do not think the honourable member is in order.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Mr. President, my honourable friend paid me the compliment of saying that he heard the speech with great attention, but I do not think he was present in the House. (Mr. N. A. Bechar : I was present). I do not think that any honourable member raised any question about the establishment ; if any had raised, it would not have been relevant to the subject before the House. I think the honourable member Mr. Haji Mir Mahomed Baloch said something about it, but I could not follow him, and since it was not relevant I did not reply to that point. I hope my honourable friend will take that from me as an explanation, if he considers that I omitted explaining any matters.

Question put and carried.

* Expenditure due to damage caused by floods to irrigation works.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Mr. President, I beg to ask for a grant of Rs. 1,83,000 by way of transfer from 47-Miscellaneous (Reserved) to Irrigation (Reserved) including XIII-Working Expenses, 15-Other Revenue Expenditure financed from ordinary revenues" and 15(1)-Other Revenue Expenditure financed from Famine Insurance Grant. This, Mr. President, is due, as honourable members will notice from the note, to damage done by floods in Gujarat and Sind. We shall require this year Rs. 2,05,000 for Gujarat and Rs. 50,000 for Sind. We shall require another Rs. 2,55,000 for Gujarat during the next year, which will be provided for in the budget. Out of this amount of Rs. 2,55,000 we have got a saving of Rs. 72,000. Therefore, deducting the savings of Rs. 72,000 from the amount required we get a balance of Rs. 1,83,000 for which I make a demand.

Question proposed.

Mr. H. J. AMIN (Broach District) : Sir, I would like to know from the Honourable Member whether any provision is being made for repair to tanks damaged by floods which are not remunerative to Government. I think this amount is meant for the repairs of tanks and irrigation works which give some return to Government. There are hundreds of tanks, wells and channels which have been damaged and which require repairs. There are certain channels, owing to the non-clearance of which the whole of Gujarat was under water. There are also several new channels which require to be opened, and if they are not opened several areas will continue to be under water every year. In Broach district there are hundreds of acres under low lying area which require to be drained off by making channels. Sir, under the circumstances may I know from the Honourable Member whether he is making any provision for repairs of tanks and wells and for the opening of new channels ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The Honourable Member in charge to reply.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Mr. President, my honourable friend will have noticed that the demand I make is for Irrigation Works under heads XIII, 15 and 15(1). There are certain wells under the Revenue Department for which my honourable colleague the Revenue Member will in time, I presume, ask for a grant. He does not propose to do so just now, but he will deal with that question. I am asking for a grant in respect of all tanks managed by the Irrigation Department which have been damaged in Gujarat. I have got a list here, a very comprehensive list, of all the tanks and the amount of money which has to be spent during the current year and the amount of money which has to be spent during the next year. I have got a similar list here for Sind with also maps. I cannot possibly, Mr. President, take up the time of the honourable House by reading out the names of all the tanks that have to be repaired. The list runs into pages. There is also provision made for drainage. All drains that have been damaged will be repaired. I am informed by the Superintending Engineer, who has visited Gujarat, that this list is a very comprehensive one and it is based on personal inspection by the executive engineers in charge of the districts. If in the future there are any tanks under the Irrigation Department which have been left out of this list, and if any honourable member from Gujarat will draw my attention to that I shall certainly make enquiries.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : I would like to draw the attention of the Honourable Member to the fact that there are a few irrigation tanks in Gujarat and a few drainage channels. Will the Honourable Member promise that he will send for reports from all the district local boards in Gujarat showing what new channels should be opened in view of.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : No speech can be allowed now.

. Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI : I thought that the Honourable the General Member was making his first speech.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I have marked that some honourable members feel that they do not get an opportunity to speak. I wait for a few moments before I call upon the honourable member in charge of any item to reply. If honourable members wish to speak, they should rise in their places. It is possible that they rise very often and do not catch my eyes, but it does not prevent them from rising again if they really wish to speak.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : Sir, may I make a request that before you ask the honourable member in charge to reply you will at least say "As no honourable member wishes to address the House, I call upon the Honourable Member in charge to reply?"

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I did not say it in so many words, but I waited and as no one rose, I called upon the Honourable Member in charge to reply.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : Sir, may I be allowed to explain.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I cannot allow any speeches now.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : I should be very happy, Mr. President, to convince the honourable members that this is a comprehensive list. To prevent loss of the time of the honourable House, I suggest that my two honourable friends who were asking for information should see me later on ; I will show them this list, which will, I trust, convince them that it is a comprehensive one. It is the intention of Government to make good all the damages that have been caused by the floods in Gujarat and in Sind. I shall be very glad to see my honourable friends and show them this list, and take their advice.

Question put and carried.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Sir, I move a demand* under 43-A Famine Relief for an additional provision of Rs. 10,55,076

Deposits and Advances—Famine Insurance Funds

Advances to Cultivators . . . Rs. 80,00,000

the Provincial Government . . . Rs. 63,53,000

Before I make any explanatory remarks with reference to these items I think the House will be interested to hear what information Government have in the way of an estimate of the losses that were suffered by the recent floods in Gujarat and in Sind. I have received reports from the Flood Relief Officer and the Commissioner in Sind obtained from the Collectors in Gujarat and Sind, and I shall give the House as briefly as possible a resumé of the information which I have before me. First as regards the extent of the floods, although honourable members will have gathered certain information on this point from the press, I think they will be interested to have it in somewhat greater detail.

As regards Gujarat, in the Ahmedabad District, Dholka Taluka suffered the most in extent, the whole taluka being seriously affected by the floods. Next came South Daskroi and Viramgam, which were affected to the extent of two-thirds of their total area. North Daskroi and Sanand suffered comparatively lightly, being affected to the extent of one-third only. Then as regards Kaira District, none of the talukas were wholly involved, but Matar and Thasra were affected to the extent of one-half, while Anand, Kapadvanj, Mehmedabad and Nadiad are each reported to have had one-third of their area devastated. The Panch Mahals did not suffer severely, though the greater part of the district was to a greater or less extent affected by the heavy rains, the greatest damage occurring in the Godhra and Kalol Talukas and the Halol Mahal. In Broach the area affected was fortunately very limited indeed, though in that area the damage was of an intensive degree. It represents one-fifth of the Amod Taluka and a very limited tract in Jambusar estimated at 1/32 of the whole area of the taluka.

As regards Sind, while the floods were restricted to only two districts, Thar Parkar and Hyderabad, their effect was very intensive. In the former district the whole of two talukas, Mirpurkhas and Digri, were devastated, while the damage covered half the Jamesabad taluka and one-third of Umerkot and Samaro. In Hyderabad, one-third of Guni Taluka was affected, two-fifths of Tando Bago and Badin, and one-fourth of Dero Mohbat. Other talukas suffered to a less extent.

Then as to the extent of the losses suffered in respect of standing crops, I have seen in the press various attempts made to estimate on a monetary basis the extent of this damage. I submit, however, that it is quite impossible to enter into any approximate estimate of the damage done. The estimates that have been made are absolutely fallacious in the sense they take the crops at their full value as though they had reached maturity or had been actually harvested and that consequently the losses involved by their destruction were irreparable. But as honourable members know, that is not a fact. The fact is that so far as Gujarat is concerned it has been possible to resow most of the kharif crops. I have the report of the Flood Relief Officer stating that almost over the entire area of devastation in Gujarat the crops have been resown, and I am glad to be able to inform the House that the prospects of a good harvest are at present very favourable. Therefore any estimate of loss that could be made would properly be only the difference between the value of the crops destroyed and the ultimate value of the crops reaped. To this must be added of course the cost of the seed lost and the extra cost of labour. With so many conjectural factors in the computation, however, it is clearly impossible to arrive at anything like a close estimate of the net loss suffered.

In Sind conditions are somewhat different. There the resowing of crops has been possible only to a limited extent. This is because the crops are for the most part dependent on inundation canals having a limited irrigational period. The floods came too late to admit generally of the resowing of the kharif crops, as there would have been no prospect of such resown crops getting the late waterings necessary for them. The great bulk of the area resown is in the Thar Parkar district, where the Jamrao affords a quasi-perennial supply and conditions were consequently more favourable for late sown kharif crops.

I do not wish to detain the House unduly, but I should like to place before it certain facts and figures which will give them some indication as to the proportionate extent to which the standing crops were destroyed by the floods. Taking again Gujarat and the Ahmedabad District first, the taluka where the damage was most intensive, as also most extensive in area, is Dholka, where the cotton crop was destroyed to the extent of 90 per cent. and the jowari and bajri 84 per cent. As regards other talukas, the cotton suffered from 60 per cent. in Prantij to 92 per cent. in Viramgam, that is, taking, as I shall do throughout, the extreme range of percentages; jowari from 40 per cent. in Dhanduka to 70 per cent. in South Daskroi, bajri from 50 per cent. in Modasa to 75 per cent. in North Daskroi. In Kaira, the Anand and Nadiad Talukas suffered most. The former taluka lost 80 per cent. of its til crop, 75 per cent. of its rice and tur, and 50 per cent. of its bajri, kodra and tobacco, while Nadiad lost 70 per cent. of its bajri, 75 per cent. of its pulse crops and 80 per cent. of its til. As regards other talukas, the percentages of loss ranged in the case of bajri from 20 per cent. in Kapadvanj to 70 per cent. in Matar ; rice 10 per cent. in Kapadvanj to 40 per cent. in Matar ; kodra 25 per cent. in Mehmedabad and Thasra to 35 per cent. in Borsad ; cotton 35 per cent. in Thasra to 50 per cent. in Matar and Kapadvanj ; til 40 per cent. in Matar to 50 per cent. in Thasra. As regards the Panch Mahals, Godhra lost 40 per cent. of its maize, 30 per cent. of its cotton and bajri, while in Halol Mahal the losses in maize and cotton amounted to 70 per cent. and 75 per cent. respectively. In Broach the proportion of loss in the affected part of Jambusar taluka was cotton 72 per cent., til 78 per cent., bajri 24 per cent. and tur 18 per cent ; while in Amod the proportion for cotton was 62 per cent.

In the case of Sind the proportions of losses in the flooded areas are as follows : Guni taluka, rice 33 per cent. and cotton 12 per cent ; Dero Mohbat, rice 60 per cent. and cotton 80 per cent ; Tando Bago, rice and cotton 45 per cent., bajri 25 per cent. ; Badin, rice 40 per cent. Finally the figures for Thar Parkar district are—Mirpurkhas, cotton 40 per cent. ; Digri, cotton 62 per cent., bajri 95 per cent., jowari 90 per cent. ; Jamesabad, cotton 60 per cent., bajri 50 per cent. ; Umarkot, rice 25 per cent., cotton 30 per cent. and bajri 33 per cent. ; Samaro, rice 30 per cent., cotton 50 per cent. and bajri 25 per cent.

Well, so much for the losses in crops. The Commissioner in Sind has furnished some interesting information about the prospect of rabi, which I should like to communicate to the House. He has also been able to make a rough estimate of the remissions that are likely to be made. These in the Hyderabad district amount to Rs. 2,44,000 and in the Thar Parkar district Rs. 1,35,000—total about Rs. 3,80,000. The approximate area likely to be given on eksali—I mention this because members from Sind have been very interested in this subject and have repeatedly advanced requests that land should be given out on eksali as extensively as possible, all restrictions on canals being removed—the anticipated area of eksali cultivation is, in Hyderabad, 34,300 acres and, in Thar Parkar, 44,900, making a total of 79,200 acres.

Then, I have mentioned the limited extent to which in Sind it was possible to resow with kharif crops. The area that has been resown in this way, namely with bajri in the Hyderabad district is 9,900 acres, and in Thar Parkar 41,800 acres, a total of 51,700 acres odd.

Then, there is an interesting comparison between the average annual area under rabi and the area expected under rabi this year. In Hyderabad the average is 112,000. This year it is expected that it will rise to 137,000. In the Thar Parkar district the average is only 36,700, and this will rise, it is hoped, to 83,900.

Then, I come to losses of cattle. Fortunately, Gujerat has suffered very little in this respect, and especially in the matter of cattle essential for cultivation the losses there have been almost infinitesimal. The estimates, of course, are very rough but according to them, the total losses in Gujerat of cattle—and that includes not only horned cattle, but donkeys, sheep and goats—amount in value to Rs. 1,98,000. But in Sind, unfortunately, the losses are far greater. In Hyderabad, they amounted to Rs. 3,40,000 ; and in Thar Parkar to Rs. 8,34,000 ; making a total for Sind of Rs. 11,74,000, as compared with Rs. 1,98,000 for Gujerat.

Then, we come to the biggest item of losses, houses and movable properties other than cattle. The figures under this head, as honourable members will not be surprised to hear, are very large indeed, though here again it is necessary to emphasize the fact that the figures are necessarily only approximate. I do not think honourable members wish to hear the totals for each district separately and I will therefore give only the totals for Gujerat and Sind respectively. The total for Gujerat is Rs. 3,09,67,000. That includes Ahmedabad City. The total for Sind is much less, being only Rs. 33,33,000.

So much for the losses, and now for the measures which Government propose to undertake to repair them, so far as it is within their power. You will see at the end of the statement which supports this demand that there are three distinct items. The first item is one of Rs. 10,55,076. This is for direct expenditure, that is to say, expenditure which will not be eventually recoverable as is largely the case of the other items. This sum is made up as follows : Government have decided to give free grants for rebuilding to the very poor people and depressed classes—a total sum of Rs. 10,00,000, which will be available for both Gujerat and Sind.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : Will the honourable member say how the allocation is made district by district ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : There is no allocation as between the different districts. The Flood Relief Officer has full authority to disburse the sums according to actual requirements. There was no proposal to allocate amounts district by district. We hope that we shall be able to meet all reasonable demands under this head.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : District by district, what was the amount ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I have no separate figures showing requirements by districts, nor even any figures for the whole of Gujerat. It was estimated that this sum of Rs. 10,00,000 would cover all reasonable demands for free grants. But this can be verified only when the distribution actually takes place.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI : What is the demand expected in respect of loans ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : The demand in respect of loans has been roughly guessed as—it can only be a guess at present—one crore and fifteen thousand. That is for loans, but it is, as I say, purely guess work. We shall only know the total amount of the actual demand as applications come in. These figures of demands were collected before Government had finally considered the question of the terms on which they would be prepared to give loans, and the terms will necessarily affect the ultimate demand. Many people who might have put in applications for loans in the expectation that they would be getting them entirely free of interest or on very liberal terms might withdraw their applications on hearing the terms finally decided. And of course vice versa. Included in this item of Rs. 10,00,000, as will be seen from a reference to item No. 4 is a sum of 2 lakhs provided for the purchase of corrugated iron sheets. These corrugated iron sheets are being actually provided by the Central Flood Relief Committee, who are arranging for their purchase and despatch to various distributing centres. As announced in the statement, a sum of Rs. 1,18,531 has already been spent in this manner, but I understand from later figures that the full amount of two lakhs has since been reached and that the Flood Relief Committee have lately asked for authority to proceed with the purchase of corrugated iron sheets to the extent of another two lakhs. This authority has been given.

The next item is...

Mr. H. J. AMIN : Will relief be given in the shape of free food and clothing ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : No, relief is only given for purposes of re-building. As the honourable member knows, the greater part of the expenditure on ordinary charitable relief is being incurred by non-official charitable organisations including the Central Flood Relief Fund, assisted by a grant of 3 lakhs from the Indian People's Famine Fund, while Government expenditure has been confined under this head to such expenditure only as was urgently required in places where charitable funds were not available. In the circumstances it was bound to be comparatively small.

Then, there is an amount of Rs. 50,000, which is made up of various small amounts, such as Rs. 15,000 for the free distribution of seed in Broach district, Rs. 5,000 for urgent relief in Broach district and Rs. 5,000 for urgent relief in Viramgam taluka ; while a sum of Rs. 15,000 has been allocated to the Chief Conservator of Forests for the provision of bamboos, rafters and other materials for reconstruction as is explained in item No. 3.

Finally, there is a sum of Rs. 10,000 referred to in item No. 5, which has been placed at the disposal of the Director of Agriculture for the supply of seeds, implements and bullocks for re-sowing in Gujarat.

Then, there are two items (1) for the establishment of the Flood Relief Officer, Rs. 2,076, and (2) Rs. 3,000 in connection with the appointment of a flood reconstruction officer in the Thar Parkar district.

That makes up the total of Rs. 10,55,076.

If the honourable members will add up the next two items, they will see that they come to Rs. 1,43,53,400. This represents the extent of the loans which Government are at present prepared to make. The total sum is made up first of Rs. 1,15,00,000, which is for advances for reconstruction. At the beginning of this session, I announced to the House the terms on which these loans would be made. I wish to explain that this sum of 1,15 lakhs is necessarily largely a matter of surmise for, as I have just stated, it is impossible to say what the actual demand will be until the people know the terms on which we are prepared to advance money to them.

Then comes an item of six lakhs which it is proposed to place at the disposal of the Registrar of Co-operative Societies for financing co-operative housing societies, both in urban areas and in rural areas. The terms on which these societies will make loans to their members will be similar to those on which Government will advance money to the direct applicants.

A sum of Rs. 25,000 has been advanced free of interest to the District Local Board of Broach for opening cheap grain shops. In other districts non-official agencies have arranged for the establishment of cheap grain shops, but there was no such organisation ready in Broach, and the District Local Board accordingly made an application for a loan of Rs. 25, 000 free of interest, and this was sanctioned.

There is an item of Rs. 18,28,460 for the purchase of seed, cattle, etc. The details of this amount are given in item No. 8 as follows:—

	Rs.
Ahmedabad .. .. .	5,00,000
Panch Mahals .. .. .	26,500
Kaira .. .. .	5,00,000
Thar Parkar .. .. .	6,00,000
Hyderabad .. .. .	1,51,000
Broach .. .. .	50,000
Total .. .. .	18,28,460

In connection with that, I think the House is probably aware that Government agreed to advance money free of interest so far as loans were required for the purchase of seed. This was a concession for re-sowing kharif crops, which was amply justified by the special circumstances of the case, but for rabi sowings no such concession was required, since there had been no previous loss of seed. The case of rabi sowings in Sind, however, has been separately considered. As I have already explained, the extent to which Kharif crops in Sind could be resown was very limited. Government have therefore decided that where kharif crops are re-sown in rabi, i.e., as dubari, loans for the seed required for such dubari crops should be given free of interest. But for pure rabi, the usual terms will apply.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : What is the amount for Sind ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : We have no separate figures in the case of Sind for kharif and rabi takavi respectively. For Gujarat there is a provision of four lakhs estimated to be required for rabi seed. As regards Sind it is probable that the sums already allotted will cover the rabi requirements also, and I doubt whether there will be any further demand for rabi. There may be a few places where more rabi takavi will be required, but in the Commissioner's report the column of such requirements has been left blank, from which I infer that we need not expect any further demand for rabi seed. The amounts already allocated to the two districts of Hyderabad and Thar Parkar will probably be sufficient to meet the demand for both kharif and rabi but if any further applications for allotments are received they will of course be met.

Well, I have now accounted for the aggregate of Rs. 1,43,53,000, which will be given out in the shape of loans for various purposes. To make up this sum, we propose to draw on the Famine Insurance Fund to the extent of Rs. 80 lakhs. The balance of Rs. 63,53,400 will be drawn from the general balances at the disposal of Government.

Mr. J. B. PETIT : Is it from current revenue ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : It is from ordinary provincial balances. I now ask the House to sanction these provisions.

Mr. H. J. AMIN (Broach District) : Will the Honourable the Revenue Member kindly say whether Government is going to give loans to the agriculturists to repair the wells used for agricultural purposes which have been damaged by the floods and which, unless put in order before the next season, cannot be utilised for irrigation in the whole of the Kaira and Ahmedabad Districts. Thousands of wells have been damaged. Are Government going to help the owners of the wells by giving them tagavi ? Also, are Government going to give loans.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. I think the honourable member can address himself on those points when it comes to his turn to speak on the demand. But I must first put the demand before the House, and then in reply to his questions he can get all that he wants from the Honourable the Revenue Member.

Question proposed.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI (Kaira District) : Sir, I am rather disappointed with the amount allotted by the Honourable the Revenue Member for relief operations in the flood affected areas of this presidency. I shall touch the question of building grants, that is, loans for building houses. The Honourable the Revenue Member has already stated that from Gujarat districts alone the official demand made by the Collectors was in the neighbourhood of Rs. 1,33,00,000.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I may inform the honourable member that that sum includes the Rs. 10 lakhs that Government have separately given in the shape of free grants.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI : But when we can see that the actual loss in house property amounts to about Rs. 3 crores in Gujarat.....

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : This is not only on account of house property, but includes all moveable property ; a very large sum is accounted for by ordinary moveable property, for which Government assume no responsibility.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI : In any case, the demand made by the Collectors for Rs. 1,33,00,000.....

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : This is not a demand made by the Collectors. It represents the applications reported by the talatis and passed on. The Collectors have in no way given their authority for the applications. They are unchecked statements.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI : Sir, I am sorry that the figures collected by the talatis were forwarded by the Collectors to Government without checking them, and Government have taken those figures as a basis for setting apart grants for affording help to the people affected by the floods. It must however be remembered that, when these statements were prepared by the talatis, many of the cultivators had kept themselves aloof, on account of the impression created amongst them that the interest charges would amount to about 8 per cent. and that the joint bond system would also be enforced. Owing to these impressions, the people did not come forward to state their demand, and we have reason to believe that even this inadequate demand of Rs. 1,33,00,000 is the minimum demand which the people require for building houses. In this connection, I would just refer the Honourable the Revenue Member to another set of figures prepared by Mr. Vallabhbhai's agency ; I think those figures are quite accurate. Even in those figures, many cases may have been left out under the impression that Government would after all charge 8 per cent. interest ; still, I can say that those figures are pretty accurate. I would request the Honourable the Revenue Member just to refer to the figures prepared by Mr. Vallabhbhai's agency for the flood stricken parts of Gujarat, and to make it possible, either from the Famine Fund or from the general balances, to make a provision for the additional amount required. I would request him to write to the Collectors informing them that the former statements prepared by the talatis were prepared under the impression that the loan to be issued by Government would be a sort of tagavi loan and that a high rate of interest would be charged. And therefore they should remove that impression from the minds of the people and prepare fresh statements of the demands of the people. I consider that these fresh statements should be checked with the figures arrived at by Mr. Vallabhbhai's agency, and on that basis should be fixed the grants for house building at least for Gujarat. Otherwise, what will happen is that many a person will be left out, and perhaps will not find money enough to construct his house. Again I request him to remember another fact. In the proposed loan the town of Nadiad has been left out and the city of Ahmedabad also is left out. In these towns if the sufferers want help from Government loan it should be given to them.

The Honourable Member has made a statement with regard to crop estimate and that statement should not go unchallenged. I request the Honourable the Revenue Member to remember that with regard to the Kaira district about which I can speak with some authority, the bajri crop is the staple crop. It is grown over an area of about 1,60,000 acres. The whole bajri crop is gone and the honourable member if he likes can ask the Collector whether the bajri crop has suffered only to the extent of 50 per cent. He can refer the matter to any agricultural officer. The yield of bajri crop is insignificant, hardly an anna or two. As regards rice crop it may be somewhat less than 4 annas. Jowari was sown after the floods. It is not a cash crop and it is sown for fodder only. As people were afraid that there would be scarcity next year they have sown jowari for fodder. As regards tobacco crop the subsequent rains have spoiled it. Kodra mixture has suffered to the extent of 75 per cent. As regards cotton I do not think the Honourable the Revenue Member is correct in his estimate. No estimate can be made about this crop at present.

The Honourable the Revenue Member has not referred to the other losses, the invisible losses, the cultivators may have suffered. The fertile upper soil has been washed away and so the crops sown subsequent to the floods will not thrive and flourish. If he refers the matter to the Collector and other Government officers, if they are conscientious, they will bear me out in that statement.

I now come to the very important question. I hope honourable members will agree with me when I say that the famine insurance fund should not be lent on interest as it is now proposed to be done. The sum of 80 lakhs which is proposed to be given as loan should be without interest to the cultivators and that for this reason: Take for instance the Matar taluka. In that taluka the co-operative societies have lent to the extent of over a lakh of rupees. There is Government tagavi to the extent of Rs. 50,000. To add to that there are Sowkar's debts and heavy land revenue assessments, which, I regret to say, work at 75 to 94 per cent. of the rental. How can that taluka pay interest on your loan? You must at least have pity on the poor fate of the cultivators of that taluka. The same state of affairs exists in the other talukas also. I took the Matar taluka as an instance only to show that interest on the proposed loan would bring down the cultivator like anything. It will bring them down to such an extent that Government may lose their revenue. This will tend to drive the cultivators away from that taluka. Five years ago, I brought to the notice of the present Leader of the House that the policy pursued by the co-operative movement was such that it would make the cultivator more and more indebted. I instanced the case of the Matar taluka. Now it has come to be true. When the Honourable Minister for Agriculture had come to the Kaira district, the penal rate of interest charged by co-operative societies was 18 per cent. The assistant registrar informed him that I was giving an incorrect statement. The assistant registrar was lying before the Minister of Agriculture....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member should have said that the assistant registrar was not making a correct statement.

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI: Subsequently enquiries were made, and I find that I was right and he was wrong. I just give it as an example to show that even if you advance loans at a rate of interest in the neighbourhood of 6 per cent. it would only bring down the cultivator. That being so, I say that the loans advanced from the Famine Fund should be free of interest to the cultivators who usually owe a heavy debt to co-operative societies, sowcars and to Government.

[Rao Saheb D. P. Desai]

The next point is, that the Agricultural Department has not taken up the question of wells destroyed. My honourable friend from Broach told us that many wells have been destroyed in Broach; the same is the case in the Kaira district. It has been shown that these wells provided a means of livelihood to the cultivators. Therefore, people whose wells have been destroyed, should be provided loans from the Famine Fund. This is as regards Gujarat. If we turn now to Sind, I think the amount provided should be increased by 50 lakhs. I am, therefore, disappointed with the statement presented by the Honourable the Revenue Member, and I request him to get his statement revised.

Mr. H. J. AMIN (Broach District): Sir, I rise to request the Honourable the Revenue Member to call for a statement of the number of wells used for agricultural purposes, which have been destroyed by floods and heavy rains in Kaira and Ahmedabad districts. Of course there are several wells used for drinking purposes which have also been destroyed but that is a matter for the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government, those wells being under district local boards. I know that for the repair of wells used for agricultural purposes a very big amount will be required, and I wish to draw the attention of the Honourable the Revenue Member to it.

Another important fact to which I wish to draw the attention of the honourable member is, that this is the right time to help municipalities to open their congested areas. The municipalities of Ahmedabad, Dholka, Dakore, Nadiad and other places have been affected by the floods and thousands of houses have fallen. This is the time, before new houses are constructed, to open up congested areas if any. If the municipalities require loans to acquire those houses they should be given to them to enable them to acquire the same.

Mr. G. I. PATEL (Ahmedabad Millowners' Association): Mr. President, the note which has been placed before the House by the Honourable the Revenue Member along with the figures quoted by him in his speech shows that the investigations made by Government so far are not perfectly satisfactory. I would request the Honourable the Revenue Member that whenever he has to quote such figures before the House, he would place them in our hands at least a day before he uses them for discussion in this House, so that we may be able to carefully examine them and place our views before him. In the present case he has sprung upon us quite suddenly a variety of complicated figures which were not known to us, and those figures being collected by officers of Government do not satisfy this side of the House and are difficult to be challenged on the spot. As my honourable friend Rao Saheb Dadubhai Desai stated, the figures collected by non-official agencies in Gujarat tell a different tale than those collected by Government through their own agents.

The next point is, the amount that has been proposed to be distributed for the relief of the people who have suffered by the floods is too meagre, in view of the position of Government and the revenue which Government derive annually from these agriculturists. I may be permitted to point out that the private agencies in Ahmedabad and Bombay have collected funds through means of persuasion to the extent of over 25 lakhs of rupees. Of this, I may mention, in Ahmedabad alone over three lakhs have been collected for distribution by way of free relief. There has also been another fund started for the purpose of granting loans to re-build houses. I would request the Honourable the Revenue Member to consider the amount that has already been so far collected by private agencies. Already 7 lakhs have been distributed from private funds for relieving the flood-affected people, and this mighty Government with an annual revenue of 16 crores to-day declares on the floor of the House that they are going to distribute a meagre sum of 10 lakhs of rupees. That is a matter of great dissatisfaction to us.

As regards the amount that is to be given by way of loans, I would point out that the word "loan" has a special meaning; it has got a technical atmosphere. When a loan is to be granted, not by any other body, but by Government, and that it is to be recovered by them at a later date, I would ask my honourable friend just to consider what would be the impression left in the minds of poor agriculturists who take loans from the Government on the terms usually proposed by Government. As my honourable friend Rao Saheb Dadubhai Desai suggested the loan should be extended with a well-intentioned motive and no interest at all should be charged from the agriculturists. That would be a perfectly justifiable position; but if Government cannot go to that extent, they should at least forego the interest on the loan for at least half the period within which the loan is to be repaid and charge nominal interest only for the remaining half of the period. When you give a "loan" and "recover" it "with interest," it would be chimerical to suggest that you are giving relief to poor agriculturists. It does not appeal to anybody's reason. I do not wish to criticise the Government for what they have done. I am prepared to extend my compliments to them for the way in which they have tackled the question. But my complaint is that this question has not been tackled in the true spirit. They have only been able to touch the fringe.

There are three points which I would like to bring to the notice of Government. The first is that the actual amount to be given away for relief is too small as compared with the annual revenues which Government consistently derive from the agriculturists. Secondly the amount which is proposed to be granted as loan though it appears big on papers, is going to be realized again by Government in the treasury with a certain amount of interest. So, that does not fall under the class of giving 'relief.' The third and vital question is about the assessment. This question is intimately connected at this stage with the interests of the agriculturists. My honourable friend the Revenue Member admits that so many percentage of crops were destroyed. He further admits that there is resowing of crops. But he safely forgets that these crops were again damaged by further rains. What is the condition of the people in those areas ? I may give the instance of Viramgam where on account of the second rains the resown crops have again been destroyed. In a majority of cases the agriculturists have been ruined and I think Government should come forward and give relief to them in the matter of assessment also. When Government themselves admit that people have been ruined, when they advance loans for buying seeds and for reconstruction, etc., and when they are giving them free assistance in certain matters it is but straight and honest that they should give an assurance to those people that they will get relief in the matter of assessment for the year.

With these few remarks I will request the honourable the Revenue Member to reconsider the matter in the light of the suggestions which I have made. I may tell him that apart from Bombay we have raised more than Rs. 3½ lakhs in Ahmedabad for giving free relief, not in the nature of a loan, but to be given away altogether. We have got another reserve for loans for the rebuilding of houses, etc. The latter loans will be with sliding interest. Before the discussion of this matter ends I hope the Honourable the Revenue Member will be able to announce to the House that the loan which Government intend to give will be without interest or at least for the first half of the period it will be without interest and for the second half it will bear a nominal interest and that the assessment in the case of the agriculturists whose crops have been destroyed or damaged will not be recovered from them. With these suggestions I will leave the matter to the discretion of the Honourable the Revenue Member and the Honourable the Leader of the House so that they may reconsider and declare the intention of Government to us at a later stage.

Khan Bahadur GHULAM NABI SHAH (Thar Parkar District) (Addressed the House in Sindi): Sir, the calamity that has this year overtaken Thar Parkar district and Tando division in the Hyderabad district, is a very unfortunate one and has placed the poor agriculturists in a woeful plight.

The houses, properties, crops and lot of cattle of these poor cultivators have been destroyed completely in very many tracts in these two districts. The condition of the people is such that it deserves pity, particularly when one goes and makes an observation of the villages that have been completely washed away and many people have been deprived of their houses, by this catastrophe, so much so that their women and children are perishing in the heat and it is still more feared owing to the cold season which is soon to set in. Their having been rendered houseless, it could easily be imagined than described what the state of things must there be.

This was the calamity which never occurred in the past even if we were to turn the pages of the history of Sind. The old men in their eighties even cannot be witnesses of such an occurrence that the places where two or three inches is the average rainfall, there was over 30 inches rainfall.

[Khan Bahadur Ghulam Nabi Shah]

I have personally seen the flood-stricken villages and tracts of which the prominent are, the portion of Mirpurkhas town called "Gharibabad" village of "ghudo" and numerous other small villages. Messrs. Devdhar and Devle came to pay a visit to these flood-stricken parts, in order to have a first hand knowledge of Sind floods.

When I interviewed them, they made an honest and frank admission that the havocs caused by floods in Sind are in no way less than in Gujarat, hence Sind deserves equal help and relief.

The Honourable the Revenue Member has fully described the extent of the loss in each taluka of these two districts, so it is no use traversing the whole ground again. I content myself by merely mentioning that the officers who came to visit these parts, simply visited those places where they could conveniently reach. They could not have therefore possibly made the correct or accurate estimate of the loss. In my view the loss is more than a crore of rupees in Thar Parkar district alone. It is however not so necessary to dispute this point, but what is really needed at this stage is the help or relief that Government propose to render.

The Honourable Member stated that there will be lot of rabi cultivation, but I do not agree to that. I can say on authority that the rabi crop will hardly be one-twentieth of the loss. People will take not less than ten or fifteen years to regain the old position in these parts, that also if the following methods are adopted by Government. Firstly the people be given free grants for housing; secondly the Tagavis on interest will not help much, as people will never be able to pay the interest and in most of the cases, they will not be able to pay back the loan even. I therefore suggest that loan free of interest may kindly be advanced to them, at least for first three years. Similarly for immediate maintenance grants may be made till their rabi crops are ripe to make their living on.

Thirdly the tagavis given should be kindly allowed to be paid back by easy instalments in ten or fifteen years.

If the Honourable Member visited the spot personally, he will, I am sure, agree to good many constructive proposals that I have made. With these few words, I support the grant.

Mr. J. B. PETIT (Bombay Millowners' Association): Mr. President, I think the Government deserve to be congratulated upon having tackled the situation with the readiness and spontaneity with which they hastened to the relief of Gujarat and Sind in their great distress. I think many of the members who preceded me, have not exactly realised this situation. But, Sir, I would like Government to give this honourable House a more definite idea of the exact relief they have been able to give. I do not think the figures that have been given to us, give us this idea quite clearly. I would like the Honourable the Revenue Member, when he replies, to tell us exactly the total amount of the grant that has been given, the total amount of the loans that have been advanced for different purposes, the amount of interest that he proposes to charge on them, and the period over which the loans will be spread. I do not think that this has all been made quite clear.....

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I made a full statement to the House only a little while ago. I can give the honourable member the details if he wishes to have them separately. But I made a full statement to this House, and as regards Tagavi loans, he will see.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I think the honourable member should take his opportunity in reply.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Certainly, Sir.

Mr. J. B. PETIT : We would like to know what the total amount of advances would come to. As far as I am able to see, it would be Rs. 3,28,00,000. Is that correct ? The two figures which are before us are Rs. 80 lakhs and Rs. 63 lakhs, which give a total of Rs. 1,43,00,000, to which may be added rupees one crore and odd, unless that is included in it. (An Honourable Member : No ; that is not correct.) Then it comes to Rs. 2,20,00,000. We would also like to know the exact figures of the loans so that the House may get a correct idea of the advances to be made. I would also like to know,—I did not exactly follow the Honourable the Revenue Member,—from what funds the provincial Government is to give the advances for which arrangements have been made. Are these to come out of the permanent balances of the Government of Bombay or from current revenue ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The House will now adjourn till half past one to-morrow and I would request honourable members who wish to speak on this subject to be in their places in time, because after a limit of discussion, as usual, a closure may be moved.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I just want to point out, Sir, that we have the Public Accounts Committee meeting to-morrow morning, which usually lasts till about half past one, and therefore.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I thought I was complying with Government wishes in suggesting 1-30 p.m., because it was said day before yesterday that "from day after to-morrow" the House might sit from 1-30 to enable the Government business to be finished.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : We did not think, Sir, then of the Public Accounts Committee meeting. To-morrow is a Government business day and Government business may perhaps be finished to-morrow. If Government business is finished to-morrow, then it may not be necessary to sit from 1-30. To-morrow we have the Public Accounts Committee meeting, which usually lasts till half past one, and so, if you, do not mind, we could meet at the usual hour to-morrow at 2 and, if more time is required for Government business, then thereafter we may consider sitting from 1-30.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I thought I was complying with Government's own wishes ; very well. The House is adjourned to 2 p.m. to-morrow, Wednesday, the 12th October 1927.

Wednesday, the 12th October 1927

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. Are there any new members desirous of taking their seats ?

Mr. J. Ghosal then made the prescribed affirmation of allegiance to His Majesty the King Emperor and took his seat in the Council,

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Questions.

JURORS, BROACH

Mr. H. J. AMIN (Broach District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether a list of jurors is maintained at Broach ;

(b) if so, what is the number of jurors and the date when the jury was last summoned ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a) No list of jurors has been prepared for Broach because the jury system is not in force in that District.

(b) Does not arise.

REGISTRATION : PHOTO COPIES

Mr. H. J. AMIN (Broach District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the actual amount saved on account of the introduction of the photo-copying system of registration in the City of Bombay ;

(b) whether it is a fact that the incorporated law society and solicitors have protested against this system of photo-copying of documents tendered for registration ;

(c) the names of the registration offices in the mufassil where the photo-copying system has been introduced upto now and the amount of saving effected upto now on that account ;

(d) the actual expenditure incurred in the Registration Department during each of the last four years ;

(e) whether it is a fact that the system of photo-copying has been introduced in the Registration Department after a trial of only a year or two ;

(f) if the reply to the above is in the negative, after how many years' experience the said system has been introduced ;

(g) whether it is a fact that the photo-copies fade within less than ten years ; if not, for how many years such copies are known to retain the freshness and clearness of an original impression ;

(h) how many photographic artists in the City of Bombay and elsewhere were consulted by them in regard to the endurance of the photographic impression ;

(i) whether they are aware of the fact that the copies of documents which are illegible cannot be accepted in evidence in the courts of law ;

(j) if the reply be in the affirmative, what arrangements they have made to surmount the difficulty in getting true copies of the original documents whenever they are required in case the photo-copies are illegible ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) and (c) As stated in the reply to Mr. Gunjal's question printed at page 151 of the Council Debates, Vol. XVII, Part II, 23rd February 1926, the amount saved during the period from April 1922 to March 1925 in the various registration offices to which the photo-copying system has been made applicable was

Rs. 89,712 and savings at the same rate have been maintained. The actual saving after March 1925 has not been calculated as it would involve considerable labour in calculating copying charges for all the documents. Information regarding Bombay City is not available, but will be obtained if the Honourable Member desires it. The system has been introduced into the following offices in the mofussil :—

Bandra	Ahmednagar	Satara
Walwa	Karad	Haveli I and II
Haveli III	Ambegaon	Bhimthadi
Indapur	Dhond	Junnar
Mawal	Sholapur	Ahmedabad.

(b) They have criticised the system.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: The information has been called for,

RECORD OF RIGHTS : SUPPLY OF COPIES

Mr. B. V. JADHAV (Satara District): Will Government be pleased to state

(a) whether under rule No. 137 (2) made under the Land Revenue Code the revenue patil cannot give a copy of entries in the record of rights ;

(b) whether they are aware that when a talati has more villages than one, the copy is not given by him within the statutory period of ten days and thus great inconvenience is caused to the parties ;

(c) in case the reply to (a) above be in the negative, whether they intend to confer upon the revenue patils the power to give such copies in such villages whose revenue patils are literate and able to give such copies themselves ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) The Revenue Patil cannot give such copies.

(b) No such cases have come to the notice of Government but delay is at times inevitable.

(c) No ; because such a course would be calculated to divide responsibility between the talati and the revenue patil and it would be difficult to fix it in the event of the records being tampered with.

MURDER IN TRAIN TO IGATPURI

Mr. HAJI IBRAHIM HAJI MAHOMED JITEKAR (Southern Division) : Will Government be pleased to state-

(a) whether they have heard about the brutal murder of a Marwari traveller in the G. I. P. Railway train to Igatpuri on or about the 8th of September 1927 ;

(b) if so, whether they will be pleased to place the full details of the investigations on the Council table ;

(c) whether they propose to take steps to compel the G. I. P. Railway management to take the requisite precautions to safeguard the lives and properties of the railway travelling public ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a) Yes.

(b) No. To do so would not be to the public advantage.

(c) Any suggestions the Honourable Member may think it proper to make will no doubt be duly considered either by Government or by the Railway Company.

Mr. R. S. ASVALE : Was the gentleman murdered a Marwari or a Bhatia ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : I am afraid I did not look into that point.

Mr. R. S. ASVALE : Are the Railway Company not in a position to make their own arrangements for the safety of the lives and property of the passengers travelling by their line ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : I believe so.

REGISTRATION DEPARTMENT : PAY

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI on behalf of Mr. S. C. JOSHI : Will Government be pleased to state definitely and clearly—

(a) whether it is a fact that the revision, pay and prospects in the Registration Department were under consideration since 1917 before the issue of general orders for revising the pay under Government Resolution No. 438 of 26th June 1920 ;

(b) what was the scale proposed to be given before 1920 in view of the departmental requirements ;

(c) what was the basis taken for fixing the revised scale of 1921 ;

(d) whether the percentage increase was granted on the scale proposed to be given in 1919 or on the original scale ;

(e) whether the pre-war scale granted in 1917-18 was held to be inadequate by the then Head of the Department ;

(f) what was the minimum pay proposed to be given in the reorganisation of the department by the then Head of the Department, Mr. G. S. Curtis ; what is the percentage increase over that minimum granted in the revision of 1920 ;

(g) what is the percentage of posts above hundred and under hundred in pre-war scale and revised scale ;

(h) whether the original distribution of posts in various grades was held to be inadequate by Mr. Curtis ;

(i) what is the percentage of posts in grades under and above hundred in the old scale and that in the corresponding revised grades under and above one hundred and fifty ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) No.

(b) Does not arise.

(c) and (d) The percentage increase was calculated on the pre-war rates of pay.

(e) and (f) Sir George Curtis was not Inspector-General of Registration in the year 1917-18 and no proposals for revision of pay were received by Government in that year.

(g)	Percentage of Sub-Registrar's posts on Rs. 100 and above	Percentage of Sub-Registrar's posts under Rs. 100
Pre-war scale	.. 15·7	84·3
Revised scale	.. 46·5	53·5

(h) Yes.

(i)	Percentage of posts under Rs. 100	Percentage of posts on Rs. 100 and above
Pre-war scale	.. 84·3	15·7
	Percentage of posts under Rs. 150	Percentage of posts over Rs. 150
Revised scale	.. 85	15

The figures given against clauses (g) and (i) refer to mofussil sub-registrars only and do not include six posts of Inspectors of Registration who are in the grade of Rs. 220—10—300 and clerks whose grades are Rs. 30—1—50, 30—2—60 and 50—3—80.

WRITS OF SUMMONS : GOVERNMENT SERVANTS SIGNING DOCUMENTS

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Satara District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware of the practice that prevails whereby Government servants such as talatis, sub-registrars, copying clerks, etc., in signing documents only put their name and their father's name with the official designation, without giving their surname or the place from which they come ;

(b) whether their attention has been drawn to similar omissions on the part of courts, when recording evidence of parties and witnesses ;

(c) whether they are aware that such practice causes great inconvenience to the public when they (abovementioned persons) have to be summoned by parties as witnesses in their cases, after they have retired or are transferred to other places ;

(d) if so, whether they intend to take any steps to remove this grievance ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a) The custom varies from district to district and from caste to caste. There is no fixed rule.

(b) Courts record the names given by witnesses and the surnames if any. Their residence is always recorded.

(c) No.

(d) Does not arise.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : (Inaudible).

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : I cannot give a general answer. I should think it was generally the places where they happen to be living at the time.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : May I ask whether there is any rule as regards the method of locating their residences, because that is the difficulty ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : If the honourable member will give me notice, I will enquire.

MINING CONCESSIONS : BELGAUM

Mr. LALJI NARANJI (Indian Merchants' Chamber) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that Messrs. Lalan and Company of Bombay had applied to the Collector of Belgaum for several mining concessions in the district so far back as January 1926 ;

(b) whether it is a fact that the said company was informed by the Conservator of Forests that it was not thought advisable to issue any more licenses in the forest area of that district ;

(c) whether it is a fact that the Indian Merchants' Chamber requested the Government to be pleased to make enquiries into the matter and that it was informed that the question under reference was under their (Government's) consideration ;

(d) whether it is a fact that the question was subsequently referred to the Director, Geological Survey of India ;

(e) whether any circulars inviting opinions of mine owners with regard to the working of mines in the Bombay Presidency have been recently issued by them and, if so, whether Messrs. Lalan and Company were informed of the same ;

(f) if Messrs. Lalan and Company were not informed, the reasons for the same ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes ; they were so informed by the Collector.

(c) Yes.

(d) A reference was made to the Director on the same day as the reply to the Chamber was sent.

(e) No circulars inviting the opinions of mine owners with regard to the working of mines in the Bombay Presidency have recently been issued by Government. Presumably the Honourable Member refers to the question of the possibility of disposing of mining concessions on a system of auction or of competitive tenders which was referred to this Government by the Government of India for opinion after consultation with the interests concerned. The opinion of Messrs. Lalan and Company was not invited.

(f) As Messrs. Lalan and Company are a member of the Indian Merchants' Chamber which was consulted on the question mentioned in the reply to clause (e), it was not considered necessary to call for their views separately ; it was presumed that their views would be presented by the Chamber.

MINING CONCESSIONS : BELGAUM

Mr. LALJI NARANJI (Indian Merchants' Chamber) : Will Government be pleased to state when the report of the Director, Geological Survey of India, is expected ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : The report has been received.

SUBSIDIARY JAILS, AHMEDABAD

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI (Ahmedabad and Surat Cities) : Will Government be pleased to state —

(i) whether they are aware of the fact that

(a) the existing subsidiary jails in Ahmedabad are too small to accommodate under-trial prisoners,

(b) that the prisoners charged with murder and those charged with petty offences are locked up in the same room,

(c) that the existing subsidiary jail is quite insanitary ;

(ii) what steps they propose to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (i) (a) The Ahmedabad Sub-Jail was overcrowded some time ago. The arrangements have been changed and there is now no overcrowding, as a rule.

(b) No. There are six rooms, and these are allotted to different classes of prisoners.

(c) It was recently reported that the floors of the jail were in an insanitary condition, so the Inspector General of Prisons gave orders for them to be dug up and relaid.

(ii) The construction of a new sub-jail is under consideration.

CRIMINAL CASE AGAINST WADERO GHULAM KADIR NAREJO

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOGH (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased—

(a) to state whether they are aware that in the last year 1926 a criminal case was filed against Wadero Ghulam Kadir Narejo ;

(b) if so, to state whether the case was completed or withdrawn ;

(c) if it was withdrawn, to state what reasons were given for the withdrawal and whether the District Magistrate had taken any objection ;

(d) to place a copy of the withdrawal application along with the copy of the order of the District Magistrate on the Council table ;

(e) to state whether it is a fact that Wadero Ghulam Kadir Narejo paid a good amount to the Blind Relief Association as subscription ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a) Yes.

(b) It was withdrawn.

(c) and (d) The following application was made to the Court :—

Ghulam Kadir and others .. .. . Accused.

Khemchand .. .. . Complainant.

It is prayed to the Court that on the promise of the accused and at the intervention of big zamindars we have settled the matter on the following conditions :—

(1) In future we will not quarrel and act like brothers.

(2) The accused will not put any obstructions in the karia as promised by them before the respectable zamindars.

The Court may therefore be pleased to withdraw the case.

Dated 25th September 1925.

(Signed) Nihalehand.

(Signed) Ghulam Kadir Narejo.

(Signed) Mir Muhammad Narejo.

(Signed) Haji Ahmed Khan Haji
Muhammad Maluk.

The Police, the Executive Engineer and the Sub-Divisional Magistrate recommended that the case should be withdrawn and the District Magistrate passed the following order :—

“ No. S. 168/G. of 1925

District Magistrate's Office,

Mirpurkhas, 30th September 1925.

Mr. Hashmatrai is appointed under section 492, Criminal Procedure Code, a Public Prosecutor for the case or cases now pending in the Court of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Nara Valley, against Ghulam Kadir Narejo and other accused and is instructed to apply for the withdrawal of the case or cases.”

(e) At the public meeting held in August 1925 to inaugurate the Blind Relief Association, Wadero Ghulam Kadir announced a donation of Rs. 1,400.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : Was the sum of Rs. 1,400 given in order that the case should be withdrawn ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : The money was given in August 1925 and the case was withdrawn in September 1925.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : Is it a fact that when the sum of Rs. 1,400 was paid up the case was withdrawn ?

(No reply).

Mr. M. S. KHUHHO : Are we to take it that the announcement of the donation of Rs. 1,400 influenced the District Magistrate to withdraw the case ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : I do not know whether the honourable member thinks that the announcement of the subscription influenced the complainant Nihalchand Khemchand to ask that the case should be withdrawn.

DISTRICT MAGISTRATE, THAR PARKAR : CANCELLATION OF PARVANAS

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City) : Will Government be pleased—

(a) to state whether they are aware that the District Magistrate of Thar Parkar had deprived Wadero Nihal Khan Lashari of the Bench Magistrateship and confiscated his gun license for appearing in defence in a case against one Dindu Chang ;

(b) if the reply be in the affirmative, to state whether the District Magistrate has restored the Parvanas to Wadero Nihal Khan ;

(c) to state after what period and under what reasons and on what date the Parvanas have been restored ;

(d) to place on the Council table the orders of the District Magistrate regarding the cancelling of the Parvanas and restoring them to Wadero Nihal Khan ;

(e) to state whether Wadero Nihal Khan Lashari has given subscription to the Blind Relief Fund ;

(f) if so, to state when it was and what the amount was ;

(g) to state whether it was paid before or after the grant of Parvanas ;

(h) to state whether it is a fact that the Parvanas were restored to him after his giving the subscription ;

(i) if so, what steps they have taken or propose to take in this matter ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a) Nihal Khan Lashari was not recommended for reappointment as a Bench Magistrate and his gun licenses were cancelled or not renewed because he had given false evidence in Court.

(b) The licenses were subsequently restored.

(c) The order cancelling or refusing to renew the licenses was passed on the 23rd March 1926. The licenses were renewed on 20th January 1927 on the recommendation of the District Superintendent of Police and the Mukhtiarkar.

(d) The order cancelling the licenses is placed on the Council Table. No special order was passed when the licenses were renewed.

(e) Yes.

(f), (g) and (h) Nihal Khan and his uncle Behram Khan paid Rs. 590-8-0 to the Association on 3rd May 1926. Nihal Khan's name also appears as a subscriber of Rs. 400 in a list of subscriptions collected by Wadero Atta Muhammad Palli, a member of the Umarkot Taluka Committee, and paid by him to the Association in 3 instalments, the first of which was credited on the 31st January 1927.

(i) None.

No. 2600-H.

Dated 23rd March 1926.

Order

Nihal Khan Jurio Khan Lashari has been held by the 1st Class Magistrate, Umarkot, to have perjured himself in the case of Crown versus Lukman and 3 others. The Collector considers him as unfit person to hold the privilege of a chair in his Darbar and hereby deprives him of that privilege.

For the same reason, the Collector and District Magistrate cancels all his arms licenses. Nihal Khan Jurio Khan should at once surrender all his arms and ammunition to the Police. On his failure to do so on or before the 15th April 1926, he will be prosecuted for being in possession of arms without a license.

(Signed) C. G. HENDERSON,

District Magistrate, Thar Parkar.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : Does not the honourable member agree that the renewal of parvanas was owing to the money paid and not owing to anything else ? Were not Rs. 594-8-0 paid before the renewal order was passed ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : Because a thing follows another thing, it is not necessarily in consequence of that thing.

DISTRICT MAGISTRATE, THAR PARKAR : GRANT OF LICENSES

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) how many licenses for guns and Parvanas for chairs have been granted by Mr. Henderson after starting the Blind Relief Association and after his return from the last leave in the District of Thar Parkar ;

(b) how many licenses for guns and Parvanas for chairs have been granted in each month and what subscription has been received from those men who were granted the licenses and Parvanas ;

(The information may be given in the following form.)

No.	Name of men whom Parvanas and licenses, etc., granted	Date of sanction of Parvanas, etc.	Date of giving subscription to the B. R. A. F.	Amount paid to Blind Fund	Remarks
1	2	3	4	5	6

(c) how many men out of those mentioned in the statement had applied for the licenses and Parvanas and how many have got these licenses and Parvanas without applying ;

(d) whether the usual reports were sent for from the Police Department regarding the applicants who were granted licenses ;

(e) whether licenses were granted also to men who were sentenced for some crimes ;

(f) If the reply to (e) be in the affirmative, what were the special reasons for granting these licenses ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON :

	Gun licenses	Parvanas for chairs
(a) (1) From August 15th, 1925, to May 13th, 1926, by Mr. Henderson ..	94	8
(2) From May 13th, 1926, to November 27th, 1926, by Messrs. Sorley and Willis ..	89	Nil.
(3) From November 28th, 1926, to July 1927, by Mr. Henderson ..	127	19

(b) The information asked for cannot be obtained. The lists of subscribers to the Blind Relief Association are in the possession of several non-official committees and not of any Government official.

(c) No license is given without application.

(d) It is not the invariable practice to refer to the Police ; sometimes reference is made to Deputy Collectors ; sometimes licenses are given by the District Magistrate on his own knowledge of the applicant, and in some cases on recommendations of respectable zamindars.

(e) No.

(f) Does not arise.

The Honourable Mr J. E. B. HOTSON : A statement containing the required information is placed on the Council Table.

The statement referred to

Name of the District	Number of candidates recommended by the Superintendent of Police for selection in the Police Training School during the last 3 years	How many of them belong to advanced Hindu Classes	How many are from Marathas	How many are Muhammadans	How many of the applicants were Marathas	How many of those recommended candidates were finally selected by the Inspector General of Police	How many of those finally selected are from advanced Hindu Classes	How many of them are Marathas	How many are Muhammadans	The reason or reasons why Marathas are not selected in larger numbers

Dr. B. R. AMBEDKAR : As regards the words " all classes " appearing in column 11, on page 13, of the answer, may I know whether those words include the depressed classes ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : I think the word " all " should be read in its full sense.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : How does a previous answer given in regard to the admission of the depressed classes into the police force square up with the present answer ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : I would point out that one question refers to the ranks of constables and head constables and other (the present) question refers to the officers of the police department. The two are quite separate.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : Does it follow that Government is willing to take members of the depressed classes into the ranks of officers ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : I think it will be realised that the difficulties of taking members of the depressed classes into the officers, ranks would probably be considerably less than those of taking them into the ranks of constables.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : Does it follow that the Honourable the Home Member is going to sympathetically consider the question of the rights of the depressed classes ?

(No reply).

AHMEDABAD RECONSTRUCTION AND EXTENSION

Mr. G. I. PATEL (Ahmedabad Millowners' Association) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have received copies of the resolutions passed by a meeting of the citizens of Ahmedabad on 6th September 1927 regarding congestion in the city, grant-in-aid for a bridge near Shahpur under the Ellis Bridge Town Planning Scheme, exemption of stamp duty on housing loan fund investments and relief by way of exemption from Salsette rules for the purpose of assisting reconstruction and housing ; if so, to place the copies of the same on the table ;

(b) whether they have so far taken any action on these ; if so, to give the nature and general details thereof ;

(c) whether they intend to take further action with a view to assist the speedy construction and reconstruction of the city and suburbs of Ahmedabad ; if so, to place the details on the table ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (a) Yes.

(b) and (c) The requests made in the resolutions are under the consideration of Government.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : Does the Honourable Member realise that the extension and reconstruction after the floods is mainly dependent on this issue ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : It is a question of money also.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : Does he also realise that the funds collected from the public are being spent, and the flood relief committees are awaiting the decision of Government on this question ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : I am not aware of that, but naturally when they have sent in an application, they must be awaiting the decision of Government.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : When is the decision likely to be announced ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : I cannot say.

WATER SUPPLY AND DRAINAGE SCHEMES, AHMEDABAD

Mr. G. I. PATEL (Ahmedabad Millowners' Association) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether in the first session of 1926 of the Council they have stated in reply to a question on the subject of water-supply and drainage schemes at Ahmedabad that the "question will be considered when the Ahmedabad Municipality actually undertakes the drainage extension project ;"

(b) whether the Ahmedabad Municipality having actually progressed with the project in the year 1927 they are prepared to finally declare the necessary quota of the grant-in-aid asked for by the Ahmedabad Municipality. If not, to give reasons for the same having regard to the enormous damage done by the last floods and rains in Ahmedabad ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (a) Yes.

(b) Owing to financial stringency Government are reconsidering the question of grants-in-aid to local bodies. Pending a final decision in the matter, the question of a grant-in-aid to the Ahmedabad Municipality towards its water-supply and drainage scheme has been held over.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : It is not a fact that the loan was raised on an indirect assurance from Government that they will be paying their quota, and then the works were undertaken ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : No assurance was given.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : How long is this question pending before Government ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : I think the honourable member himself knows that well enough.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : Is it not a fact that it is pending before Government for over two years, and still the decision is not being announced ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : I cannot say exactly how long it has been pending, but it has been pending for some time, and Government have not arrived at any decision yet.

HIGH COURT : RE-ORGANISATION

Mr. J. R. PATEL (Kaira District) : Will Government be pleased to state what decision they have arrived at regarding the reorganisation of the Bombay High Court ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : This matter is still under consideration. The reply as printed is "This matter is still under consideration," but the more correct answer would have been "It is very difficult to understand the purport of the question—what the honourable member means by the re-organisation of the High Court." He might perhaps make it more plain, and I would be very glad to give him further information if possible.

Mr. J. R. PATEL : I had in mind the question of retrenchment.

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : If it is only a matter of retrenchment, then the answer as printed stands ; it is under consideration.

TRANSFERRED DEPARTMENTS : FUNDS FROM TAXES

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY A. LALLJEE on behalf of Mr. HOUSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Bombay City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that whenever any taxation proposal has been placed before the Council since the year 1921 the Honourable Ministers in supporting have always said that funds were necessary for the Transferred Departments and promised that the amounts realised from the tax would be spent on the Transferred Departments ;

(b) if so, to what extent the promises of the Ministers have been carried out ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : (a) and (b) The honourable member is referred to the record of the debates and to the budgets and civil estimates.

PROSTITUTION IN BOMBAY CITY : FOREIGNERS

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY A. LALLJEE on behalf of Mr. HOUSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Bombay City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether their attention has been drawn to the following statement in the Report of the Special Body of Experts of the League of Nations on Traffic in Women and Children :—

"With regard to traffic in women to and from the East, there is evidence of a route via Egypt to Bombay. The Roumanian officials gave information including the names of traffickers and the details of their operations from Poland and Roumania to the East and to Bombay."

(b) how many foreign prostitutes landed in Bombay in the years 1924, 1925 and 1926 ;

(c) what efforts were made to prevent importation of foreign prostitutes in the city and with what results ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a) Yes.

JAPANESE PROSTITUTES : REPATRIATION

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY A. LALLJEE on behalf of Mr. HOOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Bombay City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(b) whether Japanese prostitutes in Bombay have been repatriated to Japan ;

(c) if so, how many ;

(d) if not, why not ;

(e) No.

SMALL CAUSES COURT, BOMBAY : HOLIDAY FOR BARA WAFAT

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY A. LALLJEE on behalf of Mr. HOOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Bombay City): Will Government be pleased to state

(1) whether it is a fact that

(a) Bara Wafat has been declared by them as a public holiday for more than ten years past ;

(b) it is a very important Moslem holiday ,

(c) it is not observed as a holiday in the Small Causes Court, Bombay ,

(d) it therefore causes great inconvenience to the Moslem public and specially to the Moslem members of the Bar ;

(2) if so, what they propose to do in the matter ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (1) and (2) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the reply given to his question on the same subject in February 1926 and printed on pages 159-160 of Volume XVII of the Bombay Legislative Council Debates of 1926. As far as Government are aware the position as then explained has not since been altered in any way.

HARVEY-NARIMAN CASE : COSTS

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the estimated cost to Government in the Harvey-Nariman case ;

(b) the exact provision in the budget of 1927-28 from which the costs in that case are being met by Government ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : (a) The proceedings in the Harvey-Nariman case have been instituted at the cost of Government but, if the complaint is dismissed due to Mr. Nariman proving his allegations, the cost will be borne by Mr. Harvey. The actual expenditure hitherto incurred on the case, excluding the fees payable to the Complainant's solicitors and their charges for copying documents, etc., which have not been billed for, is Rs. 18,254. The case is still proceeding and it is not, therefore, possible to say at present what the total cost of the case will be and whether it will ultimately have to be borne by Government.

(b) As it is at present uncertain whether the cost of the case will ultimately have to be met by Government, the charge is being met provisionally by debit to suspense. As the course and length of the case is undetermined, it is proposed to make provision in the budget to clear the debit to the suspense head before the financial year closes. A supplementary demand will be made in due course.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : With regard to the last portion of (b), how are they going to recover the cost from Mr. Harvey, if the case is decided against him ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : That has been asked and answered before this.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT : Is it the intention of Government to withdraw this case at this stage ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Government are not the complainants.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : They are the financiers.

AHMEDABAD CITY WALL IMPROVEMENT SCHEME

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that they wrote frequently to the Ahmedabad municipality to undertake the city wall improvement scheme No. 5 ;

(b) whether the frequent communications of Government in connection with the said scheme were responsible for the passing of the resolution of intention to undertake the said scheme by the Ahmedabad municipality on the 28th April 1927 when the life of the said municipality had a duration of hardly one month and a half ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (a) The Committee of Management declared its intention to prepare a scheme and requested the Government to sanction the preparation of the draft scheme in 1923, but Government declared the proceedings taken by the Committee of Management to be void ab initio on account of a technical legal flaw and called upon the present municipality to follow the procedure de novo. It is against this reference of Government that the Collector issued reminders to the President to expedite the submission of the proceedings taken by the municipality.

(b) No. The President, Ahmedabad Municipality, reports that the passing of the scheme by the municipality is due entirely to the fact that the municipality has been convinced that the carrying out of the scheme is of great importance and would have far reaching consequences on the health and improvement of the city generally and that the intelligent public opinion also incessantly demands the early undertaking of the scheme and adds that the municipality would not have otherwise passed this scheme on the eve of election knowing full well that the situation may be exploited by interested persons.

HAJ COMMITTEE AND PROTECTOR OF PILGRIMS

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) what is the position of the Haj Committee as regards the department of the Protector of Pilgrims ;

(2) whether the Department is under the Committee ;

(3) if not, the reasons why ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : The Haj Committee was intended to be an advisory Committee composed mainly of non-official members and also to protect the interests of pilgrims generally ; it has no direct control over the Protector of Pilgrims who is an official directly subordinate to the Commissioner of Police, Bombay.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : If the Haj Committee has got no control over the Protector of Pilgrims, how can that committee be expected to do any real good to the pilgrims ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : The resolution appointing the committee was placed on the table of the House during this session, from which my honourable friend will have seen that it is an advisory committee.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Will the honourable member place any rules in connection with this committee on the table ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : So far as I recollect, there are no rules, and I will repeat again that the resolution and correspondence which took place when this committee was appointed some years ago was placed on the table of the House.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : By rules I mean rules as to the functions of the Police Commissioner and the Haj Committee.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : The Police Commissioner is the chairman of the committee.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Are there any particular rules guiding the proceedings of this committee ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : So far as I recollect, there are none.

OFFENSIVE LITERATURE IN GUJARATI

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have any authoritative record of Gujarati literature published in the various parts of the Presidency ;

(b) whether they are aware of such Gujarati literature as creates dissensions and class hatred between various sections of the people ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a) Yes.

(b) Government are aware that some literature is published which has the result mentioned by the Honourable Member.

Mr. M. S. KHUERO : Why have Government not taken any action ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : Unfortunately, the amount of undesirable literature that is published is very considerable, and Government, not desiring to interfere with the liberty of the press any further than is absolutely necessary, only take action in the worst of the cases that come to its notice.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : May I know whether Government are aware only of Gujarati literature of this type published in the presidency or of all literature of the type ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : I am afraid that literature of this type is published in other languages besides Gujarati.

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI : Is it not in the interests of Government and the ryots that such literature ought not to be allowed to be published ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : That is a statement of opinion with which I think everybody will agree.

Mr. NCCR MAHMID : Has it come to the notice of Government that a printed song is being sung and circulated in the town of Ankleswar in which Musalmans are made to prefer an appeal to the Prophet to call them up to Medina as the Hindus have made their further stay in India impossible and the Prophet replies that he cannot do it as things are too warm for even himself in Arabia ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : I do not think that arises out of this question, Mr. President.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The question does not arise.

STATISTICS BILL

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) what action has been taken in regard to Bill No. XII of 1924 framed in order to provide for the collection of statistical information for public purposes ;

(b) why the bill has been shelved for the last three years though it was resolved in the July 1924 session of the Council to the following effect :—

“ That the consideration of the Bill to provide for the collection of statistical information for public purposes. Bill No. XII of 1924, be adjourned to the next session of this Council ” ;

(c) when they intend to proceed with this legislation ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : (a), (b) and (c) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the supplementary questions and answers to Mr. Ginwalla's question regarding Industrial disputes and Statistics bills on 9th March 1927 printed at pages 724-726 of Volume XIX of the Bombay Legislative Council Debates,

I. M. S. OFFICERS

Dr. M. D. GILDER (Bombay City, North): Will the Honourable the Minister of Education be pleased to state—

(a) how many and what posts in the Civil Medical Service of this Presidency (including Sind) are reserved for European officers of the I. M. S. to the exclusion of the Indian officers of the service ;

(b) whether there are any posts similarly reserved for Indian officers of the service ;

(c) the number of European officers of the I. M. S. at present in civil employ in this Presidency (including Sind) ;

(d) how many I. M. S. officers have been added to the Civil List at the request of the Government of Bombay since the Honourable the Minister assumed charge of his office ? How many of these are Europeans and how many Indians ;

(e) how many I. M. S. officers (Europeans and Indians to be stated separately) have retired from this Presidency in the same period ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) and (b) No I. M. S. posts are at present specifically reserved for Europeans or Indians. The scheme for reservation of certain civil appointments for European officers of the I. M. S. is still under the consideration of the Secretary of State.

(c) Nineteen.

(d) None.

(e) Two Europeans have retired and three more will retire by the end of this year.

Dr. M. D. GILDER : Is the opinion of the local Government before the Secretary of State ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Yes.

Dr. M. D. GILDER : May we know what the opinion of the local Government is ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : As the matter is under consideration, I do not think that it is desirable to say what the opinion of the local Government is.

I. M. S. : RESERVATION OF POSTS FOR EUROPEANS

Dr. M. D. GILDER (Bombay City, North): Will the Honourable the Minister of Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether the discussion that took place in this Honourable House on the 5th and 6th March 1926 in regard to the reservation of posts for European officers of the Indian Medical Service was communicated to the Government of India ;

(b) what was the reply of the Government of India ;

(c) whether considering that this Honourable House devoted two days to the discussion of the subject, the Honourable the Minister will lay the correspondence on the table ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : In accordance with the promise made by the Honourable Mr. Jadhav in the House on the 6th March 1926, a copy of the debate on the question of reservation of posts for European officers of the I. M. S. was forwarded to the Government of India and that Government was informed that the cut of Rs. 1,000 in the provision under the head "32-Medical—District Medical Officers" was moved as a protest against the policy enunciated by that Government. No reply has been received to the local Government's letter.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Was any reminder sent by the local Government ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I cannot say off-hand ; perhaps, it is not likely that a reminder was sent.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Will Government send a reminder now?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Government will consider the matter.

SUPPLEMENTARY GRANTS

FLOOD RELIEF

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI (Ahmedabad and Surat Cities) : Sir, it is said that the wheels of Government machinery move slowly, but in this case it has been otherwise and I congratulate the Government that the wheels of their machinery have moved timely in respect of giving relief to the flood-stricken people of Gujarat. The Honourable the Revenue Member has made a demand for one crore 84 lakhs odd rupees. Out of this amount Rs. 18,28,460 will be given as tagavi for the purchase of seed, Rs. 25,000 for opening cheap grain shops to the district board of Broach, Rs. 15,000 for opening timber depots in the area affected by floods, Rs. 2,00,000 for the purchase of corrugated iron sheets, advance of Rs. 10,000 for supply of seeds, etc., an additional amount of Rs. 1,15,00,000 has been earmarked for loans for reconstructing houses. The Honourable the Revenue Member knows full well that one-third of the revenue of Government comes from the cultivators. It is now proposed that the loan for the reconstruction of houses will be given on interest. In this connection I wish to point out that the loan should be granted for two or three years at least free of interest and they may charge interest for the remaining period, in order that advantage may be taken of that system.

My honourable friend Rao Saheb Desai pointed out that the fertile surface soil had been washed away and that this fact ought to be taken into consideration in the matter of giving remissions. I request Government to take this matter into their serious consideration. The plight of the agriculturists in our presidency, especially in Gujarat, is sad, although the golden Gujarat reaped nothing but gold from their fields, but those times are gone by. After the recent floods their condition has grown worse and floods have become a matter of frequent occurrence. We have only very recently passed two bills—the Cotton Markets Bill and the Small Holdings Bill—in the interest of the agriculturists. The Honourable the Finance Member brought the latter with the sincere hope of improving the condition of the agriculturists. Though I am diffident, I hope and trust that his hope will come true.

[Khan Saheb A. M. Mansuri]

Before I resume my seat, I would request the Honourable the Revenue Member to see that remissions are granted in deserving cases. I understand, Sir, that the crops sown after the floods will be successful, and that no further relief will be necessary in the form of supplementary loans.

Mr. NOOR MAHOMED (Hyderabad District): Sir, in the matter of alleviating distress and providing relief in Gujarat Government have done so well that I do not think there will be any member in this House, who will have anything but praise for the skilful manner in which they have tackled the problem and the promptness with which they have done it. The activities of the Government, in this connection, in the province of Gujarat make us, who come from Sind, sad to think that distance should separate us from the seat of Government so much that we could not receive sufficient attention from the Government. I do not know what makes the honourable member Dr. Mansuri interrupt; but it is not an unusual thing to see him tickled, when anything is said in praise of Government. I was saying that the distance between Sind and Poona is so great that the extent of losses occasioned in Sind has not come to the notice of the Government in its proper light. An impartial gentleman, the President of the Servants of India Society, Mr. Deodhar, who is well known for his cautiousness in making statements, has stated that inadequacy of relief in Sind is due to the feebleness of public voice there, scanty information and the inaccessibility of several parts. The last reason covers, I suppose, rather politely the omission of our officials in moving into the interior of their beats, the damaged parts, to see for themselves the extent and nature of the loss caused. It was a good fortune of Gujarat that immediately after the floods the honourable the Finance Member, the Honourable the Revenue Member and the Honourable Ministers went up to Gujarat and personally looked into the administration of the measures of relief. It was a good fortune of Gujarat that even the head of the Government himself toured into the affected parts. In Sind, the Commissioner went to the end of the Tando division, the most affected part of Hyderabad District, by the morning train and returned the same evening by the same train. I do not know why he could not give us more time. He must be having a good reason for it, probably the pressure of work at Karachi. Any way he could not have formed any estimate of the loss from the railway line. He had not the opportunity to do it; and he did not hear the zamindars sufficiently to get any idea of the loss. There is thus a great deal of difference about the extent of loss between the official and non-official estimates in Tando division. The dispute about the extent of loss, however, does us no special good; the Government are not going to compensate and they cannot compensate people for the losses they have suffered. The extent of loss, if realized by Government here, will however enable them to formulate a correct policy of assisting zamindars in a manner that will go to build up the economic position of the agricultural classes and which is at present ruined. Our zamindars do need greater assistance this year, than has been given and they need much more of it during the next year for the Kharif, which is the principal crop in Tando.

[Mr. Noor Mahomed]

As I said before, the Commissioner went through the affected part of Tando in a railway carriage ; so he has no personal knowledge of the extent of distress. The Collector never went there. So the information of the Commissioner could not have been based on that of the Collector, because the latter never moved out. The Deputy Collector only went to the headquarters of the talukas. Even this officer has no information beyond that of the big towns along the railway line or of taluka headquarters. The Mukhtyarkars never moved out of their headquarters : so their personal knowledge of the damage was zero, when they submitted their reports to Government. Even the Tapedars who could be said to have supplied the information to their superior officers never moved out till about the middle or beginning of the last month : so their fund of information, now in the possession of the Honourable the Revenue Member, was also a zero. My point therefore is that the information sent to the Honourable the Revenue Member from Sind is altogether unsatisfactory and unreliable. Because Government wanted information, a guess work was made at taluka headquarters and information based on that guess work was sent here to Government and they in Sind are now sticking to it. I have already made it clear in my opening remarks that there need be no dispute about the extent of loss, for Government is not going to compensate the zamindars, or the cultivators or the villagers. My only anxiety is that Government should know the extent of loss in order that it may enable our peasantry to stand on its own legs, during the present year and the next year. That is the only point worth considering on the present occasion.

Rai Bahadur Hirachand Khemsing who is an eminent gentleman amongst us and is also a landholder in Tando division has taken strong exception to the estimate of 18 lakhs of rupees loss to crops in Tando division made by the Deputy Collector and has shown that losses, for instance in Badin, are to the extent of 12 annas and in some cases to the extent of 8 annas. Generally speaking the losses to crops in Tando division can safely be put down at between 11 and 12 annas or in other words to the extent of about 75 to 90 lakhs of rupees in crops only. Rai Bahadur is not alone in what he says. Every zamindar and cultivator of Tando says the same thing. Mr. Devdhar has also compiled, after personal observation and enquiries, the losses suffered by the members of the co-operative societies in Tando division. There are 73 societies in this tract, with 1,849 members. Their loss is a little above ten and a half lakhs of rupees and he has, with those figures, calculated that the total loss in Tando division alone is about three and a half crores of rupees. He is however not a man to quarrel over calculations ; and after meeting Mukhtyarkars and taking figures of their estimates of loss from them, he is prepared to cut down his estimate by so much as half, to suit official estimates and puts his final indisputable figure of one and a half crore of rupees of loss.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : May I ask the honourable member whether he is referring to the estimate of the value of crops destroyed ?

Mr. NOOR MAHOMED : No, Sir ; I am coming to the loss of crops.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : What do the figures which the honourable member has quoted represent ?

Mr. NOOR MAHOMED : Total loss, Sir, in Tando Division, according to the estimate of Mr. Devdhar. I am glad, Sir, the Honourable the Revenue Member has given me an opportunity of making that clear at this stage. Mr. Devdhar's estimate of the total loss, on the basis of the figures supplied by the members of the co-operative societies, is really  $3\frac{1}{2}$  crores of rupees ; but he is prepared to accept the estimate of the local officials that the loss to crops, etc., is to the extent of annas eight only ; and even accepting that estimate, he is prepared to state before the public and has done so that the total loss in Tando is of  $1\frac{1}{2}$  crores of rupees. No one can take seriously the official estimate of the loss of only one lakh of rupees in Guni taluka, but even, as the local Tando division officials gave out, if the official estimates be of only 8 annas loss to crops, it would come to about 75 lakhs of rupees loss in crops alone in Tando division. I am very sorry to find that the figures of loss in crops as given out by the Honourable the Revenue Member yesterday are quite below what we were told by some of the officials of Tando. Anyway, Sir, I do not want to quarrel with the figures given and I do hope that the Honourable the Revenue Member will be good enough to bear in mind the non-official estimate.

The Honourable the Revenue Member was good enough to inform us that 34,000 acres have been given in Hyderabad district as "eksali" grants. The Honourable Member knows that eksali grants are now a permanent feature of our village life ; and that they are made every year and are renewed from year to year in most cases. We are indeed very grateful to the Honourable the Revenue Member for the sanction he gave for "eksali" grants this year ; but I am afraid this figure of 34,000 acres includes all the previous grants also ; and my information is that new eksali grants do not exceed 10,000 acres in all. That is a point which we will no doubt find out easily. The argument of the Honourable the Revenue Member that the nett loss to the people would be small, if the yield of the next rabi crop is taken into consideration, really leads us nowhere. It at least gives us, who come from Sind, no hope to feel that Government is going to assist people in overcoming the great difficulties that confront them. That is an argument that has been invented in Sind, invented by the Tando division officials. These gentlemen had no data, no personal knowledge as regards the losses caused in Tando division. They sent a guess work report to Government about the loss in crops in Tando division being only 18 lakhs of rupees ; and when, later on, they found that losses in crops were greater than they at first guessed a plausible explanation is given that the rabi crops would be bumper and people would make up their kharif losses from it and at the end of the year, the nett losses would be very small, 18 lakhs only. I am afraid, Sir, this theory of nett loss is an invention of Sind brains and has unfortunately come to be applied, along with us, to Gujarat also. Any way, in our part of the country, that theory has been vehemently opposed and, as I will show later on, it has no value.

[Mr. Noor Mahomed]

The Honourable the Revenue Member knows that the Tando division is a rice growing country ; and rice is the most principal kharif crop there. The Tando division officials admit there that the loss in kharif crops is to the extent of 8 annas, though we, non-officials do not accept it as reliable, since the mukhtyarkars had no personal knowledge of the extent of damage. Rabi crop in Tando is a very minor one ; it is generally 1/5th of the kharif crop and in some years about 1/4th only ; but never more than that. It is generally a very poor crop in Tando division ; and both its yield and the value of the yield is, compared to the kharif crop, too low to give us any encouragement to think that it will in any appreciable degree serve to compensate the losses suffered in the present kharif season on account of the rain and floods. Owing to the sudden and early drop in the river this year and the closing of the Jam Shoro Regulator, a good area of rice crop that had escaped damage in Guni taluka and in some other tracts has suffered and the kharif area has thereby been still further reduced ; and also the chances of any good rabi crop being obtained this year have still further been diminished. Added to it all is the injury that is being done by locusts. In the circumstances it is most unsafe to build any hopes on the next rabi crop to act as a compensating factor in Tando division.

The loss suffered by the people in Tando division is enormous and the condition of the people is absolutely miserable. In saying this, I am not stating anything of my own invention ; ask any villager in Tando division and he will narrate the tale of suffering. I can however quote one small paragraph from the report of Rai Bahadur Pritamdas, who is the General Secretary of the Sind Provincial Co-operative Institute and is also the Managing Director of the Hyderabad District Co-operative Bank, Ltd. He says :

"The greatest need of the people at the present moment was grain. Some poor people who usually maintain themselves by agricultural labour had no work, and they and their dependents, lived by earning from one anna to two annas per day by sale of grass or firewood in Badin. This just gave them less than a pound of grain which they boiled into thin kanji (gruel) in the morning and evening and each member had a cup of it. Even this much food was not available to several people as the demand for grass and firewood was limited. In some cases people were selling the goats that were saved from floods to purchase some grain. Some poor people lived partly on kanji (gruel) made of rice dust (chuno) and partly on bread of Kum seed which grows in pools of water or of Mariro (a vegetable which grows spontaneously after the rains). They could get small fish from pools of water, but this brought on stomach trouble."

The hardships of the people of Tando are also borne out by Mr. Devdhar. I am very sorry, Sir, to see the Honourable the Revenue Member smile ; but I assure him I am absolutely serious in what I am stating and in what I am quoting. I know what the condition of the people is in Tando division. It is extremely miserable.

Mr. H. DOW : Will the honourable member kindly give the name of the gentleman from whom he quotes ?

Mr. NOOR MAHOMED : I am sorry, Sir, the honourable member, the Revenue Officer of the Lloyd Barrage is not intimately connected with this part of the country. If he had seen any part of Tando Division, as it presents its face to-day, he would not have questioned me. Rai

[Mr. Noor Mahomed]

Bahadur Pritamdas is the gentleman I quoted. He is the General Secretary of the Sind Provincial Co-operative Institute and is the Managing Director of our Hyderabad Co-operative Bank Limited. He is a very venerable man, and in spite of his old age has done a lot of relief work in the villages, in very trying conditions. It is well-known that rice dust is given to cattle, cows, buffaloes, etc., and is unfit for human consumption. Even this commodity people cannot get and are therefore forced to live on what the wild growth in the jungle can supply them.

I regret to say, Sir, that the officials in Sind have not realised the extent of misery, which prevails in Sind. Private charity was organized; but its control, owing to certain reasons, was deliberately left by us (non-officials) in the hands of officials. Our traders and our zamindars have contributed generously towards it; but we find, to our regret, that its actual method of distribution by officials has caused grave dissatisfaction. This is however, a matter which does not strictly come within the purview of this honourable House; and therefore I will not deal with it any further.

As the Honourable the Revenue Member has taken great interest in affording relief to Sind, on the same basis as has been done in Gujarat, I wish to inform him that distress in Hyderabad and Thar and Parkar districts is as acute as in Gujarat; and only the area of it is smaller. Mr. Devdhar has certified to that, and has given his reasons.

Sir, it is true, we in Tando division, have been given takavi loans for the present Kharif crop and the Rabi but only to the extent of rupees  $1\frac{1}{2}$  lacs of rupees; and that also when the Honourable the Revenue Member and the honourable member the Revenue Secretary personally interested themselves in the investigation of the needs of Tando division, otherwise we would have been made to content ourselves with Rs. 75,000 only. Rupees  $1\frac{1}{2}$  lacs are far below our actual present needs of even this year; and this sum has been given in small amounts of Rs. 50, 100, 150, or 200, in rare cases to the extent of Rs. 500. Though the needs of our zamindars were and are certainly far greater than that. So insufficient was the Government assistance that the Hyderabad District Co-operative Bank has had to advance about 34,000 rupees and will have to give about 16,000 more shortly, to its members on the usual interest. The Bank has about 6 lakhs to recover and will not now get its money except in small easy instalments spread over a large number of years. So the financing of peasantry next year is more serious problem in Hyderabad than is imagined by local officials. Seeing this frame of mind of officials, our zamindars have ceased applying for takavi loans for none are to be had. I do not know the reason of the Sind Administration in treating the Tando division in this manner, when the Government here is only too willing to make advances applied for by Sind Authorities. That is a situation which the Government here alone can correct. Various excuses are given to put off people getting loans. Mussulmans, and Hindus even, have been put off on one or the other excuse. When a Hindu applies for a takavi loan, the excuse given I hear is that he is a rich man and the takavi loan that he gets from Government, free of interest he will lend to his agriculturists on high interest and will thereby make money in the bargain. If a Mussulman asks for takavi loan, I hear, it is said that he would spend away the amount on his own personal needs and there is no guarantee that he would give it to his agriculturists or that he would go and purchase a motor car with it. Quite possible one Hindu in a hundred may be so callous as to give the loan money he gets from Government free of interest, to his cultivators on high or low interest; and quite possible one Mussulman in a hundred may purchase a very third class motor car from the takavi money; but is the entire landowning community, the entire peasantry of Tando division, to be deprived of Government assistance at this time, because there is this far fetched, and I would say, almost imaginary possibility of one or two per cent. zamindars making a sorry use of the loan money? Conditions are so bad in Tando and Thar and Parkar that no cultivator would consent to put his hand to the plough, unless and until his zamindar advances him money for his maintenance, purchase of bullocks, etc. On hungry stomach no cultivator would come to the field of any zamindar; the excuse of waste or misuse of the loan money is therefore groundless. It is being given, because the Tando division officials have made the initial blunder of under rating the loss of kharif crops at 18 lakhs. Hyderabad district officials will now never ask for enough of money to advance the takavi, as that would mean to them the incorrectness of their original estimates of loss reported to Government. It is thus that because of an initial official blunder in reporting to Government the extent of loss the entire agricultural community of Tando has now to suffer.

I have already stated that our dispute with the official estimates is to bring us no compensation. My point is that so low is the official figure of loss in crops, that a serious and permanent injury will be done to agriculture in the Tando division of Hyderabad district. To cover up the original blunder, the officials would commit many more blunders, which would mean so many additional hardships to the agriculturists. On account of the low figures of loss to crops supplied to Government on the authority of the officials of Tando, these officials will go about the country refusing remissions of assessment this year. They have reported to Government that losses were very small and they will now justify their reports. They will therefore go out with a hardened heart, refusing remissions to people. People, possessing influence, may succeed in getting their crops valued properly: but the lot of the ordinary landowner would, I am afraid, be in the circumstances most miserable. I assure the Honourable the Revenue Member that Tando division people have lost their all, their crops are for the most part destroyed and they have no money to pay the land assessment, which I can clearly see is not going to be remitted, as it should be. In saying it, I am not exaggerating the real position. The Honourable the Revenue Member said that remissions to the extent of Rs. 2,44,000 were estimated to be granted in Hyderabad district this year. He would be good enough to take note of the fact that in 1919-20, when the rain, in the tract watered by the Fuleli Canal, namely, Tando division, was only 11 inches 26 cents, crops were so much damaged that remissions to the extent of 1,41,736 rupees were granted in Tando division ; in 1921-22, the rain in Tando division was only 9 inches 90 cents and the remissions were Rs. 1,51,126 ; in 1922-23, though the rain was only 2 inches and 64 cents, the conditions of the land owing to the previous year's rain had become so bad that the remissions to the extent of 1,41,293 rupees had to be given. I quote only the figures of the Fuleli Canals district, namely the Tando division ; and do not calculate the remissions granted in the Hyderabad Canals district, namely the Hala division of Hyderabad district, where also due to rain, the damage to crops this year has been considerable. This year the registered rain in some places is nearly 20 inches and at others nearly 30 inches ; and the whole country side was, except some small tracts of high land, submerged and crops destroyed. About the measurement of rain there is also dispute. In some places measurement gasses are commonly known to have overflowed at night time. Sir, land can bear rain and floods only to a certain limited extent, beyond which sudden, continuous downpour does havoc to the crops as it has done this year. Ten to eleven inches rain is the maximum limit of the capacity that even the rice land of Tando division can carry, in addition to the canal water with which it is always loaded. Any rain beyond 11 inches, would seriously destroy cultivation. When there has been such heavy rainfall in the Tando division this year, when water at some places is still 10 feet or so and villages are submerged and crops for the most part are totally destroyed, the Honourable the Revenue Member has been given the estimate of proposed remissions, in the whole of Hyderabad district, both Tando and Hala sub-divisions, at the most unthinkable figure of both for kharif and rabi crops, Rs. 2,40,000. I am afraid, and my fears will come true, that the mukhtyarkars can keep to this estimate of remissions for the whole of the year, only by refusing remissions whole sale ; and as I said before, people have no money to pay the assessment. I fear a very acute, unbearable economic situation is being created in Sind, and it would be better if the Government realized it in time, before the mukhtyarkars started the remission work. I have already said that the kharif crop is nowhere, and the expectations of the next rabi crop, which is best only one-fourth of the kharif, are poor and remissions for rabi are also to be very great. The estimate of Rs. 2,40,000 for remissions both for kharif and rabi in the whole of Hyderabad district will only drive people to complete despair. I do hope Government will take steps to protect people against the miscalculations of Sind officials, who have done nothing and are doing nothing to know the extent of the plight all round in Hyderabad and Thar Parkar districts.

Sir, the gross revenue of Hyderabad district was in 1924-25 Rs. 60,00,000, and if the remissions in the whole of the district are to be only 2,44,000 rupees, it only means that the loss in crops is nearly only 1/15th part of the whole, which is such a small proportion of even the figures of loss supplied by the Sind Administration and quoted by the Honourable the Revenue Member. By showing these figures, I wish to show to the Honourable the Revenue Member that Sind has not received proper attention and it is high time that the Honourable the Revenue Member interested himself in this question. We have not been treated fairly and justly by the Sind Administration and I would only say that in an urgent and important matter like this, it is duty of the Government to look after the people and not to relegate them to the mercy of the Sind Administration, which does not and will not listen to the people there. I do not want to pick out any particular officer or officers and make him the victim of an individual complaint. Our complaint is against the Sind Administration generally which can give peace of mind to the people, were it desirous of doing so. It does not care for public grievances and particularly our people do not count with it. Hence all this disappointment and all round misery.

Briefly, our position is that kharif crop is destroyed to the extent of 11 to 12 annas, takavi loans have been refused or have not been given to people according to their needs, rabi crop has no promise of being a success; Government estimate of remissions will create panic in the population and will add to their misery, that kharif crop is the principal crop in Tando division and we require large sums of money as takavi loans for the next year's kharif and we want more money immediately for this year; and finally that we have not the least of hope in local officers that they will now ask for any further grants from Government.

Sir, yesterday, the Honourable Member, Mr. Haji Mir Mahomed Baloch made a grievance that the Honourable the Minister for Local Self Government had not visited Sind. The fact is that the attitude of the local officers was so disappointing that it was thought the Honourable Minister would serve us better by remaining here and bringing to the notice of the Government the plight of people. I am responsible for making that suggestion, when I came here for the University Bill Select Committee. I regret that things have not improved. Now that he is going to the Tando division and Jamesabad, he would see and hear for himself and will, on his return bring to the notice of the Government the situation as it strikes him. He will know the extent of the sufferings of the people and how and to what extent takavi has been given and how private charity has been distributed under the auspices of the officers of the Sind Administration.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: There are several honourable members who have visited the flood area and who are willing to address the House. I think they understand that their remarks will have to be limited.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH: Sir, I also want to speak. I will take only five minutes.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM (Panch Mahals District): Mr. President, it is a fact universally acknowledged that the congratulations from the critics are valued more than the admirations from admirers. Sir, I am not ashamed to say that I am a bad and bitter critic of the Government when the Government is in the wrong. But I must say that I will never be slow and sluggish in congratulating the Government when Government deserve congratulations and admiration. I consider, Sir,.....

Khan Saheb ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN : When did you learn that ?

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : When you taught me that.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : I believe, Sir, a fair critic has no right to criticise the Government or his opponent if he is not prepared to come forward to give him congratulations when he deserves them. Sir, I am not going to mar the spirit of appreciation even by saying that Government has done nothing extraordinary but has performed its own duty in giving relief to the distressed in Gujarat. I am not going to say that. Honestly speaking, I never expected this kind of sympathetic treatment and sportsmanlike spirit from this Government when Gujarat, the Garvi Gujarat, Gujarat, the garden of this presidency, was under a great cloud of calamity.

Sir, after expressing my satisfaction on behalf of my constituency, I am going to draw the attention of the Government and request them humbly to reconsider the question and the suggestions made by my honourable friends from Kaira and Ahmedabad. The question regarding the interest on loans should be re-considered. Even loans, under those circumstances, are a great help to our agriculturists ; but loans on interest at this critical juncture can be taken as a present of a turban without a gold cloth. I hope Government will reconsider this question and do the needful in the matter. I venture to make some few suggestions regarding the flood relief work. In Panch Mahals there are several villages that have suffered much during this flood time. When His Excellency was there in Godhra, in an interview I suggested that those villages in the Halol taluka that are situated on the bank of the Dev river should be removed from that site and some better site, suitable site, should be selected for the situation of such villages. The other fact I regret to bring to the notice of the Government is what I heard in the meeting of the flood relief committee of Panch Mahals, when a member there made a statement before the Collector that hutting materials sent through the forest officer or the relief officer there are of inferior quality and some materials are perfectly useless for hutting purposes. And much more than that, what was stated there is this, that the prices demanded or offered for such materials were very high and in certain cases they were double. It is said in the world that the husband is the last man to know the vices of his wife. In the same way, the heads and the highest officials are the last persons to know the defects and the internal arrangements of their own subordinates. I ask the Government and appeal to the authorities concerned to be very active and vigilant in a special manner in this special matter, and I think this only indirect and humble suggestion of mine will open the eyes of the authorities concerned and I hope they will do the needful. Again, in brief I congratulate the Government and thank the Cabinet for what they have done for the relief of the distressed in Gujarat. With these few words I resume my seat.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District): Sir, I rise to support this demand for supplementary grant. Government can be said to be almost generous, looking to the attitude which Government has adopted in the past towards the condition of the ryots in time of distress. As a matter of fact, when the honourable member from Kaira, Rao Saheb Dadubhai Desai, was trying to point out that the provision was inadequate, one member from the Deccan exclaimed, "What does Gujarat want? Does it want fifty crores of rupees?" I do not wish to appear provincial, but let me remind such members that, if you look to the budget, you will find that Gujarat is the province which is contributing handsome surpluses year after year. If you look to the revenue, you will find that Gujarat is probably contributing twice as much as any other province to this presidency. If you look to the expenditure side, you will find that much less money is spent on Gujarat. If you take the one head of communications, you will find that less money is spent in the whole of Gujarat than in the one district of Poona. If you look to irrigation, you will find that crores of rupees have been spent on Deccan on protective irrigation works, which are going to yield a very low rate of interest, which means that the presidency has been giving so many lakhs every year for protection against famine, and if you look to the expenditure which has been incurred on famine relief in the past, you will find several lakhs are being spent every year on famine relief and only a very small portion of this sum has been in the past expended on Gujarat. So, if the presidency and Government are a bit generous in the matter of relief to Gujarat, I think it is but in the fitness of things. As Mahatma Gandhi has put it in his Young India, Gujarat, the garden of India which used to fill the beggar's bowl is obliged to take the beggar's bowl herself in the time of her calamity. So, if people are a bit generous towards Gujarat, it is only in the fitness of things, looking to the fact that Gujarat has been contributing handsomely to the revenues of the province. I would again request the Honourable the Revenue Member to consider whether the provision made for relief is quite sufficient and adequate. Much will depend on the manner in which the advance required for this reconstruction is made. If Government is very strict about the security which they require from the persons to whom they would give their advance, I think not half the amount which they have provided for would be taken up, because it is more than probable that many of the people would not be able to give as sound a security as, for instance, would be expected by a bank. Government will have to take several risks, and they should look at this matter from a generous point of view. I say they should be prepared to write off a fair proportion of the amount that they will be advancing. Unless they adopt a liberal attitude in that respect, I can say without the least hesitation that not even the amount provided for—though I consider it not quite sufficient—would be taken up. Also you will have to devise a special procedure for making the advances to the ryots. If there is too much harassment, if the subordinate officers of the department, through whom the advances are being made, try to pocket some of the money which is to be advanced and if other hitches are placed in their way, it will frighten the people away and it is possible that many people would not come forward to ask for loans. So, it is quite as important to look into the manner and the method of advancing the money as to the actual amount provided for.

I would at the same time like to know whether Government has come to any decision about granting remissions of land revenue, total or partial, in those cases in which they may appear to be called for. There will be several cases in which the crops have been washed away and owing to some reason, the poor cultivator has not been able to re-sow the land. Surely, nobody would maintain that where crops have been washed away by floods and where the cultivator has not been able to re-sow, he should be made to pay up the full assessment of land from which he has not realised any outturn and, as a matter of fact, in cultivating which he has incurred some loss. He has lost his seed, he has lost his cost of ploughing, he has lost his other expenses. There are other cases in which land has been rendered absolutely unfit for cultivation by deposit of huge quantities of sand and stone. Such lands also will have to be surveyed and the assessment of those lands will have to be permanently written off. If possible, efforts should be made by Government to make grants of land of nearly equal area or equal assessment to those people free without charging any occupancy price. The poor peasant has lost his land owing to no fault of his and it is but meet that he should be compensated by the State. The provision made for free relief of ten lakhs must be considered to be too insignificant and too paltry. The loss has been estimated to range from three to five crores of rupees and ten lakhs does not work out even at 5 per cent. of the total loss. If we look to what Governments do for their own people in other civilized countries, we will begin to realise how very unsympathetic, how very unobliging, I might almost say how very non-co-operating we are with the poor people. If you look to England, you will find that all the old men are given pensions, all the unemployed get doles. Opinions may differ as regards giving money to people for maintaining themselves, but there can be no two opinions that those people who have suffered heavy losses, whose whole wealth has been destroyed, that such people should be helped by the State, that they should be made strong enough to stand on their own legs. And, what is the compensation of ten lakhs of rupees where the loss runs into three or five crores of rupees? I think that even if a provision of fifty lakhs had been made, that would not have been considered to be excessive. Any free assistance up to the extent of 25 per cent. of the total loss would not be considered excessive. However, if Government cannot be generous in this respect, I would at least request them to be more considerate as regards the rate of interest which they are going to charge. Suggestions have been made by various members that either the loans should be without interest or that the rate of interest should be lower. Another suggestion which appeals to me is that no interest should be charged if the loan is returned in a very short period, say of five years. If a borrower agrees to return the whole amount within five years in five equal instalments, no interest should be charged to him unless he fails to pay one or more of the agreed instalments. If Government adopted that suggestion, the annual loss which they would incur, would not be at all considerable. Moreover, this concession about the rate of interest may be restricted where the amount of loan does not exceed five hundred or one thousand rupees. If that is done, I think the total loss which Government would incur for only five years would not exceed two to three lakhs per year. When Government has constructed protective irrigation works in other parts of the Presidency costing crores of rupees on which the loss of interest alone comes to ten lakhs per year, if Government were to make a little sacrifice only for a short period of five years, there would be a temporary loss for a short period of five years as against the other loss of ten lakhs annually and permanently. I hope that Government will carefully consider this suggestion about their being more lenient as regards the rate of interest which they are going to charge. I would have been more glad if Government had been generous enough to give a much bigger free grant ranging up to 25 per cent. of the total estimated loss, but as that has not been done, I think the next best thing which Government could do would be to be more liberal in the matter of interest. A small remission of interest to the extent of two or three or four lakhs of rupees for a short period of five years, accompanied by the condition that the interest would be charged if the instalments were not made, would on the contrary work in the interest of Government. If this concession is not made, it is possible that the entire loans may remain unpaid, but people may be tempted by this offer of remission of interest to pay the instalments regularly and that will enable Government to recover the amount advanced by them in a shorter period. With these few words, I resume my seat.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM (Eastern Sind) : Sir, I wish to join my voice in the general chorus of congratulations showered on the Government for the fairly large funds which they have made available for the purpose of flood relief. I feel that the people of this Presidency are greatly indebted to Government for, on the whole, the generous and sympathetic attitude they have adopted towards the people, and they are specially thankful to those who guard the finances of this Presidency and the honourable member in charge of the Revenue Department for all they have done. But, as a great Indian leader once defined the word "gratitude," it amounts to thankfulness for action taken and action to be taken. I believe therefore that hereafter, during the next few months also, the attitude of the various departments of Government towards the people will be very sympathetic. I do not wish to compare or contrast the conditions of Gujarat with those which prevail in Sind. I believe we are parts of one Presidency, I would say one country, and therefore members belonging to one particular portion need not be jealous of any charitable treatment shown towards the people of any other part. My only feeling is that, while the Government of Bombay, i.e., the Members of the Bombay Government here, have one and all been very anxious to do the best they can, much has depended on the reports they have received from the local officials. My complaint is that unlike what they did in the case of Gujarat, they did not rely in the case of Sind on the reports of non-officials. If similar weight had been given to the reports made by non-official agencies in Sind, probably we might have heard less of grievances from Sind. It is not possible for me to deal with the facts relating to Gujarat because I am not familiar with that part of the Presidency, but I would generally endorse the requirements that have been placed by the Gujarat members before the Council and before Government.

With regard to Sind, I feel that the calculations made by Government as to the losses and as to the amount of takavi required are most inadequate. I do not think that the question of going into the losses is irrelevant to the present discussion. The question of the amount of losses suffered by the people indirectly bears to some extent on the takavi to be given, and it also bears directly on the amount of remission which has to be given. I do not know why the local officials in Sind have been over-anxious to see that they do not put up a fairly high, though correct, figure of losses. It is not that they are not able to calculate losses. The Commissioner in Sind has admitted that it is not impossible to calculate losses, even approximately. I realise that it would be impossible to calculate losses accurately, but in a public meeting in August, while admitting that it was impossible at that stage to make any accurate estimate of the losses, he said that he was probably within the mark to say that 40 per cent. of the Kacha houses had fallen down, that 50 per cent. of the crop has been irretrievably lost and much of the remainder has been damaged and that there have been heavy losses of cattle due to exposure, that 20 to 45 per cent. of the cattle has been lost; in the Mirpurkhas taluka the loss other than damage to crop amounts to ten lakhs; in Digri seven lakhs is the estimated damage and four lakhs in Jamesabad taluka. This, Sir, was the very first estimate made. Since then, I understand that the Commissioner in Sind has issued a fresh circular asking for the latest estimates, and the latest estimates with regard to Thar and Parkar, with regard to which area figures have been published, are these. I am not including crops; I am only dealing with cattle, houses and other property, and with regard to these three items I do not think Government contended that there was any difficulty in arriving at even an accurate estimate. While on the 16th of August the Commissioner said that the losses of cattle, houses and other property in Thar and Parkar division were Rs. 21 lakhs, it was admitted at a later stage that it was Rs. 30 lakhs. But my contention is that Government is not in a position to give an accurate estimate not because they cannot, but, in my opinion, because the local officials have not done their duty in arriving at proper estimates. When the President of the Servants of India Society travelled through the afflicted parts, he, at considerable inconvenience, tried to get into touch with the people and ascertain and check the figures which were supplied to him ; and his estimate of the losses in Thar and Parkar district, in the shape of cattle, houses and other property, was Rs. 64 lakhs, that means double of what the Government estimate them to be. It has been suggested that Government would prefer to go by the official estimate. I would have yielded to this argument, if they had maintained this attitude consistently, but I find that the Commissioner in Sind, in appealing to the Bombay Central Flood Relief Committee for assistance, has adopted the estimates prepared by Mr. Devadhar, and in the application which he made on behalf of Sind for an additional sum of Rs. 50,000, which was sanctioned only the other day, this is what he says :

"The cotton, rice and bajri crops have suffered in a large measure. Mr. Devadhar, President, Servants of India Society, who toured in most of the affected areas, estimates the loss of kharif cultivation only at Rs. 34 lakhs, and 4 out of 5 talukas have been severely hit in Thar and Parkar district."

And then the Commissioner in Sind proceeds :

"The above details will, I am sure, convince your committee of the great need for pecuniary assistance to relieve the misery of the afflicted people in both the districts."

If the estimates of Mr. Devadhar with regard to the losses in the affected areas in Sind are sufficiently reliable to convince the Bombay Central Flood Relief Committee of the necessity for an additional grant of Rs. 50,000, I contend that they are reliable enough to convince the present Government, as to the extent of the losses.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : May I point out to the honourable member that the figures quoted by the Commissioner in Sind in this report to the Central Flood Relief Committee are exactly the figures which I quoted to the House in my speech yesterday ? It is true that he accepts Mr. Devadhar's rough estimate of the losses of property, which is largely a matter of conjecture, but as regards the estimates of losses of cattle, house property and other moveable property, the details given are exactly those which I gave to the House yesterday.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM : The remarks of the Honourable Member for the Revenue Department are of great assistance to me. They confirm exactly what I have said. While Government ventures to make a certain estimate of the losses with regard to cattle, houses and other property, which comes to Rs. 30½ lakhs according even to this appeal of the Commissioner to the Central Flood Relief Committee, they do not want to state what the losses in crops are, except by a percentage. But they use the estimate which Mr. Devadhar has given as to losses in crops, and think it is sufficiently reliable and convincing as an argument to any committee or body which has got to grant funds, and therefore they use it, and I therefore state that I am equally justified in using Mr. Devadhar's estimate as to the loss in crops.

Sir, I must confess that I speak with a certain amount of nervousness and trepidation when I refer to the attitude taken up by some of the local officials. More than once it has been suggested in this Council from the opposite benches that officials do their duty, when anything is suggested by us to the contrary and any remarks we make that officials have not acted properly are resented. But I was heartened by the remark of the Honourable the General Member yesterday, in reply to a supplementary question, that Government and their officials are human and liable to err and make mistakes, and therefore I venture to say something about the local officials. Sir, the chief reason why the local officials in Sind have not been able to make any reliable estimate with regard to the losses, or have not been able to satisfy public opinion that the demands which they have put up on behalf of the people with regard to takavi are at all adequate, is that they have not moved out into the villages. My complaint, with regard to the district of Hyderabad, is that the Collector did not move out. I am talking of the late Collector, Mr. Gibson, who was there until about a month and a half ago. He did not move out among the people, and I do not know whether the Collector who took charge about a month ago has done so. Throughout the period that officers were touring about in Gujarat, the local officials in Sind stayed at their headquarters. I know that the Commissioner of the Northern Division left this Council in the middle of a session, and went to his post of duty, but with regard to the Collector of Hyderabad, he was not in the villages when he was most needed there. The Collector of Thar and Parkar too hardly took any further action. It is true that he remained at Mirpurkhas four or five days, because the situation there needed his presence, but with regard to the mofussil, except the attempt to reach Jamesabad on the 30th of August, he took no further step until a day or two before the Commissioner was to arrive in Thar and Parkar district. He stayed in Mirpurkhas and relied upon his subordinates to give him information. Even with regard to the visit of the Commissioner which took place somewhere in the month of September, I found that he too did not venture to go anywhere except along the rails; either the train or the trolley took him to the various important towns. The Commissioner, in my humble opinion, has no personal experience of the state of affairs. I think that there is some truth in the Indian proverb which says that where a king takes only one apple from the garden of any of his subjects, his army loot the whole of the garden. The converse, I think, is also true; where a high Government official takes a little initiative and wishes to get into touch with the people and ascertain on the spot the losses they have suffered, all the officials lower down feel that it is their duty to do something. I am thankful that the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government has decided to see the flooded areas. I would have wished to have an opportunity of thanking him even more if he had come earlier, despite the advice he received. I wish also to draw the attention of this Council to the attitude taken up by the officials, even after Mr. Devadhar's visit. As a result of the suggestion made by Mr. Devadhar, the Collector of Hyderabad proposed to call a conference of officials and non-officials to discuss the question of takavi, as was done at Nadiad in the month of August. I would just read a brief extract from the interview given by Mr. Devadhar to the press. It says :

“ Before discussing in detail the damage done and the relief required, Mr. Devadhar emphasised the urgent need for summoning a conference of officials and non-officials in each district, with a view to removing any misunderstanding or ignorance regarding the intentions of Government to help people liberally on an occasion like this, and to explain to them Government's policy with regard to remission in cases where crops have failed badly and takavi loans free of interest. Such a conference would help officials to make a total demand from Government for takavi and to appeal to charitable funds for a share of the money collected for gratuitous relief. ”

The Collector of Hyderabad ventured to summon such a conference, and notices, I understand, were issued to a number of non-official gentlemen. Before the conference came off he ventured to ascertain the wishes of the Commissioner. I do not know the nature of the further correspondence which passed between the two officials. But the fact remains that the conference was cancelled and only officials met and I am not aware of the decisions arrived at. I have quoted this only as an instance of the attitude adopted by the local officials in Sind.

I find that only 7½ lakhs of rupees have been allotted to Sind for tagavi advances out of a total sum of over 18 lakhs. Mr. Devadhar calculated that the requirements of the two districts will be at least 30 lakhs after allowing 50 per cent. margin for any errors in the calculation. The Tando Zamindars' Association, after careful discussions and calculations, have made a demand on the Revenue Department for tagavi loan for rabi and kharif to the extent of 20 lakhs. I trust that this request will be sympathetically considered by Government. Whatever may be the amount of tagavi granted by Government I would wish to draw their attention to the fact that they should see that this tagavi reaches the people. The honourable member for Thar and Parkar has suggested in very cautious language that Government should see that the people receive the tagavi properly. I think it is desirable that instead of the people going to the headquarters, where they have to spend days, it will be convenient if the muktiarkars are instructed to go about in the talukas from place to place, i.e., to important centres and distribute tagavi loan. I also wish Government to enquire into the allegations which have been made in the press that there is a considerable percentage of what is technically known as leakage in the distribution of tagavi. I do not want to make a definite statement as to the percentage but from the reports I have received I do not think that it will be anything less than 12 per cent. I am sorry to say that with regard to the distribution of tagavi the Thar and Parkar Association for the Relief of the Blind is particularly interested to see that it utilizes this occasion for its benefit. Responsible officials of this association charge those who come for Tagavi a certain percentage which I understand is from 5 to 10 per cent. of the tagavi loans given to the people. That association is presided over by the Collector of the district. I would therefore suggest that Government should make very strict enquiries into the matter. If there is no truth in the allegations made in the press I think it would be a very desirable thing that Government should be in a position to contradict them.

[Mr. Jairamdas Doulatram]

I find that a fairly large amount has been allotted for the purpose of reconstruction of houses. With regard to this item I find that a responsible officer has been appointed as flood reconstruction officer for Gujarat. I do not know what considerations weighed with Government or with the Commissioner in Sind which led to the appointment of an officer of the position of a mamlatdar as flood reconstruction officer for Thar and Parkar district. The mamlatdar cannot naturally be expected to exercise his discretion with that measure of independence which is necessary. If he makes any proposals his official position as a subordinate will come in the way. I am also surprised to see that the flood reconstruction officer has not been appointed for the other district. The flood relief reconstruction officer of Thar and Parkar will have no jurisdiction over the Hyderabad district. The whole of Hyderabad will go without the assistance of such an officer. The result will be that additional work will be thrown on the Mukhtiarkar who has to distribute tagavi and the work of reconstruction is bound to suffer. I will, Sir, cut down my remarks as I find that it is getting late. In the town of Mirpurkhas there are 300 families of labourers living in a quarter known as Gharibabad. All the houses have been levelled to the ground. The labourers asked for permission to rebuild their houses after the rain stopped on the 30th July but up to date they have not got permission for reconstructing their houses.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Who gives the permission ? Is it not the municipality ?

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM : The plot does not belong to the municipality unfortunately. I wish it did. It belongs to Government. The present Collector says that unless the whole village is remodelled he will not give permission. He wants that the width of the streets should be 30 feet. These houses were remodelled seven or eight years ago by a Collector who is now a member of this House. That officer understood the necessities of the situation and laid down that the width of the streets should be 20 feet. A width of 40 feet for the main roads and a width of 20 feet for the streets of a small village of 300 houses will be sufficient for ventilation and other requirements of the villagers. I am surprised to hear that the present Collector refuses to grant permission unless they allow a width of 30 feet for the streets. I suggest that Government should take some action in this matter. I understand that Government have issued a notification for the acquisition of a new site. If no action is taken the people will have to evacuate the present plot and they are unwilling to do so because the cost of removing the debris and other materials will be very heavy.

One or two points more and I have done. I would suggest that sufficient funds should be placed at the disposal of the central and district co-operative banks. This is not a question of relief only to the members of the present societies. There is a scheme under consideration for the reconstruction of houses on a co-operative basis. If sufficient funds are placed at their disposal, many people in the flooded areas will support that movement.

[Mr. Jairamdas Doulatram]

There remains the question of future measures. I do not want to go over the facts which have been given by the honourable member Mr. Noor Mahomed. I think he has made out a case for a much larger measure of remission. I must say that the figures given by the Honourable the Revenue Member of the amount of remission expected to be given are, to say the least, extraordinary. If the policy with regard to remissions is not very generous the situation for the agriculturists will be very grave and they will not be able to recover the lost ground for many years to come. We have got another difficulty which affects the agriculturists. We have read even in to-day's papers that locusts have been swarming over large tracts of the country. Some of these tracts have not suffered from floods but there are others which have suffered from that calamity also. In certain other parts the river level having fallen people have not got sufficient water for cultivation. These facts will have to be considered when the question of remission is decided.

Finally, one fact which I want to bring to the notice of the honourable House is that probably the rains were not so much responsible for this calamity as the most unsatisfactory system of drainage in Sind. I do not know, but if anybody files a suit against Government I do not know if he will be not able to make out a good case. It is a fact that for several years these particular channels which are maintained for the purpose of draining off excess water have not been cleared. They have silted up. The result was that when the rains came some channels overflowed and the water could not be drained off by these channels. Take the case also of Puran Dhoro. This drainage channel is 150 feet broad through most of its course but when it reaches Jhudo about which the Honourable the Revenue Member read out a telegram in August last, it narrows down to about 12 feet and all the volume of water flowing down from the upper regions has to rush through this narrow neck, with the result that a large area round about this narrow neck gets flooded and many a town is affected. This is what happened during the recent floods. I hope steps will be taken to remedy this state of affairs.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District) : After so much praise and congratulations have been poured forth from this side of the House on Government, I am afraid that to add to it will be a burden on Government and therefore I am not going to enter on that formality. I do not also wish to take up much of the time of the House, because sufficient has been said about Gujarat and Sind by honourable members who have come from those places and who have intimate knowledge of that area. I want only to deal with one or two points.

Yesterday, Rao Saheb Dadubhai Desai said something about land having been covered with a thick layer of sand. I have also received this complaint from other quarters in Gujarat. When a large area of land has been covered with sand, I think it is up to Government to appoint an officer to investigate into this and try to remedy the evil. This land which has been rendered useless should be made useful. There is again the case of land whose fertility has been destroyed by the floods washing away the thin layer of fertile soil on the surface. This also should be enquired into. Those landowners who have suffered on account of these phenomena should be shown concessions in the form of remission and suspension of revenue, till such time as the land again becomes useful for cultivation. There are also large tracts of land washed away by rivers and nalas, and which can no more be cultivated now and those landowners who have suffered by this should be given remissions of land revenue on such land and they should be provided with new waste land to provide means of sustenance for them. These are the important points which I want to place for the consideration of Government.

There is then the question of interest on loans and tagavi. I see that sufficient praise has been bestowed on Government for their coming forward with a big grant to be given as loans to agriculturists from the Famine Insurance Fund and from general reserve. I am not prepared to say that the rate of interest is very high, but it is a God sent calamity, and when people have lost everything they had, it is not fair on the part of Government to take interest for the loans they give to them. I do not know what amount will be required, but I take it that about 2 crores will be required. If you give 2 crores as loans, the interest on that will be 9 or 10 lakhs. I suggest that this can be met from the Famine Insurance Fund. I understand that the Famine Insurance Fund was specially meant for such purposes. Just as famine is caused by want of rains, famine is also caused by floods, and I think money for this purpose can be taken from the Famine Insurance Fund. I did not know much about these tracts, but when the Leader of the House was in Nadiad I was also there, and with Rao Saheb Dadubhai Desai we went into the country, and there I found the same state of things as was described by the honourable member Mr. Jairamdas Doulatram, namely, that the drainage system was defective for preventing such damage as has been done by the recent floods. That is a state of things which Government ought to remedy.

I do not want to go into the inadequacy of the amount provided, because I do not know how much will be required, nor do I want to go into the figures of loss caused by the recent floods given by the official and the non-official side. I only want to impress on the Government that those landowners whose lands have been made useless by the floods depositing a thick layer of sand on them or removing the thin surface layer of fertile soil or whose lands have been completely washed away by rivers and nalas should be given remissions and some waste land should be provided for their means of sustenance in the meantime.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : What is that area ?

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : I cannot say that but I would request the Honourable the Revenue Member to appoint an officer and ascertain it for himself. I only point out that such landholders should be given remissions and concessions.

The THAKOR OF KERWADA (Northern Division) : Mr. President, I heartily associate myself with the honourable members who have offered thanks to Government. As one of those who had to go with the Honourable Minister and His Excellency the Governor in Gujarat, and on behalf of my constituency I wish to offer my warmest thanks to His Excellency the Governor and the Members and Ministers of his Government who came down to Gujarat not only to extend their personal sympathies to the sufferers but also to make searching inquiries from house to house in certain areas. There is one point I wish to urge. The Honourable Members and Ministers who visited certain villages in the affected areas will agree with me that the condition of the people whose houses and property—in fact everything that they can call their own—has been washed away, is very pitiable. It will be many years before they will be restored to their original state of prosperity. In view of the fact that their houses have collapsed and their crops have been destroyed, I would request that Government should treat them more liberally than they propose. I earnestly appeal to the Honourable the Revenue Member and the Honourable the Finance Member that they would make the tagavi advances to these people free of interest. I know that the interest they propose to charge is very low, but looking to their condition they are entitled to this much sympathy from Government, that tagavi advances to them should be free of interest. It may be argued that if tagavi is made free of interest, some people may not be inclined to pay the principal back. If that is the fear, a period of six years may be fixed within which the amount should be paid back, and if the amount is not paid back within that time, a moderate interest may be charged for any period after that. As so many speeches have been made in support of this recommendation, I hope Government will consider this question very sympathetically. Secondly I believe malaria and other epidemics are appearing in the affected area. I trust that Government would come forward and give medical relief to the people in the affected area. Generally they make conditional grants. That is they make a grant on the condition the local board gives a certain amount. I do not think it is fair because the local boards of Gujarat have had to incur lot of expenses on account of the damage done to their roads, bridges, etc., they cannot find the money to give medical relief to the people in the flood area. Therefore I hope the Honourable Revenue Member would bear in mind these two points, namely, that medical aid should be given and that tagavi loans should be given free of interest. With these words I support the demand.

Mr. RAJMAL LAKHICHAND (Addressing the House in Hindi): Mr. President, I want to bring the chair of the President of the Assembly near the Honourable the President's chair.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That is distinctly out of order. If the honourable member wants to speak on the question before the House, he may do so.

Mr. F. G. H. ANDERSON: Sir, there have been two points raised in the speeches of the honourable member from Kaira, Rao Saheb Dadubhai Desai and his honourable colleague, also from Surat, Mr. Shivdasani, and Rao Bahadur Bhimbhai. I may say that it is a matter specially connected with my department and which therefore I wish to answer although I notice the House is most anxious to get on to other business. The points are that in the area which has been damaged by the floods a number of wells have been obliterated and fallen in by the flood water and that a large quantity of stone has been washed away by the floods and that where it has not been washed away heavy deposits of sand and gravel and stones have been thrown upon the land rendering it infertile and that the land has thereby deteriorated. Now, Mr. President, these are matters which fall exclusively within my department and I would like the House to know what has really been done. The honourable member Rao Bahadur Bhimbhai trusted that Government would appoint a special officer to investigate these matters. These floods occurred, so far as my recollection carries me, about the 24th, 25th and 26th of July and before the end of July, as soon as I read of the floods in the papers, I recognised at once that these things may possibly happen. I therefore addressed the Superintendent of Land Records, Ahmedabad, before the end of July. He is an officer well-known in Gujarat, Mr. C. D. Kavi, who is intimately connected with agriculture. What he does not know about land, nobody knows.

[Mr. F. G. H. Anderson]

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI : He does not know agriculture.

Mr. F. G. H. ANDERSON : He does. He had a long training in these subjects. Well, I wrote to him and I stated that I feared that damage of this sort may possibly happen and I said "if you require special establishment to go into it, you may at once put it on and inform me. Please call on all district inspectors and circle inspectors, to send an intimation at once if in any locality special damage has been done." Now, as the House may know we have a complete record of all the wells especially in Kaira, they were inspected, measured and recorded when the original survey was undertaken and all information regarding the quality and quantity of water available, and the structure of the well recorded. And during the revision survey this was done again; and about three years ago in consequence of complaints of deterioration to wells it was again done. Therefore if any person comes forward and says that certain wells have been destroyed by the floods it is possible to verify the information and to give him the required relief. Very well, I made that suggestion to Mr. Kavi before the end of July. Then, I received some resolutions that have been passed by an agricultural association in Gujarat calling attention to the damage that has been done to lands. I underlined those portions and sent the extract on to him saying "Please pay the most careful attention to this and let me know promptly what you mean doing. If you want special establishment let me know." Mr. President, Mr. Kavi will be the last man, if he wanted special establishment, to decline it, because on account of retrenchment he has had to reduce his temporary establishment and he was finding it difficult to manage the reductions. Up to the present day his information is that no case was brought to his notice that would at all justify special establishment.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : On a point of information, Sir. Is Mr. Kavi aware of the fact that certain villages were water-logged and were unapproachable for about a month after the floods had occurred ? Has he visited those places ?

Mr. F. G. H. ANDERSON : I have not heard of his having visited any unapproachable places, but that is not the question. I think, if the honourable member had heard correctly what I said, he would have noticed that I stated that Mr. Kavi was instructed to call on all circle inspectors who have been allotted to every group of twenty or thirty villages to report the cases of any damage. Nor have I said that there were no such cases. We know that certain villages have been surrounded by water and that certain villages have been water-logged. And during the next few years those villages will receive considerable benefit from this inundation. The point that I was making was that firstly there had been no neglect by our department which was responsible for taking early action ; and orders were given as a precautionary measure ; and secondly that if there was the slightest indication of a special establishment being required we would have put it on. But Mr. Kavi had not found a sufficient number of cases that would justify a special establishment. Moreover as the demands for land revenue are not due for several months yet there is plenty of time left us. The greatest care is being taken so far as my department is concerned to see that there is no neglect on our part.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : Is the honourable member prepared to accept the figures collected by the non-official agency as to the areas damaged ?

Mr. F. G. H. ANDERSON : Most certainly not.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I want the honourable member to know that I would give him only a few minutes as the Honourable the Revenue Member has to make his reply.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Sir, the calamity that has overtaken the two parts of this presidency, namely, Gujarat and Sind, is such that it will be many years before the agriculturists will be able to come back into their own. They have lost their everything. They have lost seeds once, twice or thrice and even after those adversities even the insects are now working havoc in various places, and, therefore, the calamity is such that the agriculturists are altogether ruined. Sir, at this time it is very gratifying to note that Government have done the necessary changes in the Devolution Rules or in the interpretations of those rules and the Famine Relief Fund has been made available for flood relief. But for the changes made in those rules, Sir, that fund would not have been available for the purpose. Sir, I want to point out one more factor in connection with this relief work, namely, about the Famine Insurance Fund. When we insure a house or any other thing, at the time when some calamity occurs, we get the whole money back. Now, this insurance fund has been made out of the large revenue payments that are made by the cultivators to this Government, and the Government insure against such calamity, and when such calamity occurs, the insurance money should come back to the cultivators not for the purpose of making a trade or profit out of it, but it must come without any sort of charge being levied against it. Therefore, I want to specially draw the attention of the Honourable the Revenue Member and also the Finance Member that, if they understand the spirit of the fund which is going to be utilised for the purpose of affording relief to the cultivators, they should give back the money to the cultivators without any charge being levied on it. Sir, out of the amount of Rs. 90 lakhs that is being made available, Rs. 10 lakhs are going to be given gratis. But the other Rs. 80 lakhs I should strongly recommend the Honourable the Finance Member to make available for the poor people without any interest. Sir, do you know what the fate of the cultivator is? For purposes of his seed sown before the flood he may have got advance from some sowcar. The crops of the first seed were washed away in the month of July. In some talukas, even in August there were other rains and the seeds which were sown between the first flood and the second flood were also washed away. I refer to the case of Viramgaum taluka, where floods occurred twice. Here in those parts the cultivators have lost their seeds twice. They are indebted to the sowcar; they are again indebted for the tagavi advance to the Government. Here, in certain cases, they may be indebted to the relief committees if they have taken advances from them. In this way, the cultivator has been practically overburdened with debt from head to foot. Sir, in this condition, it is necessary that Government should make declarations that would allay his fears. He is just now fearing very much on the point of the land revenue. The important declaration that the cultivator expects is about the way in which the revenue will be collected this year. I think the calamity is so great that Government should come to the aid of the cultivator and declare that they will examine the situation carefully and will give remissions and suspensions on very liberal scales, so that the cultivator may not be afraid of his position. Sir, in this connection I might point out to you the situation in which these cultivators are placed. On the 23rd of July the rains came, and unfortunately on the same day in the villages of Viramgaum taluka notices of enhancement of land revenue also were posted in each and every village. Therefore, the cultivators are in the greatest anxiety. They have been ruined in every possible way and the Damocles' Sword of this enhancement of land revenue is hanging over their heads. They have no vitality. Malaria is attacking them, and now insects also have been ruining their cultivation by working havoc with seeds and crops. There is not a single idea on which they can have some consolation. Under those circumstances, it is necessary that Government should make a declaration of their policy in such a way that the poor cultivator may not have any anxiety in the matter and may be able to come back into their own. And the housing advance will have to be repaid, and that also with a charge of interest and looking to the condition of the cultivators, I do not know when all these charges will be recuperated. Perhaps years may elapse before the cultivators can come into their own. Therefore, this special calamitous situation should be taken into consideration in a sympathetic spirit by Government, and if they keep the cultivator alive, it is the cultivator that will repay them in the end for all the help that they will give him in his present miserable condition.

[Mr. J. C. Swaminarayan]

Mr. J. W. SMYTH : I move the closure, Sir.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I accept the closure. The Honourable the Revenue Member to reply.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : But I want to speak for only five minutes.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I have accepted the closure.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : Sorry, sorry.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I would call upon the honourable member to withdraw those words.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : I will withdraw, Sir, but.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : There is no question of " but " ; the honourable member should withdraw those words.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : I withdraw.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Mr. President, I find myself in the unusual position after having moved a grant for the sanction of this House of having to defend it on the ground that it is insufficient. Generally, things are the other way about. I am glad to note the expressions of appreciation on the part of most honourable members for the consideration and liberality which Government have shown in dealing with the situation in Gujarat and Sind, and, therefore, I will confine myself to dealing briefly with some of the few individual points which have been raised in the course of this debate. A great deal of stress has been laid throughout on the estimate of damage done as constituting a measure of what Government should do in the way of granting assistance to repair the damage. But as I stated in my opening remarks, most of the estimates that have been made in the press and elsewhere are altogether fallacious in that they contain as a principal factor an estimate of the value of the crops which are alleged to have been lost, such estimate being taken of the full value of the mature crops. I cannot admit for a moment that any estimate on this basis is correct. The crops were not mature. They had merely a potential value, and either they have since been, or they will be, replaced by kharif crops or rabi crops, as the case may be, and, therefore, as I pointed out before, it is not fair to represent that these crops destroyed are a pure loss to the cultivators. If the floods had occurred when the crops were ready for reaping and there had been no possibility of resowing the crops, then I admit that it would be reasonable to count the full amount of the value of those crops as lost to the cultivator. (Mr. G. I. Patel made a remark which was inaudible).

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : That is only a small factor in the total.

Then, the honourable member Rao Saheb Dadubhai Desai has laid stress on the point that according to him the Collectors have greatly underestimated the amount which will be required as loans for reconstruction. He alleges that people were induced to report much smaller amounts than they required for fear that they might be charged as much as eight per cent. interest on their loans. I submit that that is altogether inaccurate. My information is that the people for the most part were expecting that they would get loans free of interest or on very easy terms and that, if anything, they consequently over-estimated their demands. In any case, it certainly is not the fact that they had any ground for supposing that Government were going to charge as much as eight per cent. interest. The loans were represented as takavi loans at the time when the officers were making their enquiries, and the people generally know what the current rate of takavi interest is. It certainly is not eight per cent.

Then, a claim has been made that these loans should not bear any interest as coming from the Famine Insurance Fund. With regard to that I may inform the House that it is only after very careful consideration and with some degree of misgiving that Government approved of the debiting of these loans for reconstruction against the Famine Insurance Fund. Strictly speaking, the Famine Insurance Fund is only intended to afford relief within certain strictly defined limits to cultivators, and it was never intended that it should serve the purpose of affording the means of replacing houses on any very large scale, houses for the most part belonging to people who either are not cultivators or are cultivators only to a very small extent.

Rao Saheb DADUBHAI DESAI : Is it not a fact that the Famine Insurance Fund was made use of for canals in Sind ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. The honourable member does not yield.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : The question therefore of remitting the interest wholesale on these loans does not legitimately arise, and it is quite impossible to make any such concession. Government have gone so far as to embark on this extensive scheme of loans largely debited against the Famine Insurance Fund only because they recognized that there are at present no ordinary banking facilities in Gujarat and that therefore it is absolutely necessary to afford such facilities to the people at large.

Then, the honourable member Mr. G. I. Patel has commented on the inadequacy and, as he said the meagre character of the amount sanctioned by Government for free grants in comparison with the charitable grants made by private agencies, and he quoted a sum of thirty lakhs as having been collected by private agency for distribution in Gujarat. His line of argument seems to be that the more that is collected by charitable agency for distribution among the people, the more should Government spend from their own funds....

Mr. G. I. PATEL : That shows the intensity of the distress and the spontaneous help from the public.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I cannot follow the logic of this reasoning. But incidentally I should like to express my deep appreciation of the extreme liberality with which the public of this Presidency have come forward in the matter of subscribing in this great calamity and also of the devoted services of those non-official gentlemen who have served as workers for the organization and distribution of relief in the villages. But to say that because such a large amount has been given by private agency for charitable relief, therefore Government should provide an equal or a larger amount is, it seems to me, altogether unreasonable.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : That is incorrect, Sir. I did not say that. My point was that the acuteness of the distress was so great that the spontaneous help given by private agencies should have been supplemented by Government on a comparatively proportionate scale.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I would point out that there was a general feeling not long after the floods occurred that this free charitable relief was doing more harm than good in that it prevented people, who would otherwise have come to work on the fields, from doing so, and that they preferred to remain at home subsisting on doles rather than go out and earn their living by labour in the fields. This occurred just at the time when the demand for field labour was very great, and there was consequently a general feeling that this system of charitable relief should be brought to a close as soon as possible.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : What about unemployment doles in England ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I do not think there was the slightest fear of unemployment nor is there at present. On the contrary, I should say that so far as the poorer classes are concerned, people of the artisan and labouring classes, will, as the result of the demand for labour for the reconstruction of houses, be actually better off in the future than they were in the past. They will be earning good wages and will secure employment on a large scale.

Then the question has been raised of a general remission of the land revenue. I submit that there is no justification for any such remission, but if there are cases where it is found that no re-sowing has been or will be possible on account of the stagnation of water in the fields, or where the land has been for the time being rendered completely unfit for cultivation, Government will be prepared to consider such special cases, and the Flood Relief Officer has instructions to bring to notice any cases where remission on such special grounds would be justifiable.

Then as regards the question of the remission of interest on loans for rabi takavi, there also I may inform the House that the Flood Relief Officer has authority himself to deal with any special cases where the charging of interest on such takavi loans would entail hardship.

A reference has been made to the question of the allotments for takavi grants in Sind. I should like to point out that the grant which we are now asking does not necessarily represent the final allotment which will be made. If the Collectors ask for further allotments because more cultivators come forward with applications for grants, I am sure that Government will be prepared to meet such demands.

The alleged inadequacy of the takavi allotments in Sind has, as I say, been commented upon, but I should like to draw attention to the fact that the Thar and Parkar district, with an allotment of Rs. 6 lakhs, stands higher than any district in Gujarat, the maximum for which is Rs. 5 lakhs.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM : May I rise to a point of information ? Is it a fact that the Collector of Thar and Parkar demanded Rs. 12 lakhs ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : It is true that he originally asked for Rs. 12 lakhs, but then those Rs. 12 lakhs included loans for the reconstruction of houses, while these allotments to which I am now referring, and which are referred to in the statement, represent only takavi for seed and cattle. His application covered the reconstruction of houses as well as seed and cattle ; the allotment of Rs. 6 lakhs is only for seed and cattle. That is the explanation. As a matter of fact, so far as my latest information goes, he has not been able to distribute the whole amount of the allotment already made to him. But if he does require more, he will certainly get it, and I would further inform the honourable member that I have information by telegram from the Collector to say that takavi has been advanced to over 60 zamindars in the flood affected areas of the Thar Parkar district in amounts ranging from Rs. 1,000 to Rs. 4,000.

Mr. NOOR MAHOMED : What are the figures for Tando Division ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : The total is roughly a lakh and a half.

Mr. NOOR MAHOMED : He gave some figures with regard to the Thar and Parkar district. I want the same figures for Tando Division.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : What is the demand of the Collector : Is that what the honourable member wants ?

Mr. NOOR MAHOMED : No ; the highest amount that was individually given to any khatedar.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I am unable to say. But with regard to the honourable member's remarks as to the inadequacy of the takavi allotment in Tando Division, I should like him to quote any case in which takavi has been refused.

Mr. NOOR MAHOMED : I will bring it to your notice.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : If he will give me a list of such cases, I shall consider them. I have heard a great deal about the inadequacy of the takavi allotments for the Hyderabad district, but I have not had any specific cases quoted to me of refusals. A little time ago, the Jahgirdars and Zamindars' Association of the Tando Division addressed me on the subject, and particularly on the question of the grants of takavi to large landholders. I informed them in reply that no discrimination was being made between large landholders and small landholders; the only criteria would be whether takavi was really required, and whether there was an assurance that the applicant would utilise the takavi for the specific purposes for which it had been granted. The Jahgirdars and Zamindars' Association replied that they were fully satisfied, and they have not brought to my notice any case in which takavi has been refused, which I should have thought they would have done had there actually been such cases.

Further, with regard to Sind, we have heard statements made alleging that no officers have visited the villages in the flood affected areas, that the estimates of losses are all pure guess work, and so on. Well, it is rather curious that as a matter of fact the information which I have regarding the effects of the flood in Sind is more detailed and complete than the similar information I have in regard to Gujarat, and it seems to me impossible that all this information has been collected—some of it I gave to the House yesterday—without a great deal of personal inspection. Nor could the large area of land which, as I informed the House, had been given out for cultivation on eksali been distributed without a vast amount of work entailing personal inspection. I submit therefore that there is no foundation for the complaints that have been made by the two honourable members from Sind as to the absence of personal inspection on the part of Sind officials. As regards visits by the higher officers, the Collectors and the Commissioner, to the flooded areas, I should like the House to recollect that in Sind communications are much more difficult than they are in Gujarat. After such floods as occurred there this year, it must have been very difficult, if not almost impossible, for officers to travel about the country very shortly after the floods with all the roads cut and the villages and fields under water. If they did confine themselves to the railway as is alleged, that is probably because it was the only way in which they could personally make their inspections. It has also been stated—it is a minor point—that the Commissioner did not visit the Tando Division till September. Well, that is inaccurate; he actually paid his visit in August.

Then, as regards the question of the flood reconstruction officer appointed for the Thar and Parkar district, it is true he is a mukhtiarkar, but for the time being he has the pay and status of a deputy collector, and he is well known to be a particularly efficient and able officer.

Another point that has been made by the honourable member from Hyderabad is as regards the giving out of land for eksali cultivation. I think his point was that this eksali cultivation is an ordinary matter, and that the land to this extent is given out every year. That is not a fact. The fact is that this eksali cultivation is largely in excess of the normal, and in order to admit of its being made, all restrictions on canals were removed, in order to meet this particular emergency. This is obvious moreover from the figures which I quoted yesterday as to the rabi cultivation. There could not possibly be the very large extension of rabi cultivation that will be, had there not been a large increase in the grant of land for eksali cultivation.

Again, as regards the question of remissions in Sind, I do not think the honourable member who referred to this question was aware of the fact that the estimate of remission which I quoted yesterday is not the final estimate. It is an estimate of the remission for kharif crops where the land will not be sown again with rabi. It is only in such lands that the extent of remissions can be finally gauged. Where the land has either been resown with kharif or is likely to be sown with rabi, it is impossible at present to form any estimate of the extent of remission that will be necessary. That amount can only be arrived at when the final results of the whole of the two seasons have been ascertained. And therefore although it may appear to the honourable member that the figures I quoted were inadequate, he must remember that they are not the final figures.

A reference has been made to the recent invasion of locusts. The question of any remissions that may be necessary on account of damage from this cause will be considered in due course. I hope the honourable member does not expect me to make any advance statement of what Government will do in the matter of such remissions. I may mention, while on this subject, that a special provision has been placed at the disposal of the Commissioner in Sind for dealing with this locust pest. I have now dealt with most of the more important points that have been raised in the course of the debate, and I would now ask the House to give their sanction to the grant under discussion.

Question put and carried.

Supplementary* grant for Rs. 2,14,000 as additional tagavi advances in the Ahmednagar, West Khandesh, Broach, Karachi, Sataia and Bjpapur Districts.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I move for an additional grant of Rs. 2,14,000 under Deposits and Advances—Loans and Advances by Provincial Governments. This demand is to meet certain applications for additional allotments of tagavi, having no connection with the floods.

Question put and carried.

Supplementary† grant for Rs. 5,600 for the maintenance of, and repairs to, the kadbi stacks in the Sholapur district.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I move a demand for an additional grant of Rs. 5,600 to be reappropriated from 43-B, Transfers to Famine Insurance Fund to 43-A, Famine Relief. This amount is required for providing covering for the kadbi stacks in the Sholapur district and certain establishment for their maintenance.

Question proposed.

Khan Saheb ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN : May I know in how many cases single sheet roofing has been adopted ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : In three or four cases.

Khan Saheb ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN : Has any of these taken fire ?

† Appendix 19.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Yes.

Khan Saheb ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN : Is provision for that included in this demand ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : No.

Khan Saheb ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN : What about the loss ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : The losses were covered by insurance.

Khan Saheb ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN : I want to know the loss on that fire.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Does the honourable member wish to speak and express his views ?

Khan Saheb ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN : I put one question and it necessitated another question.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : This is not question time.

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE (Satara District) : Sir, I want the information from the honourable member whether the grant for storing kadbi in Sholapur was sanctioned in the budget for the current year. (An honourable member : No.) This sum of Rs. 5,600 appears to have been spent for the repairs of the kadbi stack. It has been my experience in my district that very few persons come there to buy fodder. In the first place this fodder the cattle in that part are not accustomed to eat. A large quantity is being wasted, as nobody goes in for it. I should like to know whether the fodder stored in Sholapur was purchased this year or some years ago. At the same time I want to know whether it finds a sale, and if so, what amount has been realised ; and also the total amount spent on kadbi storage in Sholapur. I think that this amount is really an extra amount spent and the demand is not for a supplementary grant. If it is found that the kadbi stored in Sholapur is of use then the arrangement for stacking is necessary. I do not understand why there should be provision for a permanent rakhwaddar if any amount is realised from the sale of kadbi ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I cannot do better than read out part of the Collector's report in which he makes a recommendation for the expenditure proposed :—

"The difficulty and disadvantage of the present method of roofing with corrugated iron was pointed out in the paragraph headed 'roofing' in my report of the original kadbi storage operations of 1925. You, however, did not agree with these findings but held that roofing with iron sheets is essential to the success of the scheme.

Accordingly when the operations in 1926 were to be started, I discussed the method of roofing personally with Rao Saheb Hulyal who had experience in Ahmednagar the year before and we agreed that corrugated iron roofing must be tried again. As, however, Government has suggested experiments with mud plastering also we decided to try this form also if possible. On local inquiry however it was found that this form of roofing was only satisfactory and economical when there was an adequate supply of water and suitable earth adjacent to the depôt. This condition was fulfilled only at the Tembhurni depôt. We therefore adopted the mud plaster covering there. It has not in my opinion proved satisfactory as the stack has lost its shape very badly and I think there is grave risk that rain has got in. At the other depôts, viz., Sangola, Karmala, Jeur and the reconstructed depôts at Pandharpur and Mohol the system of single sheet roofing with corrugated iron was again adopted according to the pattern in vogue in Ahmednagar. None of these have however proved satisfactory. The Pandharpur and Mohol stacks have perished by spontaneous combustion while the roofs of every stack at the other three depôts have been blown off by the high winds which are a feature of this district. The only depôts that have not given any trouble are Sholapur and Barsi where the double sheet roofing has been adopted. Accordingly when the stack at Sangola, Jeur and Karmala were unroofed by the wind after the rains had started I had decided that we had better adopt the two sheet roofing there also. As the rains had already started immediate action was necessary to prevent water getting in. Extra sheets had to be purchased for the second row but any other form of roofing would have taken so long to put up that it did not appear to be a suitable time to experiment with it.

The additional cost is not serious as would appear as the corrugated sheets are saleable on dismantling. The work has been completed now, and I request that sanction may be accorded to the expenditure and funds provided."

With regard to the question raised by the honourable member from Satara, I may say that although it is a fact that there have been no purchases made of this kadbi, it is still necessary to make this provision in view of the fact that there might at any time be a very serious scarcity of fodder. Because in good years people do not purchase this kadbi, it does not follow that they will not purchase it in bad years.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE : Sir, is it the final reply of the Honourable Member ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : That is his reply.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : The honourable member asked for information, and I thought the Honourable the Revenue Member gave it.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Sir, that is my reply.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I think the honourable member Mr. Deshpande spoke on the subject and sat down.

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE : Sir, I made a speech, and the Honourable Member in charge read out the report in reply.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : We shall then consider that as information given.

(After recess)

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : Sir, I want to raise one point, and that point is with regard to the matter which led you to remonstrate with my honourable colleague from Karachi. I understood from him that he said while he sat down.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. What is this ?

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : Sir, I am referring to a matter which led to your remonstrance.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : There was no remonstrance ; that was an order.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : You asked my honourable friend from Karachi (Mr. Haji Mir Mahomed Baloch) to withdraw certain expressions which he used. Although none of us heard him, I understand from him that he used an expression to mean "sorry."

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. I have held that as in very bad form.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE (Ahmednagar District): Mr. President, the grant we are discussing is for the maintenance of, and repairs to, the kadbi stacks in the Sholapur district. My experience of the working of kadbi stacks in the Ahmednagar district goes to show that iron sheet roofing of kadbi stacks is a failure when compared with grass thatching. Sir, the comparative merit of grass thatching and iron roofing is patent enough in Ahmednagar. Not only have these iron sheets been blown away but my experience of these sheets shows that they are not successful in the Ahmednagar district at all. I don't understand why Government wants to follow the same experiment in Sholapur district which proved a failure in Nagar. I do not think that this experiment will be a success and I therefore suggest to Government that they should rather take to grass thatching in the Sholapur district. With this suggestion I don't object to the grant being made.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: Sir, I have only a few remarks to offer with reference to the suggestion of the last speaker. The difficulty about grass thatching is that it has to be done very skilfully. It is not an easy thing to carry out. Experience shows that where grass thatching has been resorted to there has been considerable damage done to the kadbi by rain. Iron roofing with double sheeting as is proposed on the other hand provides effective protection. It is expensive, I admit, as the initial cost is high, but the sheets can be sold when the building is dismantled. After thorough experience it has been found that at any rate in the Sholapur district the best roofing possible is the double roofing with iron sheets.

Question put and carried.

Expenditure in connection with extra sanitary measures required to be undertaken in Gujarat as a result of the floods.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: I move for a demand* of Rs. 12,000 to be transferred from 47—Miscellaneous to 33—Public Health.

This demand is made on account of the extraordinary situation which has arisen owing to the recent floods in Gujarat. Special sanitary measures for relief and for the prevention of epidemics had to be undertaken and up to now in anticipation of the sanction of Government the local officers had to spend about Rs. 6,000 already and an equal amount* will be required hereafter. There is no provision in the current year's budget for unforeseen charges. These were unforeseen charges and it is proposed to meet them from the reserve with the Finance Department. I therefore submit that the House would allow this grant.

Question proposed.

Mr. NOOR MAHOMED (Hyderabad District): While supporting this demand, I would take this opportunity to bring to the notice of the Honourable Minister for Public Health the necessity of doing something for Sind also. If the situation in Gujarat is extraordinary it is no less extraordinary in Sind. Hitherto we have got in the Tando division one doctor only and as the area is very big the provision of one doctor is very inadequate. The area of the Tando division is as much as Kaira or Broach or any other district in Gujarat and one doctor to go round the whole area is too small a provision to meet the extraordinary situation that has arisen. I am grateful to the Honourable Minister for asking the Director of Public Health to do something; but nothing further has happened. I would point out that one doctor is quite insufficient; we at least require two doctors, for each taluka of Tando, that is in all 8 doctors. We do not want M.B. B.S. It will do, if students who have passed out of the Hyderabad Medical School are given to us. I request that something might be done to provide additional doctors for the affected area in Sind. If the Honourable Minister refers the matter to the Surgeon General he will surely consult the Sind authorities; and I am sure our Civil Surgeon, Major Holgate, would ask for the appointment of more doctors for the Hyderabad and Thar Parkar districts. But, I am afraid, officials in Sind would not report of their own accord until some indication of the policy of the Honourable Minister is given to them. With these words I support the demand.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: My honourable friend who spoke last sent me a letter some days ago explaining this matter which I sent on at once to the Director of Public Health. His reply was communicated to my honourable friend. I have taken notes of what he has said and I would refer the matter to the Director of Public Health as well as any other authority that may be necessary and everything needful will be done.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Mr. President.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The Honourable Minister has replied to the debate. If the honourable member wanted to say anything he should have risen in his place.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: You did not call upon the Minister to reply.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: He waited and I also waited, and there was no other speaker. I am sorry to disappoint the honourable member.

Question put and carried.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: I request, Sir, if you will permit me to move the resolution which is in the nature of a supplementary demand.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Yes.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Sir, I move the following resolution:

"This House recommends to Government to incur an expenditure up to Rs. 1,73,270 which sum includes the donation of Rs. 30,000 from the Executors of the late Bai Awabai Framji Petit for building a new Parsi Women's block at the Central Hospital for Mental Diseases, Yeravda, as detailed in the printed statement laid on the table."

In support of this resolution I beg to state that at the Yeravda Mental Hospital there is considerable over-crowding and at present there are about 100 European male patients and 70 female patients. As regards Parsis there are 55 male patients and 45 female patients and about other Indians there are 260 male patients and 90 female patients. There are altogether 620 patients.

As the House will have noticed from the statement explaining the resolution placed before the House, in 1902 there was a donation of Rs. 20,000 offered by Bai Awabai Framji for providing separate accommodation for Parsi patients to the extent of 25 males and 17 females. That donation was taken, and in 1913 in the ordinary accommodation which was provided for at the mental hospital, arrangements were rendered possible for 26 Parsi male patients and 14 Parsi female patients ; so that, practically the provision for the grant was made. There was, however, a condition accompanying the grant that a wall should be put up round the Parsi ward, and though that amount was not spent, this accommodation had been provided for. Thereafter, Government sold the Government Promissory Notes which were given and which had risen to the face value of Rs. 49,300, and over these promissory notes which were sold we got Rs. 37,752-11-10, and that amount was credited to Government. Thereafter, there has been recently another offer of Rs. 30,000 through Sir Dinshaw Petit to build an additional block for Parsi mental patients and he desired that, in view of the great want, it might be accepted along with the funds in the possession of Government. Consequently, estimates were got prepared and they have come to Rs. 1,73,270. Now, having regard to the fact that the amount of Rs. 20,000 which was specially donated was not spent for having a separate block and also in view of the fact that there is a second donation of Rs. 30,000 it is absolutely necessary to provide separate accommodation for Parsi mental patients, which would afford sufficient convenience to other Indian mental patients, as the accommodation now occupied by them will be so far released. Consequently, Sir, it is absolutely necessary that that provision has to be made, and at present Government are going to spend more than Rs. 30,000, which is the second donation, and the rest will have to be provided for in the next year's budget. Under those circumstances, I submit that the honourable House will accept the resolution.

Question proposed.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA (Bombay City, North) : Sir, I rise to support this resolution. Regarding this resolution, the note explains, Sir, how this was gone through. I had gone to this hospital and made personal enquiries in the matter and we were informed that, although the accommodation in this hospital was only for 572 patients, actually 618 patients are kept, and as a matter of fact, it is already overcrowded and many persons have to be refused admission. This is an offer which is generously made by the donor and I think it is for the interest of the whole hospital that this offer should be accepted, for the simple reason that the space at present occupied by the Parsi patients will be released and can be utilised for other patients. I understand from the Superintendent of the hospital that this block will not suffice, and he says about Rs. 5 lakhs will be wanted to make a really sufficient block. Further, it was explained to us that if this hospital is to be made to suit all requirements and if you want to put it in line with up to date hospitals elsewhere, it requires about Rs. 15 lakhs or so. But leave aside that question, and I say that even if this present proposal should be accepted, the conditions in the hospital will improve considerably.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD (Central Division) : Mr. President, this resolution introduces a matter of very great principle. We all know that European prisoners get different treatment in European jails, and we also know that Europeans require special apartments for themselves in hospitals. Well, we have hitherto not objected to this on various grounds. But I do not think, Sir, that it is wise and proper that any section of Indians should claim for themselves special accommodation and special treatment in hospitals by walls of separation. I really do not understand why Parsis, or Jews should not live side by side with other sections of the Indian population in hospitals. If any community desire special medical institutions, pecuniary aid may be given them if grants in aid are available for medical purposes, and it may like the Parsis establish General Hospitals of their own. But in Government institutions like Government hospitals that a part should be set apart for any particular community, however rich or however advanced, is I think, unreasonable and should be discouraged. Suppose, Sir, in a Government high school, Parsis demanded separate apartments for their boys, in which Government professors or Government schoolmasters were asked to teach them on payment of a pecuniary assistance. Would the Honourable Minister for Education allow such a concession? I am sure not. If Parsis like to have their own institutions, certainly there would be no objection to grant them a subsidy. But this is a special differentiation. Moreover, I do not think that there is such an excess of lunacy among the ladies of a sober community like the Parsis that special walled apartments for them have become necessary. I think mental diseases among the Parsis advance in the same proportion as they do in any other communities (laughter), and on that ground, Sir, I really do not see why special treatment is asked for.

And there is another point which I want to bring to the notice of this honourable House. A sum of Rs. 30,000 has been given as a donation. Well, another Rs. 20,000 are to follow. But an equal amount has to be spent by Government. And, then, is it right that all the urgent needs of other communities, say of primary education should be neglected and other communities should be starved, to provide a luxury for the Parsis? I do not think this is either just or economical. I hope my Parsi friends will not mind my making these remarks, because these are not personal and they do not arise from any bad motive. I say this is a bad principle. I think it should not have come from my honourable friend Mr. Ginwalla, who is always talking of democratic principles, that his community should receive differential treatment. They should be only too proud to mix with Indian patients of all kinds. And, therefore, Sir, I think some explanation is necessary in this respect and why it is necessary that this money should be set apart this year. I hope the Honourable the Minister will satisfy . The other day honourable members on this side of the House made a special objection to the grant for the university because primary education was being neglected in this Presidency. I think my honourable friends behind would bear me out when I say that I had to get up and say that that grant was a necessity, not a luxury, but in this case it looks to me to be a sort of a luxury, and I do not think that money should be provided by Government for such purposes and in such an urgent manner. I am not going to oppose the grant but I should like an explanation from the Honourable Minister.

Dr. M. D. GILDER (Bombay City, North) : Sir, the remarks made by the last speaker seem to me to have been made under a misapprehension and therefore I do not resent them, but I think the misapprehension deserves to be removed.

The accommodation for patients of the mental hospital is very limited, that is, the number of patients is far in excess of the available accommodation. A room which can comfortably have five or six beds has to crowd into it eight or nine or even ten beds. In some cases where the patients who are not actually ill but are suffering from some mental diseases, have had actually to be put into the hospital because they have no room in the ordinary wards for mental cases. Under these circumstances of overcrowding, the hospital wants some relief in its accommodation. Naturally, as this is the only institution, excepting Thana and perhaps a few small institutions in one or two places, where people suffering from mental diseases from all over the Presidency come for treatment, proper accommodation has to be provided. The accommodation has got to be expanded under any circumstances. Government, because of financial stringency, have not been able to accept in its entirety the plan which has been submitted to them and to release the congestion it is intended to have one ward for female patients because the overcrowding on the female side is extreme. For instance, they have got a hospital infirmary which is quite full. They have got about 90 Indian females as against an accommodation for only 64. As far as the Parsis themselves are concerned, they have 36 patients as against accommodation for 38, so that the Parsi side is not congested so much as the general ward for Indian patients. It is to relieve this overcrowding in the general ward for Indians that Government is building a new ward. Some years ago Government accepted a donation in order to put in a ward for Parsi female patients. The terms of that donation have not been fulfilled. There is another donation being offered of Rs. 30,000. The total will be somewhere near Rs. 70,000. At present all the female patients mix together and there is no attempt to give any differential treatment to Parsi female patients. Nobody wants absolute separation. As a matter of fact, even if you have a separate ward the patients will mix and do mix together. One more block for female patients is absolutely necessary and has got to be built. Only if Government allow that block to be used for Parsi female patients Government fulfil the conditions under which they have already accepted the donation. By building this ward, which has got to be built under any circumstances, and by giving it over for the use of Parsi female patients, the present ward used for accommodating Parsi female patients will be made available for other communities, and what is really more, Government gets a sum of Rs. 67,000.

As for the general remarks made by previous speakers, if you look into the history of hospitals in this Presidency, you will find that the first and the premier hospital in Bombay is the hospital which bears the name of Sir Jamsetjee Jejeebhoy and which was built in the forties of the last century. Then there is the Cama Hospital, the Petit Hospital, the Motlibai Obstetric Hospital and a good many dispensaries and hospitals in other parts of the Presidency to the building of which Parsis have contributed. We have contributed largely to the relief of the general taxes by providing all this medical aid which would otherwise have had to be provided by Government out of the public exchequer. Apart from that, we have got the Parsi General and other Hospitals where we are treating Parsi patients. These hospitals are maintained by the Parsi community. When the head of the Government, a former Governor, visited the hospital some years ago, he offered to give a donation and a question was raised as to its acceptance as he was not a Parsi but as His Excellency was the representative of His Majesty, the donation was accepted. In that way too we are affording relief to the general exchequer by taking care of our own people. It must not be thought that because of the relief which we have given to the public exchequer, we claim separate treatment. We, Parsis, say this, that if Government are prepared to give us the use of the ward which Government must build under any circumstances we are prepared to pay Rs. 67,000, as a contribution to the cost of the building.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City): Sir, I heard with interest the very closely reasoned speech of my honourable friend from Bombay who spoke last, but, Sir, I fully endorse the views expressed by my honourable friend from Poona so far as the differentiation in the matter of treatment given to the different communities is concerned.

When I read this memorandum, it at once occurred to my mind that a feeling was growing even within the Indian community that one community is so inferior to the other, that one probably considers the other as moral lepers who have to be separated and walled off in order that contagion may not spread. Sir, I do not mind even this one lakh of rupees which is to be contributed out of the public exchequer in order to spend Rs. 1,70,000 on the ward to be used exclusively for the Parsi community. I do not mind that expenditure because I personally believe that Government in India is spending far less than it should do in the matter of such social services. On that point there is no difference, also on the point that a separate block should be provided for the Parsis because I personally believe that their social standard is certainly somewhat higher and they want certain kinds of comforts which we should not grudge them if they are contributing to a certain extent towards providing such comforts. But when the Government itself becomes a party to creating a wall between two wards of a hospital, I must express my strong resentment, not to use a harsher expression, at the kind of treatment which the Honourable the Minister of Education is trying to give. Sir, I have heard—I am not sure if it is so,—but I think looking to the kind of treatment given to the Europeans in hospitals and also looking to the kind of treatment given to Europeans in jails and elsewhere, it is quite a commonplace that even in the mental hospital, where a human body and a human soul cannot be much different from one community or the other, you find European wards where pianos are provided along with a number of other luxuries in order to provide some kind of mental recreation making for mental improvement for those who are mentally defective.

But, Sir, I find that the kind of accommodation and treatment given to the general Indian community is far inferior to what is being given to others, and I am not sure if the kind of ward which is proposed to be built exclusively for the use of the Parsi community is in design or accommodation in any way superior to the accommodation which is proposed to be given out of the public exchequer to the other communities. If it is merely intended that the same kind of accommodation and the same kind of other arrangements are to be made exclusively for the Parsi community with the assistance of the lakh of rupees which Government will have to spend, I will not grudge it. It is one of the necessities which Government should provide for, but to create divisions where there are so many divisions already in Indian society is hardly desirable. We could make a concession in the case which has been put before the House by the honourable member Dr. Gilder, but I do take strong exception to the wall that is proposed to be built. That is the greatest harm they are doing to the Parsis themselves. Government is sanctioning a policy which I strongly resent. Therefore, I am sure that this small amount which might be required for the purpose of constructing the wall will be deleted, and the balance will be voted.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE (Ahmednagar District): Sir, the Honourable Minister of Education wants us to vote Rs. 1,73,270, out of which he says Rs. 30,000 are donated by a charitable person. I do not quarrel over the grant being made and being voted upon. My grievance in this matter is that the Honourable Minister of Education is providing a large sum of money for constructing a block at the Mental hospital, while he is sleeping over so many schemes for the expansion of primary and compulsory education which have been sent to him long ago by the district local boards and municipalities. Sir, this shows the apathy with which Government is looking at the expansion of primary and compulsory education in the various local authorities. Sir, I have no objection to the grant being made for the hospital, but when Government is budgetting actually an expenditure of lakhs for hospitals, why should not Government find necessary money for the expansion of education? We are told that there is financial stringency and that Government cannot find money for the expansion of free and compulsory primary education. But I do not see the financial difficulty at all. The Honourable Minister says that this sum of a lakh and half is to be budgetted in the next year's budget. If he can easily budget for a lakh and a half for constructing a block at the Mental Hospital, I do not see where the financial difficulty comes in for the expansion of education. He can easily budget even a sum of Rs. 20 lakhs for the expansion of compulsory primary education also. If Government promise that they would budget a fair sum, say Rs. 20 lakhs, for the expansion of primary and compulsory education, I for myself would not grudge the grant being made at this stage. But if Government are not going to do anything in the matter of expansion of compulsory primary education, then certainly I am opposed to the grant being made at this stage.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE (Bombay City, North) : Sir, I rise to support the resolution, moved by the Honourable Minister of Education for the simple reason that looking to the charitable deeds of some of the Parsis of the Bombay Presidency, it is no wonder that such a grant has been given specially for Parsi women suffering from mental diseases. I would be the last man to ask any Indian honourable member to vote against this resolution. The Parsis have given away lakhs of rupees in charity ; they have provided for the labouring classes, and the poor people in particular in the Bombay presidency, large sums in establishing Hospitals, and they have been receiving benefit out of them. Otherwise, it would have been very hard for the Government to provide such facilities as medical relief which they have provided. No doubt some differentiation is made at Yeravda Mental Hospital between Parsi women and other Indian women, but as I have heard from the honourable member Dr. Gilder that there will not be any difference in treatment, I am quite sure the Honourable Minister will also see his way not to maintain any difference of treatment among any Indian women. Every honourable member in this honourable House will, I hope, express his gratitude towards the Parsi community and vote for the resolution which is before this house to-day.

With regard to the suggestion made by the honourable member Mr. Navle, that provision should be made for the expansion of compulsory primary education that, of course the Honourable Minister will bear in mind, and I do hope he will in some way make the provision in the next budget. With these few remarks, I support the resolution.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Sir, honourable members of this House will readily admit that it is the primary duty of Government to provide for the treatment and accommodation of people who suffer from mental diseases. There is no branch of human diseases which requires such special treatment, special sympathy and special accommodation as mental diseases. Under these circumstances, when any generous people come forward to help Government in their duty by donations to provide accommodation for a certain number of patients, I submit that it is a help to Government rather than any special treatment being demanded for any community. In this case, we have had a donation of Rs. 20,000 in 1902, which rose by interest to Rs. 37,752, and another donation last year of Rs. 30,000, so that we have at present in hand Rs. 67,752 already from donations, and not a single pie of that amount is covered by any contribution from Government. Now, according to the plan, the buildings necessary to be provided are one acute block, one chronic block and one common dining block. There has already been an excess of 28 patients at Yeravda. Even at the other hospitals, there is an excess of mental patients. At Thana there is an excess of 7, at Dharwar there is an excess of 2, in Ahmedabad there is an excess of 19 patients, and in Ratnagiri there is an excess of 2 patients. So, at all the mental hospitals there is an excess of patients, and if Government were not to provide sufficient accommodation at a Central Mental Hospital like Yeravda, there will soon arise a situation which may create a public scandal. Therefore, it is absolutely necessary that this resolution should be passed by the House. What we propose to do is this : we are going to spend Rs. 30,000 this year out of the second donation, and for the additional amount, namely, Rs. 1,43,270, a demand will be made at the next budget. We thought that before we commenced the work we ought to bring this to the notice of the Council, and it is therefore that the last sentence of the statement says that this procedure has been adopted as it is necessary to bring the scheme to the notice of the Council for their approval, and the sum of Rs. 1,43,270 will be asked for in the next budget. Of course, if we start a scheme it should be carried through. Therefore we have placed the whole scheme before this honourable House. We are spending Rs. 30,000 out of the second donation during this year. We could have spent Rs. 67,000 because it is money received from donation ; but we are spending this year only Rs. 30,000 in order that this honourable House may give their general approval to the scheme. A mental disease hospital is not a luxury but it is a necessity and we have to make provision for it. One honourable member wanted to know if the Parsi community suffered to a greater extent from this disease than any other community. The fact is that the percentage is a little higher in that community than in other communities. All the same we have to make provision for treating mental diseases, without being actuated by communal spirit.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : Before you put the resolution I wish to know whether the Honourable Minister would insist upon putting a compound wall ?

Question put and carried.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind) : On behalf of the majority of the Hindu members of this Council I beg your permission, Sir, to make a statement.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : What is the subject matter ?

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : We have now received the information that judgment in the Talegaon Riot case has been delivered by the sub-divisional magistrate to-day.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I should like the honourable member to bear in mind that the decision may go up in appeal and therefore the matter would be technically sub judice. It should be a mere statement without any bearing on the merits of the case.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : I thank you, Sir, for your suggestion. On behalf of the Hindu members of this Council I am authorised to make a statement. This afternoon we have learnt of the conviction of a majority of the Hindus that were sent up for trial before the sub-divisional magistrate. It has ended in the conviction of a majority of them. In connection with this we are intending to move the adjournment of the House to-morrow. Before we move an adjournment of the House the motion for which will be placed in your hands, we want to place before this House our strong protest against the treatment that has been given to us by the Government in connection with the policy of the Government in issuing executive orders and not in connection with this judgment which may be sub judice. When these people were under trial the Hindu members of this Council assembled together and decided to approach the head of the administration, His Excellency the Governor, through the Private Secretary.

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : Is that in order, Sir ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I do not think that it is in order. I do not really understand the specific nature of the statement. I would give the honourable member an opportunity to make a statement as that is not unusual. I would however ask him to make a definite statement showing the exact nature of the grievance he wishes to make out.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : I wish to state that the Hindu members of this Council feel themselves aggrieved at not having yet been heard by His Excellency. The Hindus resent the policy underlying the executive orders of the Government as being harmful to the Hindus. By way of protest a majority of the Hindus consider it necessary in the interest of the Hindus to leave the Council for to-day. I wish to inform you that we intend to move for the adjournment of the House to-morrow. With this statement the majority of the Hindu members of this Council will leave the Council to-day.

BILL No. XXXIII OF 1927 (A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE BOMBAY DISTRICT POLICE ACT, 1890)

(Motion for first reading)

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : Sir, I introduce Bill* No. XXXIII of 1927 (A Bill further to amend the Bombay District Police Act, 1890).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The bill is introduced.

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : Sir, this is a very simple bill and I think will not require any explanation beyond

First reading. what is already given in the statement of objects and reasons. It is within the knowledge of many of the members of this House that last year a very influential society for the prevention of cruelty to animals was founded in Poona. As soon as the society began to work it found that all its activities were hampered, because its agents could not under the law as it now stands be given the powers of police officers in the same way as the agents of the Bombay society are given. We looked round for a remedy and we came to the conclusion that the simplest way to give that society the powers it required is that we should embody the clauses existing in the Bombay City Police Act into the Bombay District Police Act in place of the clause which now exists in it already. That is what clauses 2 and 3 of this bill now propose to do.

It was also discovered that under the Act for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals certain grave offences had not been made cognizable. The result was that when it was discovered that one of these offences was committed it was impossible to stop the offender on the spot. All that could be done was to take his name and allow him to go on committing the offence until a warrant from a magistrate could be obtained. So, in order to remedy that, clause 4 of this bill has been put in, which proposes to make offences under sections 3, 4, 5 and 6 of the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1890, cognizable offences. I think everybody will be agreed as to the desirability of both the parts of this bill, and I hope this House will accept it.

Question proposed.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD (Central Division): Sir, I have great pleasure in supporting the first reading of this bill.

Mr. NOOR MAHOMED: Sir, while supporting the bill I would like the Honourable Member to take note of the representation that is made by the Bombay Hack Victoria Drivers' Association. They have pointed out the great hardships that the members of their association are suffering as a result of the activities of the agents of the Association for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Khan Saheb ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN (Poona and Sholapur Cities): Sir, I support this bill.

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI: Sir, a great hardship is inflicted on the victoria drivers by the servants of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. It is unfair; these servants should not be given any powers.

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: Sir, I think that the Bombay hack victoria drivers are under some misapprehension, because clauses 2 and 3 of this bill do not affect Bombay City in any way. The law as it will be after clauses 2 and 3 are passed is already the law in Bombay City; it would not make the slightest difference to them.

Bill read a first time. Question put and carried.

Second reading.

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: Sir, I move that the bill be read a second time.

Bill read a second time.

Bill read clause by clause

Clause 2 (Amendment of section 3 of Bom. IV of 1890) ordered to stand part of the bill.

[Mr. J. E. B. Hotson]

Clause 3 (New section 22-A of Bom. IV of 1890)

After section 22 of the said Act the following section shall be inserted, namely:—
 “22-A. Power to appoint additional police officers. (1) Any District Superintendent may in his discretion appoint, for such time and on such pay, and of such rank or grade, as he shall think fit, additional police officers to keep the peace or preserve order at any place, or to enforce any of the provisions of this or any other Act in respect of any particular class or classes of offences,—

- (a) on the application of any person, at the charge of such person, or
- (b) without such application, at the charge of any person for whose profit or benefit any large work or any public amusement, likely to impede traffic or attract a large concourse of people, is being carried on.
- (2) Every additional police officer so appointed shall, on appointment,—
  - (a) receive a certificate in the form of schedule C ;
  - (b) be vested with all or such of the powers, privileges and duties of a police officer as are specially mentioned in the certificate ; and
  - (c) be subject to the orders of the District Superintendent.

Notice to be given for discontinuance. (3) In any case in which such police officers are appointed on the application of any person, such person may, by giving notice in writing, require that on the expiry of one month from the receipt by the District Superintendent of such notice or on the expiry of such shorter period as the District Superintendent may fix, the appointment of such police officers shall cease.

Payments to be accounted for—(4) All moneys received by the District Superintendent for the payment of any such additional police officers shall be accounted for by him.

Disputes as to payment of cost—(5) In the event of any dispute in any case under this section the decision of the District Magistrate shall be conclusive as to the amount to be paid, and as to the person by whom it is to be paid, and the sum so ascertained may, on the requisition of the District Superintendent, be recovered by the Collector from such person as an arrear of land revenue.”

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : Sir, I move the following amendment :

In section 22-A (1) in clause 3 of this bill the following words be omitted, namely :
 “to keep the peace or preserve order at any place, or”.

The bill will then read :

“Any District Superintendent may in his discretion appoint.....additional police officers to enforce any of the provisions of this or any other Act in respect of any particular class or classes of offences.....”

I move this amendment because it has been represented to me by several of my honourable friends that the bill as it stands goes rather further than is justified by the statement of objects and reasons, and I am willing to admit that there is some substance in that objection. The bill as amended by the omission of these few words will satisfy all requirements of the case.

Question put and carried.

Clause 3 as amended ordered to stand part of the bill.

Clause 4 (New section 51A of Bom. IV of 1890) ordered to stand part of the bill.

Clause 5 (Schedule C) ordered to stand part of the bill.

Preamble and clause 1 (Short title).

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Bombay District Police Act, 1890, in manner hereinafter appearing ; And whereas the previous sanction of the Governor General required by section 80-A (3) of the Government of India Act has been obtained for the passing of this Act ; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title—1. This Act may be called the Bombay District Police (Amendment) Act, 1927 .

Mr. BALAK RAM: Sir, I beg to move the following small amendment:

In the last line of clause 1, add the figure '7' after the figures '192'.

Preamble and clause 1 as amended ordered to stand part of the bill.

Third reading. The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: Mr. President, I move that the bill be read a third time.

Bill read a third time. Question put and carried.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Bill No. XXXIII of 1927 (A Bill further to amend the Bombay District Police Act, 1890) is now read a third time and passed into law.

BILL NO. XXXV OF 1927 (A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE BOMBAY PORT TRUST ACT, 1879)

Motion for first reading

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR: Mr. President, I beg to introduce Bill* No. XXXV of 1927 (A Bill further to amend the Bombay Port Trust Act, 1879).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Bill No. XXXV of 1927 (A Bill further to amend the Bombay Port Trust Act, 1879) is introduced.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR: Mr. President, I move the first reading of the bill. This is a bill to enable the Port Trust to establish a special fund for welfare work. At present they cannot establish special funds and have been prevented from doing most laudable work for the benefit of their employees. Clause 3 of the bill makes the necessary provisions. Then there is another provision in clause 2 which enables the Port Trust to establish other special funds with the sanction of Government. It also gives power to Government to dictate from time to time the maximum amount of such funds.

The first part of clause 2 of the bill is more or less consequential. But there is a proviso in clause 3 which enables the Port Trust to incur with the sanction of Government small expenditure which at present they are unable to incur under section 49 of the Act. Honourable members will realise that a big public body like the Port Trust has very often to incur small expenditure which cannot be provided for in the Act. Section 49 of the Act lays down how the trustees of the Port Trust can incur expenditure from the general account. Honourable members can well realise that there may be an occasion when the trustees had to incur a few hundred rupees expenditure which is not covered by section 49 and therefore this bill provides that with the sanction of Government the Port Trust be authorised to incur such expenditure. This is not a novel provision. Such provisions are to be found in the Karachi Port Trust Act. Section 61 (7) of the Karachi Port Trust Act is a similar provision. Again section 58 (g) of the Aden Port Trust Act is a similar provision.

Clause 4 of the bill again is more or less a consequential section.

[Sir Cowasji Jehangir]

To sum up, this bill enables the Port Trust to establish a special fund for welfare work. It enables the Port Trust to establish other special funds with the sanction of Government and it makes a provision similar to that found in the Karachi and Aden Port Trust Acts whereby it will enable the Port Trust to incur small expenditure not provided under section 49 with the previous sanction of Government. I therefore beg to move the first reading of this bill.

Question proposed.

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Sir, I want to know from the Honourable General Member what is meant by the word "Employees' welfare fund," how the subscriptions are to be collected, what will be the amount of subscription and who is going to make use of this fund. It is said that the fund will be established for the employees. Big officers as well as labourers come under that term. If it is going to be a fund for the welfare of labourers I have no objection. But if it is going to be a fund for the use of the big officers also, then I am afraid that the whole amount will be spent on objects such as the management of clubs, etc., where all sorts of vices such as gambling, drinking and smoking are indulged in. Such clubs therefore I submit would not be useful to the labourers. On the other hand what is wanted is some relief to the labourers during sickness and old age. So the term employed should be made clear. It should also be made clear as to what amount is going to be collected from the employees and who is to manage the affairs of the fund. If it is going to be managed by a managing committee of employees and that is labourers, I have no objection. If all these points are made clear, then I would be able to know how to vote on this bill.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City) : Mr. President, Sir, I must congratulate the Honourable General Member for showing some amount of consideration for those labourers by whose sweat of the brow the whole Port Trust machinery is moving. It is not too late in the day to have brought forward such a bill, but I understand that as the bill is framed it is a permissive measure. Sir, here it is said that the port trust is authorised to set apart certain sums for the purpose of meeting charges for some social activities which may be run for the benefit of the labourers. In this case there is another point also which has been rightly raised by my honourable friend the representative of Labour, namely that both officers and servants have been grouped together and very likely you will find that if such a fund is established much of the benefit may go to the officers of the port trust. Sir, this is an apprehension which must be fully ventilated in this House. We know that benefits usually go to the officers and under the name of the labourers they will incur expenditure for the benefit of officers. If it is intended that this bill should empower the Port Trust to incur expenditure for the purpose of providing clubs and other amenities for people who are, already drawing fatter salary than they can get anywhere in the world then we ought to protest against it. Sir, I want that this bill should be exclusively confined for the purpose and benefit of the labourers.

[Mr. N. A. Bechar]

It has also been said by the honourable member representing Labour that it is not clearly stated as to what will be the contribution which the Port Trust will make every year and as to how the funds are to be administered. Sir, I would very much wish that some kind of cess on basis of say half an anna or quarter of an anna in the rupee on the wages which are paid to the labourers should be contributed by Port Trust and a fund created in order that certain facilities may be provided to the labourers. That would be a statutory obligation on the part of the Port Trust. But, Sir, this is merely a permissive measure and I do not know how far it will serve the purpose which my honourable friend the General Member has in view. That is one point, and the second point is, Sir, that since this has been brought forward for the Bombay Port Trust, as I understood from his speech that he just now delivered that there is some kind of provision in the law for the Karachi Port Trust. .

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : That is another clause of the bill altogether.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : I see. If it is not so, I want to impress upon the Honourable the General Member the necessity of amending the Karachi Port Trust Act also in accordance with the provision which is now sought to be made for the benefit of labourers employed in the Bombay Port Trust. Sir, the Karachi labourers are under very many disadvantages and are certainly feeling the trouble to a larger extent than those employed in Bombay, because I understand that the Bombay labourers are far more and better organized than the Karachi labourers, and since that is the condition, I should have thought that the Honourable the General Member, who has brought this bill, would have brought simultaneously a kind of amendment which would permit or authorise the Karachi Port Trust to make similar contributions.

Sir, these are all the observations which I wanted to make, and I trust the Honourable the General Member will kindly see his way to make this bill so thorough and elastic that the Port Trust might be compelled to make certain contribution and that it should be earmarked for the labourers, who are 99 per cent. of their employees. Sir, if they allot say Rs. 10,000 and then give Rs. 5,000 to the few officers and the other Rs. 5,000 for the labourers it would clearly be an eye-wash in order to give some benefit to the officers, who are already enjoying so many facilities. With these observations I resume my seat.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA (Bombay City, North) : Sir, I rise to support this bill, and in giving my support, I want to make one thing clear. I should very much like that the welfare fund should come out of the general revenues of the Port Trust rather than by taxing the workers. . . .

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : I can't hear anything.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Will the honourable member come nearer here to this bench ?

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA : Very well, Sir. My point was this, that ordinarily these welfare schemes are generally undertaken by millowners and other capitalists, and not by going in for a special tax in the shape that is now proposed to be levied under this bill, but generally they are started and supported out of the industrial revenues derived by the millowners or other capitalists, as the case may be. And that is done by the millowners of Bombay. Anyhow, since Government has undertaken this welfare scheme, I give my support because I find that the fund will be utilised for the welfare of the workers, and I am told by my honourable friend Mr. Winterbotham, who was here in this Council yesterday, that the Port Trust have two or three schemes for them, and one of them is that they are going to provide maternity Home for the workers of the Port Trust and they are also going to provide for education for the workers. That was a thing for which I was agitating for a long time. But I hope the labourers' interests will be consulted, because in ordinary experience we find this that, even in the case of fines of the workers generally, they are appropriated not for the benefit of the workers but for the purpose of starting institutions and clubs for the higher salaried classes, namely, the officers. And in this connection, even there is a complaint raised by the Port Trust workers that fines and lapsed wages are utilised not for the benefit of the workers but for that of the higher staff. I trust Government will see that they are utilised for the benefit of the workers.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : Mr. President, I rise to support this welcome measure. I associate myself in the observations made by my honourable friends Messrs. Bechar, Bole and Ginwalla, and I heartily congratulate the Honourable the General Member for the initiative he has taken in bringing forward this measure.

Sir, it is not clear from the statement of objects and reasons as to whether the employees include even the Chairman of the Port Trust, the Deputies, and other high placed officers. If the employees' welfare fund is intended to benefit only petty officials and all labourers in general, that will be to the credit of this bill. I hope the Honourable the General Member will make the position clear with regard to this. Further, I should like to know from the Honourable the General Member, what will be the Government contribution in regard to this fund and how much amount will be apportioned out of the earnings of the Port Trust towards this fund ? Further, it is not clear from the statement of objects and reasons whether any committee will be constituted for the administration of this fund and whether the employees will be adequately represented thereon. If all these necessary particulars are provided for in this Bill. I think this measure will serve the purpose for which it is intended. With these few words, Sir, I support the first reading of this bill.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD (Central Division) : Mr. President. In rising to support the first reading of this bill, I would like to ask the honourable mover of the bill why legislation was absolutely necessary for this purpose, whether welfare societies could not be established by the Port Trust. And I would also like to know whether, when this bill passes into an Act, rules would be framed and whether those rules would be placed before us for our approval, or whether Government will see that the interests of the labourers and other classes are properly safeguarded by those rules. I would also like to know whether it is the intention of the Government to go through all the stages of the bill to-day. I personally would think that the third reading might be postponed. But, if there is any urgency about it, I should like to know why the question is so urgent that all the three stages of the bill should be gone through to-day.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Mr. President, I am not accustomed to accept congratulations which I do not deserve, and on this occasion I must inform the honourable House that the proposals have come from the Chairman and Trustees of the Port of Bombay, and that the Chairman and Trustees are most anxious to do some welfare work for their employees, and if any credit is deserved, it should go to the Chairman and Trustees of the Port of Bombay.

I will take the final point first. My honourable friend Moulvi Rafiuddin wanted to know, what was the urgency for this bill? The urgency is that the Port Trust have got several works of welfare work which they cannot put into operation unless this legislation is passed by the honourable House. They have got the money and they are prepared to go ahead with their good work, provided this honourable House will pass this bill.

The next question put by my honourable friend Moulvi Rafiuddin Ahmad is, why legislation is necessary. I can assure him that Government does not bring legislation into this House unless it is necessary. It is no pleasure to bring in legislation. Because the Port Trust cannot go in for any welfare work as there is no section in the existing Act which enables the Port Trustees to incur expenditure from their general accounts for such welfare work, a provision has to be made to enable them to do so....

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Was there not a single work of this kind carried on before ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : I was asked by several honourable members who represent labour as to where the money is coming from and how it is going to be spent. The fund will be created with all monies accruing from the following sources :—

1. Fines levied from the Trustees' employees.
2. Unclaimed wages which are now credited to revenue under "Interest and Miscellaneous."
3. Forfeitures under rules 11 and 12 of the Provident Fund for permanent employees and rules 3 and 6 of the Provident fund for temporary employees.

Up to now these monies were credited to the General Account. Now, they want to utilise the monies for the benefit of those who pay. Any balance at the credit of the fund may be utilised for the following purposes :—

1. Payment of demands for unclaimed wages transferred to the fund.

[Sir Cowasji Jehangir]

2. Subscriptions or donations to institutes, clubs or other similar objects connected with the welfare of the trustees' employees and their families.

3. Payment of any special rewards to employees for life-saving or other meritorious acts.

The disbursement of the fund will require the sanction of the Board except for payments for unclaimed wages.

There is a special provision which I find from the minutes of the Port Trustees forwarded to Government. Sir Purshottamdas Thakurdas suggested that it should be made sufficiently clear that the benefits of the fund would be restricted to those classes of employees from whom the revenues of the fund will be mainly drawn. Therefore all classes of employees will benefit according to the amounts they forfeit in wages or in other ways I have just now mentioned.

I believe I have answered all the points that were raised by my honourable friends. There is nothing, as far as I can see, in the bill which would prevent the trustees from making a donation. Government generally does not interfere with the internal management of the Port Trust, and at one time this honourable House, I remember, was very strongly in favour of non-intervention on the part of Government, in the work of a semi-public body which has, on its board, representatives of all classes and sections of the public and which body requires no dictation either from Government or from anybody else. Clause 2 enables the board to frame regulations for the purpose of this fund and therefore the fund will be administered by the board....

MOULVI RA'IUDDIN AHMAD : Will the regulations be placed on the table of this House ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : I do not think it will be a wise step for honourable members to insist that the Port Trustees, who are empowered under the Act to make regulations, should be forced to place them on the table of this House. To do that we shall have to have an amendment of the Act. Under the Act this House has, at one time or another, given the trustees power to make rules. They have delegated that power. They have given this power under an enactment, and we cannot deprive the trustees of this power unless and until we amend the Act. Therefore, no rules made by the trustees can be placed on the table of this honourable House unless you change the Port Trust Act....

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Who will manage the affairs of the fund ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : The Chairman and the Trustees will manage the fund and they will make the regulations.

These are the provisions of the bill. I see no reason to make any change in them. I now move for the first reading of the bill.

Bill read a first time. Question put and carried.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : Sir, I move that the Second reading. bill be read a second time.

Question proposed.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City) : Sir, I am opposed to the second reading going through at this session. From the explanation given by the Honourable the General Member in reply to the criticism which we offered on this bill, it is very clear that only the amounts forfeited in the shape of salaries or fines paid by the port trust employees will be credited to this fund. That is the specific object for the purposes of which this bill is brought. Since I know that the port trustees dare not levy any fines on their officers nor are the officers generous enough to forgo their salaries, on the contrary they would rather find out some way of increasing their salaries—it is my opinion that this provision about officers and servants of the port trust is very misleading and is likely to lead to the use of the fund for purposes for which it is not intended.

Then again, the labour members in this House are very anxious and are very insistent that since this fund is contributed solely by the labourers themselves, they should have a voice in the administration of this fund. It is natural and it is right that there should be their voice and that principle has been recognised all over in the labour legislation. Therefore, when he is omitting this provision, he is making the bill seriously defective, and since these are the defects which occur to us on the spur of the moment and it may not be possible for these defects to be removed, I trust that the Honourable the General Member will not rush through the second reading or the third reading at this stage but will allow this bill to go to a select committee. I am not very anxious to have a select committee but I am merely saying that there is no other alternative to this and as the bill is a small one, it can be taken up at the February session without much difficulty. This thing has gone on for years and it is not proper for the Honourable the General Member in his reply to get up and say that this is a very urgent measure and must be rushed through like this. Since such a bill has been put forward, let us make it at least fairly satisfactory to the labourers. We are after all very few that can approach Government in a matter of this kind, and I therefore trust that this still small voice which we are able to raise in this House will not go in vain and that the Honourable the General Member will see the reasonableness of making a small provision about the representation of representatives of labour on the administration of this fund and also of removing these “officers” which expression may include the Chairman drawing Rs. 6,000 a month. Therefore, I move that this bill be referred to a small select committee which the Honourable the General Member himself may select.

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Sir, I fully associate myself with what has been stated by my honourable friend Mr. Bechar. Sir, I am against the imposition of any fines on the poor labourers and that power should not be given to the officers. If that power is already there, then a bill should be brought to withhold this power which is in the existing Act. Sir, if these fines are allowed to be used for financing the affairs of this fund, then the officers will be inclined to fine the labourers heavily, in order to finance the welfare fund.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : It will all go to the labourers,

Mr. S. K. BOLE : That is all right. You are taking it from their pockets, and giving it to them as a matter of charity. That would not be fair and just. Besides, the officers are also included in the clubs. What these clubs are I need not say. So, I am against rushing this bill through, and I hope the Honourable the General Member will be generous and fair enough to appoint a select committee for the further consideration of this bill.

Mr. R. D. BELL : Sir, I only wish to explain the urgency of this measure. I happen to be the only trustee of the port of Bombay in the House to-day, and I wish honourable members to understand that the Port Trust already have one or two welfare schemes ready, and the money has been provided in their budget. One of them is the maternity home, of which the honourable member opposite (Mr. Ginwalla) has made mention. The Honourable the General Member pointed out that there is nothing in the Bill to prevent the Port Trust making contributions from the general funds to the welfare of its employees. The welfare schemes which are ready will actually be carried out at the cost of the general funds and it is the intention of the trustees, if I may presume to speak in their name, to make provision, as their funds permit, specially for the poorer classes of employees. I have never heard a suggestion made that any funds should be supplied from the general revenues of the Trust for the benefit of the highly paid employees. Several members of the Trust have been insistent, however, that welfare work should be carried on for the benefit of the poorer employees. In connection with the maternity scheme, the Infant Welfare League have agreed to give their assistance and guidance. If this bill is referred to a select committee and its further consideration is postponed till the February session, it will not be possible, because it is not legal, for the Port Trust to start these welfare schemes during the current year as they desire to do.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : On a point of information, it has been stated in the speech of the honourable member who happens to be a trustee of the Port Trust that there is nothing in the Act of the Port Trust to militate against their contributing anything to these welfare schemes. If that is so, where is the hurry for this bill ? They can go on with the present Act.

Mr. R. D. BELL : They cannot do it under the present Act, but they can do it if the Act is amended.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA (Bombay City, North) : Sir, I rise to support the second reading of this bill, for the simple reason that it is a bill in the right direction. We are asking for welfare schemes for Labour time and again, and when Government, at the instance of the Port Trust, are bringing forward such a measure, I think it is the duty of honourable members to welcome such a bill. I understand that the schemes have been started specially at the instance of Sir Purshotamdas, who takes an active interest in such matters. I am sure whatever sums they have will be used for the benefit of the labourers. I do not think there is any necessity for any apprehension on the part of honourable members, and therefore I give my support to the bill.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD (Central Division): Sir, I really do not know whether I should oppose this bill, although there is strong opposition from some of the honourable members. We do not like that everything should be unchallenged, and so we do exercise our right and we say that we are not satisfied that there is very great urgency about it. Why did not the Honourable the General Member bring forward this measure six or eight months ago? Supposing they ask him to carry through this bill in one day, why should he listen to them? There is public opinion also to be considered, and although the representatives of Labour are divided . . . . .

An Honourable MEMBER : It is a solitary voice.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : That solitary voice is a very strong voice.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : He is not a representative of Labour.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : We should not be divided, but should give a strong opposition to Government. I should say it would be quite constitutional to allow the bill to go to a select committee, which might be proposed by the Honourable the General Member himself. We do not like that matters should be carried on in this highhanded manner by Government. The smaller the number, the stronger the opposition. It is not right on the part of Government to rush this bill through all its stages now. These powers are reserved for really very urgent bills. No such urgency has been made out in this case, and I would appeal to you, Sir, that you should not give permission, as guardian of the interests of this House, to Government to allow this measure to be passed through all its stages at once.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Mr. President, it is with considerable hesitation that I oppose the proposal to send this bill to a select committee. I hesitate to do so simply for the reason that some of my honourable friends have deserted us this afternoon. If they had all been here, I should have felt much stronger in my opposition to this amendment to commit the bill to a select committee. But simply because we happen to be deserted this afternoon, I cannot desert the trustees of the Port Trust of Bombay. I have been informed by the Chairman of the Port Trust that the trustees are anxious that the bill should become law as soon as possible.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : They are your favourites

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : He has requested Government to do their best to get through this legislation during this session, to enable the Trust to carry on the beneficial work which they propose to do.

In answer to the apprehensions expressed by some of my honourable friends here that this money may be used for the benefit of the officers of the Trust instead of the poorer employees, I would again point out that, at the instance of Sir Purshotamdas Thakurdas, a provision has been inserted that it should be made sufficiently clear that the benefits of the fund should be restricted to those classes of employees from whom the revenues of the fund will be mainly drawn. Therefore, any money contributed by the poorest classes cannot be used for the benefit of the officers of the Trust.

Mr. S. K. BOLE : It should be in the body of the Act.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : It cannot be in the body of the Act ; it will be done by rules.

Now, Sir, I may assure the honourable member Moulvi Rafiuddin Ahmad that I am proposing to carry this bill through all the three readings to-day, not because I see he is deserted, but because I had made up my mind on the request of the Port Trust that we should make an attempt to pass this bill in all its stages to-day.

I move the second reading.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : There is official bloc....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. I understand that the honourable member Mr. Bechar has moved an amendment that this bill be referred to the select committee. I put it first.

Question put and lost.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I will now put the original motion that the bill be read a second time.

Bill read a second time Question put and carried.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Question is that Clause 2 do stand part of the bill.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : If this bill is proposed to be rushed through all the three readings in this session is it not proper, Sir, that we should be allowed to move amendments ? The amendment should be moved either in the select committee or at this stage here.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I think I have given my ruling. I understand the difficulty of the honourable member. The bill was before the honourable members and they must always be prepared, as they have been in other cases, in submitting their amendments so that in case the bill is to be carried through all its stages those amendments may be useful.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : You will permit me, Sir, to make one observation. The Honourable the General Member never informed the members that this bill would be carried through all its three stages in this session. If he had so informed us we would have had an opportunity of giving notice of amendments.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I learn from the Secretary that that was not known even to the office. I would therefore allow the honourable member to move his amendment.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : I thank you, Sir, for the mercy. May I request you, Sir, to exercise your power of postponing the consideration of the bill ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : If the honourable member is ready he may place his amendment in my hands.

After sub-section (6) of section 22 of the Bombay Port Trust Act, 1879, hereinafter called the said Act, the following shall be inserted, namely :—

“ Contributions to welfare fund.—(6-A) for authorizing the payment of contributions to any welfare fund which may be established by the Board for the benefit of the officers and servants appointed under this Act and the Chairman ;

“ Contributions or appropriations to special funds.—(6-B) for authorizing the payment of contributions or appropriations to any special fund or funds which may be established by the Board for any of the purposes of this Act :

Provided that no such special fund shall be established without the previous sanction of Government ; and the maximum amount to which any such special fund may be allowed to accumulate shall be fixed from time to time by Government.”

Mr. S. K. BOLE : I move, Sir,

“ That in clause 2 (6-A) the words ‘ officers and ’ be deleted.”

Question proposed.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City) : Sir, I rise to support this amendment for the deletion of the words moved by my honourable friend Mr. Bole. It is very clear from the provisions of the bill as well as from the speech of the Honourable the General Member that this bill merely intends to authorise the Port Trust to create a fund and spend it for the benefit of the labourers exclusively. This fund is to be created out of the money recovered in the shape of fines and forfeiture of wages from labourers. If this money is going to be taken from the labouring class—and the Honourable the General Member has also agreed -this money has to be applied for the benefit of the people from whom this money is going to be derived. If that is so I fail to see what objection the Honourable the General Member can have to agree to this amendment. At the instance of Sir Purshotamdas Thakurdas the Port Trust have agreed that this money should be used exclusively for the benefit of the people from whom this amount is going to be derived. Let us make the thing clear. The speeches of the Minister and honourable members in the Council are not valid and only the law will be valid in courts. They may have made certain statements on the floor of the Council but the courts will hold valid only the provisions of the Act. Therefore we ought not to leave any ambiguity in this matter and delete these words. I am sure the Honourable the General Member will accept it.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : Sir, I rise to move the following amendment.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : There is already an amendment before the House.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : Sir. I support the amendment moved by my honourable friend Mr. Bole to delete the words ‘ officers and ’ in clause 2 (6-A). This fund should be applied only to the employees who are low paid officials and labourers of the Port Trust. It is an admitted fact that officers do not contribute to this fund as they are neither fined nor do they ever forfeit their salaries. As it is only labourers and servants that contribute to this fund, they alone must derive the whole benefit out of it. With these words, I support the amendment.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City). (Addressed the House in Urdu): Sir, I support the amendment moved. As the fund is made up of amounts of fines, unclaimed wages and provident funds forfeited by labourers, clear provision should be made that it should not be devoted to the welfare of the officers, but for the welfare of labourers and servants. It is a well known fact that officers are seldom fined or that their pay remains unclaimed, and a large portion of this fund will be fines, forfeiture and unclaimed pay; therefore in all fairness those who subscribe must get the benefit. Then, Sir, having regard to the fact that the object of the act is also to give benefit to those who subscribe, I trust this House will support this amendment.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR: Sir, I rise to oppose the amendment. If the amendment of my honourable friend is passed the bill will interfere with the internal management of the Port Trust. The word "officer" has not been properly defined by the honourable mover of the amendment. May I know what will happen to the provident fund forfeited by a gazetted officer drawing Rs. 500? There are many instances where gazetted officers drawing Rs. 500 have had their provident funds forfeited. As urged by Sir Purushotamdas Thakurdas, those who contribute to a fund should get the benefit of the fund. I do not say that the benefit should go to the Chief Engineer of the Port Trust or the Chairman of the Port Trust. The funds forfeited by officers should go to other officers. The fines of the labourers may come to a few annas or rupees, but the forfeited provident funds of officers will come to thousands. It is, however, not a question of giving it to officers. We should give the power to the Port Trust. Why should this honourable House or the mover of the amendment presume that the trustees of the Port Trust will not do justice to their employees. The Honourable the General Member has stated that the major part of the fund will go to the Children's Welfare Fund or to maternity homes. If that is to be the case, my honourable friend the mover of the amendment will agree that the fund will not go to the officers but to the other employees. Unless the word "officers" is defined by the mover of the amendment, the amendment should not be accepted.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE (Bombay City): Sir, I support the amendment. I do not think we will be interfering with the internal management of the Port Trust if we pass this amendment. Sir Vasantrao Dabholkar has referred to interference and to what Sir Purushotamdas Thakurdas has said in regard to this fund. But nothing is binding on anyone once the Act is passed about what is stated in the statement of objects and reasons. We know as a matter of fact that as a rule when fines are taken from a certain class of people it is returned to them in other ways; therefore I do not see any objection to the omission of the word "officers" from the clause. The word "servant" includes officers. The Honourable the General Member has himself stated that the funds will be used for the benefit of those who contribute, and not for the benefit of those who do not contribute and therefore I believe the word servant is sufficient. I think when the word "officer" is omitted the bill will carry out the spirit of the statement of objects and reasons, that is, it will be used for the benefit of those who subscribe. I therefore hope that the Honourable the General Member will agree to the deletion of the words "officers and," and assure the Port Trustees that in reality he and the honourable House have done their level best to carry out their wishes, that is those servants who subscribe will be getting the benefit. This honourable House is also anxious to pass this bill provided it is satisfied that the interest of the parties who subscribe will be taken care of. I do not say that this House should interfere with the internal management of the Port Trust. But the fact is that there are no labour representatives on the Port Trust; therefore, the rules made for the regulation of the fund should according to the desire of labour representative here be subject to the approval of the House.....

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : The rules made for the regulation of the fund ?

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJÉE : Yes. There are no labour representatives on the Port Trust while there are labour representatives in this House. I think the word "officers and" may be safely deleted. I hope this honourable House will support this amendment. I know the General Member has got an official majority, but I appeal to him not to take serious objection to this amendment.

(Dr. P. G. Solanki rose in his place).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Does the honourable member wish to make a speech ?

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : Yes, Sir.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The House is adjourned, till 2-30 p.m. to-morrow, Thursday, the 13th October 1927.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : May I know whether Government are thinking of closing the school ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : No decision has yet been taken.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : Before such a decision is taken will the Government consult public opinion ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : No such decision has been taken.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : Will Government at least let the Councillors know of the decision ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I have no objection.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : How many classes are there for the first year and for the second year ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I can't answer that question off-hand.

REPRESENTATIONS FROM TALATIS OF NORTHERN DIVISION

Mr. H. J. AMIN (Broach District) : Will Government be pleased to state whether they have received representations from Talatis of Northern Division about the increase in their pay and pension and what action has been taken upon them.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes.

(b) The Talatis have been informed that their petition for a revision of the scale of their pay cannot be granted and that their request for enhanced pensions will be noted when the new pension rules come under the consideration of Government.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : Will Government be pleased to state when they think of revising the pay ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I can't say.

COUNTRY LIQUOR SHOPS : AUCTION SALE PROCEEDS

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE (Bombay City, North) : Will Government be pleased to state the amount of money realised at the auction sales of the country liquor shops in the City of Bombay in the years 1925, 1926 and 1927 with the figures of rationed and actual sale quantities for 1924-25, 1925-26 and 1926-27 in London proof gallons ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : The amount realised at the auction sales in each of the years 1925, 1926 and 1927 was as shown below :—

				Rs.
1925	.	.	..	..
1926	..	..	.	..
1927	..	..	..	..
				19,08,700

The figures of ration and consumption in each of the years 1924-25, 1925-26 and 1926-27 in London Proof gallons are as follows :—

			Ration Rs.	Consumption Rs.
1924-25	..	..	5,77,407	5,04,967
1925-26	..	..	4,71,501	4,36,628
1926-27	..	..	4,45,464	4,23,612

Mr. B. V. JADHAV : The figures of ration are given under the heading Rs.

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : That is a mistake.

USE OF GUJARAT VIDYAPITH TEXT BOOKS BY KARACHI SCHOOL BOARD

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have received any representation from the Karachi School Board requesting permission for the use of Gujarat Vidyapith Text Books ;

(b) if so, when and what has been done with regard to the same ;

(c) whether there is anything objectionable in these books ;

(d) if not, whether they intend to accord their general sanction to the use of these books in municipal and other aided schools ;

(e) if the reply to (d) be in the negative, the reasons for withholding sanction to books written by well-known educationists of Gujarat ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) An application from the Karachi Municipality for the use of Books I and II of the Gujarat Vidyapith Readers was received by the Educational Inspector in Sind.

(b) The Karachi Municipality has been allowed to use these books.

(c) and (d) The books are not considered to be entirely suitable. Nevertheless Government have accorded their approval to their use in all primary schools whose managers, whether they be local authorities or private persons or bodies, desire to use them. This approval is subject to the distinct understanding that Government reserve the right to withdraw it at any time if they consider it desirable to do so.

(e) Does not arise.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : I want to know whether permission has been granted to the Karachi Municipality for the use of all these books or only Books I and II.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Books I and II have been allowed.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : I want to know what action the Honourable Minister has taken with regard to the application of the municipality for the use of all the books published.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Answer to (c) and (d) contains the reply. It says :

"The books are not considered to be entirely suitable. Nevertheless Government have accorded their approval to their use in primary schools whose managers, whether they be local authorities or private persons or bodies, desire to use them. This approval is subject to the distinct understanding that Government reserve the right to withdraw it at any time if they consider it desirable to do so."

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : That does not answer my specific question. The question is whether permission has been granted for the use of the books of the same series excluding I and II.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I would require notice.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : May I know whether Government are thinking of allowing the other Gujarat Vidyapith text books in schools where the managers are willing to use them ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Government will have to examine the other books of the series

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : May I know whether they are not examining it for the present ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : They are thinking of examining when proposals come up.

SLAUGHTER OF BOVINE CATTLE

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City) : Will Government be pleased to furnish a statement showing the number and age of each different kind of bovine cattle slaughtered during each of the years 1925-26 in the jurisdiction of each of the Municipalities, Cantonments and, if possible, in rural areas of each district for local consumption ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Government regret that it will be impossible to obtain any accurate figures regarding the age of the different kinds of cattle slaughtered even in the Municipal and Cantonment areas, and that in the rural areas accurate figures of the numbers slaughtered also cannot be obtained. Under these circumstances they do not think that any useful purpose will be served by attempting to collect the figures asked for.

Mr. N. A BECHAR : Is it or is it not a fact that the number of cattle in the presidency is getting reduced every day and that action has to be taken ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : That does not arise.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM : With regard to the first part of the question in which enquiry is made as to the number of different kinds of bovine cattle slaughtered in the jurisdiction of municipalities and cantonments, in the reply it is said that accurate information regarding the age of cattle cannot be obtained. Can the number be determined ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Yes ; I think I have already supplied the information.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM : May I know when ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : I do not remember when ; but it has been given to the Council some time ago.

STATISTICS BILL

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Will Government be pleased to state whether they propose to introduce a bill on the lines of the Statistics Bill which they wanted to introduce a few years ago ? If so, when ? If not, why not ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the answer given to Mr. Syed Munawar's question regarding Statistics Bill earlier in the session.

WATER WORKS ENGINE, KARAD

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE (Satara District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the cost of the engines and pumps used for the Karad (district Satara) water works ;

(b) whether it is a fact that the crankshaft of one of the engines was broken and that the engine was out of use for the last six months ;

(c) whether it is a fact that only one engine was working all the while and that too failed before the first engine was repaired ;

(d) whether the person in charge of these machines is a qualified man ; and if so, the examination he has passed ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (a) The cost was as follows :—

	Rs.
Engine .. ..	19,869
Pumps .. ..	44,197
Meter .. ..	3,995

(b) Yes.

(c) Yes.

(d) The Engineer in charge of the Water Works, whose appointment was approved by the Mechanical Engineer to Government, is not a man with academical qualifications but is a practical man with experience. In the case of an oil engine plant, such a man is found to be more suitable than a theoretically qualified man with little or no experience. The cracking of the crankshaft was not due to any neglect or fault of the Engineer, but was due to unequal settlement of the foundations.

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE : I have asked the cost of the engines, while the cost of "engine" only is given. Is it the cost of two engines or one engine ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : I think the cost is of two engines ; I think the word "engine" is a misprint and that it should be "engines."

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE : It is stated in answer to question (b) that the engine was not repaired for six months. May I know who was responsible for delaying the repairs for the last six months ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Fittings could not be had.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : Why ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Because they could not be had.

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE : But when the other engine also failed, it was repaired immediately.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Yes ; the fittings could be had then.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : May I know whether it is not possible to get a crankshaft, etc., newly manufactured in Bombay works within fifteen days if they are broken ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : That is not my experience. That may be the honourable member's experience.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : Yes, that is my experience. Why was it not done in this case ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : I have already answered that.

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE : It is stated in the answer that the engineer in charge of the water works is not a man with academical qualifications but is a practical man with experience. May I know where he had experience ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Will the honourable member kindly give me notice ?

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE : It is stated here that he had experience. But where did he have that experience ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : I ask for notice.

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE : I have already given it.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : The honourable member did not ask me (in his printed question) where the engineer had got his experience ? So, I require notice.

FISHERIES DEVELOPMENT

Mr. B. V. JADHAV (Satara District) : Will the Honourable the Minister for Excise be pleased to state—

(a) the amount spent on the Fisheries Department during the last three years and the work of development carried on ;

(b) whether he is thinking of doing something for the development of the fisheries ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) None, as the Department of Fisheries has not been functioning for the last three years.

b) Not till the financial situation improves.

LIQUOR LICENSE, AHMEDABAD

Mr. B. V. JADHAV (Satara District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of foreign liquor licenses and country liquor licenses in the City of Ahmedabad ;

(b) whether they are prepared to assure the House that they will not grant any more licenses for the sale of foreign liquor and that they will try to reduce the number of existing licenses on the earliest opportunity ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) There are twenty licenses for the sale of foreign liquor in the City of Ahmedabad consisting of seven " off ", four refreshment room, two hotel, four club, one railway refreshment room and two canteen licenses. The number of country liquor licenses is eight.

(b) The policy of Government is well known, and they see no reason to give any further assurances as desired by the Honourable Member.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV : Is it the experience of the Honourable Minister that the country liquor is less liked by the people of Ahmedabad than foreign liquor ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : I do not know.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : When liquor shops are closed and refreshment rooms are kept open, do not the Ahmedabad mill labourers go to get costly foreign liquor from refreshment rooms ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : I suppose the Ahmedabad people will be the best judges of that. (Laughter.)

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Is the Honourable Minister aware that both in the year 1924 and in the year 1927, during the last three years, although one Parsi, three Brahmins and one Indian Christian are employed, there has not been a single Mahomedan? Could not that be remedied?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Appointments are made according to merits and not according to communities.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : The Honourable Minister said last time whether I could give him any instances. I simply want to ask : Is there any reason to find out whether there was any Mahomedan who could be looked for for one of these posts? If the Minister wants the names, I will give the names.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I have not been able to follow the question.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : What is the question?

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : My question is whether the Honourable Minister would see that the rights of the Mahomedans are properly protected.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I am certainly, as a Minister, expected to look to the rights of everybody, and if any instance is brought to my notice, I will certainly look into it further.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : The Honourable Minister last time asked me whether there was any candidate overlooked. I give him the name of the Inspector in Bombay Mr. Kadri, who is far senior.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : He may be senior; but, however,.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I would disallow any question or answer on that, because it is going into the merits of an individual Government Officer.

MOLVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Last time I was asked by the Honourable Minister to give him an instance, and, therefore, I brought that instance to his notice.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE : Will the Honourable Minister say whether the Government Resolution of 17th September 1925 has been carried out to the satisfaction of the backward classes—I mean the 50 per cent. resolution giving posts to backward classes properly—when these appointments appearing on page 10 have been made by Government?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : That resolution refers to subordinate posts, and I think the Director of Public Instruction always gives consideration while making appointments to the orders of Government?

Mr. N. E. NAVLE : Am I to understand that there was no suitable or qualified candidate for appointment from the backward classes?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Suitable candidates perhaps may not be forthcoming.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV : May I bring to the notice of the Honourable Minister that the number of 33 Brahmins has been increased to 37 ? I refer to page 9.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Yes, it is.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV : Is that satisfactory ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I think appointments made on the question of merits are always satisfactory.

† The question of erecting a new school building for the Mirpurkhas Madressah and High School is under consideration, but no decision has yet been arrived at.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM : Is Government aware that a private high school in Hyderabad has built up a large endowment fund for a new building but the question of actual construction of a building is still under consideration, and yet in the case of this school the minimum requirement of 12 feet is insisted on, though in the case of Government high school in Hyderabad it is not insisted on ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Which is the number of the school the honourable member is referring to ?

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM : I am referring to schools Nos. 24 and 28 which are not private schools, and in which cases the minimum requirement of 12 feet is not insisted on.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : The general orders are with regard to these schools that there should be a space of 12 feet for every pupil.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM : But in this case the question of a new building is under consideration.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM : I do not know. No. 28 is a Government school.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : If the limit of 12 sq. feet is not insisted upon in the case of schools Nos. 28 and 24, why do Government impose such a limit in the case of private schools ?

(b) Yes ; please vide Press Note No. 605, Educational Department, dated 1st September 1923, a copy of which will be found in the Reading Room of the Legislative Council.

(c) Yes.

(d) and (e) People who were interested in having such a class were only advised to collect a sum the interest on which would suffice to meet the expenses of the class.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : As regards the reply to (c), have Government issued orders not to open such classes unless people pay Rs. 5,000 cash in advance ? If so, what is the nature of the order ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : The orders are that in cases where English classes are opened such classes are entitled to a grant of one-third just as in the case of grants given to secondary schools. Consequently two-thirds of the expenditure may have to be found as long as those classes continue. The Government orders are that those who want to start such classes should put some fund aside in order to meet the expenditure.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : Am I to take it that the offer of Rs. 5,000 is from Government ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : It is not from Government.

(Rao Bahadur B. R. Naik asked a supplementary question which was inaudible. Dewan Bahadur Harilal D. Desai's reply was also inaudible).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. I cannot follow the honourable member asking the supplementary question nor the answer.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : The question was whether an offer was made for two years' expenses, and I answered that there ought to be some provision for the future years and consequently there should be some provision made.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : Under what orders of Government is this future provision to be made ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Unless there is a separate provision, Government refuse to recognise these classes for grants.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Have these classes not been opened as an experimental measure ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Yes, they are only as an experimental measure.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Then, how can Government demand a permanent provision if they are only an experimental measure ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (Inaudible).

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Have Government decided to make these classes permanent ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : No.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : In that case how can Government ask that a permanent provision should be made ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : The local authorities can make permanent provision if they like.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Will Government give two-thirds if the experiment is not successful ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : If the experiment fails, it would not be recognised for grants.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Then, how can Government insist on permanent provision being made for an experimental measure ?

(No reply).

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : Is it a fact that the district local board was asked to take in advance from the people the sum of Rs. 5,000 by the Educational Inspector for this class ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Not that I know of. I require notice of that question.

HOUSE RENT ALLOWANCE

Mr. N. E. NAVLE (Ahmednagar District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether Police Inspectors and Sub-Inspectors are given house-rent in the presidency ;

(b) if so, why similar allowance is not given to Mamlatdars ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes.

(b) House-rent allowance is paid to Inspectors and Sub-Inspectors of Police in lieu of free quarters, to which they are entitled by the conditions of their service. Mamlatdars are not so entitled.

MAMLATDARS : CONVEYANCE ALLOWANCE

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR (East Khandesh District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the amount of monthly allowance paid to Mamlatdars as conveyance allowance ;

(b) whether any representations have been received by Government in this matter for effecting an increase in this allowance ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Rs. 45 per mensem each.

(b) Yes. The request of the Mamlatdars that their allowance should be increased to Rs. 75 cannot be considered until the existing financial stringency relaxes, as an additional annual expenditure of Rs. 60,000 is involved.

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR : Why cannot the present allowance be increased by a smaller amount ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Even that would involve a considerable increase in expenditure which Government are not prepared to undertake at the present moment.

RAILWAY THEFTS

Mr. G. I. PATEL (Ahmedabad Millowners' Association) : Will Government be pleased—

(a) to give a list of the cases of railway thefts complained of, recorded and traced along with compensation paid for or claims rejected with grounds for rejection respectively in each of them during each of the years 1926 and 1927 at Ahmedabad, Kankaria and Asarva railway stations ;

(b) to give the names of the culprits suspected or convicted for railway thefts and to say which of them were railway servants, watchmen or railway workmen ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : A statement containing such information as is available is placed on the Council table. The B. B. & C. I. Railway decides whether to pay or to reject the claims for compensation, and enquiries regarding the grounds on which claims were rejected should be addressed to the Agent of that Railway.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : Why is no reply given to the latter part of my question (b) ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : I think the honourable member is mistaken. The latter half of the statement does give the information.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : How much amount is expected to be saved in case the proposal of reducing the number of assistant secretaries which is under consideration is carried out ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I am unable to say at present.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : Can the Honourable the Finance Member give me an approximate idea of the amount of savings likely to be effected ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I am afraid I cannot.

HEALTH OFFICERS

Mr. J. R. PATEL (Kaira District) : Will Government be pleased to state what decision they have arrived at regarding the question of appointing District Health Officers ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : The question of the compulsory appointment of health officers by district local boards is under the consideration of Government.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : How long has it been under consideration ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : For about 1½ or 2 years.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : How long still will it take to get the question decided ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : We have to consider the opinions of various district local boards as well as the financial aspect of the whole question. That must take some time.

EXCISE AUCTIONS : APPLICATION OF REVENUES

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE on behalf of Mr. HOOLENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Bombay City) : Will Government be pleased—

(a) to state whether they had issued a press note, notification or resolution at the time when the system of auctioning liquor licenses was introduced in 1916-17 to the effect that the extra revenue derived would be utilised for education, public health and medical relief ;

(b) if so, to lay a copy of the same on the table ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) Yes.

(b) Copies of Press Notes No. 15080 dated 13th December 1917 in the Revenue Department and No. 6170 dated 4th September 1918 in the General Department are placed on the Council Table. The system of allocating surplus excise revenue for specific purposes ceased from 1st April 1921 as stated in the concluding portion of the memorandum by the Finance Member on the Revised Financial Statement for the year 1920-21.

PRESS NOTE

Modification in the method of disposal of the right of retail vend of country spirit in the Bombay Presidency

The Governor in Council has had occasion to review the system under which the right of retail sale of country spirit is decided, and after careful and anxious consideration he has come to the conclusion that a change is necessary in the interests of the general administration.

2. The system at present generally in force of separate shops with a fixed fee assessed on the sales of the previous year, and renewal from year to year to the same holder, provided his management was good, was based upon the existence and observance of a maximum selling-price, and on the selling of full measure within the maximum price fixed. It was assumed that the licensee would not exceed this price and that he would sell full measure; in other words honest trading was postulated. The experience of the actual working of the system has however conclusively proved that these assumptions were not justified. A large majority of officers are of opinion that it is most difficult to enforce the maximum selling-price and that it is generally disregarded, either by price above the maximum being taken or by the giving of short measure (commonly known as kasur). This kasur is variously estimated at from 10 to 20 per cent. on the quantity sold. It thus affords to the shopkeepers a source of profit which is not taken into consideration when the vend fee is calculated under the system now in force and which in the aggregate amounts to a very large sum yearly. Convictions for selling short measure are most difficult to detect, apart from the strong inducements which the profits of the custom enable the shopkeepers to offer to the Excise staff to overlook it.

3. The most serious drawback of the fixed-fee system is that the very large profit thus made by the licensee forms a fund for the bribery of the subordinate Excise staff. The shopkeepers have more to bribe for and far larger sums with which to bribe. The fact that the shopkeepers have more to bribe for is due to the comparative fixity of their tenure. The license remains in the hands of the same man until any misconduct is brought to notice. It is obvious that in the great majority of cases such misconduct can only be discovered by the Excise staff who are appointed for that very purpose. If the Excise subordinates can be tempted to shut their eyes to malpractices, the licensee remains undisturbed in his shop whatever his behaviour may be.

4. The extent to which the corruption may extend has been proved by recent investigations in one district where most of the staff were found guilty of receiving illegal gratifications. The system had been acquired in by the shopkeepers without complaint. They were perfectly willing to make the payments so long as these did not exceed a certain proportion and the practice was brought to light only when the demands began to be exorbitant. There is no reason to believe that this particular district is singular in the existence of such practices.

5. It may be said that the remedy for this state of affairs is the improvement in the staff of the Excise Department. Government fully recognise the necessity for a good class of men and will constantly endeavour to improve the existing staff. One important step in this direction has already been taken by the amalgamation of the Salt and Excise Departments and the creation of a grade of Deputy Commissioners of Salt and Excise with the special object of securing better supervision over the subordinate staff. No amount of supervision by superior officers however will put an end to the prevailing corruption so long as the existing method of disposal of licenses continues. Recent investigations have shown that even men with respectable family connections whose immediate relatives have done well in other departments succumb to the temptations placed in their way. It is not fair to the excise staff themselves that the shopkeepers should have such ample means and such ample inducement to bribe them.

6. The best way of putting an end to the existing unsatisfactory state of affairs is to curtail the bribery fund and at the same time to reduce the inducement to the shopkeeper to give bribes. The latter object can be to a large extent secured by making the shopkeeper less dependent on the good will of the excise subordinates. If the maximum selling-price, which is not in force in Bombay City nor in the Madras Presidency, and as already stated is not really adhered to in practice, is abolished, a powerful weapon in the hands of the excise staff to extort bribes will be taken away. If, however, the renewal of a license still depends on the favourable report of the excise subordinate, the shopkeeper will consider it worth his while to placate him and a continuity of tenure dependent on such report must therefore be avoided.

7. For the reasons given above Government have decided to abolish with effect from 1st April 1918 the maximum selling-price except where it is necessary, in the entire absence of competition, to prevent either extravagant prices being demanded or recourse being had to illicit distillation by persons who would go to shops if they could get their liquor there at a reasonable price. In shops near the borders of Native States fixed prices will be maintained in agreement with the administrations of these States. In such neighbourhoods the complaints of other shopkeepers or of the States concerned constitute a valuable auxiliary to the Excise Department in bringing malpractices to notice.

8. The abolition of the maximum selling price, subject to the reservations mentioned, renders it impossible to continue the fixed-fee system in its present form since there is no basis on which the vend fee could be calculated. Government have considered whether any other system short of auctions could be adopted. Restricted auction has been previously tried under which an upset price is calculated and bids are stopped when they reach a figure of 25 per cent. above this upset price. This system, however, has proved unsatisfactory in practice. Practically all the bidders will bid the upset price plus 25 per cent. and the system again becomes one of selection which has been found open to serious objection in the past. The system of sealed tenders has also been considered. This is open to the objection that collusion is facilitated and rendered difficult to check, while if there is no collusion the tenders are more speculative than in an open auction. The advisability of trying this system in any special cases which the Commissioner or the Collector may bring to notice will however be borne in mind.

9. Government have therefore decided that auctions should be held in Bombay City, in other cities of the Presidency proper and in headquarter towns of districts or in other places where there are three shops within a reasonably small area. In other areas the system of giving out the license on a vend fee fixed by the Collector will be maintained. Auctions will be for a triennial period so as to allow of an average consumption over varying seasons without being long enough to create any fixity of tenure. Care will be taken to prevent the formation of combinations and to exclude bad characters from bidding. Measures will be adopted to see that no attempt is made to work up auction prices and any tendency unduly to push sales will be checked. As regards the latter there is no reason to believe that the consumption will be any greater than it has been or would be under the fixed-fee system, as it is generally agreed by those in a position to judge that the method of vend has no great influence on the quantity sold, which depends much more largely upon the price of liquor, the year's crops, the industrial conditions and other circumstances. If anything the consumption should be reduced, as it may be anticipated that the price of liquor will increase.

10. Government adhere to the principle that the still-head duty is the soundest means of taxation, and that it should be fixed at the largest sum that can be safely and uniformly taken. The abandonment of the maximum selling-price will allow prices of liquor to adjust themselves by the ordinary laws of supply and demand. A considerable difference between average retail prices and the still-head duty will be the best indication that the latter can safely be raised.

11. With the abolition of the maximum selling-price it will no longer be the duty of Excise Inspectors or Sub-Inspectors to interfere with high prices or short measures except where fraudulent methods are adopted or practised. The proper measures must be maintained in the correct form in the shops and the quantity demanded by the consumer must be supplied, but the price will be fixed by the shopkeeper. It will still be the duty of the subordinate staff to prevent the adulteration of the liquor sold and the sale of illicit liquor within the shops. Outside the shops the staff will continue to prevent the manufacture and sale of illicit liquor.

12. As the change in the method of disposal of shop licenses has not been dictated by considerations of securing additional revenue for any purpose of Government, Government have decided that any extra receipts that may be realized from the change should be earmarked and allotted by Government for local purposes such as the promotion of primary education and sanitary improvements and other matters of local administration. Any difference between the receipts under the system as now ordered and the vend fees at present received will accordingly be earmarked for these purposes. This will not however interfere with the right of Government to increase the still head duty even if such increase shall decrease the amount of vend fee realised.

13. The changes in the method of disposal of country spirit vend licenses mentioned above will also be made applicable to Sind where the fixed-fee system, though long in operation, is proving unsatisfactory. Auctions will be held in the city of Karachi and in the towns of Hyderabad, Shikarpur, Sukkur and Larkana.

14. The Governor in Council believes that the changes now decided on will effect a much needed improvement. They are not innovations in the Excise Administration as the system has been in operation for years in other provinces, notably the Madras Presidency. They will remove a source of demoralisation from the Excise Department. They may diminish the profits of licensees: but these profits as at present earned are not the result of any legitimate skill or ability. These undue profits will, it may be hoped, be diverted into sources immediately beneficial to the general public.

PRESS NOTE

In Government Resolution no. 15079, Revenue Department, dated the 13th December 1917, Government issued orders making certain modifications in the method of disposal of the right of retail vend of country spirit in the Bombay Presidency. In paragraph 14 of that Resolution they expressed their desire that any extra profits that might be realized from the change of system should be devoted to the promotion of primary education or to sanitary or other improvements of local administration and were pleased to direct that any difference between the receipts under the system of auction or under the fixed fees as then ordered and the vend fees then received, should be earmarked for those purposes. They accordingly appointed a committee in February 1918 for the purpose of considering the most effective method of distributing the excess revenue so derived. The accompanying report has now been received from the committee. The Governor in Council is pleased to approve of the recommendations made by the committee and early steps are being taken to give effect to them.

Report of the Committee appointed by Government to consider the most effective method of distributing the excess revenue derived by the change of system in the disposal of retail vend of country spirit

We, the undersigned members of the above-mentioned committee, have the honour to submit for the consideration of Government the following report:—

2. Our committee met on three occasions only, once under the chairmanship of the Honourable Mr. Curtis, C.S.I., I.C.S., whose place on the committee was subsequently taken by the Honourable Sir James DuBoulay, K.C.I.E., C.S.I., I.C.S., and twice under the chairmanship of the Honourable Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola, C.I.E. On the first occasion all the original members of the committee were present, on the second and third occasions the only absentee was the Honourable Mr. Harchandrai Vishindas, C.I.E., while the Commissioners in Sind and the Commissioners. C.D. and S.D., who were added to the committee subsequently to its first meeting, were also present.

3. On the 15th March, the date of the first meeting, only a few preliminary questions were discussed, as it was not known on that occasion how much money would be available for expenditure and the members of the committee, with a very few exceptions, had not had time to think out any definite schemes. Several members however expressed the opinion that there were many useful objects of expenditure that were not covered by the terms of paragraph 14 of Government Resolution, Revenue Department, no. 15079, dated the 13th December 1917, which restricted the allocation of the excess profits realised by the change of system 'to the promotion of primary education or to sanitary or other improvements of local administration.' No formal resolution was moved at this preliminary meeting, but it was decided that the meeting should be adjourned until it could be ascertained approximately what the extra profits would be and members were asked by the chairman to send in to the Secretary, General Department, as soon as possible a list of objects of expenditure. These lists* have been consolidated and are appended to this report in four statements.

4. The second and third meetings of the committee were held on June the 10th and 11th. On these occasions the committee were informed that although exact returns had not yet been received from the several districts showing the amount of extra profits to be realised, a conservative estimate for each of the three years following the change of system put the figure at Rs. 45 lakhs, while it was calculated that after the first triennium, on the conclusion of which the shops would be again put up to auction at least a third of the excess revenue realised during the first triennium could be counted upon. In view of this uncertainty the committee decided that the wiser course would be not to make any attempt to earmark particular sums of money for specific purposes, but to lay down in general terms what they thought might be suggested to Government as the proportionate claims of major heads of expenditure in percentages. It was however assumed as a rough basis for calculation that a recurring expenditure of about Rs. 15 lakhs could safely be relied upon permanently and a non-recurring expenditure of about twice that amount for the first three years only.

5. It was also explained by the chairman that the Governor in Council had decided that the committee in making its recommendations should confine itself to the purposes already defined in paragraph 14 of Government Resolution no. 15079, dated the 13th December 1917, quoted above in paragraph 3 of this report. In these circumstances many items in the lists submitted by the various members of the committee were automatically ruled out of order. It was however the opinion of the committee that the word "Sanitary" included "public health" and "medical relief" and their recommendations are based on that assumption.

6. As regards the principle of distribution the large majority of the committee were opposed to a suggestion that it should be on a basis of the territorial units of administration and held that the bulk of the revenue should be devoted to primary education, the balance being distributed among the other major heads. Accordingly the following resolutions were passed:—

I. That this committee recommend that 75 per cent. of the recurring revenue from the excess profits be devoted to the five following objects, viz:—

- (i) The opening of new schools in rural areas.
- (ii) The encouragement of free and compulsory primary education in municipal areas throughout the presidency, including the city of Bombay, provided it is decided by Government that they should contribute towards this object in that city.
- (iii) The increase of the pay of primary school teachers.
- (iv) The provision of special facilities for the primary education of the backward classes.
- (v) The training of primary school teachers.

II. That this committee recommend that 50 per cent. of the non-recurring revenue from the excess profits be devoted during the next three years to the three following objects, viz. :—

- (i) Building grants for primary schools.
- (ii) Building and equipment of training schools for primary school teachers.
- (iii) Grain compensation for primary school teachers.

III. That this committee recommend that the balance of the revenue from excess profits, both recurring and non-recurring, be spent on objects of sanitation (including water-supply) and medical relief.

7. With reference to the third recommendation it was the opinion of the committee that it should be left to Government to decide, on the recommendation of the Surgeon General and Sanitary Commissioner, upon what precise objects the available funds could be most suitably expended, but the hope was expressed that it would be found possible to devote substantial funds in particular to the provision of maternity homes and the improvement of sanitary conditions in pilgrim centres."

- (13) Juhu is getting popular as a pleasure resort ;
- (14) the reason why the Collector recommended the grant of the license is that Juhu is getting popular ;
- (15) the Suburban Collector has defied the will of the landowners and of the people in order to accede to the request of outsiders who have nothing to do with the island of Juhu ;
- (16) there is no building built for a hotel ;
- (17) the Collector has allowed the construction of a tin-shed to be used as a hotel and a restaurant ; if so, what are the dimensions of the tin-shed and how many people stay therein ;
- (18) whether it is the intention of the Suburban Development Officer to allow this tin-shed to be used as a permanent hotel and restaurant ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : A copy of the report submitted by the Commissioner of Excise is placed on the Council Table. The question whether the license should be continued or not is under the consideration of Government.

Foreign liquor license.

Juhu, Bombay Suburban District
Grant of a — at,

No. 49.19/27.

Bombay, 28th May 1927.

Memorandum.

The Commissioner of Excise presents compliments and, with reference to Government endorsement No. S.—28-8869-C of the 14th May 1927, on the subject noted above, has the honour to state that, on the recommendation of the Excise Advisory Committee, concurred in by the Collector, a Refreshment Room license was given to one Mr. Vadiwalla at Juhu, in December 1924. The license was first sanctioned for a period of 8½ months only, from 1st April to the middle of June and from the 1st October to the end of March, as Juhu is not much frequented during the monsoons. The Refreshment Room was also restricted to the exclusive sale of beer and stout, as it was reported that malt liquors only were in much demand.

2. In September 1926, the Collector, Bombay Suburban District, recommended that Mr. Vadiwalla's license at Juhu should be sanctioned for the full year and that the licensee should be allowed to sell wines and spirits as well. As there is very little business during the monsoons, the Commissioner did not extend the period of the license. The restriction as regards the exclusive sale of beer and stout was however removed and the licensee, like all other Refreshment Room licensees, was allowed to sell wines, spirits and malt liquors. The Excise Advisory Committee were not in favour of allowing the sale of wines and spirits, but as the Collector reported that there was a considerable demand for these drinks at Juhu, from the rapidly increasing number of visitors, who were mostly of the superior class, the Commissioner overruled the objection of the Excise Advisory Committee.

3. In April last, the Collector again recommended that the Juhu Refreshment Room license should be issued for the full year. The licensee wanted to keep the restaurant open throughout the monsoons since he had shifted from the tent he was formerly occupying to a "pucca" building. Many people drive to Juhu even during the monsoon, as soon as the weather clears up a little, and their need for refreshments and drinks is obvious if caught in a downpour of rain. It was therefore pointed out that there was a genuine demand for liquor throughout the year at Juhu. The Commissioner accordingly accepted the Collector's recommendation and sanctioned Mr. Vadiwalla's Refreshment Room license for the full year.

4. The protest, on behalf of the landowners of Juhu, against the sale of wines and spirits at the Juhu restaurant does not appear to be based on valid reasons. The Juhu restaurant has been selling beer since 1924 and there has been no complaint from the public regarding the Refreshment Room being a nuisance. The grant of permission to sell wines and spirits does not make it any more a nuisance than before. The Refreshment Room caters chiefly to Europeans and high class Indians and meets a genuine demand for foreign liquor. It adds to the amenities of Juhu as a bathing place for the citizens of Bombay.

5. The Commissioner is personally against the grant of a new license unless absolutely necessary. In the case of Juhu which is steadily growing in popularity, there was a genuine and urgent demand. The Commissioner has however warned the licensee that if there is any abuse, the license will be cancelled at once.

(Signed) J. GHOSAL,
Commissioner of Excise,

To

The Deputy Secretary to Government,
Revenue Department,
Bombay.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : How long will it be before it is decided ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : The people want the Minister to visit the place in the beginning of November and after the place is visited and local opinion is consulted, the question will be decided.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : May we expect a decision in December ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : I cannot tell you, but in November I am called there.

(Dr GILDER asked supplementary questions which were inaudible at the reporters' table. The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN'S replies were also inaudible.)

ROAD AT MUDI MONDAL MOSQUE

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ ABDUL LATIF (Central Division) : Will Government be pleased—

(a) to state whether they are aware that the width of the road in front of the plinth of the mosque at Mudi Mondal in the Amalner taluka, East Khandesh, demolished by the order of the Commissioner, was sufficiently wide ;

(b) to place on the table a sketch map with measurements of the road and the open site in front of the above-said demolished plinth and also of the area occupied by the plinth demolished by the Commissioner ;

(c) to state whether they are aware that the order of the Commissioner has wounded the religious susceptibilities of the Mahomedan population of Mudi Mondal and of the East and West Khandesh districts ;

(d) to state the right of the Hindus which was being infringed by allowing the plinth to stand ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) The encroachment which was removed involved a diminution of the width of the road at a certain point and was for this reason objectionable.

(b) Government regret that they are not prepared to do this.

(c) The encroachment did not constitute an infringement of the rights special to any particular section of the community, but it was an infringement of the rights of Government as the custodians of those of the general public.

(d) The plinth was a deliberate encroachment and as such was ordered to be removed.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ ABDUL LATIF : Is Government aware that the width of the road where the plinth has been demolished is greater than any other part of the road ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : That may be.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ ABDUL LATIF : Why is not a sketch map of the road placed on the Council table ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I am not prepared to state the reason.

ANNEWARI : DHANDHUKA TALUKA

Mr. N. A. BECHAR on behalf of Mr. A. D. SHETH (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Mamlatdar of Dhandhuka Taluka in his preparation of annewari estimates ever consulted people or saw vahivat books : if yes, in what villages ;

(b) the days for which he toured in the taluka for annewari and the number of villages he visited for the purpose ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) In almost all the villages of the taluka the crops were inspected by the Mamlatdar in the presence of the villagers, and they were consulted by him about the condition of the crops. The Mamlatdar did not refer to the vahivat books in any village.

(b) The Mamlatdar toured in the taluka for about 35 days and inspected all the villages except ten, eight of which were uninhabited.

TAGAVI : DHANDHUKA TALUKA

Mr. N. A. BECHAR on behalf of Mr. A. D. SHETH (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that a considerable portion of tagavi debts in Dhandhuka is due to the fact that people of the taluka were induced in St. 1968 by the Talukdari Officer Mr. Tupper to take their cattle to the Gir, where most of the cattle died and they were charged all the feeding and other expenses which were paid by Government by debiting the same as tagavi advances to the agriculturists ;

(b) if the answer to (a) is in the affirmative, will Government be pleased to state the total sum so debited as tagavi ;

(c) whether people have petitioned Government to remit them these sums ; if so, with what results ;

(d) whether Government intend to consider this question in the light of the repeated lean years in the taluka and the abject poverty of all these tagavi debtors, with a view to give them some relief in the matter ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Enquiries are being made.

“ VITA ” TRAGEDY

Mr. N. A. BECHAR on behalf of Mr. A. D. SHETH (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware of the Vita Tragedy in the Port of Mandvi in Cutch on the night of 12th April 1927 ;

(b) how many persons belonged to British India or were the residents of this Presidency, out of the eight that lost their lives in the tragedy ;

(c) whether it is a fact that the accident is due to the fact that passengers were brought down in the boat at night when the weather generally remains stormy ;

(d) whether it is a fact that the same sort of accident happened on 28th of September 1926 due to the same reason ;

(e) whether it is a fact that Messrs. Mackinnon Mackenzie, the steamer agents, had then promised that the mistake would not be repeated and still it was repeated resulting in the loss of eight human lives ;

(f) what action Government have taken or propose to take to avoid such tragedies ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : (a), (c), (d), (e) and (f) Already replied to in the last session of the Council.

(b) The number of passengers, who lost their lives in the accident, was three and not eight as stated by the Honourable Member. They were all subjects of the Cutch Darbar.

LAND REVENUE : PENALTY FROM SARDAR PATHUBHA

Mr. N. A. BECHAR on behalf of Mr. A. D. SHETH (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that a penalty notice was served by the Mamlatdar of Dhandhuka Taluka to Sardar Pathubha of Rojka and the penalty has been paid under protest by the said Sardar ;

(b) whether it is a fact that the said penalty notice went out of the Mamlatdar's office after the jama payment was made by the Sardar and served on him a day after the payment was regularly made by him in the treasury ;

(c) whether it is a fact that the notice was as a matter of fact signed by the Mamlatdar after the jama instalment was paid by the Sardar ; if not, will Government state the exact time when the notice was signed and when the jama was paid ;

(d) whether it is a fact that the produce of the fields of the Sardar was still in the fields uncut and he had to raise a loan for the payment of jama and the Mamlatdar knew all this ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes.

(b) No. The penalty notice had already been despatched by registered post before Sardar Pathubha came to the Mamlatdar's katchery at about 3 p.m. on March 24th, 1927, and enquired about the jama to be paid by him. He paid the amount of the jama on the same day, at about 4 p.m. The notice reached him by post on the next day.

(c) No. The notice was signed by the Mamlatdar at about 12 noon on the 24th, and the Sardar paid the amount at about 4 p.m. on the same day.

(d) The Mamlatdar did not know at the time of passing the order of penalty that the produce of the Sardar's fields was still to be harvested and that he had to raise a loan for the payment of the jama.

JAMA : PAYMENT BY SARDAR PATHUBHA

Mr. N. A. BECHAR on behalf of Mr. A. D. SHETH (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that Sardar Pathubha of Rojka, under Dhandhuka taluka, Ahmedabad district, appeared before the Mamlatdar with the jama money before he was informed of the penalty notice ;

(b) whether it is a fact that the Mamlatdar asked him to pay the jama into the treasury and even then did not inform him that the penalty notice was being contemplated against him ;

(c) the approximate time when the Sardar appeared before the Mamlatdar, and when the penalty notice was signed by the Mamlatdar ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) No.

(b) When Sardar Pathubha went to the Mamlatdar's office to enquire about the jama to be paid by him, he was informed that a penalty notice had been sent to him by post earlier in the day. He was, however, asked to make payment into the treasury.

(c) The Honourable Member is referred to the reply given to his question above.

LAND ACQUISITION FOR FOREST DEPARTMENT

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Conservator of Forests, Mr. Marjoribanks, had pitched his tent in the land of Bai Ichha, daughter of Khusal Jeychand, situated in Pepalwada village, taluka Mandvi, district Surat ;

(b) whether the tents had been pitched without permission of the owner ;

(c) whether while pitching the tents fire was set to the grass, mango trees, etc., and damage was caused to the owner ;

(d) whether this lady had filed a suit for damages against Mr. G. E. Marjoribanks being suit No. 2691/1925 in the Court of the Surat, First Class Subordinate Judge ;

(e) whether Mr. Marjoribanks had tendered an unconditional apology in writing in the form attached hereto ;

(f) whether out of revenge the Forest Department proposes to acquire this land belonging to this lady ;

(g) whether it is a fact that there is plenty of other Government land in this or in the neighbouring villages where tents could be pitched ;

- (h) whether pitching of tents can be regarded as a public purpose ;
 (i) whether Government intend to drop the proceedings for the acquisition of land ?

Abstract

I, George Erskine Marjoribanks, state as follows :—

If any damages had been done I should have been sorry. I shall continue to take care that my subordinates do not erect my tents on the lands of others, if these have any objection to this being done.

22nd March 1926.

(Sd.) **

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes, according to immemorial custom.

(c) The dead leaves were burnt as usual before the camp was set up. No damage of any kind was caused to the owner.

(d) Yes.

(e) Yes.

(f) It is convenient for officers of the Forest and other Departments to camp at this place. Hence proposals for the acquisition of the site have been made. There is no question of revenge.

(g) The Collector is making enquiries.

(h) Yes, when they are pitched for an officer of Government travelling on duty.

(i) Until they receive the Collector's report, Government are not committed to any course of action.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : With regard to (b) is it the immemorial, custom of Government to pitch tents in other people's lands ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Often times, so far as I know places for pitching tents are generally fixed, and the tents are pitched on those sites.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Is it the immemorial custom to pitch tents in other people's lands without their permission ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : It is not claimed as a matter of right. Certain sites in certain towns and villages are generally fixed for pitching tents. If the owners of the land object, they will not be pitched there.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Fixed by whom ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Fixed by long practice. Convenient sites where there is shade, where there are trees, are selected for pitching tents, so far as I know from my personal experience.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : What is meant by immemorial custom ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : I would use the words immemorial practice.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : May I know whether permission is taken from the owner of the land before pitching tents ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : It is considered as a sort of license ? If the owner objects, then the tents will not be pitched there.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA : Since how long has this been the custom ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : I think the reply contains that information.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : It is stated that no damage of any kind was caused ; I want to know why the Conservator of Forests offered an unconditional apology, if there was no damage.

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : There was very little damage, and I think he was right in offering an unconditional apology.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : I want to know whether there was any damage.

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : No. Only dead leaves were burnt.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Then why did he, though he was the head of the Department, offer an unconditional apology in the suit ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : I think because even dead leaves are the property of the owner. The owner complained that his dead leaves had been burnt, and the reply says that even in that case an apology was given, because they were the property of the owner.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Then the Conservator can claim compensation for improving the land. Is it damage ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : I do not suppose that owners like that their lands should be improved against their wishes.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : With regard to (f) it is stated that this land has been notified for acquisition not out of revenge, but because it is convenient for officers of the Forest and other Departments to camp at this place. In reply to another question Government say that they have not enquired whether there are other places equally suitable. I want to know why this place was selected for acquisition.

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : The reply says that from times immemorial this place was considered as the fittest place for pitching tents. So, the question of revenge does not arise at all. This was considered as a fit place not recently but from times immemorial. If the owner objects, necessarily Government have no other alternative but to acquire the land.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : It is stated in the reply that the Collector is making enquiries. If there is already Government land, why should Government go and acquire private land ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : If there is suitable Government land, then there is no reason why Government should be anxious to spend money out of their own pockets and acquire this land. The Collector is making enquiries if there is other suitable Government land available. If there was Government land, then there was no necessity for acquisition proceedings.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : My point is, why was this land proposed for acquisition before making enquiries ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Where is the reply that there was Government land available ?

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Part (g) of the question asks : “ whether it is a fact that there is plenty of other Government land in this or in the neighbouring villages where tents could be pitched ; ” and the reply is that the Collector is making enquiries, which means that no enquiries have been made whether there is suitable Government land.

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : The touring officers found that this was the most convenient place on which to pitch their tents, and as a matter of fact this is the place where tents can be pitched, and that is why acquisition proceedings were started. But as there is objection that this land should not be acquired, the Collector is asked to make enquiries whether any other suitable land is available, either belonging to Government or to any other owner.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : I want to know.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. Next question. This is getting into a debate.

GAUCHARAN, RONWELL

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) what is the population of the village of Ronwell, taluka Bulsar, district Surat ;

(b) what is the number of cattle and other animals in this village ;

(c) what is the area of Gaucharan land and other lands kept for the grazing of the cattle of this village ;

(d) what is the minimum area of grazing land required per head of cattle for maintaining them in an efficient condition ;

(e) whether there is an area of about 70 acres of Government forest land in this village the grass of which is being auctioned every year ;

(f) whether the people of this village have requested that this land be assigned for the grazing of their village cattle ;

(g) whether Government have considered this request of the village people, and if so, what decision they have arrived at ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) 503.

(b) 614 bovines.

170 sheep.

299 goats.

---

1,083

(c) Ten acres 24 gunthas free Gaucharan and 25 acres 16 gunthas Government waste land.

(d) The minimum area required cannot be stated as it depends upon the productivity of the land.

(e) The area of forest land which is auctioned every year is 46 acres and 30 gunthas.

(f) and (g) The people have applied for the land mentioned in the reply to clause (e) for grazing their cattle at the rate of annas 2 per acre. The question of giving them a contract at the average price realized in past years is under consideration.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : With regard to (f) and (g), why is not Government prepared to give the land on the same terms as it is given in other villages ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Enquiries have first to be made.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : It is stated that the question of giving them a contract at the average price realised in past years is under consideration. Is it the object of Government to help the keeping of cattle ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Within reason, yes.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : When there is land, why do Government want to take an auction price ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : That is a question to be considered.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Is it not the policy of Government to make provision for grazing land where land is available ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Not necessarily.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : What is the policy of Government ? To extort the last pie ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : The policy of Government is to maintain the status quo in regard to grazing.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Even when the grazing land is not sufficient, they will maintain the status quo ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : It is not proved that it is insufficient.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : It is stated that the number of cattle is 614 bovines, 170 sheep and 299 goats, and the total is 1,083, and the total grazing land is 35 acres. Do Government consider 35 acres sufficient grazing land for 1,000 cattle ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Most of those cattle are probably perfectly useless.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Quite so, but are 35 acres sufficient grazing land for 1,000 cattle ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : That is not the question.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : That is the supplementary question.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : The question is whether the land available is sufficient for the cattle which are reasonably required for the population of the village.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Do Government desire that the remaining cattle should be killed ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : That does not arise.

WESTERN INDIA TURF CLUB : RECEIPTS FOR ADMISSION
FROM G. I. P. RAILWAY

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District): Will Government be pleased to state year by year for each of the last five years the amount received by the Western India Turf Club from the G. I. P. Railway in respect of the Race Special tickets with admission to the Race Course sold by the G. I. P. Railway.

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: Government have no information on this subject. The honourable member is recommended to apply to the G. I. P. Railway if he desires to pursue the subject.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI: Will the G. I. P. Railway give the information to me?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: The honourable member had better ask the G. I. P. Railway.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN: Is not the number of admission tickets within the knowledge of Government, because they collect tax on the amount realized from the sale of admission tickets?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: Government only know the total number of admission tickets issued.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE: How are Government able to check the figure of the number of admission tickets issued by the G. I. P. Railway?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: The honourable member's question seems to concern the Finance Department.

WESTERN INDIA TURF CLUB : OBTAINING OF INFORMATION

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether in reply to Mr. Shivdasani's question about totalisator betting, Bombay and Poona, printed on pages 550-51 of the Council Proceedings, Volume XX, in regard to part (c), the following reply was given by Government:—

“Government are not in possession of this information. The Honourable Member is referred for this information to the Secretary of the Western India Turf Club.”

(b) whether they are aware that Mr. Shivdasani wrote a letter on the 5th September 1927 asking for the necessary information from the Secretary of the Western India Turf Club;

(c) whether they are aware that he received a reply from the Assistant Secretary of the Western India Turf Club to the effect that “he not being a member of the club was not entitled to receive such information.”

(d) whether in view of this reply, Government intend to obtain the required information for him?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: (a) Yes.

(b) No.

(c) No.

(d) No.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : How are honourable members to get this information ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : If the honourable member has any friend who is a member of the Turf Club he can get the information.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Do Government desire honourable members to go about in this round about manner for getting the information ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : Not in the least.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Cannot Government get this information direct ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : If they thought that any public service will be served by getting this information, Government might do so. The question is "whether they intend." The reply is "No." If the honourable member asks Government to obtain it for him, and gives fresh notice I might be able to reconsider the matter.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : In the previous question I had asked for information. I was referred to the Turf Club and the Turf Club says that they cannot give me information because I am not a member of the Turf Club. I am sent from pillar to post and from post to pillar.

TALATI RAMSHANKER RAVISHANKER : LEAVE

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether one Ramshanker Ravishanker was employed as talati in the Surat District for a period of thirty years ;

(b) whether in April 1926 he was compulsorily made to retire on the ground of his having completed 30 years' service ;

(c) whether there was no complaint against his work as talati ;

(d) whether for about 12 years prior to his compulsory retirement he has not enjoyed any privilege leave ;

(e) whether six months' privilege leave was due to this talati at the time of his retirement ;

(f) whether owing to his being made to retire suddenly he was deprived of his right to enjoy six months' privilege leave to which he was entitled under the Fundamental Rules ;

(g) whether he has applied to Government for granting him the privilege leave which was due to him at the time of his retirement ;

(h) what they have decided on this application ;

(i) if the leave asked for has been refused, what are the special reasons for refusing it ;

(j) whether privilege leave is being granted even to officers occupying the highest position after their retirement ;

(k) what is the reason for treating this poor talati differently ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes.

(b) He was made to retire from 1st April 1926 in pursuance of the orders of Government reducing the number of talatis in the Surat District by 99. He had completed 30 years' service like many other Talatis who were made to retire at the same time.

(c) No.

(d) Yes; he did not take any leave after March 1914.

(e) Yes.

(f) Yes. Under the Civil Service Regulations he became entitled to three months' notice or three months' pay in lieu of notice.

(g) He did not apply for leave either when he was in the service, or after his retirement on 1st April 1926. Shortly after his retirement he claimed three months' pay in lieu of three months' notice and the claim was allowed. On 4th February 1927, however, he applied for 6 months' pay in lieu of 6 months' leave.

(h) and (i) The Collector declined to accede to the request for six months' pay in lieu of six months' leave, as the request was inadmissible under the rules. The Collector's order was confirmed on appeal by the Commissioner, and the decision was upheld by Government.

(j) Leave not exceeding 6 months is admissible only to a Government Officer retiring after attaining the age of 55 who actually applied for leave whilst still in service but whose application was refused in the interests of the public service.

(k) The analogy does not arise.

NAVSARI-AAT ROAD

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI: Will Government be pleased to state whether the road from Navsari station to village Aat is a provincial road or under district local board management?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: The road is in charge of the District Local Board, Surat.

PUBLIC CONVEYANCES: USE BY DEPRESSED CLASSES

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI (Bombay): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that drivers and owners of Public Conveyances such as Taxis, Tongas and Bullock carts in the Mofussil all over Gujarat refuse and disallow members of the depressed classes to make use of their conveyances even though they are willing to pay their fixed rates for the journey;

(b) what steps Government propose to take in these cases so as to put a stop to this unjustifiable practice which causes great inconvenience and misery to depressed classes all over the country?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: (a) No.

(b) In view of the answer to (a) no action seems necessary at present. Should any case of the nature suggested in the question occur, the offending driver could be dealt with under the Indian Motor Vehicles Act or the Bombay Public Conveyances Act.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR: Part (a) of the question shows that it was within his knowledge that such cases had occurred. The reply is "No." Therefore, I request the Honourable the Home Member to sympathetically consider the question?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : If the honourable member who asked the question or his friends had been aware of any such cases they would presumably have taken the action which as the reply to (b) shows was open to them. They did not take that course nor did they bring any such case to the notice of Government. Therefore, the reply to the first part is correct.

COTTAGE INDUSTRIES : GUJARAT

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether a regular survey of cottage or home industries has been made in all the districts of Gujarat ;

(b) whether they intend encouraging Khadar weaving among the depressed classes in Gujarat including Surat District ;

(c) whether they intend introducing silk industry as a cottage industry among the depressed classes who are hereditary weavers and are known as Vankars ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) No regular survey of cottage or home industries in the Gujarat Districts alone has been made. A general survey of Arts and Crafts has been made by an officer who was specially deputed for the purpose. His report will shortly be received by Government. An officer of the Industries Department has been placed on special duty to make a regular survey of the weaving industry. Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state--

(a) whether all the country liquor shops of Ahmedabad were ordered to be closed during the Holi holidays ;

(b) if so, the reasons why the admirable object, which prompted the order referred to in (a), was frustrated by allowing the refreshment room of Messrs. E. R. Fanibanda & Sons to be kept open during those holidays ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) and (b) The orders of Government are that liquor shops in municipal areas should be closed on the Holi holiday. The orders do not apply to refreshment rooms.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Do not Government allow the sale of liquor on Holi holidays in refreshment rooms ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : They do.

CULTIVATORS' RIGHT TO TREES IN SAHIJPUR BHOGA

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that in paragraph 9 of the survey settlement report of Sahiipur Bhoga, a village in North Daskroi Taluka of Ahmedabad District, the Inamdar has not been given any rights over the trees in the lands occupied by the cultivators ;

(b) whether in spite of the rights over the trees having been given to the cultivators in the said survey settlement the Inamdar of the village is obstructing the cultivators from taking the fruits or dry wood of the trees in the lands occupied by the cultivators ;

(c) if so, what steps they have taken to save the cultivators from the obstructions and the harassments of the Inamdar ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) No. Paragraph 9 of the Jahernama (not paragraph 9 of the survey settlement report as stated in the question) did not confer on the occupants any new rights over trees in occupied land, nor did it transfer the Inamdar's then existing rights over trees to the occupants. The previous records show that the Inamdar used to take the produce of all trees, whether situated in occupied, unoccupied or alienated land in the village.

(b) and (c) Do not arise.

THE THAKOR OF KERWADA : May I know whether Government can claim the trees standing on lands belonging to inamdars ?

(b) whether in spite of the judgment of the High Court mentioned in (a), the present Thakor of Sanand is preventing by force and threats the construction of houses on lands of private persons for which regular permissions have been given by the Municipality of Sanand ;

(c) if the answer to (b) is in the affirmative, what steps Government have taken or intend to take to prevent the Thakor of Sanand from prejudicing the rights of the Municipality of Sanand and the rights of other persons ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) The High Court, by consent, passed a decree in accordance with a compromise which included these among other terms.

(b) The Thakor of Sanand is in some cases preventing the construction of houses on wanta land for which permissions have been given by the Municipality, though no force or threat is reported to have been used.

(c) As the honourable member has already been informed, it is not possible for Government to take any steps in cases of this kind. The parties affected have their remedy in the Civil Courts.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : Is it not within the province of this Government to prevent the Thakor of Sanand from encroaching upon the rights of the Sanand municipality ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : It is the municipality that should take the action if it sees fit.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : If the honourable member gives notice I will see what I can do.

EXPENDITURE ON ROADS IN NORTHERN DIVISION, CENTRAL DIVISION AND SOUTHERN DIVISION

(a) to place on the Council table a statement showing the amount spent in each district of the Northern, Southern and Central Divisions for the last five years, for maintaining old and adding new roads ;

(b) to state whether it is a fact that more money is allotted for the upkeep and extension of roads in the Deccan districts than in Gujarat, and if so, on what grounds ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (a) The requisite statement is laid on the Council table.

(b) A statement showing the amounts allotted for upkeep and extension of roads in Gujarat and the Deccan for the three years ending 1927-28 is attached. It will be seen therefrom that the amounts allotted for upkeep of roads in Gujarat are greater than those allotted for the Deccan. The amounts allotted for extension of roads (original works) in the Deccan Divisions are greater than those allotted for roads in Gujarat because Government were prepared with many more schemes for new roads and improvements to existing roads in the Deccan than in Gujarat and also on account of the fact that the area of the Deccan is 38,262 square miles, while that of Gujarat is only 13,579 square miles.

(c) if answer to (b) is in affirmative, what action has been taken in the matter to meet the wishes of the general public of Kurla?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) Many Indian Christians and persons of other communities who are accustomed to use foreign liquor reside at Kurla. As there is no foreign liquor 'off' shop at that place, these people have to obtain their supplies from Bombay and are consequently put to great inconvenience. To remedy this it was decided, with the concurrence of the Excise Advisory Committee, to open an 'off' shop. The permission to open this shop has been given up to 31st March 1928 for the present.

(b) Yes, but of a meeting held on 16th August 1927.

(c) The President of the meeting was informed that Government saw no reason to reconsider the orders already passed but that they would in due course consider the question regarding the continuance of the shop beyond 31st March 1928.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : Was any representation made to Government as regards this "great inconvenience"?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : There was a representation signed by 300 or 400 persons.

MUNICIPAL STIPENDIARY MAGISTRATES

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR on behalf of Mr. N. G. MAJMUDAR (Sholapur City) : Will Government be pleased to put on the Council table a statement of the Municipalities in the Presidency that have Stipendiary Magistrates to try the municipal cases, showing the expenditure on the salary of the Stipendiary Magistrate and his establishment separately for each of those Municipalities?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : There is only one Municipality in the Presidency which pays for a Stipendiary Magistrate who tries municipal cases exclusively. This is the Ahmedabad Municipality and the total annual expenditure on salaries, establishment and contingencies is Rs. 7,781-15-0.

POLICE, JALGAON AND BHUSAVAL CITIES : ALLOWANCES

Mr. RAJMAL LAKHICHAND (East Khandesh District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) how many police constables and head constables are engaged in Jalgaon City and how many in Bhusaval City;

(b) whether it is a fact that the Bhusaval police are given allowances while the Jalgaon police are not?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON :

	Constables	Head Constables
(a) Jalgaon City	.. 24	9
Bhusaval City	.. 38	14.

(b) Yes, owing chiefly to the higher cost of living at Bhusaval. The duties of the police at Bhusaval, which is an important railway junction, are also more arduous and disagreeable than at Jalgaon.

TALEGAON RIOTS

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : Sir, in view of the interview that the deputation of the members.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : What is it that the honourable member wants ?

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : I want to make a statement.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : With reference to what ?

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : With reference to the adjournment motion which I stated that I would move to-day.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The honourable member stated yesterday that he would give me notice of moving an adjournment motion to-day in connection with the statement made yesterday followed by the walk-out. But as notice to the President of the adjournment motion has not been given according to the Rules and Standing Orders of the House, any statement in connection with such adjournment motion does not arise, and therefore no statement can be made.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : As regards yesterday's statement, I want to make a statement.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I do not think the House is interested to know any further development in that connection.

(Further consideration of Bill No. XXXV of 1927- A Bill further to amend the Bombay Port Trust Act, 1879—Resumed)

Question again proposed :

.. That in clause 2 (6-A) the words 'officers and' be deleted

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Sir, I rise to support the amendment moved by the honourable member Mr. Hooseinbhoj Lalljee.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Where is the amendment moved by the honourable member Mr. Hooseinbhoj Lalljee ?

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : It was an amendment moved by the honourable member Mr. Bole.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : I support the amendment moved by the honourable member Mr. Bole. Sir, there is a proverb in Gujarati that the lady who wears gold bangles robs the woman who makes a living by selling thin babul sticks for cleaning teeth. On the pretext of subscribing to the welfare fund poor employees are to be robbed ; fines are to be imposed on them and their unclaimed wages are to be forfeited, and fines, forfeitures and unclaimed wages are intended to be used for the purpose of giving financial assistance to clubs, institutes and other objects connected with the welfare of employees and for payment of rewards to employees for life saving or other meritorious acts. Now, this word "employees" may include big officers and the unclaimed wages of poor people and fines and forfeitures will be taken up and accumulated for the maintenance of clubs and institutes and big officers will be given assistance. Therefore I strongly support the amendment that the words "officers and" should be deleted in clause 2, line 12.

Mr. K. M. MUNSHI (Bombay University): Sir, I move that the consideration of this bill be taken up the first thing on Monday because there are certain amendments which I am sure will meet with the wishes of the Honourable the General Member. If this motion is accepted a satisfactory solution of the difficulty put forward by members can easily be found.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR: I have no objection.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE: I object to this procedure. I do not know why it should be postponed till Monday. I do not know what is the real object of my honourable friend Mr. Munshi in asking for this postponement; and the Honourable the General Member agrees to it. If there is any amendment which he says will be moved which will be acceptable to the Honourable the General Member, then I say let it be moved now. We are told that the Port Trustees want that this bill should be passed as soon as possible and I think we should try to finish it as soon as possible since we have had a long discussion thereon yesterday.

Question that the consideration of the bill be postponed till Monday the 17th October 1927, put and carried.

BILL NO. XXII OF 1927 (A BILL TO AMEND THE MAHUL CREEK [EXTINGUISHMENT OF RIGHTS] ACT, 1922)

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR: I beg to introduce Bill No. XXII*, a bill to amend the Mahul Creek (Extinguishment of Rights) Act, 1922.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The bill is introduced.

First reading. The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR: I beg to move the first reading of this bill.

Mr. President, in 1922 my honourable predecessor moved a bill in this House to extinguish all tidal rights and rights of navigation in the Mahul Creek. The present bill has been brought before the House in order to delete the words "tidal rights" and to give such amendment retrospective effect. I may inform the House that it was never intended to include the words "tidal rights" in the original Act. The original bill was introduced to enable the Port Trust to reconstruct the old bridge over the creek to carry its oil pipes. They have done nothing to interfere with tidal rights and they had not the slightest intention of stopping the sea from flowing up and down the creek. But unfortunately these words "tidal rights" somehow crept into the bill. The proof is to be found in the speech made by Sir Chimanlal Setalvad when he introduced the bill in 1922. There are two kinds of manufactures up the creek whose rights may be affected. They are chunam kiln owners and salt manufacturers. The tidal rights would only affect the salt factories. Sir Chimanlal Setalvad in moving the bill stated as follows :—

[Sir Cowasji Jehangir]

“As regards the salt manufacturers they will not be adversely affected for they will get their brine from the flow of water in the creek which will not be interfered with.” This clearly shows that there was no intention of stopping the flow of the tide in the creek. Up to now the Port Trust have of course done nothing to stop the flow and they do not propose to do anything. In the circumstances the words “tidal rights” are superfluous and should be deleted. Naturally honourable members would like to be convinced and assured that nobody’s interests will be affected. I have already said that no damage has been done to anybody as far as these tidal rights are concerned. It may be contended that since the words “tidal rights” had appeared in the bill some of the claimants may be adversely affected if we delete these words. Now, Sir, I am not a lawyer, but I do believe in equitable treatment, and it does not require a lawyer to be able to judge ordinarily whether anybody has been done any very serious damage if the facts are not complicated, and I contend that in the bill before us the facts are extraordinarily simple. Government had legislated in order to help the Port Trust to reconstruct a bridge. The Port Trust never intended to stop tidal rights. The words appear in the bill and claims are put in, but since Government intended to do no damage and have done no damage, surely Government are in a position to rectify any error in legislation whenever they choose to do so. If any great damage had been or was intended to be done I can understand honourable members opposing the passage of a bill of this sort. But since no damage has been done and never intended to be done, surely this House is in a position to see that any mistakes that may have been made are rectified. If any claims are put in, I contend that they can be only of two kinds. There can be damage already done, and there can be prospective damage, damage that might be done. No damage has been done, and therefore I do not think the first kind of claim for damages will be sustained. But since the Port Trust have the right at present, in the act as it stands, of stopping the flow of water up and down the creek, it may be contended by some owners of salt factories that the Port Trust may at any time stop the flow of water and may in the future probably do them some damage. (Suppose we delete the words “tidal rights and,” the amendment will have no effect so far as claims already alleged are concerned.) Therefore, the only claim that can be sustainable would be for damage that is to be done or may be done in the future. If we delete the words “tidal rights and” without retrospective effect, the Port Trust will have no right by legislation to stop those tidal rights and, therefore, all prospective damage disappears and vanishes. I contend, Sir, that, under any circumstances, the House can to-day safely and conscientiously omit these words “tidal rights and” from the act and can allow me to move all the three readings of the bill. I know there are some objections raised and I shall be quite open to conviction and shall be very pleased to hear honourable members. But I trust that I will get a clear indication as to whether they are really serious about taking this bill to a select committee. If they are really serious, I feel no hesitation at all to refer it to a select committee, but I hope they will allow me to move all the three readings to-day.

Question proposed.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : Mr. President, the House is very thankful to the Honourable the General Member for introducing this bill. It was a mistake done by his predecessor. . . . .

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Government.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : That means the same thing. Sir Chimanlal Setalvad was the Member in charge concerned. It is said that there was a slight error on his part that he did not drop these words "tidal rights and" and the present General Member thinks that it was a slight error and so no damage has been done. From this it is clear that the Honourable the General Member is not aware of what proceedings had been taken by the owners of salt pans and traders in salt before the Collector of Bombay. In fact, he says in these four years no damage has been done. But during these four years the Port Trust have developed their properties on that part of the island, specially in the east, and many salt pans in Matunga have been affected on account of this development of the Port Trust properties and their rights have been interfered with. So much so, that during the full tide the water does not rise to the height as it used to be before the development and so the salt pans do not receive sufficient water for their reservoirs. Sir, leaving this right to the Port Trust of extinguishing the tidal rights for the last five years since 1922. Government have directly helped the Port Trust and have forced the people to go in for litigation. As soon as claims were put. . . . .

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : For what ?

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : For damages when people did not get sufficient water for the salt pans.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Has the Port Trust. . . .

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Would the honourable member proceed ?

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : The Honourable the General Member is quite welcome, Sir, to put me any questions now.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Has the Port Trust done anything up to now to interfere with the tidal waves ?

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : That is what I said ; I said he was not aware of what the Port Trust had done in the east. As far as the reclamation of the Port Trust on the east is concerned it has affected the salt pans, and that is why I say the Port Trust have interfered with the rights of the salt pan owners, and if he wants to see more about it, I refer him to the Collector of Bombay, before whom the claims have been put in by the owners of salt pans.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : May I just ask one question, if you will allow me, Mr. President ? The honourable member says that the Port Trust have taken some action where they have been insulting to the people. Will he kindly say what action ?

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : By filling in the land on the other side of the creek and by stopping the flow of water. The Honourable the General Member says it has nothing to do with the tidal rights. If the water does not reach the salt pans owing to the action of the Port Trust, has not the Port Trust interfered with the rights of the salt pan owners ? What steps has he taken to remedy this ? Furthermore, as soon as claims are put in before the Collector of Bombay, no awards have been made up to now.....

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : I rise to a point of order. I find that the honourable member Sir Vasantrao Dabholkar is one of the claimants. My point of order is whether he has a right to address the House being personally interested in the matter.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : May I speak on the point of order ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : No ; I think I can decide it at once. The honourable member has a perfect right to speak on the subject before the House as a member of the House.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : I am very much thankful to you, Sir, for giving a ruling in my favour. I know that I am interested remotely in the question. I can speak, even I can move an amendment but I am not going to vote. I may tell the Honourable the General Member when the Rent Act was being discussed I had taken part in the discussion of the Rent Act though I was a landlord myself and as such interested personally. I am not talking only on my own behalf, but on behalf of the large number of salt pan owners and salt traders generally. If the Honourable the General Member wants me to be shut out from speaking, that is not the way that the General Member should do it.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Does the honourable member admit that he himself is one of the claimants and is personally interested ?

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : I do. On the contrary, the Honourable the General Member can get better information from me or persons interested in the matter, if he wants to do justice to those who are affected by the error of his predecessor. The Honourable the General Member has just expressed that if the House wishes he can commit the bill to a committee, but now on flimsy excuse he was trying to stifle me. That is not the correct way. Mr. President, the Honourable the General Member says, if any damage is to be done, it will be for the future. Then he understands or it comes in his mind that there may be damage done in the future, and that is why he wants to amend the section. But, when he says that, he admits of damage that will be done in the future, what about the damage already done, and what about the proceedings taken by the claimants and the owners of salt pans within the last four years ? Now, again, they will have to have fresh proceedings because the bill has been brought before the House. Thereby, the claimants who have already lost during the last four years, have to go in for fresh litigation. May I know whether the Honourable the General Member is going to make all the losses good because of the "slight error" of his predecessor? I expected him to place all the facts before the House, but the facts have not been placed.

Then, the question of navigation comes in. If they want to take public land as a portion required for carrying out some scheme, for the supply of petrol, for instance, what are they doing? They have been destroying the trade of the poor people for supplying the luxuries to the rich people. Ever since the navigation has been stopped, the traders of chunam and the traders in salt have suffered very heavily. They have to send the chunam and salt as export by railway which costs more than by sending the same by boats, and the honourable House will agree with me that they have to pay higher freight than what they paid when it was carried by navigation, by boats. In the old days, when the bridge was there, the case was different. Whenever boats had to pass, the bridge was removed. There has been a great loss to these people who have been trading in chunam. It is said that these people have been provided site at Ghatkopar. How will it benefit the people of Bombay to get chunam from Ghatkopar? They will have to pay more cartage. I am sure the Honourable the General Member will agree that it is not only a loss to the traders but it is a loss to those who want to purchase chunam and sand. Under those circumstances, I bring these facts to the notice of this honourable House, and as an assurance has been given by the Honourable the General Member that if necessity arises he will send the bill to a select committee, I hope he will act up to his word.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE (Bombay City): Sir, I request Government to adjourn this bill until next Monday to be taken up after the Port Trust bill. My reasons are that some salt merchants had come to discuss this matter with me only this morning and I told them that the Port Trust Bill would be taken up first. I have not had an opportunity of discussing the matter with them, but I do agree with some of the arguments advanced by my honourable friend Sir Vasantao, and I am sure that if the Honourable the General Member gives us some time, we shall be able to convince him that this bill as it stands is not so innocent as it looks. The interests of salt manufacturers are gravely affected and I think that it is not advisable for Government to try to get this bill passed in such a hurry when actually claims have been put before a tribunal for adjustment and those claims are likely to be prejudiced by the passing of this bill. I therefore request Government to give an assurance that the bill will be taken up on Monday after the Port Trust Bill.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangir: Sir, I think my honourable friend Sir Vasantao has rather confused the issues and therefore I would like to point out how he has confused the issues. But before doing so, I would like to ask if it would not suit the honourable member Mr. Hooseinbhoy Lalljee to have the bill sent to a select committee with instructions to report by Monday next. If this suggestion is agreeable to the honourable member, I will move for a select committee when the proper time comes after the bill passes the first reading.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : That is agreeable to me, Sir.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : May I know why there should be such a hurry to have the select committee's report on Monday ? Why should we not postpone it till the next session so that the members of the select committee might visit the place, ascertain the damage done and then write their report ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I think the motion now before the House is more limited than that. There is a motion for adjournment of the bill till next Monday and a suggestion has been made that the bill should be submitted to a select committee, and that suggestion has been accepted. As to when that committee should report would be considered when a committee is being formed. Does the honourable member Mr. Hooseinbhoy Lalljee withdraw his motion for adjournment ?

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : I withdraw it, Sir, if the Honourable the General Member gives an assurance that the select committee's report will be submitted on Monday next.

An Honourable MEMBER : Can discussion proceed ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The House is entitled to discuss the question. I was only considering the question of the time of the House. I do not know whether any honourable members would like to discuss the question further.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Sir, since the existing Act was passed, proceedings have been taken by the Collector of Bombay under section 7 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, and notices were issued against the owners of salt pans. Losses were gone into but no awards have been made yet. Now, Government want to prejudice the claims of those merchants who will probably not be given any compensation if this bill passes into law. For this reason it is dangerous to allow this bill to proceed further.

The owners of salt pans have also sent a memorial to H. E. the Governor and under these circumstances, I do not think it would be wise or just on our part to allow this bill to be passed. Therefore, I ask the House to consider the matter very carefully before they agree to pass the first reading of the bill, as the bill, if passed, would be sure to ruin the poor salt pan owners.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Sir, I think my honourable friend Sir Vasantrao has rather confused the issues. Under this Act there are two kinds of rights which are extinguished, namely, tidal rights and the rights of navigation. The bill at present before you does not touch the rights of navigation. That remains in the Act. It is only the tidal rights which we are now talking about. The Act as it stands at present gives the owners of property a claim for damages if any damage has been done by the re-construction of the bridge. It gives the owners of properties no claims if damage has been done by anybody else in any other way. When I asked my honourable friend Sir Vasantao as to whether any damage had been done by the Port Trust, he said, "yes". When I asked him how they had done that damage he said "by filling some land which had caused silting". Now, that has nothing to do with the Act which we are trying to amend. The Act is merely concerned with any damage done by the re-construction of the bridge, and if the bridge has done no damage so far as the tidal rights are concerned, then no damage is claimable. That is the position.

Now, my honourable friend has confused the issues by stating that damage has been done by some filling. That may be or that may not be. We are not at all concerned with that. My honourable friend may contend that at some other creek round about Bombay the Port Trust has done some filling which has caused silting. Property owners have their remedies in law against the Port Trust if any damage has been done by such filling. They will have the same remedy in the case of the Mahul Creek. That has nothing to do with this bill. The bill is concerned with claims for damages if the damages have been done by the re-construction of the bridge. That is where he has confused the issues.

Then my honourable friend went on to talk about the damage done by navigation. Damage may have been done by navigation. If any damage is done, there is section 3 of the Act which will compensate the owners of both chunam kilns and salt pans. If any damage has been done to navigation, my honourable friend will get his damages.

I hope the House will pass the first reading of the bill, after which I will move for the appointment of a select committee.

Bill read a first time. Question put and carried.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Sir, I move that the bill be referred to a select committee of the following members, to report by Monday next, 4 to form a quorum. The matter is a simple one, and I think we might as well finish it at this session ; otherwise, it will go on to the July session. It is not a difficult matter, and I think the honourable members whose names I shall mention will be able to tackle this question very easily by Monday next. The members will be :

Mr. Hooseinbhoj A. Lalljee,
 Mr. P. J. Marzban,
 Mr. K. M. Munshi,
 Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale,
 Sir Vasantao A. Dabholkar,
 The Remembrancer of Legal Affairs,
 Mr. J. C. Swaminarayan,
 Moulvi Rafiuddin Ahmad, and
 The Honourable Member in charge.

Question proposed.

Sir VASANTRAO A. DABHOLKAR : Sir, may I ask the Honourable the General Member why there should be any haste about this bill ? He has charged me that I have mixed the issues. On the contrary, I say that the Honourable the General Member has mixed the issues.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. I suppose the honourable member proposes that the report should be made at a later date than Monday next ?

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : I move an amendment that the committee should report at the next session of the Council.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE (Bombay City) : Sir, I should like to move an amendment that the select committee appointed by the Honourable the General Member should report as soon as possible. My amendment is :

“ Delete the words ‘ by Monday next ’ and insert ‘ as soon as possible ’ ”.

If the Honourable the General Member calls a meeting of the committee tomorrow or the day after, we will attend the meeting, and if we are able to finish our deliberations, we will certainly report by Monday next. But we cannot undertake to report by Monday next, because there are questions on which we will have to consult some people who will be coming down from Bombay.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM (Eastern Sind) : Sir, I wish to say only a few words on the amendment of the honourable member Sir Vasantao. I gathered from his speech that the difficulty which he feels and which the select committee will, he thinks, experience if the report is called for by Monday next will be that there might be a desire to see the actual site. I do not know whether that is necessary, but even if it be necessary, we have a Sunday intervening, and it will be possible for six of the members of the Committee to go to Bombay, see the site, and come back, before Monday next.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : “ As soon as possible ” is the amendment.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : “ As soon as possible ” would not be in order ; there must be some fixed time.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : “ As soon as possible ” is indefinite ; it has no meaning.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangir : Sir, I regret to have to oppose the amendment. My object is not to hurry this honourable House or to rush it. These bills, if postponed, will go to the next July session. Bills, generally of this kind, are not brought on the agenda at the Budget session. The House is much too busy then ; only very important matters are brought on the agenda then. Therefore, it is to our interest to finish off this sort of work at this session, and therefore, I have proposed that the select committee should report by Monday next. As a matter of fact, if my honourable friends had not expressed such a strong desire for further consideration, I should have pressed for all the three readings today, and it is in order to convince my honourable friends that there is nothing very much in this bill that I have moved for the select committee, and I feel confident that by Monday next I shall be in a position to come before this House and say that we are more or less unanimous. Of course, it might be that the honourable member Sir Vasant Rao may differ from us. But I think that we shall be able to finish the work by Monday next, and very little time of the House would be taken.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN rose.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : That is the final reply given.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN : I want to request the Honourable the General Member to kindly make it convenient for the committee to report within one month.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : That does not make any difference.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN : It does. The select committee must have some time. Monday is too short a period.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The reply has been given, and if I allow, there would be no end to these suggestions.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : Can I reply to the Honourable Member, because I have moved my amendment ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The amendment that the select committee should report before the next session is before the House.

Question put and lost.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : I propose that the committee should report within a month, as suggested by the honourable member Mr. Marzban.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : It comes to the same thing as saying that the committee should report before the next session.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : I will give my reasons.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I think sufficient has been said on the point. This is hardly a new amendment ; to report in one month would mean next session.

A point of order was raised a little while ago by the Honourable the General Member whether an honourable member who is directly interested in a matter before the House can speak on it. I then gave my ruling that as a member of the House he can speak. I have looked into the matter further within the short time at my disposal, and the ruling I then gave is correct, namely, that he can speak on it. The practice of the House of Commons has been that the honourable member cannot vote, provided he is directly connected with the matter under discussion. It was pointed out by the Honourable the General Member, and I understand it is so, that the honourable member Sir Vasant Rao Dabholkar admits that he is a claimant in the matter. I think the same principle should apply in the select committee. The honourable member would, under that convention, be entitled to speak and take part in the deliberations of the select committee, but he may not vote.

The original motion to refer the bill to a select committee was then put Bill referred to select committee. to the vote and carried.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: As to the next business I must take the sense of the House. As suggested by the Leader of the House we sat half an hour earlier than usual to-day and half an hour after questions was given to Government business which finished at 3 o'clock. But this matter went on for 10 minutes more. Therefore non-official business is begun from this moment. The Leader of the House suggests that Government business may be allowed to continue and whatever time is taken up by Government business will be made up afterwards.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: I do not wish to make any change in the proposal which I made the other day which was kindly accepted by the House. Instead of breaking up Government business every half hour I think that it will suit the convenience of the House as well as that of the Government benches if we go on with Government business today. It will not take more than an hour and all the additional time will still be given to non-official business as we will continue to meet half an hour earlier thus completing the full 5 days.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Is the House agreeable to the proposal? (Honourable members indicated their assent).

BILL NO. XXX OF 1927 (A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE BOMBAY CHILDREN ACT, 1924).

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: Sir, I introduce *Bill No. XXX of 1927 (A Bill further to amend the Bombay Children Act, 1924).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The bill is introduced.
First reading.

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: This, Sir, is a very simple little bill. I hope it will command the unanimous agreement of the House. The Children Act, after some considerable delay, was brought into force on the 1st of May of this year. It has been in force now for a little over four months. In the course of this time no fewer than 273 children have been dealt with in the Children's Home which I think must be regarded as a very good beginning indeed. In the course of the proceedings it has been found that there are one or two minor defects in the Act which need to be rectified. One of the first things done was to establish a juvenile court under section 46 of the Children Act. The juvenile court consists of a salaried presidency magistrate and a lady honorary magistrate. As it is a juvenile court, not a presidency magistrate's court, although a Presidency magistrate presides over it, the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code which apply to presidency magistrates' courts do not apply to it. Therefore two small changes have been proposed now.

[Mr. J. E. B. Hotson]

The first is merely to place the juvenile court in the same position as if it were a presidency magistrate's court. That is to say, the examination need not be reduced to writing but it may be reduced to writing beforehand if the magistrate thinks it necessary. The next is the question of appeal. An appeal from a presidency magistrate's court lies to High Court. Under section 51(a) it is not provided where an appeal from a juvenile court in Bombay City should lie. Elsewhere it lies to a district magistrate, but there is no district magistrate in Bombay, and so it has been found necessary to provide specially for Bombay. Appeals will be very few; seldom are there legal advisers in these cases; seldom is there really any dispute at all. But we must provide for the event of an appeal coming from this court. If we were to deal with the juvenile court as if it were a presidency magistrate's court the appeal would lie to the High Court. But these petty matters in which small children are concerned are not suitable to be taken to the High Court, nor is the procedure of the High Court, terrifying and dignified as it is, suitable for these children. We do not want unnecessarily to take up the time of the High Court on petty matters; on the other hand, our object is that the procedure in the juvenile court shall be as simple as possible, as like as possible to that of a father dealing with his own child. So we have thought, as we have to make provision, that it is best to say that the appeal should lie to the Chief Presidency Magistrate and not to the High Court. The House will agree that this is both wise and economical. I do not think that I need say anything further and hope the House will consent to pass all the three readings in this session.

Question proposed.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE (Bombay City): Sir, I support the first reading of the bill. I wish to make one suggestion. It may happen that the presidency magistrate who tried the case may act or be appointed as Chief presidency magistrate. In that case it will not be possible for him to hear the appeal from his own decision. I hope the Honourable the Home Member will see that this difficulty does not occur in making the provision.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD (Central Division): Sir, I rise to support the first reading of this bill. I would be wanting in my duty if I do not express my appreciation of the services which the Honourable the Home Member has done in connection with this bill. As you know I was not a little responsible for this bill. Even the adjournment of this bill for the succeeding session was moved by me. In a conversation with the previous Leader of the House Sir Maurice Hayward, he expressed great doubts with regard to the working of this bill. I am glad to say that the Honourable the Home Member has done his best and has brought the bill into working order. He really deserves the congratulation of this House. With these words I support the first reading.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind): Sir, I congratulate the Honourable the Home Member for having taken a personal interest in the bill, though he is not responsible for bringing the original bill. The present amendment is in the interests of the children in providing an agency that may perform paternal rather than punitive functions. I support the first reading and hope that the House will pass the first reading of this bill.

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI : Sir, as it stands it is a simple bill and I support the first reading.

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : Sir, with regard to the question raised by the honourable member Mr. Lalljee, if a magistrate who tries a case in a juvenile court afterwards becomes the Chief Presidency Magistrate and has to hear the appeal, it is within the power of Government to appoint an Additional Chief Presidency Magistrate and so get over the difficulty.

BILL NO. XXXI OF 1927 (A BILL TO AMEND THE BOMBAY PRIMARY EDUCATION ACT, 1923)

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Sir, I introduce Bill * No. XXXI of 1927 (A Bill to amend the Bombay Primary Education Act, 1923).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Bill No. XXXI of 1927 (A Bill to amend the Bombay Primary Education Act, 1923) is introduced.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Sir, I move that the bill be read a first time. The section that is
First reading. sought to be amended is section 9 (1) of the Primary Education Act. The sentence that is sought to be amended runs thus :

“The local authority shall, on the recommendation of the school board and with the approval of the Government, appoint an officer who shall be called the School Board Administrative Officer.”

This sentence has been interpreted differently by Local Authorities and School Boards. It was interpreted that if the school board made a recommendation, the local authority was not bound to accept it. But certain school boards said that their recommendation was bound to be accepted. Of course the local authority should be bound to consider the recommendation, but should not be bound to accept it, because the local authority has been given the power to make the appointment and it is the local authority which finances the school board. Under these circumstances it has been thought necessary, in order to remove the doubt to amend section 9, by putting in the words “after considering the suggestions, if any,” in place of the words “on the recommendation.” The question came up from the Surat School Board calling into question the power of the local authority to reject the recommendation. The Bandra local board took up the position that they refused to make any recommendation so that the local authority would not be in a position to make the appointment. In these circumstances, it is absolutely essential to set all doubts at rest, and therefore this measure has been brought forward as an urgent measure, and I would request the honourable House to allow me to carry this bill through all the readings in this session.

Question proposed.

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI (Ahmedabad and Surat Cities) : Sir, it is more than  $4\frac{1}{2}$  years since the Primary Education Act was passed, and yet out of the five district local boards in Gujarat, four have not taken advantage of the Act. There are various sections and rules made under the Act about whose interpretation Government had to publish in the Government Gazette from time to time the exact meaning after consulting the Advocate General and the Remembrancer of Legal Affairs to Government. The Act has been found unworkable owing to the difference between Government and the local authorities as regards finance and control of primary education. The Act requires to be overhauled. Meanwhile I support this bill.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Sir, it has been stated in the statement of objects and reasons : “It is evident that such could not have been the intention of the legislature,” but I wish to point out that such was the intention of the legislature. When Bill No. IV of 1923 was under discussion in this Council, the Honourable Dr. Paranjpye wanted to provide in the bill that the school board should be an autonomous authority in order that even if a local authority would non-co-operate, the school board would be able to carry on its functions. The Government intended that the Act should be so framed as to make the school board an autonomous body, altogether independent of the local authority, as soon as it was constituted. That was the reason why this clause was so framed as to make the recommendation of the school board prevail without allowing the local authority to have any say in the matter. Now, Government have changed their views, and Government wish that the local authority should be the parent body and the school board should be the child of that parent body. The position between these two bodies is very difficult to describe ; one may be called the parent body and the other the child body. The object of this bill is to provide that the recommendation of the school board shall not be binding on the local authority, while the intention of the legislature when passing the original Act was to make the school board an autonomous body.

The difficulty has been pointed out by the Honourable Minister that there are deadlocks between the school boards and the local authorities. But I wish to urge that if this bill is passed into law, these deadlocks which take place between the school boards and the local authorities may not arise, but deadlocks will happen within the school board itself. Because here it is stated that the local authority should consider the suggestion of the school board and then they may appoint whom they please. Now it may happen that the school board and the local authority may not be on good terms and by the passage of this Act the local authority may force a chief administrative officer whom the school board may not like. In that case the deadlock between the school board and the local authority will be transferred to the school board itself. What will happen ? The chief administrative officer will defy the chairman and vice chairman and the members of the school board will practically make the school board nugatory. If the chief administrative officer is powerful he will rule the authorities of the school board. I should therefore like that the bill should not be passed in its present form. It should be altered so that the conflict may disappear. I would like the Honourable Minister to consider the matter carefully and not to pass this measure in a hurry. It is necessary that the cause of conflict should be removed wherever it is likely to occur.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT (Surat City) : Sir, I rise to support the bill and in doing so I want to state in the first place that my honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan seems to have misunderstood the principle underlying the Primary Education Act altogether. It has never been said in the Act anywhere that the school board is absolutely independent of the local authority under which it has to work. On the contrary section 4 definitely states that the school board shall be subject to the general control of the local authority. It means that the local authority has got a sort of controlling power over the school board. Secondly my honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan said that the school board was not the child of the Local Authority. I submit

[Dr. M. K. Dixit]

Sir, that it was not the case. On the contrary the school board was the child of the parent body—the local authority—because the school board is to be elected by the local authority. I further submit that the school board was a subordinate body and local authority was the controlling body. He further said that the deadlocks which are likely to be created between the school board and the local authority on account of the existing section will be transferred if the Act is amended as proposed within the school board itself. But I do not think so. The section as it stands is certainly ambiguous and urgently requires to be amended. It is capable of three different interpretations. In the first place it means that on the recommendation of the school board and with the approval of Government the local authority shall appoint the administrative officer. Then it can be interpreted that as soon as the school board comes into existence it will make a recommendation to the local authority meaning to say “now that we have taken over the charge of the education department you can proceed with the appointment of an administrative officer.” That is one interpretation. Another interpretation is this. It is a curious interpretation indeed. The words as they exist in the section to-day are that on the recommendation of the school board and with the approval of Government the local authority shall appoint its administrative officer. The sequence of words as they exist in the section are capable of being interpreted as follows, viz., that the school Board will first recommend an administrative officer. Then his name will be sent up to Government for approval and lastly the local authority shall appoint him. This is a very absurd and ridiculous interpretation and a most unnatural interpretation yet, such an interpretation has been put upon this section. The most natural interpretation of the section can only be, that the school board should recommend a few names out of a number of candidates for the appointment for the administrative officer and the local authority shall select either any one of them or they can select a man from outside the names recommended by the school board; and after the appointment has been made by the local authority the name may be sent for the approval of Government. This is the correct interpretation of the section; and it should be so because the expenditure to be incurred by the school board is to be met by two parties,—the local authority and the Government in the proportion of half and half as far as major municipalities are concerned; and it is quite natural that those who pay the expenditure should be in a position to control the appointment of the administrative officer. Under the circumstances this sort of ambiguity in the section should be removed and this amendment should be accepted by the House.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District): I rise to support the first reading of this bill. As regards the history of this bill I may state that I received a request from the Rander municipality to insert this amendment. It is at my request that the Honourable Minister has brought in this bill.

[Mr. H. B. Shivdasani]

I was rather surprised at the argument advanced by the honourable member Mr. Swaminarayan and I think to some extent he has been answered by the honourable member from Surat city. Section 9 provides that the appointment should be made by the local authority. If the school board recommends one man and says "if you want to appoint any man, appoint this man or don't make any appointment at all." That is absurd. If the school board refuses to recommend any one then also the local authority cannot exercise the right of making the appointment which is conferred upon it by the section. Surely no honourable member can maintain that the powers which it confers upon certain bodies should not be exercised by them and that some other body which is expressly subordinate to it should interfere with this right or arrogate the right to itself. I think the point is quite clear. The original intention of the legislature was that the appointment should be made by the local authority and it could never have been its intention that if the school board recommends only one man the local authority should be bound to accept the recommendation and to appoint him although he may be most unsuitable. I therefore maintain that in bringing this amending bill we are merely carrying out the original intention underlying the section of the original Act. With these words I support the bill.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN. Sir, to my mind the original intention of section 9 as it stands was that the final authority should be the local authority. Therefore, purposely, the words "on the recommendation of the school board" were inserted in the clause. The recommendation is, after all, a recommendation. It is for the final authority either to accept or to reject that recommendation. Therefore, even as the section stands, the final authority is the local authority, and the school boards, I might say, were arrogating to themselves the authority that the administrative officer should be appointed only on their recommendation. Now, this bill has been brought to clear the ambiguity and the words have been inserted, "The local authority shall after considering the suggestions, if any," and so on, appoint the administrative officer. Now, the insertion of those words will leave no room for quarrels between the school boards and the local authorities. The contention of my honourable friend from Ahmedabad rural that the original intention of the Act was to make the school board independent and autonomous is inconsistent with the other provisions of the Act. I would draw the attention of this honourable House to section 4, which says :

"From such date as the Government may direct in this behalf in respect of each school board, and subject to the general control of the local authority, the school board shall exercise and perform such powers and duties as may be enacted in or prescribed under this Act."

That clearly shows that the school board has to work under the general control and supervision of the local authority. Then, I would refer honourable members to sub-section (3) of section 4 :

"The school board shall submit its annual budget and all alterations therein for the sanction of the local authority."

[Sir Ghulam Hussain]

That is to say, the final power, the power of the purse, is also with the local authorities, not with the school board. If the original intention of the legislature had been to make the school boards autonomous and independent of the local authority, surely, they would not have given the power of the purse to the local authority. And that is a very great power. If their intention had been to make them autonomous, they could not have left them to the tender mercies of the local authority. They may pass or reject the budget as they like. Again, Sir, sub-section (4) of section 4 says :

"The school board shall further exercise such powers and perform such duties in respect of any educational purpose as may be delegated to it by the local authority or any such municipality as aforesaid."

All these sub-sections of section 4 clearly show that the school board is a subordinate body to the local authority. Further, Sir, if we look to the constitution of the school board, there we have not only members of the local boards as members, but outsiders, too ; and even local boards do, under the authority they have under the Act, send in outsiders to the school boards. Therefore, when the local boards pay for the expenses of the school board, and when the school board can consist of outsiders, I do not think the original intention of the legislature could be to make the school board independent of the local authority, which provides the funds for the purpose. With these remarks, I support the first reading of this bill.

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR (East Khandesh District) : Sir, I rise to support the first reading of this bill. As the section stands at present, I think that if no recommendation is made, the local authority cannot make an appointment of the administrative officer, and I would just like to cite an actual example which occurred and which resulted not only in a deadlock but also brought about a calamity. I refer to the Jalgaon municipality. The school board of that local authority and the municipality had differences between them, and the school board refused to make any recommendation, with the result that no administrative officer was appointed for a certain time and there was consequently slack supervision all over. It resulted in a building having fallen and certain pupils being killed as a result of that accident. Naturally, the question was started as to who was responsible for not appointing an administrative officer. The local authority said there was no recommendation from the school board for the appointment and, therefore, no appointment of administrative officer was made. And the school board said that they were not the persons who were authorised to make the appointment of the administrative officer of the school board. The result was that on account of this higgling and deadlock between the local authority and the school board certain pupils were, as a matter of fact, killed. The accident which resulted in the death of these pupils could easily have been averted, if there was the responsible administrative officer. Because there was nobody to supervise all these things, except the chairman alone who had to look to his private business as well, all this happened. Therefore, I give my support to the first reading of this bill.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City) : Sir, I do not agree with the previous speakers who have spoken upon this bill. I agree with my honourable friend from Ahmedabad rural with regard to the powers and also the intention of this legislation when it was enacted. Sir, I have been a member of the school board of the Karachi municipality and we have all along taken and worked upon the lines that the school boards are autonomous bodies, and although the general powers of supervision.....

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Under what Act ?

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : The Primary Education Act. Sir, the Primary Education Act creates under section 4 a school board, though it has to work under the general supervision of the municipality, it has far greater powers than any committees which have been created by the municipality for various purposes. Now, I want to draw very pointed attention of the Honourable Minister with regard to the appointments other than that of the administrative officer which lie in the power of the municipality. Sir, under the District Municipal Act, the managing committee appoints a sub-committee to make selections for the appointment of particular individual officers.....

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : There is nothing in the Municipal Act.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : There is. That is the procedure followed in the Karachi municipality under the District Municipal Act. The honourable member's Sukkur municipality is too small. Sir, I am telling you exactly the procedure which we are following in the Karachi municipality. The managing committee usually forwards the recommendation which a special sub-committee appointed for the purpose of recommending the appointment of an individual officer makes, and ultimately it goes to the municipality. But the municipality cannot appoint any one besides the names recommended by the sub-committee and forwarded by the managing committee to the municipality. Three or four names are usually recommended,—and that is under the Act,—and it is only out of those particular individuals recommended by the sub-committee that the appointment has got to be made.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : There is no provision in the Act, Sir.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : It may not be in the Honourable Minister's education Act, but I say it is under the District Municipal Act, and I say that is how appointments are usually made. Here is a body which has certainly got larger powers, a body like the school board, with larger powers than the ordinary statutory committees appointed under the District Municipal Act for its own functions, and it will have far less powers than those sub-committees or the other statutory committees, if the amendment is accepted. Sir, the very intention of the recommendation of the school board is that they should secure to themselves an officer who will be loyal in carrying out the orders and the general administration which the school board may desire from time to time. According to the Honourable the Minister's amendment, it merely says that whatever suggestions the school board may make, the local authority may turn them down and make the appointment as they like. I do not think that that is a proper way of doing the thing. He has pointed out a case of one or two municipalities as instances of refusal to make recommendations at all. If that is the position, he could have brought a separate amending bill so as to make it possible for municipalities to appoint officers where the school-boards fail to make recommendations by a particular date. But to say that merely because one or two school boards have not thought fit and proper on account of certain difficulties which they may have with the parent body, that the whole power of the school board to make the recommendation should be taken away is very surprising, to say the least. In the Karachi school board we have not had that difficulty at any time and the Honourable the Education Minister has not shown to us whether any local authorities or school boards have approached him with the request for a change of this kind. He merely quoted one municipality, that of Surat or some other place, but I think that is not sufficient to justify his doing away with an important provision like this. Whatever may be the general idea now prevailing in the House with regard to the Education Act, the fact remains that these school boards have usually been regarded as some thing very superior to other sub-committees appointed by municipalities for various functions and when once the budget is passed, the school board has the fullest authority to go on spending and administering their department.

There is a special fund created for the use of the school board for educational purposes. The fund goes on accumulating and the chairman of the school board has got the power to draw upon this fund. Such power is not exercised by other sub-committees of the municipalities. It is only in the case of the school boards that all these powers have been given and if no extra powers are given to the school boards, I do not know where was the necessity of having this separate Act. The District Municipalities Act has already made provision for primary education. Only the Government has committed themselves to contribute something by statute to the extent of half the expenses. That is the only difference ; otherwise, this would merely be a sub-committee of the municipality and as such a separate Act would hardly seem to be necessary. I think the local authorities ought not to trample upon the power which has been given to the school boards.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Satara District) : Sir, I will add only one word. I was present when the Primary Education Act was discussed in Select Committee and I was also present when the District Local Boards Act was so discussed, and I am prepared to say that my honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan is not correct when he states that when the Act was framed, the intention was to give the school board the right of appointing its own administrative officer. In fact, certain clauses which now appears in the Primary Education Act were also in the Local Boards Act and therefore they were taken out from the latter and embodied in the present Primary Education Act, and therefore it seems to me that there was no intention whatsoever to give the power independently to the school boards to make the appointments of administrative officers. Virtually, now, in fact the section is not capable of any other interpretation but that, but somehow a doubt has arisen and I only wish to say that the original intention was very clear.

Mr. M. S. KHUHRO (Larkana District): Sir, I am a member of a district local board and also of its school board. I think the school board should be given full powers of supervision and control because it is not possible for the president of a district local board to look after the affairs of the school board in addition to the affairs of the district local board. In the case of a municipality, there is a compact area and the president of a municipality can therefore afford time to look after its affairs personally. In the case of a district local board with a very large area under its control, it is not so possible. I would like to know from the Honourable the Minister for Education whether his present suggestion has emanated from any presidents of local authorities or of school boards. I do not think that it has come from the presidents of school boards. The administrative officer is the direct subordinate of the school board and his actions are controlled and supervised by the chairman of the school board. The chairman knows more about the working of the school board's affairs than the president of the local authority. I think therefore that it will not be desirable to create discord between the president of a district local board and the chairman of its school board, which would be the result if the bill is passed. Already there are many complications with the consequence that proposals submitted by the school board are thrown out for insufficient reasons and for reasons of prejudice, etc., by the local authority. If the power of the school board is further reduced as is now sought to be done, the school board administrative officer will be likely to grow more and more independent of the chairman of the school board knowing, as he would, that he was the creature of the local authority and that he could afford to set at naught the authority of the school board. That is my difficulty and I hope the Honourable the Minister will try and solve that difficulty and tell me what has actuated him to bring forward the present bill.

Rao Bahadur S. N. ANGADI (Belgaum District): Sir, I rise to support the bill. I must say that my honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan is clearly under a wrong impression. His idea is that if the proposed amendment to section 9 of the Primary Education Act is passed there will be a deadlock in the administration of the school board's affairs. The honourable member is entirely mistaken in holding the view. I think, he must be aware of the rules framed by Government and of powers given them under free and compulsory Primary Education Act. Under these rules it is the local authority which creates the school board. That being so, there is no reason why there should be any discord between the school board and the local authority. The party which is in majority in the local authority shall certainly command majority, even in the school board. Under ordinary circumstances therefore, there should be no hitch between the school board on the one hand and the local authority on the other. The section, as it stands, is likely to be misinterpreted and to obviate the difficulty of double interpretation on the wording of the section I think the amendment should be passed. The local authority is the supreme body creating the school board. Therefore, I think it is necessary that the important post of administrative officer should be filled by it, and not by the school board though the wishes of the latter should be given due consideration ; and as I stated before, there is no reason why there should be any discord between the local authority and the school board. It is hardly in one case out of a hundred that some discord may arise. In view of the facts disclosed in the speech delivered by the Honourable the Minister for Education, it is necessary to have the proposed amendment. I therefore give my whole-hearted support to it. I hope the House will take a dispassionate view of the proposed legislation and allow it to be passed.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE (Ahmednagar District) : Sir, I rise to oppose the amending bill that is before the House. Sir, the Act, as it stood, provided that, on the recommendation of the district school board the local authority was to make the selection of the administrative officer. Now, I do not find exactly what was the difficulty with which Government were confronted. The local authorities have worked very well ; the school boards recommended their own men for the appointment, and the local authorities appointed the men. I do not know whether Government have any case of any serious tension between the local authority and the district school board, and I cannot see the reason which prompted Government in bringing in this amending bill. I find that every attempt is being made on the part of Government to deprive the district school boards of their powers. I may bring to the notice of the House that, as far as the district school board of Ahmednagar is concerned, Government have passed a special Government Resolution for that district school board only, and not for the rest of the presidency, that even the supervisors are to be appointed by the district local board and not by the district school board. That is really strange. So, I find that every attempt is being made on behalf of the Government to shear the district school boards of their powers, which they legitimately claim under the Act and the rules made thereunder, and this is a new attempt to deprive the school boards of their powers.

Sir, I consider that if this amending bill is passed and comes into operation, then what will happen is exactly this : there will be great tension between the district school board and the district local board, because the administrative officer, if he comes to be appointed by the local authority, will be an officer of the district local board and not of the district school board ; he will rule over the heads of the members of the district school board, because his master is the local board and not the school board. He will override the decisions of the school board, do things in his own way, and try to create dissensions among the members of the school board. Thus, there will be greater fight. There is already a little tension between the district school boards and the district local boards, not on account of the appointment of the administrative officer, but on account of certain other matters, and if the appointment of the administrative officer is left into the hands of the district local board, then it will create further dissensions between the two bodies. For the harmonious working of the two bodies, it is highly essential that an officer of the standing of the administrative officer should be a man selected and appointed by the school board, because he has to supervise over the work of the supervisors, who are the servants of the school board. Hence, the former arrangement was quite good. I do not see any reason why this amending bill is brought, and I do not think this is going to solve the problem. This will create more tension and more difficulties and more discord in the present circumstances. I therefore oppose the bill.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District) : Sir, I rise to support the bill. The section, as it stands in the Act, at present has been responsible for great tension between the local authorities and the school boards, and if there is anything to say at present, it is only this, that this amending bill has been brought none too soon. The Honourable Minister gave only one instance of the Surat Municipality about the appointment of the administrative officer, with regard to which there is tension between the local authority and the school board, but I will give other instances also. I may cite instances of Bulsar, Rander, and other places. Everywhere, you will see that, on account of the recommendation to be made by the school board, tension has been created at the time of the appointment of the administrative officer. My honourable friend Mr. Khuhro says that by giving the right of appointment to the local authority, the power of the school board will be taken away. I cannot see how by the appointment of the administrative officer by the local authority the power of the school boards is going to be diminished or taken away. It must be remembered that the school board is a body created to function under the local authority. That was the spirit of the Act, and section 4 (1) of the Act says :

“ From such date as the Government may direct in this behalf in respect of each school board, and subject to the general control of the local authority, the school board shall exercise and perform such powers and duties as may be enacted in or prescribed under this Act. ”

Sub-section (4) of section 4 lays down :

“ The school board shall further exercise such powers and perform such duties in respect of any educational purpose as may be delegated to it by the local authority or any such municipality as aforesaid. ”

Therefore, as far as the powers of the school board are concerned, they are to be delegated to it by the local authority. It is the local authority which has to pay for the administrative officer, in fact for the whole of the administration of the school board, and it is but right that the local authority should have the power of appointing the administrative officer. The school board is a subordinate body, under the general control of the local authority, and it is but fair that the power of the appointment of the administrative officer should be kept in the hands of the local authority, which is the bigger body responsible for the expansion of education in the area under its control. Therefore, I say this is a wholesome amendment of the Act which was required long ago, and I whole-heartedly support it.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ ABDUL LATIF (Central Division): Sir, I rise to oppose the bill. The point is that the school board is constituted on quite a different principle from that upon which the local authority is constituted. In the school board you find that there are so many communities represented as well as an educational expert is also given a seat. Therefore the recommendation which they make to the local authority is based on some principle. It is just possible that in the bigger body, namely, the local authority, the educational expert, and the representatives of other communities, may not be present but the school board must consist of all of these persons. So, their recommendation really deserves to be respected. The amending bill makes the position of the school board quite different to what it is at present, that is, it makes the school board completely subordinate to the local authority. Moreover, when the administrative officer is appointed by the local authority, as he will be under this bill, he will not be as amenable to the school board as he will be to the local authority. For all time, the administrative officer is subordinate to the school board, and everything that he does is done under the guidance of the school board. If he is to be appointed solely by the local authority, he will not pay so much attention to the orders of the school board as he will do to the orders of the local authority.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City) (Addressed the House in Urdu): Sir, the Honourable Minister has brought forward this bill to give power to the local authority to make the appointment of the administrative officer of the school board. I am not able to understand which school boards the Honourable Minister has in mind as instances in which the appointment of the administrative officer by the school board has led to loss. Sir, as a member of the Karachi municipality, I may say that this power has been enjoyed by the school boards only for three years, and during that period I think the selections of the school boards for this post have been approved by Government. Now, the school boards are constituted of men chosen by the local authorities, and they are selected after due consideration. The Karachi municipality has got the power of appointing its own administrative officer. If the municipality does not like his work it will dismiss him. The power to appoint the administrative officer should vest in the municipality or local board concerned.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind): Sir, I am surprised at the way in which the discussion has proceeded. So long as the Act remains we have got the admitted fact that the appointment of the administrative officer who is the chief executive officer of the school board is dependent on the will of the local authority. Now, there is no question of the appointment of the administrative officer independent of the local authority or the Government. All honourable members who opposed this amendment have proceeded on the assumption that the power of appointing the administrative officer is given by the Act to the school board and not to the local authority. At present the power of appointing the administrative officer is given so far as local authorities are concerned to the local authorities. The school board is only to make a recommendation but he is to be finally appointed by the local authority, with the approval of Government. So the grounds, on which the discussion has gone on so far involves a fallacy. The whole question is this : whether deadlocks created by the interpretation of the present rule should not be remedied. Some instances have happened where the school board recommended one man and the local authority did not care to appoint him. The recommendation being there the honourable member the Legal Remembrancer interpreted that so long as there is only one name recommended the local authority cannot appoint another whose name has not yet been sent up. In that case the school board receives the papers with this note of its intention from the local authority. If the school board sends some names with their recommendation and the local authority does not agree with it, it involves the return of the papers again. So, in the appointment of the administrative officer there is always a danger of papers being passed between the school board and the local authority, when there is a difference of opinion between the two bodies with regard to the appointment. This deadlock can be avoided by the municipalities or district local boards concerned selecting a man of their choice without sending back the papers to the school board. With that object this amendment has been brought, which will have the effect of saving a good deal of time and expenditure. There is nothing revolutionary in this amendment as honourable members think. It is only to remove deadlock and prevent waste of time and money that this is brought.

Mr. R. S. ASVALE (Bombay City, North) : Sir, the amendment before the House is not at all revolutionary. We have to see to this whether the administrative officer is under the school board or the local authority. If powers have been given only to the members of the local authority to appoint or recommend the name of a certain man without even the recommendation of the school board then that officer who will be appointed by the local authority will never care for the suggestions of the members of the school board, which is the foremost body to look after the primary education and because he will then care for the suggestions of the members of the local body. He will not be under the supervision of the real body who is to look after the education. There will be no harm, as has been pointed out by the honourable member Mr. Pahalajani, in keeping the recommendation of that body—the school board—under which this officer has actually to work. If such power is not kept then the school board will be of no value to this officer and the work that will have to be exacted from this officer by the school board will not be exacted in the manner they desire. I do not see any reason why this amendment should be pressed at all at this stage. It would not do any harm if the Honourable Minister does not press for it because they have already passed the Act wherein they have given the power to the local authority to send the name or names of the officers with the recommendation of the school board to the Government for sanction. I do not see any reason why the amendment should be pressed by the Honourable Minister in charge. With these few words I oppose the first reading of the Bill and request once more the Honourable Minister to accept the suggestions put before him by some of the honourable members in their speeches.

[Mr. R. S. Asavale]

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Sir, this amending bill has to be brought for the purpose of the removal of doubts on the interpretation of section 9 (1) of the Act for avoidance of conflicts which have hitherto taken place. I may state one instance which I have already cited in detail. One man was recommended by the Surat school board but the local authority did not accept that recommendation and appointed another person as administrative officer. Thereupon the chairman of the school board raised a question and made a reference to Government long before I took charge. The Remembrancer of Legal Affairs interpreted the section to the effect that the local authority was only to take the recommendation into consideration but was not bound to accept that recommendation. Thereafter, the chairman of the school board, Surat, wanted the opinion of the Advocate General of the Government of Bombay, and the matter was referred to him. The Advocate General said that the words as they stood were open to the interpretation which the Surat school board chairman pressed. Consequently, Government had two conflicting opinions from their legal officers. When I took charge the matter came up before me, and as I was a member of this honourable House when the original bill was before the House and also on the select committee which considered that bill, and knew the intention of the legislature in inserting the words "on the recommendation of the school board," I could not see my way to recommend to Government that they should accept the opinion of the Advocate General. Thereafter, what happened was, that a nominated member of the Surat school board gave notice of a suit against the Secretary of State for India in Council, because Government had approved of an appointment made by the local authority which was not made on the recommendation of the school board. In these circumstances, it was absolutely necessary to remove all doubts by putting in the proper words so that conflicts might not arise in the future. That is why the words "after considering the suggestions, if any," are sought to be put in, in place of the words "on the recommendation."

My honourable friend from Karachi referred to the District Municipal Act, but I may say that municipalities or local boards which are recognised as local authorities under the Primary Education Act, are for the purposes of primary education under the operation of the Primary Education Act and not under the operation of the other Acts. It is to set at rest all the difficulties and all the conflicts that this amending bill has been brought.

[Dewan Bahadur Harilal D. Desai]

It has been said that the school board was intended to be an autonomous body. Those honourable members who have said so have either not carefully read the Primary Education Act or have misunderstood it. Section 4 of that Act which was quoted by my honourable colleague distinctly says that the school board is to be under the general control of the local authority. It has also been pointed out by me that it is the local authority which finances the school board, and it is therefore in the fitness of things that it should have the power of appointing the administrative officer of the school board, and that is why this power has been given to it under section 9. Again in section 4 (4), it is provided :

"The school board shall further exercise such powers and perform such duties in respect of any educational purpose as may be delegated to it by the local authority or any such municipality as aforesaid."

That shows that the local authority is the supreme body, or the parent body, and the school board is a subordinate body which has to exercise only such of the powers as are delegated to it by the parent body, the local authority. Then, again, in section 10 we find :

"A local authority may by resolution declare its intention to provide compulsory elementary education....."

So that it is not within the power of the school board to declare its intention to have compulsory elementary education, but it is for the local authority to declare its intention. In clause (3) of section 10, it is provided :

"Every local authority shall, within the prescribed period, prepare as complete a programme as possible for the universal introduction of compulsory education within the area....."

I have quoted to the House the salient provisions of the Act to show that the general scheme of the Act is to regard the local authority as the supreme body. The present scheme of the Act has to be maintained. Any honourable members can bring forward a bill to make the school board quite independent of the local authority, giving it powers of taxation so that it can have its own revenue and finance. When such a bill comes before the House, it would be quite another matter. But as long as this Act is in force, for the removal of doubts, it is absolutely necessary that we should amend section 9 in accordance with the scheme of the Act. Therefore, this amendment should be accepted by the honourable House.

Bill read a first time. Question put and carried.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I now move Second reading. that the bill be read a second time.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Sir, I move that :

In clause 2 add the words "inviting and" after the word "after" in line 6.

Sir, the object of moving this amendment is that in the case of conflict....

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: The honourable member need not make a speech. I am prepared to accept his amendment, to meet his wishes. The section as amended would read :

BILL NO. XXXII OF 1927 (A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE BOMBAY PUBLIC CONVEYANCES ACT, 1920)

(Motion for first reading.)

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: Sir, I introduce Bill* No. XXXII of 1927 (A Bill further to amend the Bombay Public Conveyances Act, 1920).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Bill No. XXXII of 1927, a Bill further to amend the Bombay Public Conveyances Act, 1920, is introduced.

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: Sir, I move that this bill be First reading. read a first time. For the third time in these two days I have to ask the indulgence of the House for one of my small indiscretions, on the ground that it is a very little one. This is not quite as small a ore in point of bulk as the other two. But it is perhaps of even less general importance. It is merely designed to make one or two trifling amendments in the Bombay Public Conveyances Act, which have been found to be necessary owing to the experience of the last seven years. For the most part, the bill aims at making the Act somewhat less rigid leaving to the local authorities to settle by rules various small points on which it has been found that the Act as it stands now is unnecessarily rigid. For instance, the Act says that all the horses must be branded. Well, in some places the Commissioner of Police and the other local authorities consider that branding is unnecessary and that other marks of identification are sufficient. This bill proposes to leave that to be settled locally. Similarly, the Act says all drivers of public conveyances must, in certain circumstances, carry badges with them. This bill proposes to leave it open to the local authorities whether they shall have badges or not. In the last clause 14, we propose to say that conveyances which are kept for hire and are ordinarily let for hire, but which do not ply for hire should be brought under such of the provisions of the Act as are thought proper. They cannot be brought under all the provisions of the Act because it is quite clear that these conveyances are intended to resemble private conveyances, so that those who make use of them may not appear to be going in a hired conveyance and so they do not want to have numbers, registration marks, and so on. There are various other minor matters in which it is not necessary that the provisions should be fully enforced.

Then, there is a small matter as regards the fees. The fee charged at present for inscription of particulars upon a public conveyance is one-half of the rate chargeable for the grant of a license. It has been found in many cases that that rate is higher than is necessary, and we take power here for the Commissioner of Police or other local authorities to fix a sum representing the actual cost instead of this fixed figure. These are very small matters. If any honourable member wants an explanation as to any other clause, I shall be very ready to give it. Meanwhile, I propose that the bill be read a first time.

Question proposed.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City): Sir, I do not think there will be any harm in allowing this bill the first reading. But there are two or three clauses that are very objectionable and I hope the Honourable the Home Member in charge of this bill will take into consideration the serious harm which is likely to occur to the poor people who might be owning one single gharry or conveyance. Sir, clause 12, which is proposed to be inserted in the bill, gives power to the Commissioner of Police to levy a fine up to Rs. 50. Sir, I have never known that the Commissioner of Police, whose assistants and the officials in his department make a complaint to the Commissioner of Police, should himself take cognizance of certain breaches of rules and himself levy a fine which may extend to Rs. 50. Up to now, I do not know, Sir, what the provision in the Bombay Public Conveyances Act is, but I am sure, Sir, the commonsense procedure, as the law has stood so far, is that any one who commits any particular offence against a particular section of an Act is hauled up either before an honorary magistrate or other magistrate, and then the man prosecuted has the right of being heard. He either takes his own lawyer or himself makes out a case that he is innocent, and ultimately he either gets let off or, if he is found guilty, some fine is levied. But here, Sir, the Honourable the Home Member wants to give the power of inflicting a fine on these poor gharriwallahs to the extent of Rs. 50 on his own executive authority. I think, Sir, this is a very harmful clause and I know how much the gharriwallahs are suffering to-day on account of the harassments of petty officers. They do not earn sufficient money to maintain themselves, and their gharries and horses, and on the top of this, the Honourable the Home Member wants to make the Act so stringent that the gharriwallahs can be fined to the extent of Rs. 50. This is a very harmful provision and I am sure, if this bill goes to the select committee, they will see that this clause is so modified as to give all safeguards against such arbitrary authority now sought to be given to the Commissioner of Police.

Then, again, Sir, if you will refer to clause 14, not one word, either in the objects and reasons of the bill or in the speech introducing this bill made by the Honourable the Home Member, has he tried to show that any strong difficulty has arisen in the matter of conveyances which are a matter of private arrangement between one individual and another. He does not like, for all practical purposes, to halt at any stand which the Commissioner of Police may fix in any particular place, but makes his private arrangement with an individual that he will give his gharri, and I know in Karachi in so many cases a man who owns a gharri goes and arranges with a gentleman who has not got a gharri of his own and wants to hire out on monthly terms, and it is taken for all practical purposes as a private conveyance. Yet, the Honourable the Home Member wants to bring even these conveyances now under this Public Conveyances Act and wants to charge him fees and wants to unnecessarily bring them into his clutches. Sir, I am strongly against these poor people being harassed in this manner.

Then, again, Sir, I want to go to clause 7. It is stated that if an owner of a gharri or a conveyance leaves his city or a place where he is working, he must give a notice to the Commissioner of Police. Now, Sir, I do not know what particular object is served by this clause. As you know, so many of these poor people are illiterate, ignorant people, and it is difficult for them to give notice or even to know the provisions of the Act and to always be careful while going out to give notice and to avoid the penalty which the infringement of any particular rule may entail upon them. We are all for making the laws so elastic that things might be carried on pretty well without any difficulty, but if in every little thing a man has got to submit himself to a number of harassments and if his liberty is going to be restricted even to the slightest extent, then, I do not know what good purpose these laws are intended to serve.

There are other small points which I do not want to raise, but I hope that these three particularly obnoxious clauses will be removed from this bill or at any rate will be so amended that they will not operate harshly upon the poor gharriwallahs who are already starving. They are already suffering under various grievances and they have made so many complaints of harassments by police constables and by police officers in Karachi that their life has become absolutely intolerable.

[Mr. N. A. Bechar]

They often in despair give up their profession and are unable to earn their livelihood in any other way. I do not think in these days of depression the Honourable the Home Member wants to deprive so many additional people of their means of livelihood by making the laws still more stringent than they are necessary. These three clauses are most obnoxious and I do not desire to be a party to their passing in this House.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN (Bombay City, South): Sir, I support the first reading of this bill. I presume that this bill is going to a select committee because it needs certain very important alterations and if I have the privilege of serving on that committee, I shall point out to the Honourable the Home Member certain defects in this bill which according to my experience as an honorary magistrate in Bombay have come to my knowledge.

Clause 6 in this bill says the word "may" should be substituted for word "shall." This is a very dangerous amendment especially in so far as it affects the city of Bombay. Unfortunately, it is my very sad lot to say that the majority of victoriawallas in Bombay are not as a rule gentlemen of very good repute and they require, as a class, very severe supervision by the police authorities. To allow any victoria driver to drive a victoria without a badge on his breast will jeopardise the safety and the security of the passenger public. I shall point out certain instances in the select committee, if I may, of certain victoriawallas who appeared in police courts because they took out their badges and carried on their profession for very sinister and evil purposes.

I now come to clause 7. That clause is really very dangerous as it stands. It says that if a licensee of a public conveyance goes away to his native place for a period exceeding fifteen days he has only to communicate his going away to the Commissioner of Police and the name of his substitute, and that if he is absent for more than fifteen days, that substitute can go on plying for hire.....

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: On a point of correction. That applies to the owners of licensed vehicles, not to licensed drivers.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN: I am very glad to hear that. But what happens to the licensed drivers?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: No other person can drive, only licensed drivers can drive and if the licensed driver goes away, nobody else can drive.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN: I am very glad to hear that too.

Then I come to clause 8. This clause gives the Police Commissioner the power to establish or abolish a stand at his sweet will. I understand that the general practice is that the Police Commissioner as a rule notifies in the public newspapers his intention to establish or abolish a stand. That is a very salutary practice, but this clause distinctly says that the Police Commissioner may establish or abolish a stand, and he may or may not consult the residents of that particular locality in which that stand comes to be established or abolished. I should be grateful if the Honourable the Home Member would explain this point, although in the statement of objects and reasons the Honourable the Home Member says that clause 8 calls for no remarks. Sometimes the establishment of a stand in the midst of a locality might prove very objectionable to the residents of that locality and I, therefore, think that it is necessary to have some sort of a safeguard against that.

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI (Ahmedabad and Surat Cities): Sir, I rise to support the first reading of the bill but at the same time I would like to bring to the notice of the House that owing to the increasing traffic in taxis and buses that have been lately started in Bombay by the Tramway Company, the victoriawallas have suffered very much, and therefore clause 12 (3) appears to be very harsh as it gives to the Police Commissioner the power to fine up to fifty rupees. That I think is a very arbitrary measure.

As regards the charge levelled by my honourable friend Mr. Marzban against the victoriawallas that they come from a class of ill repute, I must say that these victoriawallas come from a very respectable class of weavers and cultivators from Sidhpur in Gujarat and I do not think that my honourable friend's charge is correct.....

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN: What experience has my honourable friend Khan Saheb Mansuri of Bombay drivers?

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI: Most of the victoriawallas come from a place within 30 miles of Ahmedabad and I know many of them very intimately. They are already suffering very heavily and I hope their sufferings will not be added to.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE (Bombay City, North): Sir, I rise to support the first reading of the bill brought forward by the Honourable the Home Member. No doubt my honourable friend Mr. Marzban (Bombay) has stated that clause 7 should not be allowed as it stands at present as it states that any driver may have a badge or not. I also am of opinion that a driver must have his badge and therefore the word "may" should not be there in the Act but the word "shall" should be there. We know of so many cases occurring in a big city like Bombay wherein passengers have been robbed by some of the cartmen and victoriawallas and the offenders have never been traced in the absence of such badges. Just as my honourable friend Mr. Marzban is an honorary presidency magistrate, so also I am an honorary presidency magistrate in Bombay and I have got full experience of such matters. There does not seem to be much truth in the grievances against the agents set forth in the petition submitted by their association. To my knowledge many cases come before honorary presidency magistrates and we treat them as honestly as we can and there is no complaint about the agents as has been stated there. I however differ from my honourable friend Mr. Marzban when he runs down the class of victoria drivers as people of ill repute. They are most of them honest and hardworking people, working for their bread and hardly merit the charge levelled against them by my honourable friend Mr. Marzban. If this bill is referred to a select committee, I believe all these points can be suitably settled. With these words I resume my seat.

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : Sir, I believe that I could, in a few minutes, answer all the objections that have been made, but since I see that there is a general desire that the bill should go to a select committee, I will not take up the time of the House to-day in dealing with those objections, but will leave them all to be settled when the select committee comes on, if the House will give the bill a first reading to-day.

Bill read a first time Question put and carried.

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : Sir, I move that the bill be referred to a select committee, which will consist of

Mr. N. A. Bechar,
Mr. P. J. Marzban,
Khan Saheb A. M. Mansuri,
Mr. R. S. Asavale,
Khan Bahadur S. N. Bhutto,
Mr. Syed Munawar,
Mr. J. C. Swaminarayan,
Mr. Bole,
The Home Secretary (Mr. Monteath).
The Remembrancer of Legal Affairs, and
The Honourable Member in charge,

five to form a quorum, and the committee to report before the next session of the Legislative Council.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN : Will the Honourable Member agree to put the name of Mr. Nariman on the select committee ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : I shall be very glad to have Mr. Nariman on the committee.

Question, that the bill be referred to a select committee consisting of

Mr. N. A. Bechar,
Mr. P. J. Marzban,
Khan Saheb A. M. Mansuri,
Mr. R. S. Asavale,
Khan Bahadur S. N. Bhutto,
Mr. Syed Munawar,
Mr. J. C. Swaminarayan,
Mr. S. K. Bole,
The Home Secretary (Mr. Monteath).
The Remembrancer of Legal Affairs,
Mr. K. F. Nariman, and
The Honourable Member in charge,

five to form a quorum and the committee to report before the next session
Bill referred to Select Committee of the Legislative Council, put and carried.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : That ends Government business for the present, except those matters which come up on Monday. Beyond that, there is nothing else ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : No, Sir.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The House knows that to-day was the day for private business, and as promised by the Honourable the Leader of the House, the House will get for private business credit for the number of hours taken up by Government business. Government business started at 2-30, and went on till 4-30, that means 2 hours, and after lunch from 5 to 5-30, that means 2½ hours in all, but an extra half hour was given by meeting earlier. Therefore, Government has taken up 2 hours, and those 2 hours, I suppose, the Honourable the Leader of the House hopes to make up by sitting half an hour earlier every day for the rest of the days.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Yes, Sir.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : There is one matter which, I hope, is understood clearly by the House. The Mahul Creek Bill has been referred to a select committee, and the committee is to report by Monday next, and the further consideration of the Port Trust Bill has also been postponed till Monday next. The time that would be required for the consideration of the two bills, I understand, the House agrees would be included in the time for private business.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : May I suggest that the time taken up for these two bills might perhaps be made up by sitting from 1 p.m. instead of from 1-30 p.m. ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : May I point out that there was a desire in the House to consider a little further the bill to amend the Port Trust Act which otherwise would have been taken up to-day ? There was a strong desire also that the Mahul Creek Bill should go to a select committee, and I understood that honourable members would therefore, on the understanding that one of the bills should go to a select committee and the discussion of the other should be adjourned, allow both bills to be brought up and disposed of as quickly as possible on Monday, and that they would take that in the time allotted for private business. I thought that was understood on all sides of the House. The discussion will take place naturally more or less in the select committee, and therefore that will save the time of the House which otherwise would have been taken up to-day.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : Supposing we finish the two bills in one hour on Monday, I submit that that one hour might be made up on Monday and Tuesday by meeting at 1 p.m. instead of at 1-30 p.m.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The President will have to be assured very strongly by the honourable member Rao Bahadur Kale that he takes the guarantee that there will be only one hour spent over the discussion of the two bills.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : I cannot take any guarantee. I think, after the select committee stage is passed, it will not take more than an hour. Anyhow, I think we should sit from 1 p.m. to-morrow. I think that would be fair to non-official business.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : Last sessions, we gave up no less than four days from private business to Government business. This time, Sir, the Honourable the General Member, for the sake of his own convenience, desired that the bill should come up for second and third readings on Monday.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : It was not at my instance.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : If he had proceeded further with the bills to-day, would he not have taken time ? I am sure going through the bill clause by clause, with all the contentions involved in them, would take an hour or two. Therefore, it is not right for Government to take away the time for non-official business. Hardly five days have been given to us.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I understand the point of view of the honourable member, and so do the members on the Government side. I hope the Honourable the Leader of the House will find out some solution.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Sir, I must confess that the proposition put forward by the honourable member Rao Bahadur Kale is not in any way unreasonable. I promised that we would make up as much time as we took up out of the time allotted for private business for Government business. To-morrow, I am afraid, we cannot sit at 1 p.m., for the reason that the Honourable the General Member has got a select committee, and on Saturday, as you know, we meet early in the morning.

An Honourable MEMBER : Not for this Saturday.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : That is the arrangement for all Saturdays, and we shall meet on Saturday at 10 a.m., that is half an hour earlier, if that is the wish of the House, and on Monday and Tuesday we shall meet at 1 p.m. I hope that will suit the convenience of the House, and I hope that no objection will be raised if, in the consideration of the report of the select committee on Monday, more than an hour is taken.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : The races are now over and we may sit later on Saturdays.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The House had not come to the arrangement to sit from 10-30 to 2 on account of the races at all. The reason given to me was that honourable members wanted to leave for Bombay and other places. The honourable member's was an objectionable way of putting it.

I hope now the matter is clear. I shall repeat briefly what the Leader of the House has stated, so that there may be no misunderstanding. The two Government bills left over will be finished within the time allowed for official business. The arrangement suggested by the Honourable the Leader of the House is that we sit at 10 o'clock on Saturday instead of at 10-30. On Monday and Tuesday we sit at 1 o'clock. To-morrow we sit at 1-30 as arranged yesterday. I think that is the convenience given ; is it not ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Yes, Sir.

PRIVATE BILLS

BILL NO. XII OF 1927 (A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE BOMBAY ABKARI ACT, 1878)(Further consideration of the motion for first reading.)

Mr. B. V. JADHAV : The first reading of the bill was moved at the last session and subsequently was adjourned to this session.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The proceedings show that the bill was moved for the first reading and before discussion could proceed an adjournment was asked for and carried. The motion for the first reading was not put to the House.

Mr. J. GHOSAL : I am very sorry, Sir, but I have to oppose the first reading of the bill in the interest of temperance and in that of the Excise policy which has been accepted by Government. The bill looks quite harmless and insignificant, but really it is a most serious amendment involving far-reaching issues. As regards the legal aspect of the bill I do not wish to say much. I leave that to the legal experts. The only remark I wish to make is that the question of possession has always been regarded as one of fact and I think that it is impossible to define it. If it is defined it will only make matters much worse. Again I cannot imagine of any possession being absolutely exclusive. Suppose in a house certain things are kept in a box and carefully locked and that the key is kept on a nail and so accessible to others. Theoretically, therefore, anybody could open the box and no one in the family can be prosecuted for having exclusive possession or control. Let us take another instance. Suppose that a man is arrested because he had a small flask of illicit liquor in his pocket. He cannot be convicted. He would say "How can I be guilty? Some days ago somebody put his hand into my pocket and removed what was there. It is quite as easy to put something into my pocket as picking something out of it. I have, therefore, no exclusive control." I would again repeat, no possession can be regarded as absolutely exclusive.

What I want to impress on the House is the departmental view. If this amendment is accepted we cannot have even a single prosecution and there will be no sale of illicit liquor. The honourable member Mr. Patil referred to one particular case. He knows the facts of the case well, because he appeared in that case both in the original as well as in the appellate courts. In that case a man was convicted because some material was found in his field. There was other circumstantial evidence to prove the case. For instance dried mhowra refuse all round the field showed that illicit distillation had been going on for a long time. If he was not responsible and if he was a man who took interest in his field or crops these materials found in and around his field must have been noticed by him. This is really a question of fact which was gone into fully by the court. Unfortunately the honourable member from the very beginning of the case insisted upon the right of exclusive possession, a line of defence which cannot be claimed either under this Act or any other act. I know the honourable member in his speech quoted the following sentence from the judgment as showing the attitude of District Magistrates :

"The spirit of section 53 makes an accused culpable for what is found in his field unless his defence is satisfactory."

[Mr. J. Ghosal]

I hold in my hand a copy of the judgment. The honourable member might have quoted the first part also of the sentence above which runs as follows :

" I hold that in this case, possession does not mean exclusive control, such as one has over coins in one's pocket. "

In other words, the court held that the plea of exclusive possession or exclusive control could not be upheld. This is why my honourable friend now wants to define possession as " exclusive control. "

I fully sympathise with the object of the honourable member who wants to ensure that the innocent will not be punished but the effect of the bill will be that the guilty also will never be convicted. The honourable member also said in the concluding portion of his speech that he has brought this bill with the object of defining the word " possession " in the light of the rulings of the High Court. Well, I can assure the honourable member that the rulings of the High Court are fully observed, and if they are not observed I am sure his remedy would lie in an appeal to the High Court. For then it will be a question of law and not of fact. I do not think this amendment will make it any the easier for him to insist on High Court rulings.

Before I sit down I have only one more remark to make. Strict instructions are in force that no cases should be sent up in which there was any doubt as to the bona fides. It is the principal duty of all supervising officers, specially Superintendents and Inspectors, when inspecting the offices or records of subordinates, to go through the files of cases and satisfy themselves, convictions or no convictions, that the investigations were properly conducted and prosecutions justified. They are responsible for seeing that there was no injustice done. I will only add finally that it would be practically impossible for the department to bring anybody to book if this amendment is passed and that it would lead to greater intemperance, and the whole administration would be upset.

Dr. M. D. GILDER (Bombay City, North) : Sir, I rise to oppose the bill brought forward by my honourable friend Rao Saheb Patil. The bill looks on the face of it very innocent, and it is said to be only for a formal definition of ' possession. ' But if we accept his definition we might as well scrap half of the Abkari Act ; at least all the penal clauses of the Abkari Act will be rendered nugatory. At present, the word ' possession ' is defined by the judiciary, and we shall be interfering with the discretion of the judiciary if we define it as " exclusive control. " The word ' possession ' occurs for the first time in the Abkari Act, in section 3A. That section runs :

" (1) Where any excisable article or hemp has been manufactured or sold or is possessed by any person on account of any other person, and such other person knew or has reason to believe at the time of such manufacture or sale that such manufacture or sale was on his account, or knows or has reason to believe that such possession is on his account, the article shall, for the purpose of this Act, be deemed to have been manufactured or sold by, or to be in the possession of, such other person. "

Now, if ' possession ' is defined as exclusive control, let us suppose that a person has a certain amount of cocaine in his pocket ; he knows that the police are watching him, and he passes it on to a friend of his : that friend will not have exclusive control over the article ; it will not be in the possession of the one, nor under the exclusive control of the other ; and both of them will escape. It recently happened in Bombay in connection with the Arms Act that a dacoit passed on his revolver to another man, who was perfectly innocent. If ' possession ' had been defined as exclusive control the crime would not have been brought home either to the other man or to the dacoit himself. Therefore, this definition will certainly not work.

Then again the word ' possession ' occurs in connection with " Penalties " in section 43 (h) :

" Whoever uses, keeps or has in his possession any materials, still, utensil, implement or apparatus whatsoever for the purpose of manufacturing any excisable article other than toddy,.....

shall, on conviction, be punished..... "

You may find the still and the man actually working the still, but he may say that the still is not under his exclusive control. You cannot then punish him, and, what is more, you cannot even confiscate the still, because according to law confiscation occurs only after conviction. If the thing is not in his exclusive control you cannot take away the still from him. You will have to leave the still and the man also will be free. Thus, that will make the Act absolutely unworkable.

Then, Sir, there is section 37, which says :

" Any Commissioner, or Collector, or other abkari officer duly empowered in this behalf, may—

(b) detain and search any person whom he has reason to believe to be guilty of any offence against this or other such law and, if such person has any excisable article, hemp or other thing in his possession, arrest him. "

Is that abkari officer when arresting that man going to find out whether the thing is under his exclusive control ? Is he going to find out that he actually possesses it in the way my honourable friend defines possession ? Is he going to usurp the function of the judiciary ? The definition proposed will make that section absolutely unworkable. No abkari officer will then go and arrest a man even if he actually sees him working a still.

Then, there is a section with regard to the landlord, section 43A :

" Whoever lets or uses any house, room or place, of which he is the owner or occupier or of which he has the use, in such circumstances as to indicate that he knows or has reason to believe that such house, room or place is used as a resort of importers, exporters, transporters, possessors or vendors of cocaine. . "

Is that landlord going to see whether the cocaine that his tenant has, is the exclusive property of that individual ? Is he going to hold an inquiry to find out whether it is under the exclusive control of that individual before he asks him to vacate the house ?

Then, Sir, there is section 54, dealing with confiscation which says :

" Whenever an offence under this Act has been committed,

(a) any excisable article, hemp, mhowra flowers, materials, still, utensil, implement or apparatus in respect of which the offence has been committed.....

* * * * *

shall be liable to confiscation.

[Dr. M. D. Gilder]

Now, as I say, the abkari officer may go, see the still, see the man working it, but he cannot prove who the owner of it is. Therefore nobody can be brought to account and nobody can be convicted. The man may say that he has no exclusive control, and you cannot confiscate the still, the still will remain and go on working.

On these grounds I oppose the bill which has been brought forward by my honourable friend Rao Saheb Patil.

Mr. K. M. MUNSHI (Bombay University): Sir, however much one may admire the laudable object with which the honourable mover has brought forward the bill, in the form in which it stands it is difficult for any lawyer member to give support to it. . . . (An Honourable Member : The mover is himself a lawyer). . . because the definition which he seeks to give to the word 'possession' is very often contrary to what that word means in law. He wants to define 'possession' as exclusive control. Neither in the language of law nor in the language of the laymen 'possession' necessarily means exclusive control. In a large number of cases goods are held to be in 'possession' if they are in constructive possession or under the order and disposition of the person without necessarily being under his exclusive control. Therefore, the bill as it stands is one to which it is difficult, if not impossible, to give support. The real definition of 'possession' would include cases of goods held under the order and disposition of a person or held by any one on his behalf and to his knowledge. The honourable member Mr. Ghosal has stated that orders have been issued by the department to that effect. Really speaking 'possession' ought not to be construed in one way in one Act and in another way in another Act. And therefore if the ordinary legal meaning which is attributed to the word 'possession' and which is given in the decisions of the courts is to be attached to this word in the Abkari Act there will be no trouble. I do not think there is any reason why the Honourable Minister should not concede to the mover of this bill the position that the word 'possession' under the Abkari Act will mean what it means in any other Act of the legislature. It is impossible to support the bill as it stands and therefore I am afraid I will have to oppose it.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Satara District): Mr. President, I only wish to say a few words. The object with which the honourable mover has brought forward this bill is merely to define the word 'possession.' The word 'possession' has been interpreted in a ruling of the High Court in the case Emperor versus Hariram Sonar, It is a case of coining and the principle is quite clear. That is to say :

"And to establish such possession it is not sufficient I think to show that the object in question was in such a possession that the accused, if he had known it might have exercised power or control over it. There must further be evidence of some circumstance indicating that he intended to exercise such power or control or that he knew that he could do so at will. . . . ."

I think it is obvious that the possession contemplated is not possession which has never been voluntary : and that for the purpose of bringing home to any person the voluntary possession of any object, the mere proof of a fact of which he knows nothing, would be valueless."

[Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale]

My point is that mere possession as is understood is not possession which the law really regards as sufficient for charging a man. The difficulty will arise if we have regard to section 53. the punishing section. In that section the presumption is contrary to the ordinary presumption in all evidence. That is supposing a man has with him stolen goods, the presumption is not that the goods are stolen, but it will have to be proved.

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : May I correct the honourable member.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The honourable member does not yield.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : The Honourable Minister does not perhaps understand what I was going to say. My submission is that even under section 53 "possession" must be first established. Then the presumption namely that a person found in possession of an excisable article will be regarded to have committed an offence under the Abkari Act is a different kind of presumption. That is a separate matter. But possession must be established by the prosecution. I would point out to the honourable mover that the word "possession" is defined in the ruling quoted above under the Penal Code and I submit that the same definition must hold good with regard to possession of an excisable article when we have to consider an offence under the Abkari Act. As the honourable the Excise Commissioner has said that possession under the Abkari Act means nothing more or nothing less than possession under any other enactment, I think there should be no fear of any injustice being committed anywhere.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN (Bombay City, South) : Sir, I rise to support this bill. I quite admire the zeal and energy with which the honourable member the Excise Commissioner advocated the cause of temperance and the honourable member Dr. Gilder wanted to bring the criminals who were indulging in dangerous drugs to book and so forth. It is a matter, Sir, which I very empathically state cuts both ways. Just as it is very necessary to bring to book culprits under this Act it is equally necessary to safeguard the innocents who may be unconscious victims of fraud and badmashes.

Sir, possession means or ought to mean according to the Excise Commissioner conscious possession and it is possible that a man may be in conscious possession of a thing as well as be in unconscious possession of it. Suppose I have something, say a gold watch, slipped in my pocket by a magician like Mahmad Chhel for which I am not able to account ; but I am in possession of it and I may be run in by the police for it. Again, Sir, I may be in unconscious possession of it. It does not belong to me and under the Abkari Act if you prove that the article is in a man's possession consciously or unconsciously then you can bring him to book. But the onus of proving that the article is in your possession with your full knowledge lies on the prosecution. I agree with my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Kale on this point and if the honourable mover agrees to amend his bill by putting the words

[Mr. P. J. Marzban]

“possession means conscious possession” I think there will be no difficulty (Laughter). I do not know why honourable members should laugh. Suppose I have an enemy and I want to run him down. It is very possible for me to put into his possession something and my honourable friend the Excise Commissioner can run him down. This is safeguarded by the definition which I have suggested. I would be quite pleased to support any reasonable amendment to safeguard that. I support the bill.

Mr. M. G. BHOSLE (West Khandesh District) (Addressed the House in Marathi): Sir, I rise to support the bill. Generally the people who are guilty of such offences are the Bhils and Kolis. Sometimes they are really guilty and sometimes they are not. But very often they are not guilty. If I had an enemy and if he brings any excisable article and puts it in my compound it is very surprising that I should be charged with being in possession of that article. I can tell my own experience of things as they happen in my taluka. Owing to the ignorance of these poor people, the abkari officers take too much advantage. Sometimes they give these poor people good thrashing just to exact confessions, and the real offender escapes and some innocent man or men are hauled up. To prevent all these harassments, I think it would be better if the bill is passed as it is without any amendments. Sometimes it happens that Government or the authorities concerned make an offer to the poor ignorant man that, if he says he is guilty, he will not be punished and troubled in any way and will be let off by merely warning or accepting some sureties in name, and so on, and so on. In this way the poor ignorant and illiterate people are given false hopes and promises, and when once they admit that they are guilty, although in fact they are perfectly innocent, then instead of getting a reward for their having done so simply to escape harassment from the officers, they are given severer punishment if at a later stage any one is found to be really guilty; or at least supposed to be guilty. I think the bill is necessary.

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR (East Khandesh District): Sir, it is rather difficult to accept the definition my honourable friend Rao Saheb Patil gives to the word “possession.” Will that mean absolute control? Still the object with which he has brought this bill is one which deserves very serious consideration. In our districts (the District of Khandesh) there are a number of prosecutions launched under the Abkari Act. In those cases, usually the defence raised is that the man was not in possession of the article and probably on account of certain factions in the village some persons belonging to the opposite faction had kept it on property belonging to him. In all cases the defence may not be true, but there is just a possibility, that when an article is found in an open field and not in a house, that it may have been put there by some enemies with a certain motive. In such a case, really, if the word “possession” is not strictly and rightly interpreted as it ought to be and as it has been interpreted in several rulings of the High Court, what happens is that the magistrate proceeds on the basis that, as the article was found there, that is possession. It is just possible that there are some cases of such hardship, and I think my learned and honourable friend had only those cases in view and, therefore, he proposed this definition. But I think an assurance is already given by the Commissioner of Excise (Mr. Ghosal) that in all cases the excise officers must first of all ascertain, when an excisable article is found in the field or in a place which is accessible to other people,—I think it is the duty of the excise officers to ascertain,—that it is not due to any other causes except the one that the man is given to illicit distillation. They ought to find out that it is not due to any factious spirit which may be prevalent in the village. Similarly, I think if such an assurance is given by the Honourable Minister for Excise, I think the honourable mover of the bill will not be very particular that the bill in the form in which he has brought it should be passed, because there is no doubt, as he will himself admit, very serious difficulty might arise if the bill is passed as it is and if “possession” is taken to mean “exclusive control.” Suppose, in a house there is a joint family living. As the possession is joint, nobody can be brought to book, because every one will say it is not in the exclusive control of that individual. Still, taking into consideration the spirit and the intention with which this bill has been brought, I think if an assurance is given by the Honourable Minister in the form in which the assurance has already been given by the Commissioner of Excise, my honourable friend’s purpose will be served.

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Mr. President, I must oppose this bill. In the first place, this House has only got to make the law. The interpretation of the law has to be made by the officers of the Crown, who have got to administer the law. So, we have got to make a good law and the interpretation of the law must be left to the officers of the Crown who administer the law. If some officer interprets a law in a wrong way, it does not prove that the law is wrong. What is the position here ? In the first place, the word “possession” will not be found defined in any law. Possession is of three kinds : Actual, symbolical or constructive. Now, the section contemplates that in the first place the prosecution must prove that a particular excisable article was in the possession of a particular man. The burden of proof, namely, proving possession is thrown upon the prosecution. When I got up to interrupt the honourable member Rao Bahadur Kale, I merely wanted to point out to him that even under the Indian Evidence Act, under section 114, there is such a thing as a presumption. If a stolen article, a recently stolen article, is found in the possession of a particular person, then the court may presume that that person is either a thief or a receiver of the stolen property. That is the presumption laid down in the Indian Evidence Act. If that is done under that Act, what is wrong in this section ? Now, insert the words which the honourable mover wants in section 53, and what is the absurdity ? Then the section will read as follows : -

“In prosecutions under section 43 it shall be presumed without further evidence until the contrary is proved, that the accused person has committed an offence under that section in respect of any excisable article or hemp or any still, utensil, implement or apparatus whatsoever for the manufacture of any excisable article or mhowra flowers, or any such materials as are ordinarily used in the manufacture of any excisable article for the exclusive control of which he is unable to account satisfactorily."

Merely I take out that word "possession" and I substitute the honourable member's definition here. I therefore say "for the exclusive control of which he is unable to account satisfactorily." Now, in the first place, the prosecution must prove that all those articles were in the exclusive control of the person who is in the dock, and then an opportunity is to be allowed to him that, even if the prosecution proves that there was exclusive control, he is still not guilty because of X Y Z reasons, or because of other reasons. That is how the absurdity will be clear to the honourable mover if all these words are inserted there in that section. Now, the honourable member from Bombay, Mr. Marzban, says it must be conscious possession. Now, why are the words "for the possession of which he is unable to account satisfactorily" put in the section? The moment it is proved that the man was in possession of the article, the magistrate is not to send him to jail; he is not to convict him. But the accused will be called upon to explain his possession. He is at liberty to prove that a juggler put it into his pocket.....

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN: I did not say that.

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN: I think I may take it that some persons who are administering the law may interpret the law wrongly sometimes, but that will be no proof, as I said, that the law itself is wrong. If these persons interpret wrongly, then there are appellate courts, where the interpretation of the term "possession" is properly made. Then, higher authorities are there. But here, according to the definition which is sought to be introduced by my honourable friend, if the prosecution have got to show not the exclusive possession but the exclusive control, say, in every family, I suppose, unless the person is a hermit, there may be servants, there may be other members of the family. So, the house is not in the exclusive control of that man. The prosecution may prove that the article was found in the house of that man or in his field. Still, the prosecution has not proved that it was in the exclusive control of the man. There was his servant, cook, or his wife, and the whole thing must go off. That is the absurdity. So, even in section 53, though on the face of it, it may look rather hard, it is not so. It is based upon the presumption under section 114 of the Indian Evidence Act. And, so, when the prosecution prove that a particular person has got an excisable article in his possession, then that person is called upon to prove how he came by that article and he is at liberty to show that his enemies threw it in his field, and so on. I can understand some cases of magistrate interpreting the law wrongly, but when a particular place is accessible to many persons or to the whole public, then necessarily the magistrate will say to the prosecution "you have not been able to prove possession and I shall not call upon the accused to account for the possession."

I give the assurance which the honourable mover wants. The officer who is actually working the Excise Department has issued a circular that all the responsible officers should look into all these cases very carefully. If necessary we are ready to issue that circular again and to tell our officers that they should scrutinise these cases most carefully. We do not wish that any innocent persons should be punished, but at the same time we do wish that the Abkari Act should not be a nullity. You say you do not want illicit distillation. If you introduce the definition suggested by the honourable mover, then the whole Abkari Act will have to be scrapped, no excise officer need bring any case because it will be impossible for him to prove his case.

If any magistrate misinterprets the law, I do repeat that the law is not wrong. The word "possession" has never been or can never be strictly defined. It must be left to the discretion and the good judgment of the persons who administer the law. With these words, I oppose the amendment.

Mr. F. OLIVEIRA : Sir, I also oppose the proposed amendment of the Abkari Act. If the words "exclusive control" are put into the Abkari Act, it would be impossible to work the Act. The word possession would then have the same significance as ownership. These are two distinct things. . . . .

Honourable MEMBERS : Loudly, please. Let the honourable member come forward and speak.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Will the honourable member speak a little loudly ?

Mr. F. OLIVEIRA : As far as I know, the law punishes a man found in possession of an excisable article if he cannot satisfactorily account for that possession. Suppose an upcountry man sends a parcel containing opium or some contraband drug to his agent in Bombay by railway. The agent holds it for his principal and he has no control in so far as he cannot dispose of it in any way he likes. If the agent receives the parcel not knowing the contraband nature of that parcel, no court will convict him. But if he receives or retains the same with that knowledge he would be rightly convicted though he could not dispose of it or deal with it without the authority of the person upcountry who sent it and therefore, though he had not "exclusive control" of it. Any person knowing the contents of the parcel takes charge of it, the law will hold him responsible. This knowledge could be established by direct or circumstantial evidence. My honourable friend Mr. Marzban fears that mere possession, without guilty knowledge, may be punished. His fear is groundless, as I have explained above, and therefore, I submit to the House that the words "exclusive control" should not be inserted in the Act, and that this bill be rejected.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind) : Sir, I will be extremely short. The word "possession" is a word that is incapable of definition. It is capable of interpretation but incapable of definition, and therefore, as the interpretation is to be done by judges and not by legislation, the word "possession" can never be defined satisfactorily anywhere.

[Mr. B. G. Pahalajani]

The leading authority on the point, which has subsequently guided all the courts, is 6 Bombay 731. The ruling is as regards stolen property but in which exactly the same presumption is raised as in the case of section 53. In section 53 the provision is that :

“ After the possession is proved [the possession must be proved first.]

Then the presumption begins to arise and then the accused is bound to explain how he came into the possession of the property. So in the case of stolen property, the prosecution must prove possession. Then the presumption arises that he has guilty knowledge unless he rebuts it by showing how he acquired it.”

“ Possession ” was interpreted in 6 Bombay 731 as under as observed by West :—

“ But in order to raise this presumption legitimately, the possession of the stolen property should be exclusive as well as recent. The finding of it on the person of the accused, for instance, or in a locked-up house or room or in a box of which he kept the key, would be a fair ground for calling on him for his defence, but if the articles stolen were only found lying in a house or a room in which he lived jointly with others (much less in an open place) equally, capable with himself of having committed the theft or in an open box to which others had access, no definite presumption of his guilt would arise.”

This is the definition of possession and this is the way in which the law has been interpreted. After this interpretation, there has been another well known ruling which was quoted by the honourable member from Satara, Rao Bahadur Kale. “ Possession ” has been so often defined under the Abkari or the Opium Act, or under the Penal Code and so often interpreted by the High Court Judges that any miscarriage of justice can be set aside in appeal. The High Court Judges are willing to go into the meaning of “ possession ” in revision and all the rulings quoted are in revision and therefore, this attempt at the interpretation of the word “ possession ” is futile. I think it is very clear that the case like the one my honourable friend quoted, namely, a person being convicted of being in possession of property found in an open field will rarely occur and if it occurs, there must be other surrounding circumstances to bring home the charge to him. If such cases do occur, then the only remedy is an appeal to the courts and not to the Legislative Council.

Rao Saheb D. R. PATIL (East Khandesh District): Sir, I am glad that the authority of the Bombay High Court has been quoted by a legal luminary, I mean my honourable friend Mr. Pahalajani. The judgments of the Bombay High Court have properly interpreted the word “ possession ”, but there is the risk always of misinterpretation by the lower courts which administer the law in the first instance. My honourable friend Mr. Pataskar is a half-hearted supporter of my bill and he says he cannot accept the definition as laid down by me. But he does not suggest any other form of the definition. I do grant that to define the word “ possession ” in the way I have done would not be practicable. I am open to correction. Now I do not want to go into the facts of the particular case on account of which I wanted to move this bill. The facts are there and I agree with the view of my honourable friend Mr. Pahalajani that it is a question for the appellate court when possession is wrongly interpreted by the trial court, but I am glad for one fact that the honourable the Commissioner for Excise has given an assurance that he has already issued a circular to his subordinates to go into the cases of such a nature very carefully and that he will repeat those instructions. I am really thankful to him for his assurance. The Honourable the Minister for Excise has spoken about the rulings of the High Court. He also said that some magistrates might go wrong in interpreting possession but the remedy lay in appealing against the decisions of such magistrates. He practically agreed with the views expressed by my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Kale in connection with possession as explained by Melville J. in 6 Bom. I. L. R., I know that it is difficult to define possession though it can be interpreted. Therefore, as in the light of the assurance given by the Honourable the Commissioner for Excise and the way in which the Honourable the Minister for Excise made his speech, accepting the principle that was enunciated in 6 Bom. I. L. R., the object of my bill is indirectly served, so I beg to withdraw my bill.

Question put and leave granted.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The bill is withdrawn.

BILL NO. XXIII OF 1927 (A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE GUJARAT TALUKDARS' ACT, 1888)

Motion for first reading

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Sir, I move the first reading of Bill* No. XXIII of 1927, a Bill further to amend the Gujarat Talukdars' Act, 1888. Sir, in olden times, the cultivators had no voice in the management of the affairs of Government. At that time, the privileged classes had full voice in asserting their claims. In the beginning, when the British Government was being established in this country, naturally the British Government thought it desirable to take care of the privileged classes, so that they could be their real supporters. Sir in those days, parental care was bestowed upon the privileged classes. One of these privileged classes was the class of Talukdars in Gujarat. Government, in those days, undertook to pass special legislation for the purpose of protecting the integrity of talukdari estates. The object of Government was of course very admirable, in so far as they wanted to keep these talukdari estates alive. But unfortunately, it so happened that the privileges that were bestowed upon the talukdari estates were not utilised by the talukdars themselves for the purpose of improving their position or for the purpose of bestowing benefits on the tenants who were responsible for cultivating the lands constituting the talukdari estates. Sir, the Gujarat Talukdars' Act of 1888 bestowed special privileges on these estates, and it provided in section 31 of the Act that no portion of the talukdari estate shall be mortgaged without the previous sanction of the Collector, and no portion of the talukdari estate shall be alienated—I shall use the simpler word, sold—without the previous sanction of the Governor in Council. Now, these provisions of section 31 placed them in an unassailable position, but without taking advantage of these provisions in the proper way, it so happened that the talukdars themselves became very careless and being secure under the protection of this legislation they began to behave in such a way that they lived very extravagant lives, they were addicted to vices and they did not care whether they ran into debts. Often and often it so happened that Government was compelled to take those talukdari estates in management and repay the debts of indebted talukdari estates. They used to take these estates under their management, and with parental care they used to liquidate the debts of the talukdars while those estates were under the management of Government. But it so happened that as soon as Government control was released and the estate was given back to the talukdar, he began to live in the same style, and again his estate ran into debt; and after 40 years Government became tired of the way in which the talukdari estates were incurring debts, and Government have allowed the talukdars to do what they liked, and the consequence has been that Government also do not care in which way the talukdars dispose of their estates when they run into debt. I shall give one illustration, and that illustration was very well proved when I put a question, which has been published in the third list of the current session. The question was about the land rents charged to the cultivators of the talukdar of Hirapur, a village of Sanand taluka of Ahmedabad district. Now, it so happened that this talukdar leased his village to one Hargovinddas Pandurao. He has, in his turn, leased the village to some other man. His name is Koli Patel Ratu Megha. The first lessee increased the assessment to Rs. 5 and Re. 1-8-0 per Vigha as Vighoti for Kyari lands and other lands respectively; but the sub-lessee demands Rs. 7-8-0 and Rs. 2-8-0 per Vigha for Kyari lands and other lands respectively. That is to say, when Government do not pay any attention under the protection of this section the talukdar remains in possession of his estate.

The THAKOR OF KERWADA : On a point of information, may I ask whether the village is a talukdari village ?

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : It is Vighotia. The replies of Government are in the affirmative.

Mr. F. G. H. ANDERSON : Would the honourable member be good enough to give the dates of those leases ? Were they simultaneous, or at a long interval of years ?

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : I can give the dates. It is only last year that the sub-lease has been given, and this demand of increased assessment has been made by the sub-lessee Koli Patel Ratu Megha in the month of April of the current year. I do not remember the date of the first lease ; it must have been four or five years ago

Sir, I mean to say that if Government give protection to the talukdars by making their estates inviolable, it is the imperative duty of Government to see that this protection is not utilised for the purpose of rack-renting the cultivators under the guise of leases. Whenever some difficulty arises, whenever the talukdars run into debts, it is necessary for Government to take up the management of the estates and not to allow the talukdars to lease their estates in such a way as to allow the assessment to be increased, which falls heavily on the cultivators. It is the primary duty of the Government to protect the interests of the tenants also. In Bombay during the time of the war landlords tried to get heavy rents from their tenants. The Government stopped it by passing the Rent Act, thus giving protection to the tenants. There are about 2,000 landlords in Bombay owning all the buildings. The other people are dependent on these landlords for their residence. If these 2,000 persons are allowed to have their own way it would have been very difficult for the tenants at a time when there was a great rush of population into Bombay on account of the war. In order to check the rapacity of the landlords at such a time when the population was increasing Government had to pass that measure of Rent Act for controlling the rents. In the case of these talukdari villages the inhabitants did not come there yesterday. They have been living in those villages from time immemorial. I have put many a question on this point and Government have admitted that the people have been living there for a long time. If we are to look upon this question from the modern stand-point of socialism we can at once find that the tenants have got as much right as the talukdars to live there to cultivate the lands and eat their own coarse millet while the talukdars eat their rich sweetmeat. The land that has been created by God cannot be extended and consequently the land is the possession of the whole community.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I rise to a point of order, Sir. Section 31 of the Gujarat Talukdars' Act relates to encumbrances and alienations and there is nothing in that section with reference to tenants' rights. I submit the honourable member is going out of the scope of the bill before the House.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : I want to point out that the rack-renting is a consequence of the protection given under section 31.

If Government had taken the management and given the leases, the assessment would not have risen as it has done now. In order to pay his debts the talukdar leases out his estate for two years, 4 years and 10 years. The Honourable the Revenue Member said that it might be for two years. I can point out an instance. One talukdar has leased his estate for 20 years. These leases are given to money-lenders for a long period and these lessees want to make as much profit as they can out of the lease. What I want is that the management should be under the control of Government. If the estates are under the control of Government any unjustifiable act done by them would be open to the criticism of this House. Instead of taking care of the talukdari estates and liquidating their debts, Government leave them free to lease these estates. They take protection under section 31 and lease out their estates as they like. In some cases moneys have been advanced to talukdars with the sanction of the Collector. Before liquidating those debts these talukdars take into their heads to lease their estates. The creditors of talukdars and the lease-holders fight among themselves.

[Mr. J. C. Swaminarayan]

There is always quarrel between the lessees on the one side and the money-lenders on the other. I shall take an instance. People of Ram-pura have lent money to the talukdar of Bhankoda with the sanction of the Collector. Still that Talukdar has given lease of his estate to a Parsi gentleman of Ahmedabad. When the crop is ready they will have to divide it : the tenants should have their share while the lessee and creditors fight against one another and division of crops does not take place when the crop is ready. There is perpetual quarrel between the lessee and the creditors and the crop is allowed to rot for months together. Government's attention was drawn to this undesirable state of things by means of questions. If this section is removed the talukdars will understand their position and keep their expenditure within their income. They will be in a position to realise that if they get an income of Rs. 500 they should spend only Rs. 400. He should not spend Rs. 1,000. It is on account of the protection given by this section they go beyond their means and spend beyond their income. As at present they spend beyond their means and so they run into debts. In order to liquidate their debts they lease their estates ; and the lessee makes profit out of it. He would not care if tenants are properly treated or not. If all the tenants are expelled from the village by this means he will bring in other tenants and the hereditary rights of the tenants would be lost.

The THAKOR of KERWADA (Northern Division) : Sir, section 31 of the Talukdari Act relates only to the power of Government to sanction loans raised by the talukdars. It has nothing to do with other taxes. I think, therefore, the honourable member is going far and wide from the bill under discussion.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I have looked into the section pointed out by the Honourable Minister, and the objection raised is perfectly right. Perhaps the honourable member wishes to illustrate the point that the talukdars, because of this privilege conferred on them, are following certain methods. As an illustration, and to that limited extent only, the honourable member will be in order.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Sir, these consequences follow from that section. (An honourable member : No; no). I wanted to give illustrations. These consequences follow because the talukdars are not able to sell their estates, their estates remain secure, and they lease the estates to other people who treat the tenants in the most disgraceful way. The rack-renting of the tenants is the consequence of the existence of this section. I would like to make a reference to an important question which I asked, which is printed at page 105 of Volume XVIII, Part II, Bombay Council Debates. In spite of the existence of section 31, the talukdars are selling their land. I take the liberty of reading out my question and the reply given by Government, as they are intimately connected with section 31. Question (a) is :

" Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) Whether the talukdars of Ujedia in the Prantij taluka have sold many fields of their estate to cultivators of Vaktapur and executed registered documents, giving full possession of their fields to them ? " and the reply of Government is "Yes." That is to say, the talukdars have sold those fields. (The ~~Thakor~~ of ~~Kerwada~~: With the sanction of Government). No; without the sanction of Government. The next question is:

[Mr. J. C. Swaminarayan]

"(b) whether it is a fact that no objection was raised by the Registration Department when those documents were registered?"

Government say "Yes." The Honourable Minister for Education just now spoke that the transaction was illegal; yet the Registration Department did not raise any objection. The third question is:

"(c) whether it is a fact that the cash price of the fields was paid to the talukdars in the presence of the officers of the Registration Department?"

and the reply of Government is:

"(c) This cannot be stated as the dates of the sales are not given and it would entail much trouble to examine each case. Generally the purchase price is not paid in the presence of the sub-registrar, but the officer asks the vendor if he has received the price."

The fourth question is:

"(d) whether it is a fact that the cultivators have been enjoying undisputed possession of the fields for many years and have been paying the assessment of the fields to Government?"

The reply is:

"(d) The purchasers are in possession but they pay no assessment to Government. In talukdari villages jama is paid to Government and this is recovered only from the talukdars and not from the cultivators."

Then the fifth question is:

"(e) whether the Collector of Ahmedabad District has recently served notices on the cultivators of Vaktapur to relinquish the possession of those fields?"

And the reply is:

"(e) Yes, because in talukdari villages sales without the sanction of Government under section 31 of the Gujarat Talukdars' Act are invalid, and eviction can be resorted to by the Collector and talukdari settlement officer under section 202 of the Land Revenue Code within 12 years from the date of the sale."

Now, the sixth question is:

"(f) if the answer to (e) is in the affirmative, whether any arrangements have been made by the Collector to have the cash price which the cultivators paid at the time of the purchase and the price of the improvements made by the cultivators since the purchase, returned to the cultivators?"

And the reply is:

"(f) No; purchasers of lands forming part of talukdari estates buy at their own risk and the law is well known to all in the Ahmedabad District."

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: That is sufficient; is it not?

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN: Now, the object of reading out these questions and the replies of Government was to show that although it is 10 years since the Act was passed, both the cultivators and the talukdars being illiterate, they are still entering into such transactions. After the cultivators have paid the price and got possession of the fields, and enjoyed that possession for many years, and spent money on improving those fields,—Government themselves admit that they have been in possession for many years—all of a sudden they are asked to relinquish those fields without the talukdars giving them compensation for the improvements made by them and refunding the price paid by them for the purchase of those fields. (The Thakor of Kerwada : Prices paid ?)

Certainly ; prices have been paid.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The time is nearly up. Will the honourable member take much longer ?

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Certainly.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The House is adjourned till half past one to-morrow, Friday, the 14th October 1927.

Friday, the 14th October 1927

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Questions.

TEACHERS : VARYING SCALES OF PAY

Khan Saheb ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN (Poona and Sholapur Cities) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the new time scale of pay of the Drawing and the Language teachers ;

(b) on what special grounds the scale of pay of Persian and Urdu teachers is separately considered from that of the Drawing teachers ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) The present scales of pay are as under :—

Drawing teachers Rs. 60—4—100- 5—150 per mensem.

Language teachers Rs. 60 -5/2—120 per mensem.

Shastris in Colleges Rs. 80—5/2—140 per mensem.

(b) The scales for Language teachers and for Drawing teachers have been worked out independently. The scale for the latter is slightly more favourable as a Drawing teacher has to attend a special course of training for one year in the Normal Class of the School of Art.

TALUKA SCHOOLS, NORTHERN DIVISION

Mr. H. J. AMIN (Breach District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number and names of Taluka Headquarters Schools in each district of the Northern Division ;

(b) the number of inward and outward correspondence passing through each such school ;

(c) whether they are aware that in Northern Division in the Taluka Headquarter Schools, school teachers in addition to their usual work are entrusted with the work of inward and outward correspondence, to receiving and distributing pay, books and furniture, to receiving and remitting fees and fines from all the schools in the Taluka ;

(d) whether they are aware that the clerical work referred to in (c) is done by the teachers during the school hours and at the cost of education of children ;

(e) since when the practice of entrusting clerical work to teachers was introduced and whether they have considered the advisability of discontinuing the same ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) and (b) The accompanying statement gives the information asked for.

(c) Yes.

(d) The clerical work referred to in clause (c) is, for the most part, done out of school hours except in cases of urgency and extraordinary circumstances. Even then, special care is taken to see that the school work is not seriously affected. Most of the work is done by and through the Taluka peons and an additional hand on the staff is generally given to the Taluka school master in order to enable him to cope with this extra work.

(e) It cannot be stated definitely from what date this practice has been introduced. It has been in existence since the institution and establishment of Taluka Schools. It is not proposed to discontinue the system which has worked satisfactorily and has proved to be economical and efficient. Its wholesale discontinuance would create serious confusion and irregularity in the management and administration of Local Board Schools.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : Will Government be pleased to state the object of taking the work of correspondence from the school teachers less instead of clerical staff and why should not more clerks be employed for this work and avoid employing the school teachers ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Government do not propose at present to employ separate clerical staff for this purpose.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : Why not increase the staff of deputy educational inspector so that the teachers may be free to do teaching work ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Since a number of years the practice has been for the taluka head masters to distribute the routine correspondence, etc., to schools near about the taluka school and the work is done outside the hours of the school. This practice is more convenient than that which is proposed by the honourable member.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : Are Government prepared to give them an allowance ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : No.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : If I can prove that the work is not done outside the school hours will the Government abolish the practice ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : If that is proved the matter will be considered.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV : Is it not a fact that there are seven teachers in a taluka school ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Very probably, yes.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV : Is it a fact that where there are seven teachers one additional teacher is allowed over and above the strength required ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Probably that is the rule.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Does not this work of correspondence which the teachers of taluka schools have to do come in the way of their real work, namely, teaching ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : No, it does not, because it is done outside the school hours.

COLLECTORS' LIBRARIES

Mr. H. J. AMIN (Broach District) : Will Government be pleased to state whether they have considered the necessity of properly equipping each Collector's library and leaving it open for the use of past and present members of the Council ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Government have no such proposals under their consideration. Collectors' libraries are intended entirely for official use, and Government do not consider it desirable to turn Collectors' offices into semi-public reading rooms as they would be if they were thrown open for the use of past and present members of the Council.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : When the library here is open to the members of the Legislative Council, what objection is there if the Collector's library is left open to them ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : The reply to this question should be perfectly obvious to the honourable member.

IRRIGATION RATES : CHANGES

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE (Bombay City, North) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the irrigation rates per acre in various crops during the last three years ;

(b) whether any change in this has taken place ;

(c) whether the Government authorities concerned have received any complaints from the agriculturists as regards this change ;

(d) if so, what action they have taken ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHLANGIR : The information is being collected.

PRIVATE GYMNASIA : PROHIBITION OF GOVERNMENT HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

Mr. M. G. BHOSLE (West Khandesh District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware of the fact that students attending Government High Schools are not allowed to join private gymnasia for improving their physique ;

(b) whether there are any rules or orders of the Educational Department prohibiting students from going to such institutions : and if so, to quote the same ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) Students attending Government High Schools are not ordinarily prohibited from joining private gymnasia.

(b) The answer to this part of the question is in the negative.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : How are they prohibited ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : They are not prohibited.

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR (inaudible) :

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I am not aware of that.

Mr. M. G. BHOSLE : Are there any gymnasia common to the students of Government schools and private persons ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I do not know of any gymnasium which is common to both the students of Government schools and private persons.

SANITARY SOCIETIES

Mr. M. G. BHOSLE (West Khandesh District) : Will Government be pleased to state-

(a) the number of Sanitary Societies that exist in the Bombay Presidency ;

(b) the financial condition of these Societies ;

(c) the amount of monetary contributions given by Government to these Societies ;

(d) the total amount of such grants ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : By "Sanitary Societies" the Honourable Member presumably means "Sanitary Associations, Baby and Health Week Associations, etc."

(a) Ten.

(b) No information is available apart from what is given in the annual reports of the Associations.

(c)	Name	Amount of Government grant
		Rs.
(1)	The Karachi Sanitary Association ..	6,000	(recurring).
(2)	The Bombay Sanitary Association ..	1,500	,,
(3)	The Broach Sanitary Association ..	500	,,
(4)	The Ahmedabad Sanitary Association.	1,000	,,
(5)	The Bombay Presidency Baby and Health Week Association ..	10,000	,, Note.—The Broach Sanitary Association also received a non-recurring grant of Rs. 1,500 this year.

(d) Rs. 19,000.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : Why should a preferential treatment be given to the Broach Sanitary Association which has been given a non-recurring grant of Rs. 1,500 ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I cannot at once tell the honourable member the reasons. He may repeat the question and I will then give him an answer.

TAGAVI, FLOODED AREAS, GUJARAT

Rao Saheb D. P. DESAI (Kaira District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have decided to write off the tagavi loans issued to the cultivators of the Matar taluka during the years before the flood ;

(b) the amount of tagavi due from the cultivators of that taluka before the floods and the new tagavi issued to them since the flood ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Information is being collected.

KULKARNI WATANS : GOVERNMENT ORDERS

Mr. N. R. GUNJAL (Poona District) : Will Government be pleased to place on the Council table all the Government resolutions, notices, notifications, circulars, etc., issued by them from time to time since 1859 to date regarding kulkarni watans ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : A compilation of the character indicated in the question would involve an expenditure of time and labour out of all proportion to its possible value to the public. Government therefore regret that they are not prepared to undertake it. Phadnis' Watan Act contains all the important orders of Government regarding watans (including kulkarni watans). A copy of this work is to be found in the library.

KULKARNI WATANS : COUNCIL QUESTIONS

Mr. N. R. GUNJAL (Poona District) : Will Government be pleased to place on the Council table the proceedings of this Council from 1914 up to date relating to questions and answers regarding commutation of kulkarni watans ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Copies of the proceedings and debates of the Bombay Legislative Council from 1914 up to the last session are available in the library, where the honourable member can himself obtain all the information that he desires.

Mr. N. R. GUNJAL (Poona District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the maximum and minimum delay between the date of presentation of documents and the date of their receipt from the photo office in Bombay, Poona and Ahmedabad offices from January to June 1927 ;

(b) what steps have been taken to lessen the delay ;

(c) whether the delay under the photo system exceeds that under the old hand-copying system ;

(d) if so, what steps have been taken or are proposed to be taken to grant copies of documents in the interval (from the date of registration as impressed on the registration certificate and the date of their receipt from the photo office), and facilitate the cause of litigation ;

(e) whether they propose to defer the question of legalising the photo system and extending it to other offices till the maximum delay under this system does not exceed that under the old system of hand-copying ;

(f) if not, the reasons why they are sacrificing public convenience for the sake of this system ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN :

GOVERNMENT SERVANTS : COLLECTIONS FOR FUNDS

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state —

(a) whether there are Government circulars, confidential or otherwise, according to which Government servants are forbidden to collect funds for any private institution or association ;

(b) if the reply to (a) is in the affirmative, whether it has been brought to their notice that Mr. Henderson, the Collector of Thar Parkar, has started the Blind Relief Association for which with the help of Deputy Collectors and Mukhtiarkars under him meetings are held and subscriptions are collected throughout the various parts of his district ;

(c) what steps they have taken regarding this and what steps they propose to take for the future ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes.

(b) Mr. Henderson's instructions were that Mukhtiarkars should endeavour to set up entirely non-official committees in their talukas to collect subscriptions for the Association, but that no Government officer should himself undertake the collection of subscriptions. Meetings were held for the appointment of such non-official committees at which the Collector Deputy Collector or Mukhtiarkar was at times present. It transpired subsequently that in some cases the collections made by the committees were being sent to the headquarters of the Association through the Mukhtiarkars, but as soon as this practice came to notice orders forbidding it were issued.

(c) The orders referred to in clause (a) have been brought to the notice of the officers concerned.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : What is the date of such an order prohibiting any practice of that kind ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : August 1925.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : Was there any collection after that ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Collections have been made after that, but not by any officer of Government.

BLIND RELIEF ASSOCIATION : SUBSCRIPTIONS

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City) : Will Government be pleased to state what amount has been paid by Mir Ghulam Hyder Khan Talpur and Wadero Ghulam Kadir Narejo individually to the Blind Relief Association as subscription ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Rs. 400 and Rs. 1,400 respectively.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : Was the man exempted from the prosecution or released after he paid a subscription of Rs. 1,400 to this association ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : That does not arise out of the question.

BLIND RELIEF ASSOCIATION : COLLECTION OF FUNDS

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City) : Will Government be pleased to state -

(a) whether they are aware that Mr. Henderson, the Collector of Thar Parkar, had called a meeting in Digri for collecting funds for the Blind Relief Association ;

(b) whether they are aware that in this meeting there were Deputy Collectors, Mukhtiarkars and several respectable zamindars present ;

(c) whether Mr. Henderson in the public meeting said that Mr. Ghulam Hyder Khan had given only one hundred rupees towards the Blind Relief Association Fund, but now he being involved in a criminal case had spent more than thirty thousand rupees, that the work was laudable and they should pay large amounts in subscription ;

(d) what steps they have taken or propose to take in connection with this matter ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) A meeting was held at Digri to constitute a non-official committee for collecting funds for the Blind Relief Association.

(b) A Deputy Collector, a Mukhtiarkar and several zamindars were present.

(c) No such statement was made by Mr. Henderson. He merely remarked that people who could not find money for charity could find large sums for pleaders.

(d) Orders have already been issued that official agency is not to be used for raising subscriptions for public purposes.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : Who called this meeting ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I presume that the Collector called the meeting, as he was present.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : I have stated in my question that the Collector in that meeting said that Mr. Ghulam Hyder Khan had given only one hundred rupees towards the Blind Relief Association Fund, but being involved in a criminal case had spent more than thirty thousand rupees, and that they should pay large amounts in subscription. Government in their reply say that such statement was not made, and that he only remarked that people who could not find money for charity could find large sums for pleaders. If that is true, what was the occasion for making such a remark, and why was it made ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I think that is a hypothetical question.

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR : Was it proper for the Collector to make such a remark ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Where was the impropriety there ? I do not think there was anything improper in that.

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR : It is stated here that "he (the Collector) merely remarked that people who could not find money for charity could find large sums for pleaders." A District Magistrate making a remark like that at the time when funds are to be collected and certain prosecutions are to be launched, is that proper ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The reply has been given that the honourable member does not think that there was anything improper.

SCHOOLS IN CANTONMENT AREA : GOVERNMENT

Sardar G. N. MUJUMDAR (Deccan Sardars and Inamdars) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(b) whether Government has directed the managers of any such schools to look to the Cantonment authorities for a grant ;

(c) whether any Cantonment Authorities have given grants to the schools in their areas for the year 1925-26 ;

(d) if not, what arrangements they propose to make for giving grants to these schools ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) and (b) These parts of the question have already been replied to.

(c) The Poona and Kirkee cantonment authorities alone paid grants to the schools within their areas in 1925-26 ;

(d) Grants to privately managed schools situated within cantonment areas are primarily to be paid by cantonment authorities and Government have declared their willingness to give grants to cantonment authorities equal to one-half of the expenditure incurred by them on account of grants to these schools. Unless therefore cantonment authorities are prepared to bear their share of the contribution, Government cannot do anything in the matter.

TRAINED TEACHERS : SUPPLY TO LOCAL AUTHORITIES

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District) : Will Government be pleased to state their policy as regards the supply of trained teachers to local authorities in future ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : The question is still under consideration.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK : How long is this question going to be under consideration ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : The whole question is connected with the expansion of education and the question of sufficient funds being found. So, the whole question relates to financial considerations.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE (Ahmednagar District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Information is being collected.

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) English, Kanarese and Marathi ;

(b) All districts of the Presidency ;

(c) and (d) No model lessons were given in Agricultural Bias Schools. Model lessons were regularly given to the Agricultural teachers when under training at the Loni, Jambul and Devi-Hosur Agricultural Schools, at the time of inspection of these schools and also for about a month at the time of the refresher class held at the Loni School in May 1926. (a) the respective duties of the Cotton Supervisor and the Deputy Director of Agriculture ;

(b) whether both the duties cannot be managed by one individual ;

(c) whether the Cotton Supervisor in Khandesh (North Central Division) is entrusted with the work of supervision over the District Staff ;

(d) whether it is a fact that Cotton Superintendents in other districts are not given such supervision work ;

(e) the reasons for this difference in duties between the Cotton Supervisor in Khandesh and Cotton Superintendents in other districts ;

(f) whether the duties of Cotton Supervisor and the Deputy Director of Agriculture are overlapping ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) The principal duties of the Cotton Supervisor in Khandesh are—

(1) He supervises and guides the work of the Raver, Bhusawal, Edlabad, Pachora and Jalgaon Taluka Development Associations which are largely interested in cotton. He is directly in charge of all the operations of the Agricultural Department in this section, apart from the Jalgaon Farm.

(2) He arranges for and supervises the purification and growing of pure cotton seed suitable for Khandesh.

(3) He makes arrangements for the distribution of first class seed from the Jalgaon Farm to registered seed growers and also supplies the demands from cultivators both inside and outside Khandesh.

(4) He arranges for laying out experimental and demonstration plots for growing new strains of cotton and studies the effect of manures on cotton.

The Deputy Director of Agriculture, N. C. D., is in charge of all the operations of the Agricultural Department in Khandesh and Nasik, including the farms, and the research, educational and propaganda work.

(b) No.

(c) Yes.

(d) Yes.

(e) The Cotton Superintendents in the Karnatak and in Gujarat do not supervise the district staff, partly because their special work on cotton is more developed and takes the whole of their time, and partly because the district staff is more senior and experienced than is at present the case in Khandesh.

(f) No.

Mr. J. R. PATEL (Kaira District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: (a) and (b) The matter is under consideration.

TRANSFERS OF PROPERTY: TAX ON STAMPS (BOMBAY CITY)

Mr. HOOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Bombay City): Will Government be pleased to state for the year (a) 1925-1926 and (b) 1926-1927—

- (3) the amount of tax realised by way of stamp ;
- (4) the number of properties that were sold by forced sales by mortgagees, the Official Assignee and by order of the Court ;
- (5) the total amount of the sale price of such properties ;
- (6) whether the increase of stamp duty on transfer of property from  $1\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. to  $3\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. has had any effect on the sales of properties ;
- (7) if so, what ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (1) and (2) Attention is invited to columns 6, 7, 9 and 10 of Form I of the triennial report of the Registration Department for the calendar years 1923-25 and of the Annual Report for the calendar year 1926. The figures for the financial years are not available.

(3) Information will be called for.

(4) and (5) Government regret their inability to compile these statistics as the labour involved in so doing would not be commensurate with the public utility served by them.

(6) and (7) Government are unable to make any definite statement in the matter since many factors, besides the rate of duty, influence the extent to which transfers of property occur.

Mr. HOOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA : Why are not the figures available ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : The particulars as explained in the reply are only totalled up for the calendar year and in order to obtain figures for the financial year, they would have to be scrutinized and entirely recast.

REVENUE IN BOMBAY CITIES : INCIDENCE

Mr. HOOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Bombay City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(1) the total amount of revenue collected from the principal cities of the Presidency having a population of over a lac under the following heads :—

- (i) Municipal ;
- (ii) Provincial ;

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : (1) (i) and (2) A reference is invited to statements I and II appended to the Resolution reviewing the Reports on Municipal Taxation and Expenditure in the Bombay Presidency (including Sind).

LILAPORE SCHOOL : SIXTH STANDARD

(a) whether Government was lately pleased to order the opening of a 6th Standard in the School in Lilapore Village, taluka Bulsar, district Surat ;

(b) whether the Head Master was asked to open the 6th Standard if six or more pupils could be had for this school ;

(c) whether the Head Master reported that six pupils could not be had ;

(d) whether at present six pupils from this village, viz., (1) Magan Gopal, (2) Chhotu Chhiba Kumbhar, (3) Chhiba Jivan Dhebaro, (4) Vithal Bhika Bava, (5) Gokal Ghela, (6) Jivan Ranchhod Koli, are going to Schools in other villages ;

(e) whether Government propose to take any action against the Head Master for sending false report to his superiors ;

f) when they intend to open the 6th Standard in this School ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) No.

(b) Yes, on condition that it was attended by at least 5 pupils on an average throughout the year.

(c) Yes.

(d) Yes.

(e) No : the report of the Head Master was not false.

(f) Standard VI will be allowed to be opened in the school when there is an average number of at least 5 pupils ready to join it.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : If you read the reply to (c) with reply to (d) and (e), does it not follow that the head master made a false report that six pupils were not available ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Some of the boys who were attending the school in the other village were not willing to leave their class and to attend the new class which was going to be opened there and therefore six students could not be obtained.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Why were not the students willing to go to a school in their own village but were willing to go to a school outside their village ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : If the honourable member wishes it, I will read the report itself for his information. Here it is :—

Extract paragraph 1 (e) of the Educational Inspector, N. D.'s letter no. 6553 of 2nd September 1927.

Of the 6 pupils referred to in part (d) of the question only two, viz., nos. 1 and 2 were willing to join standard VI as desired by their guardians. Number 3 has never studied in the Lilapore school. He has been studying in the Local Board school, Bhadeli, right from the beginning of his school life. He stays on the river side at a little distance from Lilapore and the path from that place to Lilapore remains muddy and full of water during the monsoon whereas there is a pacca road between that place and Bhadeli. His guardian is not, therefore, willing to send him to Lilapore School. His Statement no. 1 to this effect with its English translation accompanies. The guardian of no. 4 also is not willing to send his son to Lilapore on the same ground. (Vide his Statement no. II). Numbers 5 and 6 left the Lilapore school in the beginning of April last as their guardian wanted to put them to an English School (vide his Statement no. III). Thus it will be seen that only 2 pupils were ready to join Standard VI which could not be opened as there was no possibility of an average number of pupils (vide Statement no. IV).

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Is it because the head master of the school is unpopular with the people that no pupils are willing to go to his school ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I cannot say, I do not know anything about it.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Has he created parties in the village ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I know nothing about it.

ENGLISH SCHOOL, MANDVI

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

- (a) whether there is an English school in Mandvi, district Surat ;

- (c) what has been the yearly income of this school for each of the last three years ;
- (d) what has been yearly expenditure of this school for each of the last three years ;
- (e) what is the unbuilt area of the compound of this school ;
- (f) whether there is a proposal before Government to acquire houses of some poor agriculturists for this school ;
- (g) if so, for what purpose is this land required ;
- (h) what is the estimated value of the land proposed to be acquired ;
- (i) whether no cheaper play-ground can be found which would not necessitate the dispossession of poor agriculturists ?

(e) Approximately 4,200 sq. ft. now used as play-ground.

(f) The proposal to acquire two plots measuring 5,280 sq. yds. was approved by Government and a notification under section 6 of the Land Acquisition Act was issued under No. 7803, dated 4th July 1927. On one of these plots there are three small houses. The other plot is vacant.

(g) For extension of the play-ground and for future expansion of the school.

(h) Rs. 3,960.

(i) No suitable land for play-grounds in the vicinity of the school is available.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : With regard to reply to (i), is it adjacent or in the vicinity ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Not only adjacent but in the vicinity also.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Is it necessary that the play-ground must be in the vicinity of the school ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : It would be very good if it were in the vicinity.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Should the land of a poor agriculturist be acquired for providing a play-ground in the vicinity ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : There are only two huts on the land, and there would hardly be any hardship caused to the owners of those huts.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Is a play-ground a public purpose ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : It is certainly a public purpose.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Even for an aided school ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Yes.

SCHOLARSHIPS IN SYDENHAM COLLEGE FOR DEPRESSED CLASSES

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) how many scholarships for the encouragement of the depressed classes are provided in the Sydenham College of Commerce ;

(b) if none is provided, whether they propose to take any steps in the matter ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) Three scholarships of the value of Rs. 35 per mensem each tenable for three years have been sanctioned at the Sydenham College of Commerce and Economics for the " Backward " classes (including the depressed classes) as distinguished from the " Intermediate " classes. No scholarships are exclusively reserved for depressed classes.

(b) Government do not consider it necessary to reserve any scholarships for the depressed classes exclusively at the college.

DHOLERA VILLAGE SITE

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that the village of Dholera in the Dhandhuka Taluka of the Ahmedabad District consisted of about 60 huts before 1802 A.D., the year in which a treaty was signed between the East India Company and the Girasias of Dholera ;

(b) whether they are aware that after the year of the said treaty, the East India Company invited outside traders and induced them by giving lands free or by sale to populate the present town of Dholera with a view to develop the commerce of Dholera port ;

(c) whether they are aware that almost the whole of the present village site of Dholera consists of houses built on the lands granted free or by sale by the East India Company between 1802 and 1858 A.D. and by Government thereafter ;

(d) if the answers to (a), (b) and (c) are in the affirmative, why those facts were not brought to the notice of the District Judge of Ahmedabad by Government or their pleader in Civil Suit No. 14 of 1913 ;

(e) whether it is a fact that the present village site has been handed over to the talukdars in the judgment of that suit and the permanent rights of the inhabitants of Dholera who had built their houses on lands given free or by sale by Government have been endangered ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Government have no information as to the size of the village of Dholera before 1802 A.D.

(b) Yes. This information came to notice when certain people of Dholera produced the documents of sales or gifts before the Revenue Officials in 1925-26.

(c) In the absence of a detailed enquiry about the village site plots it is not possible to give definite information on this point.

(d) Government were not aware of the full facts at the time, and any information about their title deeds that the people may have had could not be produced, as they were not parties to the suit.

(e) It is the fact that, as against Government the talukdars have been declared to be entitled to the village site, but Government are advised that any rights which the inhabitants may possess are not affected by the decree in this suit, to which they were not parties. It is open to them to assert their claims in a civil court if so advised.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : With reference to (d), why have not Government taken steps to have the miscarried judgment revised by the High Court ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : It was too late then. The period of appeal had expired.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : After fresh evidence was in the hands of Government, why did not Government take steps to see that proper justice was done to the villagers ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : It was the business of the people whose rights were affected, not of Government, because Government had no knowledge of the existence of this evidence. The people knew perfectly well that litigation was proceeding and yet they never took steps to inform Government. If Government had been informed, it is possible that this documentary evidence would have been made use of.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : With regard to reply to (e), can the people whose rights are affected, take action ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Certainly, it is open to them to do so.

DHOLERA VILLAGE SITE : OWNERSHIP

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the rights of the citizens of Dholera, a village in the Dhandhuka Taluka of the Ahmedabad District, were involved in Civil Suit No. 14 of 1913 owing to the ownership of the village site being one of the points at issue in the said suit ;

(b) if so, why they did not consult the citizens of Dholera during the pendency of the said suit and give them an opportunity to produce evidence in support of their rights ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) No.

(b) Government were not in possession of all the facts and hence the people of Dholera were not made parties to the suit. There was therefore no occasion to ask them to produce evidence. It was however open to them to do so while the suit was pending.

INAMDAR OF PATRI : DETENTION OF CROPS

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether, during the year 1927, the Inamdar of Patri has detained in the Makhal (grain yard) fifty-two maunds and eight and a half seers of rice, falling to the share of the cultivator Koli Tala Bechar at the time of the distribution of crops ;

(b) if the answer to (a) is in the affirmative, why the share of rice of the said cultivator has been detained ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes.

(b) Tala Bechar having failed to pay his tagai dues, his share of paddy was detained by the Inamdar according to the prevailing practice.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Have not Government enquired whether there were any dues actually owing to the inamdar by Tala Bechar ? My information is that he took some money some 14 years ago but subsequently had paid it off.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : That is a matter between Tala Bechar and the inamdar.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : Since how long was that tagavi due outstanding ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : That question was not asked and I have made no enquiry about it.

ANNA VALUATION COMMITTEE'S REPORT

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have received the report of the committee appointed to consider the best method of fixing the annewari valuation of the crops ;

(b) whether they have passed a resolution on the report of the said committee ;

(c) if the answers to (a) and (b) are in the affirmative, the reasons why the said report and resolution have not been supplied to the members of the Legislative Council ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) Copies of the report which was printed as an appendix of the Resolution of Government dealing with it were distributed to those Members of the Legislative Council who were members of the committee. By an oversight copies were not forwarded to all other members of the Council. This is now being done.

INAMDAR OF PATRI : DESTRUCTION OF HOUSE

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is true that the servants of the Inamdar of Patri demolished a house of Koli Tala Bechar on Monday the 4th April 1927 at 3 p.m. in broad day light ;

(b) if the answer to (a) is in the affirmative, under what provisions of the law the said Inamdar exercises the power of destroying the private property of poor cultivators ;

(c) if the demolition of the house has been carried out without any provision of the law, whether Government intend to prevent such wanton destruction of property of poor cultivators ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU :

(a) The Inamdar's servants demolished a house to the ownership of which Tala laid claim.

(b) The house originally belonged to Vaja Dana, uncle of Tala's father. After the death of Doshi, daughter of Vaja Dana, it was resumed by the Inamdar. Bhagwan Dosa who occupied it as a tenant of Doshi passed a rent note in favour of the Inamdar and paid rent to him. The Inamdar claims the house through the right of reversion and does not admit the claim of Tala as the adopted son of Vaja Dana. The Darbar admits the demolition of the house for the purpose of widening the road.

Tala claims the house as the adopted son of Vaja Dana. He has filed a complaint against the Inamdar's servants in the court of the First Class Magistrate, Viramgam. The case has not yet been decided.

(c) The matter is sub-judice and Government would not be justified in interfering.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Before establishing his claim, what right does the Inamdar possess to demolish a house belonging to another man ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I cannot say. That is a matter between the Inamdar and the person affected.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : Will Government be pleased to influence the Inamdar in such cases in future to prevent us from bringing bills against them ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : They have no power to do so.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Are Inamdars at liberty to demolish any houses at any time ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Yes, if they are prepared to face the risk of prosecutions or civil actions.

INAMDAR OF PATRI : DOOR TAX

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Inamdar of Patri charges an illegal tax, called the door tax, at the time of construction or repair of houses from the residents of Patri and compels the payment of the said illegal tax by preventing the masons, carpenters and labourers from doing the work and by obstructing the use of water of the village tanks ;

(b) if so, what steps Government have taken to prevent the Inamdar from exacting the said illegal tax by illegal methods ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) The Inamdar levies the amount which is fixed by negotiation between him and the party concerned because the party obtains a new right of easement against the Inamdar by the opening of new doors and windows facing on to his land. Pressure to pay such amounts is not put upon the people by the device of withholding the labour of masons, carpenters and labourers or of obstructing them in their use of the village tanks.

(b) Government are not aware that the action of the Inamdar is illegal and they do not propose to take any steps in the matter.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA : It is stated in the reply that the Inamdar levies the amount which is fixed by negotiation between him and the party concerned because the party obtains a new right of easement against the Inamdar by the opening of new doors and windows facing on to his land. Are Government aware that the reason assigned is not correct, and that there cannot be an easement if doors and windows are opened in a building against open land ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : That is a legal question which I am not able to reply to.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Is not the Honourable Member aware that section 37 of the Land Revenue Code lays down that public roads are not property belonging to any private individual, but vest in Government ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : That is the whole question. The land is not public land.

GHOGHO PORT DEVELOPMENT

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are considering the question of developing the port of Ghogho ;

(b) if so, what has been the result of those considerations ;

(c) when they will undertake the development of the said port ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a), (b) and (c) Government have carefully considered the question of developing the port of Ghogho but find it impracticable to pursue the scheme.

Mr. LALJI NARANJI : Will Government be pleased to say whether the development of the port of Ghogho being found impracticable is due to economic or political reasons ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : There are several reasons. One is the enormous cost of dredging that would be involved, and another is the fact that Ghogho is cut off from the other British territory by a strip of Bhavnagar territory, and that therefore any railway communication would have to be led through Bhavnagar State.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : What is the approximate cost estimated ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : No estimate has been made ; it would be very costly even to make an estimate.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : Is it costly to make an estimate, or is it costly to carry out the scheme ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Both are costly. It would be very costly to make an estimate, the carrying out of the scheme involves a very large amount of dredging, and it would be very difficult to form a reliable estimate of the cost.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Are not Government aware that Ghogho is on the high seas ?

(No reply).

GHOGHO PORT DEVELOPMENT : REPORT OF INVESTIGATING OFFICER

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they deputed an officer to Ghogho for examining the possibility of the development of that port ;

(b) if so, whether they will place the report of that officer on the Council table ;

(c) what action they have taken on that report ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes, Ghogho and a number of other places.

(b) Government regret their inability to place the report on the Council table.

(c) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the reply given to his question above.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Is it a confidential report ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Yes, it is.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Would there be any loss if the report is published ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Government consider it undesirable to publish the report.

Mr. LALJI NARANJI : Will Government state what other places were examined by this officer

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : A number of places on the coast of the Gulf of Cambay.

Mr. LALJI NARANJI : Will he please give the names of the other places ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I cannot remember the names, but I know one name, Whittle bunder. Special attention was paid to the substitution of another port to take the place of Whittle bunder.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : Out of these 15 places, is there no suitable place for the opening of any kind of port ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I can say that the report was unfavourable in respect to the great majority of the places. But Government are still considering the question of the place that I just mentioned.

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI : Was the port of Dholera considered ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : The question is still under consideration.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Do Government know that the officers who visit Ghogho port are prejudiced on their way to Ghogho by the officers of Bhavnagar State who treat them with most sumptuous hospitality ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I decline to answer that question.

Mr. LALJI NARANJI : If the reasons are economic, have Government any objection to inform the House by a short statement what the reasons are ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : If the honourable member will address a separate question to me, I shall consider what information can be given.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Will Government depute an officer to go to Ghogho without receiving the hospitality of the Bhavnagar State on the way and make this independent enquiry ? .

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. That is a suggestion.

P. R. TRAINING COLLEGE, AHMEDABAD

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have issued orders to continue Premchand Raichand Training College, Ahmedabad, only for the current official year 1927-28 ;

(b) if the answer to (a) is in the affirmative, what are the intentions of Government at the end of that year ;

(c) whether Government are going to make provision for the expenses of Premchand Raichand Training College in the budget of the year 1928-29 ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) Last year's arrangements have been continued, and no decision has been taken for the future.

(b) No definite statement can be made in the matter at present.

(c) Provision will be made in the next year's budget.

FOREIGN LIQUOR LICENSES : TRANSFERS ON SURRENDER

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state on what principles their policy of transferring the surrendered foreign liquor licenses is based, and the reasons for adopting that policy ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Any foreign liquor license, if cancelled or surrendered, is transferred to another licensee provided that the demand for such a license in the locality still continues.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Does the Honourable Minister refer to the locality in which the license is surrendered ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Yes.

Dr. M. D. GILDER : How is the demand ascertained ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : A lot of applications come in.

Dr. M. D. GILDER : How is the license determined ? By public advertisement ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (Inaudible).

Dr. M. D. GILDER : It has been stated that the license if cancelled or surrendered is transferred to another licensee. How is the new licensee found ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : I would ask for notice.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : May I understand from this reply that in the case of a surrendered license, it can be transferred to another licensee in the same locality ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Not necessarily.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Can a surrendered license be transferred anywhere ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Yes, to another locality, if that is required.

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI : Are there any cases where it has been surrendered ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : I would ask for notice.

LAND RENT : IGATPURI

Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether their attention has been drawn to the complaints of Igatpuri people that with regard to land rent of rupees fifty and annas six per acre in that station, the concessions given by Government relieved only the bungalow owners while the poor people holding open lands were being charged a high rent ;

(b) what steps they intend to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) No such complaints have been received.

(b) Does not arise.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : Have not Government received a resolution passed by the public meeting of the landlords ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : No, not that I am aware of.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA : May I be permitted to ask my question ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I have repeatedly requested honourable members to be in their places when questions are asked.

GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL, AHMEDABAD

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA (Bombay City, North) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that some girls were refused admission in the Girls' High School, Ahmedabad, on the ground that there was not enough accommodation in the schools to admit more girls ;

(b) if the answer to the question (a) be in the affirmative, whether it is a fact that the Girls' High School, Ahmedabad, is the only institution in the city of Ahmedabad where girls can take advantage of English education ;

(c) whether they intend in the near future to increase the staff and the accommodation in the Girls' High School, Ahmedabad ;

(d) whether they are aware that on account of want of space some of the classes of the Girls' High School, Ahmedabad, are held in the open verandah even in the hot weather and during the rains and that for practical work in Science the girls have to go to the P. R. Training College for Men ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) Yes.

(b) No.

(c) The plans and estimates for a new building for the Girls' High School, Ahmedabad, have already been sanctioned. Owing to financial stringency the provision proposed to be made in the current year's budget on this account was, however, subsequently omitted. The staff is adequate and sufficient to meet the present need.

(d) Yes. Because the laboratory is common to both institutions.

(Consideration of Gujarat Talukdars' Act Amendment Bill resumed)

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I should request the honourable member to bear in mind that he has already addressed the House for a considerably long time. I hope he will have only a few more remarks to make.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Sir, yesterday I referred to some of the questions I had asked and the replies given by Government on this question. These answers conclusively prove that cultivators are being cheated very badly and that this protection should be removed. The talukdars take advantage of this section to induce the cultivators to part with their money in buying their lands and, in lending money on mortgage and at last get back their lands from the people who have paid for them. In the talukdari estate of Mehlol in the Panch Mahals cases have happened where a talukdar has resumed certain lands from the cultivators who paid heavy amounts for them. At the time of selling land to cultivators they take what is called sakar nazarana, which is practically the price of the land. The talukdars take protection under this section and after a short period of two or three years take back the land and demand again sakar nazarana. If the cultivator does not pay the land is given to another man.....

The THAKOR of KERWADA : The honourable member is referring to sakar nazarana which is beyond the scope of the bill before the House which is for the repeal of section 31 of the Gujarat Talukdars Act. He refers to the liability of the talukdars, which can have no bearing on the issue before the House.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I have already pointed out to the honourable member that if he makes this as the main point of his speech it would be irrelevant. I gave him permission to refer to it only so far as it would go to support his bill and not to make it the chief aim of his speech.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : What I want to say is that sakar is practically the value of the land. The amount so paid is so heavy that it is sometimes much more than the value of the land itself. The poor ignorant cultivators are induced to pay this sakar, and after some time they are evicted from the lands, because the talukdars are protected under section 31. My point is that the lands should not be taken away back from the cultivators, and they should not be cheated in this manner.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I cannot allow any further reference to these outside matters which may be matters probably important for discussion.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : What I mean to say is that the talukdars whatever dealings they may have, they should not take advantage of this section. The money paid by the cultivators ought to be taken into account. What they do now is to take advantage of this section and cheat and deceive many cultivators. That is the point which I want to bring to the notice of this House by introducing this bill which is to repeal section 31 of the Gujarat Talukdars' Act.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I repeat I cannot allow him to digress into these questions.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : There are also various other reasons for repealing this section. When a private individual runs into debts, his property will be attached and sold in open auction and his creditors will be paid out of the sale proceeds. In the case of talukdars there is no limit to the liability they can incur because they are not to suffer the consequence on account of the protection given by section 31. This liberty that the talukdars enjoy falls very heavily on the ignorant cultivators.

In clause 2 of my bill I propose to repeal certain exemptions given to the talukdars. They are given certain exemptions from sections 127 to 136 which relate to record of rights.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : May I ask the honourable member to refer to the Land Revenue Code and see whether any of the sections mentioned refer to the record of rights ?

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : The talukdars are exempted from the provisions contained in sections 135A to 135L. I do not see any reason why they should enjoy any exemption. They must be governed by the ordinary law of the land.

Mr. F. G. H. ANDERSON : I rise to a point of order. The honourable member says that he proposes by his bill to amend section 135, but it was repealed by the Act of 1912.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : If that is so my point is gained. Therefore, what I mean to say is that if the sections regarding record of rights and village surveys are applied to them, the cultivators will have their rights determined as regards the land on which their houses stand, and constant quarrels between the tenants and the talukdars will disappear. It will be possible to determine the respective rights of talukdars and tenants by a regular survey of village sites and the introduction of record of rights. It is necessary that the cultivators should know what they possess and the talukdars should not be allowed to encroach upon the rights of tenants at each and every stage. It happened last year when the houses fell down owing to floods that the people were not allowed to rebuild their houses. (The Thakor of Kerwada : There were no floods last year.) There were floods in Dholka taluka last year owing to heavy rains. After the destruction done by floods last year, the cultivators were prevented from reconstructing their houses.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : On a point of order, Mr. President. Is this all relevant on an amendment for deleting section 31 ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I have been pointing that out to the honourable member, but he does not seem to see the thing. Most of his speech is really irrelevant and outside the scope of the bill he has brought in.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Sir, I am referring to clause 3 of my bill. There were many applications to this honourable House in February session of 1927 from the cultivators stating that their houses had fallen down and they were not being allowed to rebuild them and the talukdars were coming in their way. There were petitions to this honourable House during the last winter session. People whose houses had fallen down were not allowed by the talukdars to rebuild, and this fact is known to the honourable House. Afterwards, through the intervention of Government and the intervention of the Collector, they were allowed to rebuild their houses. Therefore, the respective rights of the tenants and the talukdars should be settled by regular village surveys and by the introduction of record of rights. It is with that object that I have put in clause 3 of this bill. If that clause is passed, there will be no cases of quarrel between the talukdars and their tenants.

The aim of this bill is to see that there is no differentiation between the ordinary people and the privileged people. This bill will remove the differentiation that exists at present ; if this bill is passed, the talukdars will come to the same level as that of the ordinary people, and if they lead a good life they will be happy. It is because they are given special protection at present that they do not live a good life and consequently place themselves into great misery. Therefore, it is in their own interests.....

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Sir, may I point out to my honourable friend that he has caught hold of an old copy of the Act ? The amended section 33 mentions sections " 127 to 134, 136, 163." He is talking therefore of the old section which has been amended since.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Then, I think Government also have seen the necessity of what I am proposing at present, and they have moved in the right direction. Therefore, it is imperatively necessary in the interest of the talukdars themselves to have this section 31 repealed. Under that section the talukdars, when they are in need of money, have to go to the Collector for sanction and to please the karkuns and other subordinates of the Collector, and in the result they do not get the exact amount, which they would if they were free to mortgage their lands. They have to suffer a loss, because, for the purpose of getting permission, they are put to unnecessary trouble and unnecessary expenditure. Just now, Government act in such a way as if this section 31 does not exist, because any talukdar who wants permission is given permission to mortgage his land or sell his land. Therefore, in practical administration section 31 of the Gujarat Talukdars' Act is not applied. I find that an officer named Mr. Gordon, I.C.S., was appointed for the purpose of making investigations into this matter, and that officer, I believe, has reported that section 31 should be repealed. Unfortunately, although I asked that a copy of that report may be placed on the Council table, it has not been placed on the Council table. Therefore, I cannot definitely say what his recommendation is, but I have heard that he has recommended the repeal of section 31 in the interests of the talukdars themselves. If that section is repealed I think that will do immense good to the talukdars; they will keep their expenses within their income, and they will be very happy if this protection is taken away. Therefore, I move the first reading of Bill No. XXIII of 1927.

Question proposed.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Sir, I have been listening to the speech of the honourable mover both yesterday and today with great interest and attention, but I have failed to see how he can characterise this bill as in the interests of the tenants. He has not said a word to show how this bill, if passed into law, will benefit the tenant. I may assure the honourable mover that I am as much interested in the preservation of the landed aristocracy of this presidency as in the prosperity of the tenantry of this presidency. All along he has been saying that the protection afforded to the talukdar should be done away with, and if that is done the talukdar will be free and independent and will not be required to go to the Collector to dispose of his lands. If the talukdars have such friends as my honourable friend, well might they cry "Save us from our friends." If this bill is passed, and the protection taken away, it will benefit the sowcar, the money-lender, and not the tenant; it will ruin the landed aristocracy of Gujarat without benefiting the tenant; it will in fact allow the money-lender to take the place of the talukdar, and I will presently show that when the money-lender takes the place of the talukdar, the poor tenant will suffer much more hardship than at present. What are the reasons given by him for his bill in his statement of objects and reasons?

He says that the talukdars have led extravagant lives bringing chronic indebtedness in their train. Now these are his reasons for bringing in this bill. Let us see how this statement stands the test of scrutiny. No doubt the original object of section 31 was to protect the landed aristocracy and but for that section these talukdars would have been wiped out in Gujarat and we would never have heard of them today. What do we find? No doubt the talukdars are indebted, but they are getting wiser and more and more prudent. That is what we find from the latest report of the administration of the talukdari estates in Gujarat. You will find that in 1922-23 there were 110 estates under the management, and the total debt was about Rs. 6 lakhs. I again refer the honourable the mover of this bill to the report for the year 1925-26. There he will find that owing to this protection the total estates under management was only 38.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Government have changed their policy.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Further, owing to this section, their indebtedness was reduced from Rs. 6 lakhs to Rs. 3,25,000. These figures will tell their own tale, and I need not comment on them.

Let us further examine the plea of my honourable friend. He wants to free the inferior holders from hardship and misery. But from what I heard from the honourable member, he displayed complete ignorance of the facts as well as of the law in regard to talukdari estates. He created an impression on this House that the talukdari tenants were permanent tenants. I may tell my honourable friend that there are some permanent tenants, but that there are also a large number of tenants-at-will in the talukdari estates.

Then, Sir, he trotted out another argument and I pity the honourable member's ignorance that most of the tenants in the talukdari estates share the produce though there are some who have to pay rent also. So far as the case of those who share the produce is concerned, we know and the tenants know what is their share of the produce as well as that of the talukdars. Everybody is entitled to his own share and everybody gets his own share. The honourable member did not quote a single instance of hardship caused by rack-renting. Suppose we do away with this section 31, then the talukdar may go on contracting debt and he would even dispose of his land. He would not go to the tenant, but he would go to the sowcar and when the latter steps into his shoes, much more hardship and misery will be the result. My honourable friend only wants King Stork for King Log. The position will be worse than what it was before.

Then my honourable friend wanted a settlement survey of the talukdari lands as well as a record of rights. But I would refer him to section 5 which says :

" A settlement register prepared by the survey officer under section 108 of the said code on the occasion of making any such survey shall, unless Government otherwise direct contain, etc., etc."

If he wants to secure even the tenants' rights, it is provided for in 5 (e) (V) which says :

" Any other particulars which Government shall from time to time direct." Everything is contained there.

My honourable friend has made out no case whatever. The bill is, I think, in the interests of the money-lenders without benefiting the tenants. With these words, I oppose the bill.

Mr. N. B. CHANDRACHUD (Poona City) : Sir, I have listened to the speech of the honourable mover of this bill. I find that he has mentioned some very interesting facts and in some cases he was very pathetic. But all this was absolutely beside the point. Before I proceed I may be permitted to bring to the notice of the House a resolution passed by a conference of the Sardars and Inamdars in the Deccan. The Sardars and Inamdars of the Deccan and I believe of Gujarat also held a conference and they passed unanimously a resolution that their hereditary inam villages should be made inalienable. This was the joint demand of all the sardars and inamdars and the House will see that there is a vast deal of difference between the position of the Gujarat talukdars and the inamdars in the Deccan. The inamdars in the Deccan are only the grantees of the royal share of the revenue. They are not owners of the soil. While, as a matter of fact talukdars in Gujarat are in my opinion far superior to the position of the sardars and inamdars in the Deccan. Talukdars are the descendants of many of the ruling families. Many of them come from ancient ruling families, and I believe only this morning I read in the papers somewhere that the wife of a brother of Shrikrishna was from one of these Kathiawar talukdar families (Laughter). At any rate, many of the talukdars are the descendants of ruling princes, and it is absurd to say that they are only the owners of the royal share of the revenue. Now, in the first place, supposing the bill is passed—and I doubt whether the bill will be passed—still I fail to see how it will improve the position of the tenants. I assume, for argument that some of the talukdars may be exacting, may be oppressive. But, supposing a talukdar sells his estate, what follows? Just as the Honourable Minister said, in place of A, B will come; and perhaps B may be a worse man than A. The talukdars have got at least their hereditary rights, their hereditary titles, hereditary honour, and all these things combined make him give due regard to all those things and to act accordingly. But if B comes, he does not care anything at all for all those things. And even assuming Sir, that a talukdar is oppressive, it is only a question of demand and supply. What right have you to complain as a tenant against a talukdar, when it is a question of demand and supply? Do you complain that the Bombay landlord is exacting in his demand against a tenant? If you cannot complain against the Bombay landlord, what right have you to complain against the talukdar? The talukdar is the master of the soil, as I have already said. If the tenant wants to stick to the soil, he must pay the rent demanded by the talukdar. If the tenant cannot afford to pay the rent asked for, then the better thing is that he may go away. He has no right to complain of the oppression of the talukdar. A number of allegations have been made against these talukdars. I do not know whether they are correct or incorrect. If they are incorrect, they are beside the point. If they are correct, I believe the talukdars also will take a lesson, because, as my honourable friend has said, these are not days of privileged classes. These are days of democracy and equal rights. I think if the talukdars will take a lesson from the discussion of this bill in this Council, even if the bill is not passed, the object of my honourable friend will be achieved, because they will know that henceforth they will have to pursue a liberal policy, they ought to be lenient towards their tenants, they ought not to harass the tenants, and I believe in this way the discussion in this Council will achieve that object.

About section 31, I say that this was introduced in the Act in the interests not only of the talukdars, but of the people also. Now, supposing that a talukdar is given the power of alienation, in the first place, we have to bear in mind that these talukdars are the descendants of former ruling princes, and even according to our Hindu Shastras, a King has no power at all to mortgage his property, his kingdom, because his kingdom is only a trust entrusted to him and he is a trustee. He has to administer the kingdom in the interests of the subjects only.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV : Can he gamble with it ?

Mr. N. B. CHANDRACHUD : He cannot gamble. They have absolutely no power to sell their estates. In the second place, it is said that the talukdars have no power to mortgage or sell their estate, but they make a number of demands and, as a matter of fact, they cheat people, and Government also are a party to their cheating, because Government officers register their documents. If you know the real position, Sir, you will at once find that it is not the business of the registrar to see whether the property which is mentioned in the document belongs to A or not. He has only to see whether the party registering is the party concerned. He has to satisfy himself only as regards the formalities of the document. Then, if all those formalities are gone through, it is no business of the registrar to see whether the talukdar sells his property or not. My honourable friend might as well sell this Council Hall, and the registration officer is bound to accept his document for registering. It is not the business of the registration officer to see whether the talukdar has power to sell his property or not. Secondly, it is all right to say that these talukdars cheat people. But why should people allow themselves to be cheated ? This Act has been in existence for the last 40 years. If in spite of this fact, people go to the talukdars and just induce them to take money, is it any fault of the talukdars ? Ignorance of law is no excuse, that is the maxim of law, and if any person in ignorance of the law advances any money or takes in mortgage the property of the talukdar, I do not think he can fight for any protection from the courts ? So, this section 31 is absolutely in the interests of the public, not the talukdar. Now, Sir, it is all right, when we have got security from the British Government and sit in the Council, to say these talukdars are bad and that they are oppressive, and so on. But, my friends, have you got short memory ? Have you any idea of what the talukdars have done in the past and what they have suffered ? In the English history also we see that the nobles were the first to rise against the King. So, everywhere you find that the first attack has had to be faced or borne by the aristocracy. It is all right to say the talukdars are very wicked. But you must, after all have some respect, some memory, some reverence, for the aristocratic families. It is in the interests of the State to keep up these aristocratic families, and it is in the interests of society, and if we say, " Oh, the aristocratic families have had their day and now they must cease to exist," I believe we will have to give way to principles of Bolshevism. All property is to be divided equally among everybody and everybody will be on the same footing. Of course, that would be the state if these principles of Bolshevism were accepted. So, I submit that it is in the interests of society desirable to keep up these old aristocratic families, as a link at least between the Government and the common people. They ought to be maintained, and it is in the interests of society to maintain these talukdars and not to allow them even to mortgage their property. Therefore, the one demand which the Sardars' Conference unanimously made was that they should not be given this power to mortgage their property. These Talukdars are living beyond their means. And just as I have said, they will all take a lesson from the discussion in this Council. But that is no fault of theirs. They have been accustomed to exorbitant way of living from their birth. They are accustomed to heavy expenses. But I think this is a very effective and convenient section and that section ought to be allowed to remain. With these words I oppose the first reading of this bill.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Mr. President, I have been conversant during the last 30 years with the operation of the Gujarat Talukdars' Act, and I may, therefore, attempt to place before this honourable House the importance of section 31 in the scheme of the Act. After 1818 the province of Kathiawar was carried out as an agency.

After 1818 the province of Kathiawar was carved out as a separate agency and all the talukdars, who were within the jurisdiction of that area, were regarded as talukdars and full proprietors, but those of them who were residing in the various talukas of the Ahmedabad district as constituted, namely, Dholka, Dhandhuka, Viramgam and Ghogo, as well as Prantij and Modasa, came under the civil jurisdiction of British India, and between the years 1818 and 1862 these talukdars were mistakenly regarded as lease-holders rather than as proprietors of their estates, and during that period they incurred very large debts and there being no bar of legislation to protect their estates, some of the estates went to their creditors or were sold at auctions. Consequently, in the year 1861 the Bombay Government brought in a bill which eventually became Bombay Act V of 1862, called the Ahmedabad Talukdars' Act, and therein they recognised the talukdars as proprietors of their estates. A scheme was framed so as to liquidate their debts and the estates were taken under management. Between 1862 and 1888 the debts were liquidated and the estates were released, but by 1888 several estates, whose debts were liquidated, again became indebted and consequently a bill was brought forward which eventually became Bombay Act VI of 1888, the Gujarat Talukdars Act. Consequently, Government recognised one underlying principle with reference to these talukdars that a talukdar was a life-tenant and that therefore, though he could use the income for his own benefit during his life-time, though he could incur unsecured debts which would be recoverable during his life-time, whenever he attempted to create secured debts or to alienate the property, then a bar was put to his doing so by the enactment of section 31 which is the subject matter of this bill. Section 31 consists of two-parts—clause 1 refers to incumbrances and mortgages which a talukdar can create during his life-time for the purpose of securing a debt, but if he wants to do so, he must obtain the previous consent of the Talukdari Settlement Officer. If he did not obtain that consent, then the security would not be valid beyond his life-time, but if he did incur the debt with the consent of the Talukdari Settlement Officer, then even after the death of the talukdar the estate could be proceeded against and brought to sale if necessary. Clause 2 of section 31 refers to alienation and either as a result of a debt incurred or under a decree of a court or out and out, no talukdari estate can be sold without the sanction of Government.

These two provisions were inserted in the Gujarat Talukdars' Act for the purpose of the protection of the estates and for the benefit of the successors of the life-tenant and there was nothing in the scheme of that section to afford any protection to the tenants or to anybody else. It was only with reference to them that Government recognised that it was a class of yeomanry who deserved protection against creditors and consequently these provisions were introduced. My honourable friend from Ahmedabad says in his statement of objects and reasons that the protection given by section 31 to the talukdars for the preservation of the integrity of the talukdars has been misused and the talukdars feeling secure under the protecting section have led extravagant lives. I submit that that is not correct. Rather their credit was reduced on account of the enactment of section 31 and consequently there was a bar to their getting extravagant, on the contrary they were protected by that section.

Then the honourable member says that the repeal of section 31 would compel the talukdars to keep their expenditure below their income. That also is fallacious, because when this protection is removed, they will be free to incur debts, their successors would not be secured against improvident habits of the previous holders, and consequently a repeal of this section would be to the great detriment of the talukdars and talukdari estates.

Reference was made to the rights of tenants. I submit that there is nothing in the section with reference to tenants. If tenants are proposed by the honourable member to be given higher rights than they at present possess which are more or less rights of tenants at will, then it will be another section of the Act which will require amendment and not the present one, and I therefore submit that the House will refuse to pass the first reading of the bill.

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE (Satara District): Sir, I am sorry to have to oppose the first reading of the bill.....

Mr. F. G. H. ANDERSON: Who is supporting the bill?

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM: I am supporting the bill.

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE: The right of talukdars is restricted by section 31. It is not that any privilege or right is conferred upon talukdars and it is for the talukdars themselves to say whether they want that they should be allowed to mortgage their estates and incur debts or not. It is for them to come forward and ask for this right if they want that right, and I do not think that any other person should come forward on their behalf and say "this is in the interests of the talukdars" as if the talukdars do not understand their own interests. They are up to the mark and are quite competent to understand what is or is not in their interests. This is not so only as regards Gujarat Talukdars' Act. We find that in all the other parts of the presidency similar restriction of inalienability has been placed on saranjamdars, inamdars and watandars, and we find that on the death of a saranjamdar the whole property is taken up by Government and given to the heir free of all incumbrances. If ever a saranjamdar were to create any incumbrances on the property in his life-time, all those incumbrances will go away and his successor will get the estate free of any incumbrances. This is not the case only with saranjamdars but it is also the case with watandars. The watandar class extends to a very large extent. Even Mahars can claim to be watandar Mahars and they really are watandars and they fall under class VI of inams. All these are inams and none of them have a right to sell or mortgage their property. None of them are entitled to mortgage or sell their property. Some of them are even allowed by Government to acquire this right of mortgage or sell by payment of one anna extra as nazrana to Government, but you will find that from 1863 to 1927 not even one has come forward to accept such a right given to them on the condition of paying one anna more. None of them are willing to become private owners of their property. On the contrary those inamdars and those life-holders, who have not been restricted and who are allowed to use their private holdings and given the right of mortgage and sale, now come forward and, as now stated by a previous speaker Mr. Chandrachud, all the inamdars and saranjamdars now say that they do not want to exercise the right of mortgage and sale but that they want protection, though this right of mortgage and sale is given to the inamdars. The honourable the mover says that the talukdar misuses his wealth and leads an extravagant life because he is in a position to do so. Quite contrary is the case. The honourable mover says that because the talukdar is protected, he leads an extravagant life. How can he do so, when he cannot mortgage or sell? No sowcar will come forward to lend money knowing that the talukdar cannot mortgage or sell his property without the consent of the Talukdari Settlement Officer. If anybody does come forward, he must be doing so with some other motive, because he fully knows that the talukdar has not more right to sell or mortgage and so the sowcar will refuse to lend him money and the talukdar will have to look to some other way of raising money. The sowcar will not be in any way a loser. The main cause dealt with by the honourable mover was the nature of the tenancy, and what the nature of the tenancy there is can be inferred from the speech of the Honourable Minister in charge of Local Self-Government. If the tenants there are tenants at will, I do not think that they can claim any more rights than ordinary tenants.

I think, at any rate, one thing is apparent. On the last occasion there was the question of imposing a local cess on the Gujarat talukdars, and somehow or other that measure was passed by the House, and that must have impelled him to bring forward another measure to do away with the Gujarat talukdars, who have played an important part in the history of Gujarat. I think that the aristocracy must be maintained. We find that the landed aristocrats in the Council are in a microscopic minority, and it is therefore that such attacks are made in season and out of season to deprive the aristocratic landholders of their rights, which they enjoy and which Government have been kind enough to continue. It is therefore necessary that we should see that those privileges are respected. With these words, I oppose the bill.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM (Panch Mahals District): Sir, I know that the time allowed for non-official business is insufficient, and I will be very brief in my remarks. I rise to support my honourable friend from Ahmedabad, but I do so in the interest of the talukdars of Gujarat. I believe, Sir, that this move ought to have come either from the talukdars themselves or from the representatives of the talukdars in the Council. But to my utter surprise they have failed in their duty, and my honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan has come forward to serve their purpose. I believe that a great principle is involved in this bill, and that is the principle of liberty. We have all come here in this Council for the sake of liberty, and individual liberty too. Here the question is of the liberty of a particular class. My honourable friend from Satara (Mr. Deshpande) just now stated that the Gujarat talukdars have played a great part in the history of Gujarat, and it is a shameful thing for us to see that that class which has played a great part in the history of Gujarat is still held in the silver shackles of slavery. This section which is proposed to be deleted by the bill takes away from the talukdars the right of disposing of their own property in any way they like. This is an individual right which ought to have been enjoyed by the talukdars, but for reasons best known to the Government, these rights of theirs have been usurped. We are in this House, Sir, to grant liberty so far as possible to the persons who deserve it. I think the talukdars should have the right, as other individuals, to mortgage or sell their property to any persons they like. To-day—I do not know for what reasons—the talukdars themselves may not like this bill. But in this world, we know that sometimes ignorant children, when father goes to give them a quinine pill or something which would cure them, bite the fingers of the father, but that does not mean that the father should leave the child to his fate and allow it to die. The talukdars may not like the bill at this moment; they may not even like to support us, but Sir, when they taste the honey, they would appreciate that this bill is in the interest of the talukdars.

I have heard some stories about prisoners. Several times I have heard that long term prisoners, when they know that their period of imprisonment is over, go to the jailor and say that they have enjoyed prison life, and it is their misfortune that they have to go out. But when they come out, and see that they are enjoying in the outside world more than in prison, they become happy. There may be weeping to-day, but as soon as they have a taste of independence and liberty, I am sure all these gloomy faces will disappear, and every talukdar in

Gujarat will bless my honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan for bringing forward this bill.

Mr. W. W. SMART : Sir, with reference to the remarks of the honourable member who has just spoken I may say that I have received a telegram from the Talukdars' Association, in which they inform me that they strongly protest against this bill. The last speaker, I presume, supposes that he is more intelligent than the talukdars ; I presume also he supposes that his intelligence is far superior to that of the zamindars in Sind. The Muhammadan zamindars recently asked Government to introduce the Punjab Alienation Act into Sind, and a special officer, owing to their request, has been put on duty to study the effects of the Alienation Act in the Punjab. Many Hindu zamindars of great intelligence, who know English and who have degrees have come to me while I was in Sind, and stated that if the Alienation Act was going to be applied to the Muhammadan zamindars of Sind, they wanted to come in. I asked, why ? They said " We wish to protect our property which has been in our hands for generations against the possibility of one of our heirs turning out to be wasters." Now, I think, Sir, that that is a very natural sentiment. It is all very well for the last speaker, who has not any land probably, to talk about individual liberty.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : I have got my lands.

Mr. W. W. SMART : So, on behalf of the talukdars of Gujarat I strongly protest against this bill. If the honourable mover of this bill had come forward with some sort of proposal for tenancy legislation, that would have been a different matter. There are some talukdars who think that the time has now come for tenancy legislation to be introduced into their estates, on the ground that it would be in their own interest. They have come to the conclusion that it is quite possible that the conditions of agriculture might be improved, and that the revenues of their estates might be improved if tenancy legislation was introduced, because, if the tenants had some guarantee that they would have a certain permanency of tenure in the land, they would be very likely to improve it. If, Sir, the honourable member who has moved this bill had proposed some sort of tenancy legislation, it would have been quite a different matter. But the bill as it stands seems to me to be entirely opposed to all reason.

The THAKOR OF KERWADA (Northern Division) : Sir, I rise to oppose the bill moved by my honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan. I must say that the honourable mover pretends that he has brought forward this bill for the benefit of the talukdars, and he is supported in a similar tone by my honourable friend Mr. Mukadam. But I must really say that they are not only ignorant of the existing conditions but they are ignorant of the law relating to talukdari estates. I can openly say that my honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan is lacking in moral courage, and goes beating about the bush instead of coming forward boldly and saying " We do not want any privileged class to exist in Gujarat ; we want communistic principles to be enforced in this country." If he had said that, I would have admired him.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : And joined him also ?

The THAKOR OF KERWADA : Certainly not. Sir, the question has been raised why this privileged class should exist. Of course many of the points have been cleared by the Honourable Sir Ghulam Hussain. These privileged classes should exist because of the famous proclamation of Queen Victoria that the existing rights would be preserved and that all would be treated alike without distinction of caste, creed or colour. Secondly, the history of talukdars is so well known that I need hardly repeat it here. I will just read a passage from the speech, at the time of the introduction of the Gujarat Talukdars' Bill, by Mr. Barrow, then Commissioner, N. D. He says that these talukdars belonged to the Rajput dynasty that came and conquered that part of Gujarat. He says in the debate on that legislation in 1913 :

" The Gujarat talukdars proper are the descendants and representatives of those who, before our assumption of the Government of the Province, were the virtual rulers of their lands. As a sequence or perhaps as a consequence of our rule—for it was I think admitted that so far at least as the Ahmedabad talukdars were concerned they were at first, through misconception, treated in a somewhat summary and injurious way—the talukdars as a body fell away from their high estate and deteriorated so largely that Government were at last obliged to interfere in order to save them from total extinction."

That is the history of the talukdars. Regarding the history of legislation with regard to the talukdars, the first Act was passed in the year 1862 for the amelioration of the talukdars and there was another legislation in 1888. What was the aim of that legislation ? The aim of those legislations was to protect the talukdars from the clutches of the money-lenders. The Honourable Sir Ghulam Hussain took a great deal of interest in the talukdars, and he has pointed out that the aim and object of that bill was to save the talukdars from the clutches of the money-lenders and to prevent the passing of their estates into the hands of money-lenders. Section 31 was embodied in that Act solely with a view to save the talukdars from the clutches of the money-lenders and prevent their estates from passing into the hands of the money-lenders. Repeal this section 31 and the whole Act will be useless.

I was very much surprised to hear from the honourable member Mr. Mukadam that there was no other protective legislation, which betrays his ignorance of law. Besides section 3 of the Bhagdari Act, there is the Sind Encumbered Estates Act which gives protection to certain class of lands. If you go to England there is the law of primogeniture which has been in existence from time immemorial, giving protection to the rights of the peers of the realm, and other entailed estates. The honourable member Mr. Swaminarayan wants to make out a case which will bear the analogy of burning the house to roast a pig. Because some talukdars collect high rents this section should be repealed. The honourable member ought to know that that is not the remedy for it. As I said already I have the honour to belong to that much abused class. I myself have no sympathy with the talukdars who are harassing their tenants.

[The Thakor of Kerwada]

If the honourable member will point out any concrete instance where this ill-treatment of the tenants is going on I am prepared to accompany him and try to bring the man to book. My honourable friend has not only brought in a mass of irrelevant matters but he has made a lot of allegations without substantiating any one of them. It is far from my intention to attribute any motive to the honourable member, but I wish to say since the time of his election to this House he has been going round the villages and has confined his activity to attack the talukdars. I do not think that is the only function of an honourable member of this House to go on hammering at the same point. I am informed that since the time he was elected he has been doing this....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member is not quite correct. I have noticed the honourable member (Mr. Swaminarayan) taking a general interest in all the debates. He has not confined himself to this only.

The THAKOR OF KERWADA: The honourable member's statement with regard to the Mehlool talukdari case is incorrect. I challenge him to prove it. The honourable member Mr. Mukadam has asked a question whether it was a fact that some lands had been taken away from the cultivators by the talukdar of Mehlool. On enquiry it was found out by Government that the leases had to be cancelled and the lands given back to the talukdar. I do not think that talukdars are in the habit of cancelling the lease after receiving the sakar nazarana. This is not true. Even granting that they do so, the repeal of section 31 is not the remedy for it.

As regards the second part of his amending bill, section 5 of the Gujarat Talukdars' Act gives power to Government to prepare a settlement register, which I may inform the House is even older than the record of rights. It was introduced along with the Gujarat Talukdars' Act. The record of rights is a subsequent enactment.

As regards the point of rack-renting made by the honourable member he quoted one instance of Hirapur or Haripur talukdari. With regard to that he never informed the House the proportion by which the rent was increased. He knows that the assessment in Gujarat is more than Rs. 5 per acre in Khalsa villages. With these remarks, I strongly oppose the bill.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Satara District): Sir, the question raised by this bill is very important; it is whether talukdari estates should be made completely alienable or not. My submission is that the estates of the inamdars, talukdars and watandars were all originally inalienable. My honourable friend Mr. Mukadam said that the birthright of the talukdar is that he should be completely independent. But I say that the birthright of the talukdar is that there should be a restriction on alienation. That has been the birthright. In fact, it was a concession given in later enactments to these inamdars, talukdars, etc., that they could make alienations for their life or with the sanction of Government. So, we have here to decide an important question. The underlying principle of the maintenance of talukdari, inamdari, and watandar estates is that the estate is not the property of an individual but the property of the family. The maintenance of this class of estates is conducive to the well being of the State. I would refer my honourable friend to the speech of Mr. N. C. Kelkar, than whom there cannot be a better democrat, at the Inamdars' Conference held at Poona. That speech gives weighty reasons for the existence and the maintenance of this class of estates. No doubt there are certain improvements to be made in their condition but they are quite apart from the principle underlying this bill. I hope honourable members will look at this legislation from the point of view of the particular tenure with which it is concerned. The intention of the honourable mover of the bill may be very good ; he may be actuated by very noble motives ; but he should really try to maintain the unity, the impartibility and the inalienability of these estates, and carry on a propaganda for the improvement of the condition both of the talukdars and of the tenants. That is the proper way to proceed if he has at heart the good of the country and the good of the talukdari and inamdari class. I will therefore ask him, in view of the discussion we have had, whether he cannot see his way to withdraw this bill.

Mr. V. A. SURVE (Ratnagiri District): (Addressed the House in Marathi) : Sir, I am neither a talukdar nor a ryot of a talukdar. I am a Maratha agriculturist from the Ratnagiri district and I believe I can put forth my views with impartiality on the subject. The word 'talukdar' connotes a ruler and many of the talukdars are the descendants of the former ancient ruling kings. It may be noted that these ruling kings owed no allegiance to anybody, were free to enter into negotiations with foreign powers, and had only to pay a fixed sum to the government of the Gaekwad or the Peshwa. Unfortunately under the British Government they have been reduced to the position of mere landlords ; but they are full masters of the soil and have to pay the British Government a fixed amount every year. They are the relics of our ancient swarajya and when we are asking for swarajya it is not fair that we should do away with the gentlemen who represent the ancient swarajya. Inamdars jahagirdars and watandars are anxious that their property should not go out of their family and with that view Government have enacted laws prohibiting alienation of watan property. Such legislation is absolutely necessary in the interests of the talukdars and of the State. The only persons who would be benefited by the bill, if it is passed, would be the money-lenders. Even at present a talukdar can, with the consent of the talukdari settlement officer, raise money on his estate. What is the object of removing the check of the talukdari officer ? To me it appears that when there is the check of the talukdari officer no undue advantage can be taken of the position of the talukdar, but if this check be removed the money-lenders would surely take undue advantage of the position of the talukdar. Sir, a restriction on the power of the talukdars to alienate their property appears to me to be essential to keep up their dignity, position and rank. It is in the interests of all concerned that these ancient talukdars should be maintained. I therefore oppose the bill.

Mr. H. J. AMIN (Broach District): Sir, my honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan stated, when moving the first reading of the bill that his object was to protect the tenants of the talukdars. He said that the talukdars take occupancy price from the tenants, but afterwards say that they are not permanent tenants but tenants-at-will. If talukdars take occupancy price, it means that they give the land on permanent tenure to the tenants, and the tenants should have the right to alienate, sell or bequeath their right to anybody else. But I am sorry to find that the deletion of section 31 of the Gujarat Talukdars Act which he proposes will not secure this object. Therefore, if he wants to protect the tenants he should bring in another bill. This bill will protect neither the tenants nor the talukdars. Therefore, I would request my honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan to withdraw this bill and bring in another bill which will protect the tenants whose interests he has at heart.

Mr. J. B. DESAI (Gujarat Sardars and Inamdars): Sir, I rise to oppose the bill. I would like to give a brief history of this bill. Some agitation was created by the money-lenders in Ahmedabad district who tried to instigate the tenants against the talukdars. Not succeeding in this they approached directly or indirectly the honourable member from Ahmedabad district and asked him to do something in the matter. So, the present bill is brought forward to deprive the talukdars of this protection so that ultimately moneylenders may be masters of the land. If we examine the condition of the ryots in the talukdari villages and the condition of the ryots in the neighbourhood we will find that they are worse off than their neighbours.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM: Question.

Mr. J. B. DESAI: I would quote a few lines from the report of Mr. Tupper. It says:

"There have been many examples of late of the alacrity of bania creditors to seize every possible opportunity of establishing that a right vests in the tenant which can be transferred to themselves."

Not succeeding in this they have brought forward this bill and I want the House before they accept it to see the motive underlying it.

My honourable friend has stated that Government will support the privileged classes because they are the real supporters of Government. I may state that Government always like to maintain the traditions and nobility of old houses. The honourable member spoke about rack-renting in the talukdari estates. I find that in the Khalsa villages the landlords are taking three to four times the rent paid in Talukdari Villages. It is also said that the "Sakar Nazarana" is as much as the occupancy price of the land but the honourable member is clearly exaggerating, for Nazarana is merely nominal often amounting to nothing. He further says that the talukdars have been cheating the poor ignorant ryots under the protection of this section but my honourable friend must know that this Act was brought into force in 1888, that is, nearly forty years back, and I fail to see how people can be still ignorant of the operation of this Act.

[Mr. J. B. Desai]

My honourable friend from Panch Mahals spoke at length about his sympathy and fatherly care of the talukdars but may I remind the House of one instance in the last session of the council, when the honourable member evinced his fatherly care by skilfully manœuvring to get his amendment to the District Local Boards Act passed.

I again warn the House to beware of such friends of talukdars as the honourable member from Panch Mahals.

Sir, I vehemently oppose this bill.

Mr. F. G. H. ANDERSON : Mr. President, there is no member in this House, I venture to think, who has the interests of the tenants more at heart than myself. I yield to none in that respect, not even to my honourable friend from Ahmedabad. If this were a question of supporting the rights of tenants, I should be the first person to do so and I should be at his side ; I hope it will not be far distant when Government will introduce a bill on this subject ; when I certainly hope it will be my privilege to take some part therein. But, Mr. President, this is not the sort of bill which will achieve anything in the interests of the tenants about whom we hear so much. Had the honourable member taken the trouble to consult those who know or had he studied the subject himself he would not now have come forward with this bill. He had treated us to a great deal of declamation, a great deal of what in America would be called "sob-stuff" which is entirely irrelevant.

He has two objects : first, he wants to remove section 31. Let us consider what this section does and why. It is very similar to the restricted tenure which is imposed frequently on even khalsa land. It is just like the restrictions placed on certain inam estates. I believe there is hardly a Rajah even in the major States who is allowed to mortgage or give away his Raj. Now this prohibition of alienation of the talukdari estates does not extend to leases. I wondered very much while I was listening to the honourable member whether by any chance he was under the delusion that a lease was one of the alienations. Afterwards he explained that it was not what he meant. I could not understand what he means, and I do not believe anybody else would have understood him. The object of section 31 is not merely to protect the talukdar ; it has also another reason. The section has a very respectable ancestry, as ancient as that of the talukdars themselves. It goes back to the English statute of 1290 which is called the Statute of Quia Emptores. These two Latin words (all acts were then named by their first two words) correspond to a preamble as we should now put it "Whereas the purchasers of alienated estates sometimes do so and so." It was in feudal times and a feudal subject was bound to follow his lord to battle with horse and arms. Well, if his estates were alienated to 20 or 30 small people, a position would soon arise in which he could not fulfil his feudal obligations. That was the origin of the English Statute. And this is very largely also the origin of section 31. It was to prevent talukdars from alienating their estates or giving them away that the section was put in. If a talukdar alienates his estate or gives it away to his relations, very shortly there will arise a situation in which he would no longer be able to discharge his obligations to the State. Not only would he have no means to pay Jama, but he would cease to be an important landlord of local aristocratic influence and dignity. Well, that was the object of section 31. Section 31 does not give the talukdar carte blanche to lease his land to speculators and so to grind the tenantry in the way we were told. The effect of this section 31 is this : that if Government choose to withhold their sanction, alienation is illegal. But if Government do not interfere—there is no obligation to do so—then the legal effect of it is that the land so alienated ceases to be part of the talukdari estate. I may say that in recent times Government have in the case of smaller talukdars frequently ceased to interfere. If the talukdari estate has become so small by the incessant process of sub-division the talukdar is only a small holder, it is no use interfering.

Yet, if the honourable mover of this bill wanted to omit this section, then why should he have attacked Government for having in some cases not interfered, and for not having used it ?

Now, the next sections which he proposes for deletion are the section about city survey and record of rights. I am very sorry, indeed, to find that he has fallen into some bad errors, so bad that they entirely vitiate the bill. Of course, it might be possible to make it the subject of amendment but it would have to be practically a new bill. Now, he wants to omit the words and figures “ sections 127 to 136, both inclusive.” I am afraid he must have got a very old edition of the Gujarat Talukdars' Act, because those words disappeared fourteen years ago, in 1913. What he really means to say is that we should delete from the Talukdars Act the exemption from sections 127 to 136, Land Revenue Code : and I suppose he really means to include 136. Why, I do not know. If he looks at section 136, he will find that it is the same as section 24 of the existing Gujarat Talukdars' Act, and, therefore, its application is quite unnecessary. In putting down “ 136,” he has not looked into the subject, has not even read the section, and in putting down wrong sections, he does not know what he is referring to. The record of rights is contained not in section 135 ; it is contained in sections 135A to 135L. Even if the honourable member's bill were passed unanimously to-day, these sections would still remain and they would still be applicable as always. It is merely a question whether Government chooses to apply them. I will come to that in a moment. But really, all that he does want is to delete (from these exemptions) section 126, and then four other sections, 130, 131, 132 and 133. These are the five sections which are really wanted by him. These will make it possible for Government to make or apply city survey in talukdari villages. There are two points. First of all, as to the city survey. Why should Government not be expected to apply city survey at once to the talukdari villages ? The answer is that except in a few cases where municipalities are established as a general rule Government has not applied city survey even to its own village sites.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Government do not object to the ownership of the tenant in Khalsa villages, but the talukdar objects.

Mr. F. G. H. ANDERSON : Government have not surveyed the talukdari villages. Why not ? Because when one plot of land belongs to one person and the next plot of land belongs to another person, it is of the utmost importance that the land should be surveyed. But when the plots belong to one and the same party, then the distinction between them is of far less importance. Now, if the matter was brought to trial, it would be found that in the great majority of talukdari villages practically the whole of the land does vest in the talukdar. Therefore, a survey of all those plots would do very little good to anybody. There are hardly any municipalities or any other public bodies in which rights are vested in the talukdari villages.

Now, turning to individual sites, it is true some of these houses have been inhabited and held by their present occupants from times immemorial, as we have been told. If we made a survey and enquiry, in the case of some of these sites we might possibly find that what they claim is established : we could confirm their right to go on occupying. Not much good will be done to them. But in other cases, unfortunately, they will risk being disabused of their belief and either litigation will be started or the rights they supposed they possessed will be seriously upset and taken away. Personally, I do not mind whether the introduction of the record of rights or enquiry leads to some such litigation, because my view is that the litigation would make matters clear for the future. Latent claims would be ventilated, sifted and set at rest. But I very much doubt indeed whether any good will be done to the talukdari villagers to have their sites surveyed. The benefit would be almost imponderable.

Now, though this bill does not, as the honourable mover seems to have thought, actually contain a request for the application of the record of rights to talukdari villages, we have been treated to a vehement attack on Government that they have not introduced the record of rights in those villages. But the record of rights has been introduced so far as it could, so far as the rights existed, because we have certain Settlement Registers in which all rights of property owners have been recorded. All those rights are recorded. The only rights which are not recorded there are the rights which may have been purchased by the tenants : and the rights of tenants-at-will, which amount to no rights at all. There, again, if we introduce this record of rights, we should probably plunge them into litigation, and the great majority, 95 per cent., of the tenants would be found to have no rights at all. Lapse of time does not turn a tenant-at-will into an occupancy tenant with fixed rights. The matter is regulated by section 83 of the Land Revenue Code already, and the point I want the House to see is this—the more you put a tenant-at-will down in the record as a tenant-at-will, the more he becomes a tenant-at-will. You cannot give him more rights in that way. It is like the worm and the caterpillar. The caterpillar has a glorious destiny, it knows that it will some day become a butterfly. But no lapse of time will make a worm into a butterfly. The longer you keep it, the more it is a worm. The tenant-at-will will remain a tenant-at-will for all time.

Now, the honourable mover's argument is rather abstruse. He says section 31 bolsters up and spoon-feeds talukdars, and so, deprives them of the power of standing up for themselves and managing their estates properly. He wants to abolish it. In that way he suggests that the talukdar will become stronger, healthier, more self-reliant, and, finally, will attain to that Nirvana or Swarga in which he would actually "live within his income" (laughter). Now, if you read the statement of objects and reasons, you will see that his intention appears to be friendly to the talukdar, to help him. We have a pen of goats behind a barbed wire fence : and all around outside there are wolves and tigers prowling. The honourable mover comes up and says that this is wrong ; it is a bad form of restraint. " It is not morally right that they should be subjected to these restraints ; let us strike off these restraints ; these shackles of a Satanic Government (as the honourable member from Panch Mahals would put it) let us break down this barbed wire." I hope that that argument will be brought out next time when he speaks on Prohibition. I said only recently in this House that I strongly was of opinion that it was not possible to make a whole people moral and self-reliant by legislation. They must stand on their own legs. Therefore, I should like the honourable mover of this bill to come forward on that occasion with a proposal that instead of the shackles of prohibition we should have freedom and self-reliance : and we should place barrels of " Daru " of the best Legislative Council Brand free in every grocer's store for our citizens to learn self-reliance. That is the only logical deduction from his proposition that we should teach the talukdars to live within their means and make them learn prudence, through the removal of these restraints.

But, if he really does want to abolish the restraints, why does he blame Government sometimes for not using section 31 of the Act ? It seems very illogical. Of course, he may attack Government, he will do them very little damage with all his vituperation, Government is a pachydermatous monster, a sort of Mark IX Tank, armour-proof against the slings and arrows of the honourable professor. But I should like to know why he attacks the poor Registration Department, an innocent, toothless, clawless and defenceless creature. I thank the honourable member from Poona Mr. Chandrachud for having so zealously defended my department and I quite agree with him that it is quite impossible for the Registration Department to assume responsibility, and to scrutinize the documents that are presented to them for registration to test their legal validity. I think I have said that all this tirade about the talukdars leasing their lands on extortionate terms is almost entirely irrelevant to section 31, which has nothing to do with it. As the Americans would say, it " gets me beat " to know whether the honourable member wishes to benefit the talukdars or whether he wishes to benefit the tenants. On an occasion like this, if my friend the Thakor of Amod had been here—

[Mr. F. G. H. Anderson]

I see that talukdari interests are well represented by the honourable member the Thakor of Kerwada in this House—I should have been most interested to note his reaction to this offer of assistance. I fancy it would have been the same as the reaction of the Trojans when they were offered the wooden horse by the Greeks. As Virgil puts it. “Timeo Danaos et dona ferentes.” In English, it means “I strongly mistrust the Greeks even when they offer us gifts.” I think that is the way the talukdars feel towards this bill. As regards the offer to repeal section 31, they will probably say “Timeo Danaos.” We see the honourable member from Ahmedabad tearing down this barbed wire fence which protects the talukdari goats within its enclosure ; we see him releasing them from their confinement ; we see him striking off these obsolete shackles ; we see him letting them out of their safe shelter and driving them out into the open to enjoy the fresh air ; if they shrink from the dangers to which they may be exposed, he tells them they will soon grow claws and teeth and he will teach them to roar like any tiger. It is a pretty picture : we will leave them, the Rajput Kshatriyas, the Girassias of old, learning ferocity and self-reliance from the honourable professor of mathematics.

But, Mr. President, it is not the talukdars alone that are to be affected by this bill. What about their tenants ? There can be no conceivable bond of union between two such opposing interests. My honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan tells us (and I am sure he will be supported by another honourable member Mr. Narayandas Bechar) that he is now defending the interests of the tenants against the talukdars. Does he then speak with two voices, first for the talukdars and then for the tenants ? We have seen him with his arm round the neck of the talukdari she-goat, which he plies with “rich food of sweetmeats” which he told us is their usual food, and teaches it to roar ; but is his other arm round the irreconcilable and implacable enemy of the she-goat, round the tiger-tenant and is he in turn promising them, if they are good, he will soon give them nice pieces of talukdari goat to devour ? I do not want to accuse him of double dealing but I think he is possibly walking along that very dangerous road of trying to reconcile opposing interests and win the votes of both sides ; that road will lead him over the cliffs like “Little Johnny-Head-in-the-Air” we read of in the story book. I warn him not to march forward with his eyes only on the stars and the far horizon. Be more prosaic and careful and look where your feet are going. The honourable mover will realize that his bill is entirely impractical. We must first give the tenants rights and then, by all means we can accept his proposals and record them. I was glad to hear my honourable friend, the Thakor of Kerwada, say, that he himself would support, and that all the better class of talukdars would support, the idea of giving due rights and proper protection to their tenants such as is given in all “other” civilised countries. I am using the phrase which was so optimistically coined by my honourable friend Mr. Ginwalla the other day. I fail to see how a repeal of section 31 will provide any remedy or what is the good of recording rights before they exist. I ask the House, anxious as we are to proceed with more important business, to reject this bill without any further discussion, and not to waste any more time over it.

Mr. N. R. GUNJAL (Poona District) : (Addressed the House in Marathi.) I do not think that it is quite proper on the part of my honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan to bring forward a bill of this kind at this time. The properties now held by the talukdars, inamdars, saranjamdars and jahagirdars were given to their ancestors in olden times for some excellent services done by them for the State by the rulers of those times. I do not see why we should single these talukdars out for any kind of special treatment and why we should separate them from the tenants. My honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan seems to think that because these talukdars, inamdars, jahagirdars and saranjamdars do not come forward to help popular causes, therefore a bill of this kind is necessary. I think he is wrong in this idea of his.

Sir, I have some experience of the jahagirdars, the saranjamdars and the inamdars. My honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan should remember that only the other day the Sardars and Inamdars' Conference was held in Poona city. There were some talukdars also present on the occasion. Whatever may have been the defects of the old generation of inamdars, the new generation among these people is striving for unity among themselves. If we look to their present circumstances, to bring in such a bill in this Council and take away their privileges is not right for an educated member like my honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan. There may be defects among these people, but we can make an attempt to remove them without legislation. There are ryots' associations almost in every place now, and if there is anything which the ryots consider as a grievance against the talukdars, the representatives of the ryots and the talukdars can meet together and try to settle their differences. To bring in such a bill in the Council in order to deprive them of their rights, and thereby incur their displeasure does not appear to me to be right in the present circumstances. Although the position of the jahagirdars, saranjamdars, inamdars and talukdars is different from that of the ordinary people, the new generation among them is trying to help the public cause to the best of its ability. Taking into consideration all these matters, I think it is necessary that this bill should be opposed. I would appeal to my honourable friend that the time has not yet come to bring in such a bill into the Council and deprive these people of their rights, and I trust he will accept my suggestion that he should withdraw the bill. But, as a representative of the Vatandars and also of the rural constituency, I must oppose the bill.

Mr. S. K. Bole rose.

Sardar G. N. Mujumdar rose.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I think the discussion has gone on long enough.

Mr. S. K. BOLE : I want to support the bill, Sir.

Sardar G. N. MUJUMDAR (Deccan Sardars and Inamdars): Sir, I will not take more than five minutes. I rise to oppose the first reading of Bill No. XXIII of 1927 very strongly. I do not see the necessity of bringing in this amending bill now. The Gujarat Talukdars Act was amended so many times since 1888, but none thought it advisable to bring in such an amendment up till now. The Gujarat Talukdars Act was passed with a view to protect the rights of the tenants as also of the talukdars. Not only the rights of the talukdars are protected, but the rights of the tenants in the talukdari villages have also been protected, and this will be seen from section 5 of the said Act. The talukdari estates are similarly placed with the saranjam and watan properties. Saranjam property cannot be sold away, and no liability can be raised upon it beyond the life time of the saranjamdar. Similarly, watan property cannot be sold away beyond the life time of the watandar. Supposing, tomorrow, the honourable member Mr. Swaminarayan or any other member of this honourable House brings in a bill, similar to this, to amend Act No. XI of 1852 or Acts Nos. II and VII of 1863, then would it be in the interest of Government also to allow that measure to be brought into this House? Sir, Acts II and VII of 1863 have played a great havoc by the imposition of judi and nazarana, and many of the alienated properties have been made enfranchised private and alienable properties and this situation is really responsible for the alienation of almost all the inam properties into outside families on this side of the Presidency. Now, the inamdars from all parts are very anxious to get a law passed in this honourable House for making these inam properties inalienable, and shortly I wish to introduce such a measure in this honourable House. Sir, when such is the condition of the minds of the inamdars in the Presidency and when they do not want their inams and properties, which have been held in their own families from times immemorial, to pass away into other families, it is but natural that I should oppose the present measure. Already there is such a restriction in the Gujarat Talukdars Act that the talukdari estates will not be liable to any encumbrances beyond the death of the talukdar. I do not see any reason why that restriction should be taken away now. It is the duty of Government to protect the rights and interests of the talukdars, sardars and inamdars, who have really played their great part in building up the history of the country. They have served the Government most loyally whenever occasions arose.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR: On a point of order, I want to know whether this old and ancient history is relevant to the discussion. One small clause is proposed to be amended, and we have heard the same arguments so often.

Sardar G. N. MUJUMDAR: It is but in the interest of the State and the public that such a restriction should be there in the Act. We have already been told by my honourable friends, Mr. Gunjal and others, that there was a conference held in Poona on the 23rd and 24th of September last of the sardars and inamdars of the Presidency. It was the second session of the Sardars and Inamdars Provincial Conference, and there was a resolution passed supporting the inalienability of such estates. Particularly, this bill which has been brought forward by my honourable friend

[Sardar G. N. Mujumdar]

Mr. Swaminarayan was taken into consideration and it was unanimously resolved that the bill should be opposed. This speaks for the opinion of the general inamdar public.

I think that the honourable member Mr. Swaminarayan would do well to look to the welfare of the tenants or occupants of Government khalsa lands than to turn his attention to the tenants of inam villages. You know that a restricted tenure has been introduced by Government lately. If he feels aggrieved at this, he should certainly take steps to remove that restriction which has been introduced in Government villages and then turn his attention to the tenants in inam villages.

The second clause deals with village sites. The open sites in villages are the properties of talukdars and the same is the case in inam villages. He wants to take away that right from the talukdars at any rate in this bill. I do not think that he is right in doing that. As has already been pointed out by the honourable member the Settlement Commissioner, there is a mistake in the clause itself. With these words I oppose the first reading of this bill.

Rao Saheb D. R. PATIL : I move a closure.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I accept the closure.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Sir, the Honourable the Minister for Local Self-Government quoted some figures which support my contention. In the statement of objects and reasons I have stated :

“ Even Government are tired of managing indebted estates and are leasing them or allowing them to be leased to private individuals who ruthlessly exploit the cultivators with a view to wring maximum profit out of the bargain ”

During the last three or four years Government have changed their policy and they do not want to pay any attention to the indebted talukdari estates. Formerly they took them under their management and, when the estates came out of debts, handed them over to the talukdars.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Will the honourable member quote his authority ?

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : The number of estates under the management of Government has been reduced from 110 to 38, that is to say, Government allow these estates to be leased.

An argument was advanced that I was working in the interest of moneylenders. If this section is repealed cultivators will be able to make common cause and buy one or two or more fields on a co-operative basis. I do not think that moneylenders will come in the place of talukdars as a result of this bill.

The honourable member Mr. Chandrachud quoted the economic doctrine of supply and demand. That doctrine cannot always be applied. He referred to the case of the Bombay landlords. Government thought it necessary to protect the tenants and they passed the Rent Act. At least this fact has been brought forward in the discussion that Government themselves are thinking of bringing in a tenancy legislation. I will welcome such legislation whenever it is brought by Government.

[Mr. J. C. Swaminarayan]

Then, Sir, it is very necessary that this restriction should be removed ; and Government also are moving in such a way as if there were no restrictions. They grant permission whenever it is asked for. For all practical purposes the section is a dead-letter. I say that a section which is a dead-letter should be repealed. I move the first reading of the bill.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Sir, the arguments brought forward by the honourable mover in support of his bill have been exposed to such a concentrated and destructive fire of criticism that there is very little left for me to reply to. Referring to his concluding speech I should like to assure the House that so far as the policy of Government in regard to the relief of the estates from indebtedness, that is to say, taking them under management, is concerned there has been no change whatever. Government are just as solicitous of the interests of the talukdars in the present as they have always been in the past. An argument which the honourable mover has just adduced is that supposing the bill were carried and section 31 were removed there would be a chance of the present talukdari tenants purchasing the estate lands and becoming peasant proprietors. I am afraid that is a purely optimistic view of the case for which there is very little foundation. It is extremely unlikely that land would pass into the hands of the tenants. What the result would actually be has been foretold by several speakers—the land would pass into the hands of the moneylenders and the state of the tenants would be worse than it is at present. As so much has been said about this section 31, I think it might interest the House to hear what was actually stated at the time when this particular piece of legislation was first under discussion. They will be able to judge then of the reasons that justified it at the time. I have before me the speech of the Honourable Mr. Peile, afterwards Sir James Peile, in moving the first reading of Bill No. 6 of 1885, which eventually became the Gujarat Talukdars' Act. I may inform the House that there was a great deal of opposition at the time to the introduction of this legislation from the talukdars themselves. The Honourable Mr. Peile was at pains to show that the opposition was not well-founded : He said :

“ Here I observe that the object of Government and that of the objectors, so far as they have found expression are identical. Both desire to maintain the position of the talukdars as landed proprietors. We say that if that position is to be maintained, some restriction must be placed on the present holders of the estates to keep them from self-destruction and the impoverishment of their successors. We have no intention whatever to appropriate any part of their proprietary rights, or to transfer them to any third party. What we propose is to restrict the holder for the time being from transferring the proprietary rights to third parties for his sole and selfish benefit and with no regard for his heirs. Anything that a prudent landholder may desire to do with landed property, we propose to permit the talukdars to do. What we propose to prevent is the reckless improvidence which would leave the heir of a long line of ancestors nothing to transmit to posterity. The measures of Government in 1862 were not taken for the benefit of one generation of talukdars but for the class. But the memorialists dislike any restriction, as sick people dislike medicine, and insane people restraint.”

I want the honourable member for Panch Mahals to note this :

“ They say that we propose to sweep away the most ancient and highly-prized hereditary rights, and to impose stringent restrictions on their enjoyment of what is their own.

[Mr. J. L. Rieu]

Now here the strongest argument against the memorialists is suggested by their own memorial. They insist on the regal character of their possessions, and that they belong to the noblest Rajput houses in the peninsula of Kathiawar. That their race and customs are akin to those of the Rajputs of Kathiawar is true, and what does this involve? In Kathiawar the dissipation of ancestral estate is repugnant to immemorial custom and local sentiment. For a landholder to part with his grasa or inherited lands to strangers is discreditable, is viewed by his fellows with the strongest disapproval, and in the case of Chiefs is forbidden by Government. The objection to the bill, therefore, as an attack on hereditary privileges must, if we view those privileges as embracing more than the selfish exercise by the talukdar for the time of an unrestricted right of transfer, fall to the ground. The memorial seems indeed to admit the advantage of some measure of restriction, and I have reason to believe that in fact they are not opposed to limitation of the power of transfer."

Then, after reviewing other Acts in which similar restrictions had been imposed, he concludes :

"In all these cases the exceptional circumstances are the same, namely, the impoverishment of some class of old landed proprietors. It is a class which finds it hard to adjust itself to the incidents of British rule, and which is apt to fall into decay and ruin under our laws. The Government has held that it is to the public interest to avert the effacement of a middle class of landholders—a class which in British India, and especially in Bombay, is already confined within very narrow limits."

Then, later on, when a bill for the further amendment of the Gujarat Talukdars Act was under discussion, the Honourable Sir James Monteath, who was then Revenue Member, made a speech introducing the bill, and he referred to this provision, section 31, in the following terms :

"Under the existing law talukdars are virtually restricted to a life interest in the estates, no alienation being valid unless Government sanctions it and no encumbrance being valid beyond the life-time of the talukdar who makes it unless the talukdari settlement officer has consented to it. These provisions have been found most beneficial and, even in the past disastrous seasons, have served to maintain the status of families of ancient descent who otherwise would have lost all real interest in their ancestral estates."

Well, I ask the House to come to the conclusion that the reasons which were then adduced in favour of this restriction on the right of alienation still hold good. The honourable mover has made a reference to a change of policy on the part of Government in the actual application of the authority conferred on them under section 31. It is not correct, as he stated, that Mr. Gordon ever suggested the repeal of this section. On the contrary, he was strongly in favour of the retention of that section. But he did consider, and Government, after careful consideration of the matter, agreed with him, that it was desirable to introduce some modification in the extent to which the powers of Government under this section were resorted to. The present policy of Government as recently enunciated is as follows :—

"Government are of opinion that the policy of special protection of talukdars which is embodied in the Gujarat Talukdars' Act must in future be applied with much more discrimination and elasticity than has been customary in the past. So far as the larger estates of the more important talukdars are concerned, more especially those held under the system of primogeniture, Government desire that the provisions of section 31 of the Gujarat Talukdars' Act should be strictly observed and that sanctions to incumbrances should be granted only after the sanctioning officer is satisfied that they are necessary in the interests of the estates. But the inpublic terest does not require that estates which are insignificant in size or which are hopelessly embarrassed or sub-divided should be permanently propped up by the special protection of section 31. In the case of such estates the Governor in Council will readily accord his sanction to alienations under section 31 (2), in the hope that the land may pass into the hands of more capable proprietors. A similar policy should be followed by the talukdari settlement officer in dealing with encumbrances under section 31 (1). . . . ."

[Mr. J. L. Rieu]

The policy of Government in fact is, that while they are no longer anxious to prop up artificially estates and talukdars whose survival is not in the public interest—estates which are so small or have declined in prosperity to such an extent as to make them not worth while preserving—they are desirous of supporting and encouraging the more prosperous and solvent talukdars who are landlords and estate owners and who are building up and developing their estates.

I have nothing more to add except that I am confident that the House will reject this bill, which is a most ill-conceived measure and supported by no logic or reason.

Question put and lost.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Before we adjourn for tea, there is a matter I wish to bring to the notice of the honourable House. There is a letter in my hand, signed by several honourable Muhammadan members of the House, requesting that, in view of the fact that the Muhammadan Educational Conference is to be held on Saturday (that is, to-morrow) at 11-30, instead of meeting to-morrow—as we have been doing for the last few Saturdays—from 10-30 we should meet at 1-30. Of course it is for the House to come to a general consensus of opinion on that point. But I may point out one thing, and it is this that if we meet at 10-30 and sit till 2 that gives us 3½ working hours. . . . .

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Sir, yesterday we decided that we should meet at 10 to-morrow.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : If we meet at 10 and sit till 2, that would give us 4 hours. If we sit from 2 to 7, that would give us 5 hours, a gain of one hour. That I think would suit the honourable House in the present condition of private business. There is also another fact, and that is the Honourable the Home Member has been requested by the Conference authorities to open the Conference, and if the House sits at 10 to-morrow, it would be certainly very difficult for him to give that honour to the Educational Conference of the Muslims. Then this letter also mentions that several members of the House have been invited to the Conference and they are willing to go. Now, I would like to know the views of the Honourable the Leader of the House and the consensus of opinion.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Sir, on behalf of Government benches I may say that we have great pleasure in accepting the suggestion made by the Muslim members as regards the sitting of the Council to-morrow afternoon instead of to-morrow morning. We have no objection to sitting to-morrow at half past one if honourable members will also agree to sitting on Monday and Tuesday at half past one instead of from 1 to 7 p.m. There will be no deduction in the time available for private business.

There is one further suggestion that if we sit at half past one we might adjourn for tea at four so that the time will be equally divided. I hope the Muslim Educational Conference will be a success with the attendance of all honourable members.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I take it that that arrangement is agreeable to honourable members. To-morrow we sit at half past one instead of in the morning.

(After recess)

BILL No. XXIV OF 1927 (A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE BOMBAY LOCAL BOARDS ACT, 1923)

(Motion for first reading)

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE (Satara District) : Sir, I do not wish to make any motion at present.

BILL No. XXV OF 1927 (A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE CITY OF BOMBAY MUNICIPAL ACT, 1888)

Motion for first reading

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE (Bombay City, North) : Sir, I beg leave of the House to move the first reading of Bill No. XXV* of 1927, a bill further to amend the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888.

First reading.

If we look to the statement of objects and reasons given with the bill, it will be quite clear that the first object of the bill is to stop multiple voting, and the next object is to reduce the franchise from Rs. 10 to Rs. 5. As regards the first object, I have to state, Sir, that if one looks at the present voting lists of the Bombay City Municipality, one will find that the same name sometimes occurs not once, twice, thrice, but even ten times and twenty times. And this can be proved if honourable members would look into the voting lists of the Bombay City. The reason why this multiple voting is found is this. A person has a residence at one place and business premises at another place. The man has got a vote for his residence in one ward and he has got a vote for his business place in another ward. Not only this, but a person has more than one vote in even one ward, that is, he is not only an owner of a property and has a vote for it but he is also a trustee of other properties, and then he himself may have an office in partnership with other gentlemen. This means one man can have, as I have stated, not only more than two votes, but even ten and twenty votes as a trustee and a partner, and what not. This has been proved in court in a suit by a candidate who had failed in the municipal elections of 1926 in A ward. The case was against the candidates who were elected in A ward, out of whom one honourable member is at present a member of this honourable House. I mean my honourable friend Mr. Marzban, and I am quite sure he will bear me out that in the appeal that was made against the elections of those twelve gentlemen it was shown that a candidate himself had voted more than twenty times. But as those names appeared in the roll, they could not be taken out either by the Municipal Commissioner or by the High Court Judge or the Small Causes Court Judge. From this as well as in the cases of other wards, and I believe another friend, the honourable member Dr. Gilder, will bear me out that the name of one voter had appeared for more than two or three times. The amendment that I have proposed in my bill is that in section 11, sub-section (2), of the Act, after the words "separately occupied" only the words "as a place of residence" are to be added between the words "occupied" and "of which"; and substitute the word "five" for "ten." As for the other thing, I shall refer to it later on. But as for this amendment about building separately occupied as a place of residence, it is a mere simple thing, and I do not think that the Honourable Minister would object to my adding those words therein. I have brought this amendment for the simple object of doing away with litigation and the appeals in elections in which the candidates themselves have got more than one vote.

Now, as regards the other suggestion of substituting the word "five" instead of "ten", my reason is this. Mr. President, by lowering this franchise from ten to five a forward step will be taken to advance democratising the Municipal Act and giving more rights to some people who know now perfectly well how to use their votes. It was distinctly stated at the time of the budget, if the honourable members will remember well, by the Honourable the Leader of the House, the Honourable the Finance Member, that the voters have used their franchise well and are voting properly and there is no doubt that the voting is done well. So also it is widely known that the awakening is markedly taking place amongst the voters of the City of Bombay, and this can be proved by the voting of the last three or four elections. There were not merely 30 or 50 but even 75 per cent. of the voters who attended the polls and had used their voting right. So there is no question as to whether the franchise should be lowered or not. The franchise of other municipalities has been reduced from three to one rupee. Why should not the City of Bombay be given this privilege of a lower franchise when it is so advanced in every direction? I am not asking for universal franchise, I am only asking for a very moderate measure and I hope I shall not be disappointed.

Another point I would like to lay stress upon is the fact which will be testified to by the Honourable the General Member. After the last budget session Government have reduced the rents of Development chawls. This reduction of rent has taken thousands of people, who enjoyed the right of vote last time, out of the category of eligible voters, and we shall now be faced with the queer position that people who had once enjoyed the right of vote are no longer able to do so. The trade depression in Bombay has brought down the rents of almost all properties—Government as well as private. This makes matters worse as far as the population entitled to vote is concerned. In 1924 the Bombay Municipality appointed a special committee to look into this matter. The Honourable Mr. V. J. Patel, now President, Legislative Assembly, was then the President of the Bombay Municipal Corporation. The question was threshed out in all its bearings. What did the Corporation say then? They said "let this election be held and then we shall see." That election took place long ago and now next election is nearly due. A resolution has already been tabled and will soon come up for discussion in the municipal corporation and it will recommend that the franchise be extended not only to people paying five rupees as rent but also to those paying three rupees as rent per month. The proposal ought to meet with the approval of the Honourable the Minister for Local Self-Government as he really wants to democratise the premier municipal corporation in the Presidency. He will earn the blessings of thousands of poor people who are the taxpayers. They pay the taxes, it is out of this money the work of the municipality is going on. At present they have to pay; but enjoy no representation through their own delegates. It is our duty as legislators to supply the deficiency. These people have been demanding this right for the last four years but to no purpose because the present corporation is not really democratic in its composition. It takes no notice of the poor people. Very few people from the masses stand as candidates for election because they know they have no chance of success. At present the property owning classes, capitalists, and big landlords have monopolised all the power and kept it in their hands, and these classes do not wish that the masses should make any advance in the matter of municipal administration. The masses actually pay money for the benefit of the monied classes and yet the masses are not allowed to lift up their heads. Mr. President, it is for the monied classes now to come forward and help the masses; otherwise it will amount to a mere lip sympathy profusely expressed on the platform and in newspapers only. If they want Swaraj or a really democratic government, the capitalist classes must first help the dumb masses to come forward, and the first step in that direction is to extend the franchise for the present to payers of 5 rupees in rent at least. Let the monied classes look upon and treat the masses as their own countrymen, as citizens of one and the same city and country. If our appeal goes unheeded I have to sound a note of warning that our people will have to look in some other direction for help, either to Government or to those whom they are at present neglecting. The masses want this right in the common interest of all the rich as well as the poor and I feel sure that if the right that is now asked for is denied to them, the reaction on the masses will be something to count with. As we are not in the majority in the corporation, we do not succeed in directing their attention to our urgent needs. We do not appear to have any say in the municipal administration. I think it is high time now that both Government as a whole and the Honourable the Minister for Self-Government came to the help of the poor masses without the slightest hesitation of any kind. I have made my case as clear as I could make it and I have shown why the right should be given as is sought to be given by this bill. I have done my duty and it is now for the Honourable the Minister to do his.

With these few words, I resume my seat.

Mr. J. B. PETIT (Bombay Millowners' Association): Sir, I rise to oppose the bill for the simple reason that the honourable mover of it has failed to make out a case in favour of the points which he has urged at such great length. His bill divides itself into two parts—one, as he put it, is to prevent multiple plural voting, but in the course of his remarks he told us that he had found in the course of his experience as a voter that a number of people registered themselves as voters in several wards and thus commanded in some cases as many as twenty votes, which he attributed to the underlying principle of the existing Act, and he contended that therefore the first part of his bill aimed at removing that anomaly. Let us pause for a moment and consider what the effect of the first part of his bill, if accepted by this honourable House, will be. He asks us to place between the words "occupied" and "of which" the words "as a place of residence", the effect of which, if accepted by this honourable House will be automatically to deprive all those who occupy premises or parts of premises for business purposes either for big offices or for factories or for joint stock companies or for similiar purposes, of the right to participate in municipal elections. I would like to ask this honourable House if, when the existing Act was passed, it was the intention of the legislature that offices and big business and similar organisations which also pay rents and pay rents in a very much larger proportion than private individuals, should be deprived of their right to participate in municipal elections and to have a voice in the municipal administration of the city of Bombay. It was very properly thought at that time that such was not the intention and business and such organisations were allowed to act as voters. Such is the state of affairs which has existed up to the present moment under the present Act. Now, the honourable mover of the bill, by one stroke of the pen, seeks to deprive businesses, business organisations, offices and similar other voters of their right to vote and to participate in the municipal elections of the city of Bombay. I wish to ask this House whether that was the intention of the Act, and whether we are prepared to make a departure in that direction at the present moment, at the instance of my honourable friend.

What are the grounds which he has advanced in favour of his move? Only one, and that is, that a number of people voted more than once. I submit, Sir, that if this part of the bill is accepted, the grievance which he has expressed will not be removed. He simply seeks to deprive businesses, business concerns and factories of their right to vote, and individuals, if they have any right—I will take his word for it—at the present moment to vote more than once will continue to exercise that right, even in spite of the amendment that he proposes in the Act which, if carried, will not effect the improvement that he seeks to make. On the contrary, business, business offices and big organisations which pay large amounts of taxes will be deprived of their right to vote. At the present moment, take for instance the example of a big firm like Ralli Bros. Suppose they occupy a big building; they are taken as tenants, and they have the right to vote. If the first part of the bill is carried, they will automatically be deprived of their right to vote, because the honourable mover says that he wants to amend the last but one line of the section. The section, if it is amended as he proposes would read thus :

".....occupied as owner or part owner or tenant or sub-tenant in such ward a building or part of a building separately occupied as a place of residence....."

[Mr. J. B. Petit]

That means only when it is occupied as a place of residence will the occupier have the right of voting.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : Their servants have got residences, and they can vote

Mr. J. B. PETIT : It comes to this, that a big business concern or a big factory or a big business organisation is to exercise its right of voting through the instrumentality of a servant who happens to be engaged by that organisation, and who pays rent. I submit that that will be absolutely contrary to the spirit of the present Act. That is not the intention. The intention is that all tenants, whether they are businesses, factories or other organisations, in common with other individuals, should have the right of voting ; they are exercising it at the present moment. As far as the contention of my honourable friend is concerned, that some people are having more votes than one, I am inclined to think that there is some mistake in his information. We are all aware of the fact that, under the Act as it stands, a man has got only one vote, but a man may happen to be a trustee, and as a trustee he has the right to vote, and it is quite reasonable to expect a man to vote as a trustee. He may vote as an individual in one capacity, and he may happen to be a trustee of a property ; in that case, it is the property that votes, and if he does not vote, another man will vote for the property. That person happens to vote first in his individual capacity, and then also as a trustee ; as a trustee he is a different entity, and there ought to be no objection to a man voting in two different capacities. Then, possibly, he means that people vote as directors, managers, or secretaries of big concerns, and they also vote as individuals. If I happen to be the secretary of a joint stock company and give my vote, it is the business which gives the vote ; if I do not do so, somebody else will, on behalf of the business. After all, it is a mere accident that one individual sometimes comes and votes in several different capacities. He represents several entities, and each one of them is a voter entitled to a vote as a man who occupied a building or part of a building. I submit that the honourable mover has absolutely failed to make out a case so far as the first part of the bill is concerned, and it ought not to be accepted. If it is accepted, it will mean the disenfranchisement of big companies and commercial firms which pay rents in a much larger proportion than the other residents of Bombay, who exercise their right as voters.

So far as the second part of the bill is concerned, it seeks to reduce the qualification of franchise from Rs. 10 to Rs. 5. It is for this House to consider whether enough experience has been gained of the working of the present body to justify our acceptance of this proposal. Personally, Sir, both as a public citizen and as a member of this House and also as a member of the Corporation, I emphatically declare that the time has not yet come to take a step in the direction indicated by my honourable friend in the second part of the bill, for the simple reason that the representation which at the present moment obtains in the Corporation is such as to cause disappointment to no one. Various interests which were unrepresented before are now being represented, and represented, in my humble opinion, in a much stronger manner than they deserve to be represented. For, after all, it is the person who pays the piper who has got the right to call for the tune, and the ratepayer, the taxpayer, the man who pays the taxes to the municipality, who really shoulders the burden of municipal taxation, has got no direct voice, excepting indirectly as a tenant. A man may happen to have property, but may not live in it himself. He may be a member of a joint family; he may happen to live with his father, and the father may pay the taxes of the house, and the father alone may have the right to vote. But the man who owns property, merely because he does not occupy his property and happens to live as a member of a joint family does not and cannot, under the present Act exercise the right as a voter, although he may pay thousands of rupees in taxes. That is an extreme case, but a typical instance of a man who pays taxes not having the right of voting, but tenants paying only Rs. 10 as rent, under the present Act, have automatically the right of voting and standing as candidates for election, and they are exercising it. Personally, I think that the present Act has given considerable advantages and concessions to the citizens of Bombay. People who pay rents of Rs. 10 and upwards are enfranchised and are exercising their vote, and a good many of them are elected as members of the Corporation. I do not think that any further reduction of this limit is likely to be to the benefit of the city in existing conditions, or to the benefit of the Corporation.

Mr. R. S. ASVALE : Why not ?

Mr. J. B. PETIT : For the simple reason that it does not enable the electorate to send the right and proper kind of man as a higher electorate would have enabled them to do. A direct question has been asked, and I think it my duty to give a direct and emphatic reply to it. Considering all these factors, I think that the time has not yet come for this House to take this important and radical step. Possibly the time may come in course of time, when sufficient experience of the working of the present constitution will have been obtained by the Corporation and by this House to enable it to take another forward step. But till such experience is obtained and till such time arrives, I venture to think that a step of this character is a bit premature.

An Honourable MEMBER : When is the time going to come ?

Mr. J. B. PETIT : Under the circumstances, Mr. President, I strongly oppose this measure as absolutely uncalled for, and hope this House will reject it.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN (Bombay City, South) : Sir, I oppose this bill, and I hope this House will throw it out without much ado. As a man who has contested two municipal elections and one Council election, after the franchise was brought to Rs. 10, I can say from my experience that the time has now come when this House will very seriously consider whether it is not advisable to raise the franchise to Rs. 20. I may inform the House that this question was twice brought before the Corporation, and on both the occasions the Corporation decided that the franchise should be Rs. 20, but Government have not seen their way to accept it. The honourable mover specially mentioned my name in regard to a case that was instituted against a number of candidates from A ward, and he said there were instances where a man voted twenty times. I give an emphatic denial to that statement; I was one of the parties in the suit.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : Where is the record of the polls ?

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN : I challenge the honourable mover to contradict what I say, because I was a party to the suit. The learned judge of the Small Causes Court held that there were only one or two cases in the Crawford Market. On that score the appeal was dismissed. The honourable member wants to add the words "resident of the building which the owner can occupy." In section 3 of the Municipal Act the owner is defined as follows :—

" ' Owner ' when used in reference to any premises, means the person who receives the rent of the said premises or who would be entitled to receive the rent thereof if the premises were let, and includes —

- (i) an agent or trustee who receives such rent on account of the owner; and
- (ii) an agent or trustee who receives the rent of, or is entrusted with, or concerned for, any premises devoted to religious purposes; "

In the same Act I will refer the honourable member to sub-sections 4 and 5 of section 19 of the Municipal Act, where it is distinctly stated :

" (4) In preparing the ward lists the Commissioner shall enter therein the names of the persons who are entitled to be enrolled under the provisions of sub-section (2) of section 11, whether such persons be individuals, companies, firms, undivided families or other associations or bodies of individuals, and shall also enter the names of persons who are entitled as aforesaid as the trustees of any building or land.

(5) If individual members of any company, firm, undivided family or other association or body so entered, or if trustees whose names are so entered, are entitled as aforesaid on their own separate account, the Commissioner shall enter their names in the list separately. "

So, the first part of the amendment of the honourable member Mr. Asavale is inconsistent with the section. I submit, Sir, that it can be easily turned down.

Coming to the second part of the bill, our experience of the working of the democracy has been very bitter indeed. As has been said by the honourable member Mr. Petit, at times we think that the time is very far off when the rent payers paying a rent of Rs. 5 will vote with even a shadow of intelligence. Even in the 10-rupee franchise there are cartloads of voters who cannot distinguish between symbols and symbols. They vote simply, not knowing for whom they are voting. Some mukadam goes, gives them a joy ride or a toddy party, and they give their votes as directed by him. They do not know to read and write. That is the experience of the 10-rupee franchise. Heaven forbid that the franchise is lowered to Rs. 5. Let me emphatically tell you, Sir, that the good name of our local self-government demands that the body elected must be by an electorate which understands what they are about. There are people who pay Rs. 5 who cannot write a single line, and do not understand what a municipal corporation is. The honourable member Mr. Asavale personally knows this to his advantage. The lower and lower is the franchise the lesser and lesser will be the calibre of the corporation and lesser and lesser will be the intelligence of that body. We have had enough of this democracy. I trust that this House will summarily throw out the bill.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV (Satara District): Sir, I rise to support the first reading of this bill. I am not at all surprised at the speeches of the two honourable members who have preceded me. I think the same speeches and the same arguments have been heard in this hall over and over again. When the bill for lowering the franchise to Rs. 10 was brought forward the same arguments, word for word, were repeated in this hall and the House by a majority rejected those arguments. I do not think that I need take the time of the House to expose their hollowness.

It is stated that this is a democratic age. But my honourable friend for Bombay, South, has been asking us to go back and raise the franchise to Rs. 20. I do not think that anybody in this House will like to support that proposal. The honourable member would have had the satisfaction of being alone and possessing the boldness to preach reactionary doctrines in this House. The principle of the bill is to eradicate two evils. The first is that of multiple voting. Everybody knows that a person should not exercise more than once his vote. For that purpose the first part of the bill is intended. As regards the second part it is for reducing the franchise from Rs. 10 to Rs. 5. It has become necessary because there has been a considerable falling off in the rents. Trade and commerce is not flourishing and the honourable members from Bombay know that rents have fallen very much everywhere. Those persons who paid Rs. 10 in rent or more are now going to tenements the rental of which is lower. The tenements that fetched Rs. 10 are now let for less than Rs. 10. Persons who have been paying a rental of Rs. 10 as a consequence of reduction in rents will be paying less rents in future and will therefore be deprived of their franchise. The honourable mover of this bill has quoted the instance of the Development chawls. The rent at the time of the last election was ten rupees and over. Now it has been reduced in some cases to 6, 7, 8 and 9. All the residents of these tenements of the Development chawls who formerly enjoyed the franchise will be deprived of it if this amending bill is not passed. This is not a very desirable thing. When the franchise was reduced to Rs. 10 some of the honourable members of this Council predicted that heavens might perhaps fall down and feared that the fair name of the Bombay Corporation will be razed to the dust, if undesirable persons entered the corporation. But these gloomy prognostications have not come true. The ten-rupee franchise has not lowered the prestige of the corporation and I may assure the House that the reduction of the franchise to Rs. 5 will not prove a disaster. As a matter of fact in the south of the Island there are very few tenements which are below Rs. 10. Therefore the increase in the number of voters in the south will not be very large. The honourable member from Bombay,

[Mr. B. V. Jadhav]

North, and others may not take any fright on that account. Reduction has taken place in the north but north is generally filled with labourers. It is for the first time that they were given the right of voting by the last bill. It will be a great hardship to them and great injustice in their case if on account of the reduction in rent they are disfranchised and deprived of the power to vote. Therefore, I maintain that this amending bill should be passed and the people's right of vote should be preserved.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE (Ahmednagar District): Sir, I rise to support the amending bill brought forward by my honourable friend Mr. Asavale. The representative of the Bombay Millowners' Association, the honourable member Mr. Petit, opposed this bill on the ground that the honourable the mover of the bill did not make out a case for this bill. This is the stereotyped reply which is usually given by the representatives of landlords and millowners, and we are not at all surprised at such argument. Our case stands on its intrinsic merits and on arguments which are really convincing. The honourable the mover has surely made out a case for giving the franchise to the poor people. Sir, Bombay is really a city in which the poor labouring classes ought to have the power, because they are the real productive factors of Bombay and not the millowners and the landlords and the aristocrats. The Bombay Corporation ought to be ruled by the representatives of the labouring classes. The corporation has for long been ruled by the aristocrats and it is high time that it is now ruled by the democrats—I mean the representatives of the labouring classes. Sir, the days of aristocracy are gone, and the days of democracy are come. It will be really liberal-mindedness on the part of the aristocrats to concede the civic rights to these labouring classes.

Sir, the honourable mover of the bill wants the franchise to be lowered from Rs. 10 to Rs. 5. I do not see why this right should not be given to the poor people. In the Major Municipalities Act the Honourable Minister has lowered the franchise from Rs. 3 to Re. 1, and there he really stood for democracy, as he always does. I do not see any reason why Government should now oppose this bill.

The honourable member Mr. Marzban said that twice this question was discussed by the corporation and twice the corporation voted against it. Well, that is the very ground why we press that the corporation should be democratised. The corporation, as it is constituted, is an aristocratic body, and that is why it defeats such measures as these. That is a strong ground for making it a democratic body and to give a place in that for the labouring classes. Therefore, that is a strong ground in favour of the bill and not against it. The masses are clamouring for the right to vote, and I think it should not be denied to them. As in the Major Municipalities Act people paying Re. 1 are enfranchised, I do not see why in the corporation the poor labouring classes paying Rs. 5 as rent should not be enfranchised. This is a modest measure, and I hope Government will be pleased to accept it. With these words I support the first reading of the bill.

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Sir, I rise to support the bill. In the year 1925 I moved a similar bill for lowering the franchise from Rs. 10 to Rs. 5, but at that time I was not fortunate enough to get that bill passed. In this session also I have given notice of a similar bill, which will come later on. Sir, our task is very difficult, but we have to try and try again. Unless the doors are hammered often and often, they will not be opened. Of course, there will be opposition from the capitalist and the aristocratic classes ; that will ever be there, because they have monopolised the seats in the corporation and they want to keep their position. It is the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government who introduced an amending bill in the year 1922 or so, and it was he who gave the tenants paying Rs. 10 the right of vote. Until then the landlords were enjoying the right of vote. It is the Honourable Minister who took the bold step of giving the franchise to these tenants. At that time the corporation as it was constituted—and it is constituted at present in the same manner—was a capitalist and aristocratic body. At that time Government were for lowering the franchise to Rs. 10, but the corporation did not like that ; they wanted that the franchise should be given only to those who paid a rent of Rs. 20. Government sent their proposal twice to the corporation, but twice they rejected it. Then, it was the Honourable Minister—we are grateful to him for it—who took the bold step of moving his bill to give the franchise to people who pay Rs. 10 rent. He came in for a good deal of criticism from the vested interests for doing so, but still he carried the bill. Of course that was a democratic measure, but that bill has not gone far enough. Though the right to vote has been given to people paying a rental of Rs. 10, still out of a population of nearly 12 lakhs in Bombay only a lakh of people are entitled to vote, and nearly 11 lakh are shut out from voting. Is that democracy ? Are a lakh of people to govern the rest of the 12 lakhs ? So, what is wanted is a lowering of the franchise. Only if that is done members of the backward classes, depressed classes and labouring classes will enjoy the right of vote.

It was stated by some honourable member that they do not know how to use the right of voting ; they do not know even symbols—what is an elephant and what is a horse. But whose fault is that ? It is the fault of the very corporation. The corporation has got a revenue of three crores ; yet it has done nothing to advance the education of the backward classes, the depressed classes and the labouring classes. Sir, the Primary Education Act is there ; yet it has been applied only to two wards (F and G) and the other wards have been left out altogether.

Mr. HOUSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Made some remarks which were inaudible.)

Mr. S. K. BOLE : It is only recently that the Act has been applied to F and G wards. If you give them education, they will then know for whom to vote and how to vote, what are the symbols, what is an elephant, what is a horse and what is a donkey, and so on.

Then, again, when the qualification of a voter for this Council is a rental of Rs. 10 the corporation being a smaller body the franchise must be lower than a rental of Rs. 10. This has been done in the district local boards act. I know the vested interests will always oppose tooth and nail this proposition. Because they are afraid that their position will be made difficult.

The number of the backward classes, depressed classes and working people in the city of Bombay is nearly 6,00,000 and in the corporation as it is at present constituted there are only 7 representatives while other classes have got more representation than they deserve. Then may I know who pays the taxes ? It is the tenant who pays the taxes. The landlord does not pay it out of his own pocket. He collects rent from his tenants and pays the municipal tax. And therefore the illiterate classes who pay these taxes should have a right of vote. I would therefore ask the Honourable Minister to be generous in accepting the proposal that has been brought forward to-day.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA (Bombay City, North): I rise to support this bill. My grounds for supporting this bill is this. We are all talking of democracy and when the real time comes there are many faint hearts. Now this question of democratisation of the municipality has been before this Council time and again and several faint hearts have not voted for this measure. There are three types of mentality; the conservative mentality, the liberal mentality and the nationalist, or progressive or radical mentality. The first is always against any reform and the second is timid and these two have tried to keep power in their hands for so many years. They say that some confusion would be caused by bringing about any change as if the heavens are going to fall. I will only ask the House to be reasonable, I do not want them to be radicals; it will be enough if they can be reasonable. The qualification for a voter to this Council is a rental of Rs. 10. Now I want to ask the House the reason why we should fix the same qualification for the Bombay Corporation. Admittedly it is logical and reasonable that the qualification for a voter to the Bombay Corporation should be lower than the qualification for a voter to this larger body. Take another proposition. The qualification of a voter to the Karachi municipality is a rental of Rs. 2 and for the Legislative Council from Karachi Rs. 5.

An Honourable MEMBER: What is the population there ?

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA: Population is 2 lakhs.

It is an advanced municipality. So I put it to the House why should the qualification to the Bombay municipality be higher than the Karachi Council franchise. The voters in Karachi municipality are exercising the right properly and no case has been made out and no complaint has been received and so why should not the franchise be lowered ? The argument has been trotted out that the time has not yet arrived. As I said the other day if we want self-government the Government of India or the Secretary of State says that the time has not yet arrived and that there will be disaster and law and order cannot be maintained and so forth. They say that the people are not ready for such a measure of reform. I say that this is a bureaucratic reply which should not be repeated by members of this House. They must advance with the times. Let us look at other countries. In western countries they are going towards adult franchise. During the debate on the reform of the House of Lords the present Prime Minister Mr. Baldwin said that he is willing to agree that even women of 21 years and more should be allowed to vote. That is the feeling in England, namely that flappers should have the right of influencing the elections. In democratic countries you will find that the franchise is reduced and they are turning their attention to adult franchise and women franchise. I do not know why this country should hold views which are a hundred years old. My honourable friend Mr. Marzban says let us have Rs. 10 to Rs. 20 franchise. But who pays? It is not the capitalist who pays. It is the tenants who pay and therefore they must have representation. If you want to give the right to the intellectual classes the best way to do it is to deprive the landlord and the tenants of their right and give representation only to the registered graduates of the university. That is the best solution. If my honourable friend Mr. Marzban says that the Parsis have got sufficient education and can know who is the right person and the wrong person, then the best course is that they should move with the times. Another point is this, that as my honourable friend from Bombay pointed out, out of 11,37,782 persons 10,42,488 have no right of vote and only 95,294 have got a vote. That is to say, the majority have not got the franchise. Therefore, you do not give any representation to a large number of people in Bombay.

Then, another point I want to make out is this that even the Montagu-Chelmsford Reforms Report says the same thing. These are the words :

"It is of the utmost importance for the constitutional progress of the country that every effort should be made in local bodies to extend the franchise, to arouse interest in the elections and to develop local committees, so that education in citizenship should, as far as possible, be extended and everywhere begun in a practical manner."

Unless and until you are going to give them education in citizenship, how are you going to train our men? And unless and until you give them right of voting, they will not understand what is this municipality and what is this business of this Council, and what not. It is often said by certain people that this country is not prepared or ready for self-government because there is not a sufficiently intelligent or educated electorate. But what is the use of talking like that when you are not going to support a measure which will prepare the electorate? Therefore, even for this country for preparing for self-government, it is necessary that franchise should be given to a larger majority, and I therefore appeal to those members who are still conservative to be more liberal and support the measure. And I still appeal to the Honourable Minister who holds liberal views, and I believe if he had got a free hand, he would vote with us for the bill, but I do not know what is the other influence working which makes him not vote with us. He brought the municipal franchise down to Rs. 10, in the face of the opposition of the Bombay Corporation. The Bombay Corporation was opposed to the lowering of franchise then on the ground that Vithu Govind and Pandu might get into the corporation. Therefore, I hope the Minister will support the bill on this occasion, and I hope also that those who are timid or conservative members will also move with the times.

Mr. LALJI NARANJI (Indian Merchants' Chamber): Sir, the bill before the House has two objects. The first is to deprive the traders of the right of voting by adding the words "as a place of residence." So much is said about aristocracy, capitalism and so on, that I also stand charged with all the charges that the supporters of the bill have been making against all the capitalists. But I will appeal to them to consider whether it is fair that they should deprive the traders, those who are doing an important function, of the right of voting. The same members who have supported this bill have brought in the argument that those who are paying the taxes should have a vote. May I then ask the mover why deprive the trader although he pays taxes. The second object is that those who are paying Rs. 5 should have the vote instead of those paying Rs. 10 now. But I will point out to them: Who is going to suffer the loss that they themselves have helped Government to bring about in the matter of the Development chawls and so forth? This House is the owner of the Development chawls. On these chawls there has been a heavy loss. This loss is suffered by this Council, that is, by the general tax-payer. But what about those capitalists, about whom it is said they do not pay the taxes and it is the rent-payers that pay the taxes? It is said that the taxes are not paid by the capitalists or the landlords and that they are paid by the tenants. But tenants pay only in proportion to their incomes? The capitalists alone stand to lose when there are changes in the market and which changes are admitted by the honourable mover of the bill himself that they are losses. Now, will the mover of the bill point out to me whether the tenants are going to make good the losses that are going to be suffered which are not removable by the democracy, which is so much talked of to-day? Do you really think that those who are talking of democracy to-day can exercise, can you tell me whether they can exercise, one right of democracy? Those who are talking in support of labour, will they put their hand on their heart and say whether they have ever been democratic? Democracy for a subject nation to-day is impossible. Democracy simply to set one interest against another is being talked of. But the real democracy, to enable the whole country to have, when such questions affecting real democracy have come, the House and those who are supporters of this bill never come forward to support such actions.....

Mr. R. S. ASVALE: I did support.

Mr. LALJI NARANJI: The honourable mover of this bill says he did support. I will put it to him, all the time that I have opposed the Development grants, the same members who are now standing to help the voters of Rs. 5, have they helped and have they saved this presidency against the losses caused by Government or brought on by Government in spite of the protests of the capitalists in the matter of this Development chawls, etc.? They wanted all the chawls for the good of the poor tenants. Have they ever been able by adding these chawls to reduce the rents? They have inflated the values, and they have helped Government for adding all the Development chawls, and the losses the presidency has been put to are paid by whom? Will they point out whether in all the new taxes that have been raised from the people, will those who are here to down the capitalists point out, whether the capitalists have got the greatest voting power? Will the mover of the bill say whether the capitalists have got the greatest proportion of voting? I certainly say that trade and commerce have got the least powers of voting. The mover of the bill failed in the corporation, and that is the reason that he has brought this bill in this House. As regards the corporation, the mover has himself said that the corporation is an aristocratic body. Therefore, I will not refer to it. But I want to refer to this House and the constitution of this House. What is the fact? Trade and commerce has got the least voting power. But on every occasion the capitalist is simply opposed because he is aristocratic. How is he going to be aristocratic? Do those who are in favour of democracy mean to say they are helping the capitalist every time he stands to suffer loss or to lose? There are times of prosperity, there are times of depression. When the depression comes in the course of four years, do they help the capitalist? Only you want more voting, you want the franchise to be reduced from Rs. 10 to Rs. 5. Why? The reason is stated in the statements of objects and reasons. "The lowering of franchise is necessary in advancing real democracy. In other urban areas the franchise has been reduced and a vote is given to a tenant who pays Re. 1 per month. Moreover owing to the depressed condition of trade in the city of Bombay," etc. Now, if there is depression of trade, what are the reasons? Is it due to any changes that Government have made, or because it is the ordinary cycle of depression, prosperity, and other things that come every time? May I ask the honourable mover: Are Government going to help anybody or help those who are disfranchised to remove all the causes of the depression? They do not even support the mover.

They now demand that certain price should be paid to labour. Where is the price on labour? Do they not want the capitalists to exist? Do they not think that the capitalist is a necessary factor in the development of the interests of the country? If they think the capitalist is not necessary, then when they get democracy, let them wipe out the capitalist. It is no use fighting with the capitalist when the spokesmen of the masses themselves are impotent and cannot obtain democracy. Why talk of complete democracy when the masses are a part of a subject nation of which I too am one of the parts? Have you got control over your finances? My honourable friend Mr. Bole rightly referred to this aspect of the question when he said that we wanted more money for education. That is a practical suggestion. Get more money, educate your people, deserve and then desire. Train your working classes, educate them, teach them how to exercise the right of vote, show them how to appreciate the importance of right voting, give them more and more primary education, and then, not before, come and ask that the franchise may be reduced even to one rupee. I will in that case support you whole-heartedly, and I know my capitalist friends will also come forward and support your demand for the lowering of the franchise. Give more attention to the finances of the presidency; improve the finances of the presidency; and get more money for primary education. I admit that the process of giving primary education to the labouring classes will be a long and a tedious one, and that even ten or fifteen years may not be sufficient in which to carry out this gigantic task. Do that and then come forward and demand the lowering of the franchise. At present your attempts will be but premature and, as such, will be bound to fail to achieve the very laudable object you have in view. Don't try to tax one at the cost of the other. Remember that both capital and labour are equally essential to the progress of this presidency. We know that labour is contributing to the wealth of the country and we also know that their prosperity is our prosperity. It is no use hurrying forward this process of democratisation. The present constitution has been working only for a period of four years. The tenants paying ten rupees rent have been now enfranchised. Now to reduce the franchise from ten to five would, in the present circumstances, lead to disaster. First let the labour qualify, let the labour educate itself more, let the labour learn to appreciate the value of the right of vote and then see if we, capitalists, do not readily come forward to help them onwards. I can assure the honourable members that we have lost ground in the matter of financial control. I say definitely that the fight is an economic one under the Reforms—not between the richer and the poorer classes. The richer classes stand to gain more by improving the lot of their poorer brethren. We know it, never have we denied it. We know perfectly well that it is by the fruits of the labour of the poorer classes that the richer classes can ever hope to be richer still. Their interests do not clash, their interests are identical, and for this reason alone, if not for any other, we say “First educate labour, first qualify labour and then and then alone demand more rights for labour”. My honourable friend Mr. Ginwalla quoted the instance of England and Mr. Baldwin. In England women have been given their rights. Have we given their rights to the depressed classes, and have our women or our depressed classes the same qualifications as the women of England? What is the good of comparing England and India? I again point out that more money is wanted, more wealth is wanted, more sinews of war are wanted to develop the resources of the country. Get that, spread primary education throughout the land and fight for more privileges, for more rights. We are unable to get more money from those people who are antagonistic to the progress of the country. We find ourselves powerless to advance the interests of the country. We cannot get as much money as we require for the advancement and promotion of our educational needs. Where, then, I ask, is the use of clamouring against capitalists and charging them with standing in the way of progress of the masse? As I said before, first try to supply the educational needs of the labouring and toiling masses and then, even if it takes ten or fifteen years, come to this House and ask for enfranchising those who at present are, to quote the word used by my honourable friend Mr. Asavale, "disfranchised." I therefore appeal to the honourable the mover to adjourn his bill for at least ten years more.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR: Mr. President, I rise to oppose the bill which has been moved by my honourable friend Mr. Asavale (Hear, Hear) (Oh, Oh) (Laughter). My honourable friend who has moved this bill and those honourable members who come from the city of Bombay and who have spoken in favour of this bill are the concerned parties. The mover of this proposition is a disappointed candidate who was thrown out during the last election, but my honourable friends Messrs. Jehangir Petit and Marzban, who have opposed this bill, are the successful candidates. That is why they do not want to lower the franchise because they know that if the franchise is lowered still, they would have to canvass more people. Let me now give my independent opinion as to whether or not the time has come when there should be a change in the franchise for the city of Bombay municipal elections. At the outset, I must say that I do not blame the honourable member Mr. Jadhav who has supported this bill or the other honourable members representing mofussil constituencies who are in favour of the bill and because they are not conversant with the conditions in the city of Bombay, but I certainly do blame the honourable mover of this proposition and the honourable member Mr. Bole for putting their case before this honourable House without any statistics, without any facts and without any figures. My honourable friend Mr. Bole says that the voting power in Bombay city is one lakh. That is incorrect. The voters in Bombay according to the last roll which we have is 140,000. Assuming that the figure quoted by Mr. Bole is correct, what does it show? It shows that you cannot expect every member of a family to vote. A voter has got a family of at least five or six members including children so the majority of the proportion exercise their franchise. The franchise had already been reduced to ten rupees from twenty. If these are the ways of calculation of my honourable friend Mr. Bole who wants eleven lakhs of people to be able to vote, may I know from him whether he thinks that all these eleven lakhs of people are paying rent of 5 rupees? This is the calibre of my honourable friend on my left (Mr. Bole) and that calibre you may expect to find in the corporation if you pass the bill that is now before you.

As regards multiple votes, it looks to me as if the honourable mover is absolutely ignorant of the Municipal Act. I would therefore just draw his attention to section 19(10) which says:—

"If the name of any person is entered as a voter in more than one ward list, he may, by notice in writing, which he shall give to the Commissioner on or before the first day of November, choose for which one of those wards he shall be entitled to vote."

[Sir Vasantao Dabholkar]

If my honourable friend, the disappointed candidate, found that voters had registered themselves in several wards, why did he not bring the matter to the notice of the Municipal Commissioner? Evidently, the honourable mover did not know his duty, and that was to bring to the notice of the Municipal Commissioner, by going through the electoral roll, that certain voters had their names registered in more than one ward. Who was to blame? My honourable friend Mr. Asavale was a candidate from the F ward. If after scrutinising the roll he had found that certain voters' names appeared in the list for A or C or other wards as well as in F ward, the easiest thing which he could have done was to have challenged their right to vote in more than one ward and brought the matter to the notice of the Commissioner under the provision of section 19 (10) of the Municipal Act. If he had done that such names would have been removed. The candidates for election do not care to know what their duty is and still come before this honourable House with a bill to remove the multiple voting. The other argument that was used was that because the rents of the Development Department chawls are reduced, therefore the franchise should be reduced. May I know how many chawls are occupied at Worli?

An Honourable Member: Ask the Honourable the General Member.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR: I do not think more than 500 rooms are occupied at Worli. I hope the Honourable the General Member will correct me if I am wrong. At the most, it will hardly be 10 per cent., and because 10 per cent. of the rooms have been occupied, for which the rents have been reduced, the honourable mover of the bill wants to have the franchise reduced.

Then, Sir, I was surprised at the remarks of my honourable friend on my left. He shows his gratitude to the Honourable Minister in charge for refusing to carry out the wishes of the Corporation to raise the franchise to Rs. 20, and in the same breath he says that the Corporation is now an aristocratic body.

Mr. S. K. BOLE: It is.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR: How can it be possible? In the same breath he pays a compliment to the Honourable Minister for declining to raise the franchise and yet he says that it is an aristocratic body.

Then my honourable friend Mr. Marzban stopped short about the question of the symbols used in voting. He was very modest in putting before the House the difficulties in voting on account of the lack of education of a great portion of the people. He said that certain candidates had certain symbols, and some of the voters could not understand the symbols. But I say that the trouble goes still further. I know that in the A ward when some of the voters were told to vote for the candidate having the symbol of the elephant, they said "How can the elephant come here? The elephant is in the Victoria gardens." Therefore, unless we educate the masses, so that they can properly exercise their franchise, it is useless to talk about reducing the franchise to Rs. 5.

Then the instance of Karachi was quoted, and it was stated that in Karachi, with a population of 2 lakhs, the franchise is Rs. 2. If the population of Karachi is 2 lakhs and the franchise is Rs. 2, then as the population of Bombay is 10 lakhs a franchise of Rs. 10 is quite sufficient.

Then my honourable friend Mr. Ginwalla said that if the franchise is not reduced to Rs. 5, graduates should be given the right to vote. May I ask if graduates are not in a position to pay rent of Rs. 10. Formerly when the franchise was for the owners of property, the graduates had the power of voting, and they were able to exercise it. My honourable friend Mr. Ginwalla wants that if the Council is not disposed to reduce the franchise to Rs. 5 the graduates should be enfranchised as voters which is not reasonable. The Corporation is trying to get sufficient money from Government to make education free and compulsory in all the wards to educate the masses so that we can have Vithoos and Pandoos on the Corporation; and we shall be glad to have on the Corporation not only Vithoos and Pandoos but even Ginwallas and Jhabvallas.

Before I conclude, I want to point out to the Honourable Minister what his policy has been in respect to such matters. On the last occasion when there was a question of reducing the franchise to Local Boards, he said that the Local Boards did not want the franchise to be reduced and so he opposed the bill. Therefore, if the franchise is to be reduced in Bombay City, he should act up to his word and consult the Corporation whether the time has come for the franchise to be reduced to Rs. 5, and if the Corporation agrees to it, he may take the necessary steps in the matter, because the Corporation is the body mainly concerned; he should not support my honourable friend Mr. Bole or my honourable friend Mr. Asavale who are disappointed candidates and they rush to this Council every now and then. Possibly, this is the third time that the bill has appeared on the agenda of this House. Of course, there is going to be a further development as regards the reservation of seats for members of particular castes, and I shall see how far the advocates of democracy will agree to go in for the reservation of seats for particular castes. But this is not the time to say anything on the matter, and I shall accordingly reserve my remarks on the point.

With these words, I think the Council will do well to throw out the proposition so ably moved by my honourable friend Mr. Asavale, without any facts and figures to support his case.

Mr. G. I. PATEL (Ahmedabad Millowners' Association): Sir, I think the honourable mover of this bill would have been more successful had he not brought this bill before this House in a situation which is complicated and rather grave. We know that the subject is very important, and when we consider it from the view point of arguing it among ourselves, all the arguments that we utilise in reasonably defending the case of one party against the other are at the same time likely to be utilised unreasonably in defending the whole country against a foreign government, which meets our demands with similar kinds of arguments and reasons to counteract our claims. It is therefore that I wish that such a bill had not been brought before this House for discussion, in order to keep our position consolidated quite safe and free from any misunderstanding that may be caused by a reasonable discussion on this question. My honourable friend Mr. Ginwalla says "Truth first everywhere." But he ought also to have known that truth is never bawled out from the house-tops. It has to be seen whether we discuss the truth at the proper time in congenial atmosphere and in suitable circumstances, and whether the discussion of that truth at any particular moment would lead to success and would prevent harm. In regard to this subject, it is useless for the "capitalists" and the "labourers," or the so-called "vested interests" and the "masses" to assume the attitude of a quarrel among themselves. The most important question that my honourable friend Mr. Bole has placed before us is the "education of our masses." If my honourable friend Mr. Bole has actually witnessed certain election campaigns in the lower strata of the masses, I may be permitted to draw his attention to the fact that sometimes liquor has become the deciding factor in giving wholesale votes to particular candidates. This is a question which I would be the last person to discuss on the floor of this House. Unfortunately, a situation has been to-day created when, as my honourable friend Mr. Ginwalla says, one has to speak the truth unwillingly. The calculations which my honourable friend Mr. Bole has placed before the House have already been replied to by the hard facts, that the voting strength, excluding children, invalids and other persons in Bombay would not be more than 3 lakhs of individuals. Half the number under the present Act has been enjoying the franchise. The question therefore remains to be considered in regard to the other half. So, he has already got by this time what may be called a very reasonable franchise. As regards the other half, which he wants to be enfranchised with one leap, I would request him to wait a little to gather strength, and then after five or six years to bring forward his proposition for a measure between Rs. 5 and Rs. 10 after he has been successful in getting the masses educated to an extent where discretion is adequately used in voting.

My honourable friend Mr. Ginwalla says by way of an interruption that the arguments against the bill are "bureaucratic." I do not want to express my arguments in strong terms, as they may be misapplied and misunderstood, and they may be used for mischievous purposes by "other interested people." It would be undiplomatic and unwise to use them on a question which is so complicated among ourselves. Further, my honourable friend Mr. Bole said that those who pay the rents and thus the taxes should have a right to vote. He seems to think that it is only those who live in the chawls and pay rents of Rs. 10 or Rs. 15 are the real people who pay taxes. If that is the real principle on which the question has to be decided, then I think I would be the last person to even consider it favourably. Who really pays the taxes? Suppose a man who lives in a chawl comes forward and asks a Government member : " I have got a share in the revenues you are getting from the people of this presidency. Do this and do that." Is that the proper way of putting it or doing it ? You cannot do away with the middle factor the " owner " who is really instrumental in giving direct revenues to Government. Then the honourable member Mr. Ginwalla compared Karachi with Bombay. I wish he had not raised that argument by comparing Bombay with Karachi in support of his claim. In that case he has no claim to reduce the franchise from Rs. 10 to Rs. 5. The honourable member himself stated that unless you educate them it is useless to enjoy certain rights. At any rate his argument pointed to me that direction. My honourable friend Mr. Bole accepts the position of bringing the masses to a reasonable level of exercising their franchise. If they do that much we are quite prepared to join hands with them and say : " You have done your duty and we are prepared to do our duty as is expected from us. "

Mr. S. P. LIGADE (Sholapur District) (Addressed the House in Marathi) : Sir, it is a very useful measure that has been brought forward and I heartily support it. The Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government brought in a measure that reduced the franchise to Rs. 10, which enabled the backward communities to take advantage of representing their grievances and introducing measures in the municipalities and local boards for their amelioration. About ten or twenty years ago only the moneyed, advanced classes got into these bodies and whenever the officials came for inspection on inquiry they represented to them that all was well. The official members alone took proper care of the interests of the backward classes. Those gentlemen never cared to look after the interests and welfare of the backward communities. You cannot expect them to know exactly the conditions of the backward communities as the members of the backward communities themselves. During elections the rich people who could afford to spend by means of parties and other amusements secured their votes and got into the local bodies. The backward people had neither the means to spend nor the opportunity to make their voice felt in those bodies. The advanced classes and moneyed people blow hot and cold in the same breath. They cry for swaraj on the one hand and on the other they refuse to give the ordinary rights to the masses to sit on those bodies and represent their wants and grievances. I request them not to be inconsistent in their attitude and to support the measure with sympathy and generosity for the masses. In Bombay, Dadar and Parel are inhabited mostly by millhands. They are living in very insanitary surroundings. They ought to exercise their franchise in order to return a man of their choice to the corporation to represent them, and then only they can have better sanitation and a better condition of living. One honourable member from Bombay said that the backward class voters are ignorant and they freely vote if only toddy is offered to them. I really pity the honourable member. I emphatically say that it is no use accusing the backward class voters for taking toddy before voting. But let me tell the honourable House that it is only the rich, the landlords, the mill-owners who spoil these people and it is they who administer toddy and wine to those people and get votes from them. Those who spoil these people are more to be blamed than those who are victims of the evil practice. It is therefore with the intention of putting a stop to this vicious practice that I support this bill. With these few words I strongly support this bill.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Sir, I wish to confine myself now to the first part of the bill in order to save the valuable time of the House. The amendment that is proposed is, "in sub-section (2) of section 11.... insert the words 'as a place of residence' between the words 'occupied' and 'of which'". I tried to think over what he meant; I could not understand him; I took the assistance of the Secretary; I sought the help of the Government benches; well, I was no wiser. Then, I tried to turn my attention to the object of the honourable mover in bringing forward this amendment. His object is that the same man should not vote twice in the same ward or in different wards. But to secure that object, he is demolishing the democratic principle which he is seeking to establish. By inserting those words in section 11 (2), he will deprive a large section of the public of their votes. Persons who occupy premises of which the rental value is Rs. 10 or more, who have now a vote, will be deprived of their vote if they do not use those premises as places of residence. Thousands of people will be deprived of their vote. Joint stock companies, firms and trustees, who occupy these premises will be deprived of their vote if the words "as a place of residence" are inserted in section 11 (2).

Then, I would draw the honourable member's attention to section 19, clause (4) of the City of Bombay Municipal Act: it says—

"In preparing the ward lists the Commissioner shall enter therein the names of the persons who are entitled to be enrolled under the provisions of sub-section (2) of section 11, whether such persons, be individuals, companies, firms, undivided families, or other associations or bodies of individuals, and shall also enter the names of persons who are entitled as aforesaid as the trustees of any building or land."

Even supposing that the legal effect of his amendment will be to deprive these companies, firms and trustees of their vote—though that will not be the case—I wish to point out that it will be so much the worse for him. He advocates democracy in his statement of objects and reasons, but here he is depriving thousands of people of the vote which they at present enjoy. His argument is that it will stop plural voting. I would draw the honourable member's attention to section 19 (10), which runs:

"If the name of any person is entered as a voter in more than one ward list, he may by notice in writing, which he shall give to the Commissioner on or before the first day of November, choose for which one of those wards he shall be entitled to vote."

Then, I would refer my honourable friend to clause (19) of section 19, which says:

"The Commissioner shall not retain the name of one person in more than one ward list. If any person whose name has been entered in more than one ward list has not chosen as aforesaid the Commissioner shall determine for which one of those wards he shall be entitled to vote."

[Sir Ghulam Hussain]

That means that the remedy is in the hands of the honourable mover of the bill. If he is a candidate, he ought to be on the alert and take every precaution to see that the same man is not enrolled twice in the same ward or in different wards. I am sure in these days of keen competition, every candidate will take good care to see that one man is not enrolled twice in the same ward or in different wards. If the Commissioner is informed, he will take the measures provided under section 19.

Now, coming to companies, firms and trustees, their case is quite different from the case of the individuals who occupy the houses or premises. These companies, firms and trustees have been given the vote, and they might appoint any one to go and vote on their behalf. If my honourable friend the mover of this bill wants to deprive all these thousands of people—if I mistake not, there are nearly 7,000 firms in the city of Bombay and a large section of the public have business premises of which, the rental value is Rs. 10 or more—then he cannot call this measure a democratic measure. In his statement of objects and reasons, the mover claims that the object of the bill is to democratise the corporation, but this measure will not advance democracy; but on the contrary it will establish an oligarchy.

The remedy for plural voting is already provided, and it is the duty of the candidate who stands for election to see that one person's name is not enrolled more than once in one ward or in different wards. As regards the other clause of the bill, I wish to reserve my remarks.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member Mr. Bechar.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR: Sir, as there is no time to-day, I will speak to-morrow.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: If the honourable member does not choose to address the House, I may accept the closure. Does the honourable member wish to address the House?

Mr. N. A. BECHAR: If you continue the debate, I prefer addressing the House to-morrow.

An Honourable MEMBER: I move the closure.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I accept it.

Mr. R. S. ASVALE (Bombay City, North): Mr. President, the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government told the House that in trying to stop multiple voting I was depriving some people of the right of vote which they already possess. But I will assure him that it is not my intention to deprive anybody of the right of vote he already possesses. The Honourable Minister stated that firms who have the right of vote can depute any one to vote on their behalf. What I want to point out to him is that the person whom the firm deposes to vote will have a vote for himself for his place of residence, and if he votes for the firm he will be exercising a double vote. In the interest of the masses, I have brought in an amendment to reduce the franchise from Rs. 10 to Rs. 5, and if this is passed, not only the proprietor of the firm but even the servants of the firm will get the vote if they pay a rent of Rs. 5. And any man whether he be a manager of the firm or a representative of the firm or a trustee, is always a voter if he has a residence. I only want that those who occupy any premises or have a residence should be voters and nobody else. I am not against democracy. But I am a strong advocate for democracy and for the very reason I have brought this bill to advance the cause of democracy so that every man who has a residence in the city shall have the right of vote. It is not a fact that those who have been enjoying the right of vote will be deprived of it. The matter of multiple voting was brought before the court in an election petition case and it was also made clear but the court could not help it as the names appeared in the roll. It is no doubt the duty of the candidate to examine the list or lists of voters but, Sir, one cannot be expected to examine and see 7 lists containing more than 1,40,000 names and detect one and the same name in different lists. The names given are of one and the same person but they cannot be detected by mere examining from the voters' lists as the names given in the voters' lists are either full or with initials or without surnames or with different addresses. As a matter of fact the multiple voting had occurred. Some names appearing twice have been taken out sometimes from one and the same ward but not from different wards. But through the mistakes of clerks who prepare these lists these double names do occur. We know how the work of the preparation of the electoral roll is done.

My honourable friend the representative of the millowners of Ahmedabad has stated that nearly half the population are enjoying the right of voting. I do not admit that half the population are enjoying the right of voting, but I do admit that nearly half the tenants enjoy the right and he is therefore supporting my argument that people know how to use their vote. It will be seen from his statement that people are now accustomed to use their vote.

My honourable friend Mr. Marzban argued that toddy, liquor and other things such as refreshments are served to the voters. But my friend forgets that such things are prohibited under the law and cannot be provided by poor representatives of the people and if toddy or liquor are supplied it is not supplied by the representative of those who pay Rs. 5 rental, but actually by those who have got money and who think that unless they supply toddy and liquor they won't get their votes. Unless they do these things they will never get votes.

The reason why I failed by 50 votes in the last municipal general election was on account of this double vote or multiple vote. The names are there and they cannot be rejected as was proved in the court unless the actual persons whose names appear in the rolls wrongly are served with summonses and brought before the Court.

My honourable friend Mr. Lalji Naranji stated that he would be the first man to vote for a bill not for Rs. 5 rent per month but even rupee one.

[Mr. R. S. Asavale]

It is very easy to say so. If he is not voting for a bill for reducing the franchise to Rs. 5, how would it be possible for him to vote for a reduction of the franchise to rupee one. It is quite impossible and absurd.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Will the honourable member take a long time to finish?

Mr. R. S. ASVALE: I will take about fifteen minutes, Sir.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The House is now adjourned till 1-30 p.m. to-morrow, Saturday, the 15th October 1927.

Saturday, the 15th October 1927

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I have to announce that the following Acts have received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General:

(1) An Act further to amend the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1879:

(2) An Act to amend the President's Salary Act, 1924.

Questions.

CHILDREN ACT: WORKING

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM on behalf of Mr. H. J. AMIN (Broach District): Will Government be pleased to state what steps they have taken to enforce the provisions of the Children Act in the city of Bombay and the mofussil?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: A Society formed for the purpose of working the Children Act and known as the Bombay Children's Aid Society was established in Bombay early in this year. Government have provided a sum of Rs. 20,250 in the current year's budget as a grant for this Society. A Juvenile Court has also been established under the Act. Government have spent nearly Rs. 19,000 on remodelling and refitting a large portion of the old Common Prison at Umarkhadi, so as to make it suitable for a Juvenile Court and a Remand Home, and have given the building, now known as the Umarkhadi Children's Home, to the Children's Aid Society rent free for five years, to assist the Society in carrying out the purposes of the Act. One of the Presidency Magistrates has been appointed to preside over the Juvenile Court, and Government have framed rules of procedure for its guidance. Rules under section 52 (1) and (2) of the Act have been framed and published. Appointments have been made under the Act of "Fit Persons," and certain institutions have been certified under the Act as "Auxiliary Homes," "Places of Safety," and "Certified Schools." Lady Honorary Magistrates have also been appointed to assist the Presidency Magistrate who presides over the Juvenile Court. The Act has been made applicable to the Municipal borough of Lonavla in the Poona District since 2nd June 1927, but its extension to other parts of the Presidency has been deferred for the present on grounds of financial stringency and administrative difficulties.

SCHOOLS: DOUBLE SHIFT SYSTEM

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE (Bombay City, North): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether a double shift system has been introduced in any of the Government or aided schools;

(b) if so, the number of schools and the names of the districts in which it has been so introduced;

(c) if not, whether they propose to introduce such system?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) Yes.
(b) Number of schools :—

Government Secondary	Aided Primary	Secondary	Name of District

<hr/> 1	<hr/> 93	<hr/> 11

(c) Government are not in favour of continuing for a long time the double shift system which is at present in operation in only one of their schools nor are they inclined to introduce the system in any more of their schools. With regard to primary schools, it is for the Local Authorities concerned to decide the matter with the sanction of Government.

Mr. R. S. ASVALE : May I know why Government is not in favour of continuing such a system ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : It has been tried and has been proved unsuccessful.

Mr. R. S. ASVALE : Then, what about the other aided schools in which the experiment has been tried, nearly 93, and 11 secondary schools ? How is it that they have been given aid in spite of Government finding that it is unsuccessful ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : The results of their experiments are known to them. The results of experiments tried in Government schools are known to Government and they have proved unsuccessful, absolutely unsuccessful.

Mr. R. S. ASVALE : Does it mean that Government are going to stop these 11 schools ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : If Government find that the quality of teaching is very inferior, then Government may have to ask them to stop that system.

Mr. R. S. ASVALE : Up till now they have not found the teaching inferior ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : The honourable member knows, as well as I do, that the quality of teaching in our schools of the present day is going down, and, therefore, it cannot be allowed to go down further.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN on behalf of Dr. M. D. GILDER (Bombay City, North) : Will the Honourable the Minister of Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether the posts of Professor of Midwifery and Diseases of Women and Children and Superintendent of the Motlibai and Petit Hospitals, Bombay, and that of the Port Health Officer, Bombay, are reserved for European Officers of the I.M.S. to the exclusion of Indians ;

(b) whether the minimum standard of qualifications and special training to be exacted from European Officers who are appointed to hold such highly specialised and technical posts has been laid down ;

(c) what are the special qualifications and training in midwifery and diseases of women of the present incumbent of the post of Professor of Midwifery and Gynæcology at the Grant Medical College and also of those who have acted for him during his leave in the last three years ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) The two posts mentioned by the honourable member are not at present specifically reserved either for European or Indian I. M. S. Officers. The question of reserving them for European I. M. S. Officers is under consideration.

(b) The Port Health Officer is expected to possess the diploma of Public Health.

No special qualification is laid down for the Professor of Midwifery, etc., but the Officer appointed to this post has always shown some aptitude in this branch of medical practice.

(c) Lieutenant-Colonel A. F. Hamilton, I.M.S., Professor of Midwifery and Gynæcology, is an M.B., London, F.R.C.S., England. He specially studied Gynæcology. Of acting Officers Major C. M. Plumtree is M.R.C.S., England, L.R.C.P., London. He does not appear to have any special qualifications in Midwifery and Gynæcology. Major W. C. Spackman, M.B.B.S., London, M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P., has done a post graduate course in Gynæcology recently.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN : Why is the question of reserving these posts for European members of the I. M. S. under consideration ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : On account of the recommendations of the Lee Commission.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN : Are not Government aware that there are equally qualified Indian doctors and surgeons who are quite capable of holding these posts ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : They are.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT : (Inaudible.)

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : That is the recommendation. It has not yet been reserved.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Who has recommended it ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : The old arrangement is still going on.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT : With regard to answer to (b) the second sentence in it—was the aptitude shown before or after appointment ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Both before and after.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT : Had the officer any special opportunities of exhibiting his aptitude in private practice ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : There was a provision allowing private practice as well as practice while in service.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA : Where has Major W. C. S. Spackman, M.B.B.S. (London), M.R.C.P., L.R.C.P., done a post-graduate course in Gynæcology ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I want notice of the question.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : Is it not a fact that a large percentage of women and children receiving treatment at the Motlibai and Petit Hospitals is Indian and therefore Indian officers of same qualifications are better fitted for the jobs ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : That is a matter of opinion.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Are Europeans better qualified to treat Indians ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I cannot give any opinion.

(b) what was the organisation of the office before the appointment of the special Senior Superintendent ; what has been the nature of the reorganisation of the office effected by him since his appointment and what is the nature of the further reorganisation yet to be effected ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : The information has been called for.

MIRPURKHAS-JHUDO FEEDER RAILWAY

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM (Eastern Sind) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Mirpurkhas-Jhudo feeder railway is being managed by Messrs. Forbes ;

(b) when the contract period will terminate ;

(c) what is the paid-up amount of each share of the railway, and what is its market value to-day ;

(d) what are the passenger fares and freightage rates charged on the above railway and those charged on the N. W. Railway and the J. B. Railway ;

(e) whether they intend to take up the Mirpurkhas-Jhudo line under their direct management when the above contract period expires ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes, by Messrs. Forbes, Forbes, Campbell and Company.

(b) 31st December 1928.

(c) The paid-up amount of each share is Rs. 100 and the approximate market value per share is Rs. 141.

(d) The basis of passenger fares over the Jodhpur Railway is as follows :—

				Pies per mile
1st class	..	..	..	24
2nd class	..	..	..	12
Intermediate class	..	..	..	5
3rd class	..	..	..	4

The same fares are charged over the Mirpurkhas-Jhudo Railway, subject to the condition that a 50 per cent. enhancement of the actual mileage is taken for the purposes of charge levied.

The basis of passenger fares over the North Western Railway is as follows :—

1st class—				Pies per mile
First 300 miles	..	..	..	18
Any additional distance	..	..	..	12

	Pies per mile
2nd class—
First 300 miles .. ..	9

Any additional distance .. ..	4½
3rd class—
First 50 miles .. ..	3½
Additional distance above 50 miles and up to 300 miles .. ..	3
Any additional distance above 300 miles .. ..	2

The freight rates on the North-Western and Jodhpur Railways vary considerably according to the commodity booked and the distance carried. In addition there are numerous special rates quoted between one station and another. It is not practicable to give, within the limits of this answer, detailed particulars, which can be ascertained from the Goods and Coaching Tariffs of the respective Railways. On the Mirpurkhas-Jhudo Railway a 50 per cent. enhancement of actual mileage is taken for levying the charges.

(e) The question relates to a Central subject, and the Local Government are not in a position to reply to it.

ROADS : EXPENDITURE

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM (Eastern Sind): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the amount spent directly from the provincial revenues on public roads in each district in the Presidency including Sind in each of the last ten years ;

(b) the amount of grant paid from the provincial revenues to each district local board in the Presidency including Sind in each of the last ten years for being spent on public roads ;

(c) the amount spent on public roads by each district local board in the Presidency including Sind in each of the last ten years ;

(d) the number of miles of provincial roads in each district in the Presidency including Sind and the proportion it bears to the total mileage in each district ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSAIN : The statements * appended give the required information.

LAND REVENUE REMISSION. THAR AND PARKAR DISTRICT

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM (Eastern Sind): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether American cotton and other crops in the Thar Parkar District have suffered greatly owing to locusts and other causes ;

(b) whether the price of cotton seeds this year is about 50 per cent. less than the price prevailing in the last few years ;

* Kept in the Secretary's Office.

(c) whether in some places cultivators have had to mortgage their lands and other valuables to raise loans at high rates and to purchase bajri at the rate of Rs. 10 per maund and grass at the rate of Rs. 75 per 100 bundles and to pay specially high rates for clearance and seeds ;

(d) whether the landowners have applied to Government for a general remission of land revenue.

If the reply to (d) is in the affirmative—

(i) to state what action they have taken or propose to take on the application ;

(ii) to lay on the Council table a copy of the rules, if any, relating to the general remission of land revenue ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) The crops in the Thar Parkar District in the season of 1926 suffered to the extent shown hereunder owing to locusts and other causes :—

Name of crop and damage in annas

Taluka	Sindhi cotton	American cotton	Rice	Bajri	Wheat and Gardens
Mirpurkhas .. ..	1 anna	1 anna	....	....	Slight.

Chachro .. ..	....	....	....	4 annas	....
Diplo .. ..	....	....	....	6 annas	....

(b) It is a fact that cotton with seeds (phutis), to which, it is presumed, the Honourable Member's question refers, now fetches about 50 per cent. less than it did in the years of boom prices after the war. But if the question relates to cotton seeds only, then the present prices are only 25 per cent. less than those of the preceding year.

(c) In the Nara Valley Division some zamindars raised loans in this way. In the Mirpurkhas Division, where much of the land is held on restricted tenure and cotton is grown extensively, no cases of mortgaging land have been reported, but some zamindars who were unable to get loans from the Banks or Co-operative Societies are reported to have pawned their valuables in order to raise money for the purchase of grain and seed for their maintenance and for cultivation and grass for their cattle. During the year 1926, before the commencement of the kharif season, bajri and grass were selling at high rates : bajri at Rs. 6 to Rs. 8 per maund and grass at Rs. 50 to Rs. 75 per 100 bundles. The cost of these two commodities subsequently fell to about Rs. 4-4-0 per maund and about Rs. 8 per 100 bundles respectively. The rates for clearance were not heavy as there was an influx of labourers from the Desert.

(d) (i) Certain zamindars from the talukas of Jamesabad, Digri and Samaro applied for general remission of the kharif assessment, but as the condition of the crops was not such as to justify it, no general remission was allowed. Remission in individual cases was however granted, and it amounted in the three talukas as under :—

Kharif crops				Rs.	a.	p.
Digri	..	..	..	3,651	12	0
Jamesabad	..	..	..	3,613	13	0
Samaro	..	..	..	10,215	4	0

Rabi and Adhawa crops
			Rabi		Adhawa
			Rs.	a.	p.	Rs. a. p.
Digri	..	19,650	2	0		523 11 0
Jamesabad	..	7,438	11	0		82 14 0
Samaro	..	1,756	5	0		....

(ii) The Honourable Member is referred to Circular No. 32 of the Commissioner in Sind's Special Circulars.

NORTHERN JAMRAO CANAL : MODULES

Mr. Jairamdas Doulatram (Eastern Sind): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) which modules have been reduced on the Northern Jamrao Canal;

(b) which modules have been again widened after having been once reduced;

(c) the discharges of the reduced modules and the discharges of the widened modules referred to in paragraph (b) ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR: The information has been called for.

ENGINEERING SERVICES : GUARANTEED POSTS

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM (Eastern Sind): Will Government be pleased to state what were the reasons which weighed with them in suspending in 1927 the orders issued by them in October 1925 with regard to the consideration of the relative claims of students competing for guaranteed posts in the Indian Service of Engineers and Bombay Engineering Services ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR: In considering the relative claims of students competing for the guaranteed posts in the Indian Service of Engineers and the Bombay Service of Engineers it was laid down that 10 per cent. should be deducted from the final examination marks in the case of students who "drop" a year. These orders were to be brought into effect from the year 1926, but the actual Government Resolution did not issue till October 1925 when one complete term for the year was over, by which time the students (known as "droppers") who should have gone up for the 1925 examination had made up their minds and arranged their studies in such a way as to appear for the 1926 examination. The students might justifiably have expected to be told of any changes Government might wish to make in the regulations before they committed themselves to any particular course, and it was pointed out by the Selection Committee that the orders of 1925, if applied from 1926, would operate harshly in the case of several students of the 1926 batch. It was therefore decided that the modified orders could not fairly be made applicable from that year. Moreover it was also found that had the orders been applied from the year 1926, there would have been no candidate eligible for appointment to the Indian Service of Engineers. Government accordingly directed that the orders should be made applicable from the year 1927.

P. W. D. STAFF : TRANSFER TO BARRAGE SERVICE

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM (Eastern Sind) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that they have under Fundamental Rule 13 suspended the lien of permanent clerks and accountants in the Public Works Department to their substantive posts in the department on their transfer to the Barrage service ;

(b) whether it is a fact that they have not suspended such lien in the case of higher officers employed in the Barrage service ;

(c) the number of officers of the S.D.O. grade who have been acting for more than two years in place of officers transferred to the Barrage service ;

(d) whether it is a fact that the pension rights of all acting officers are being prejudicially affected by the non-suspension of lien in the case of higher officers ;

(e) the reasons why Government took the step referred to in part (a) and the reasons why they have not taken the step referred to in part (b) ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : The information is being called for.

ROADS ON JAMRAO CANAL BANKS . MOTOR TRAFFIC

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM (Eastern Sind) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that motor roads on the inspection paths of the Jamrao Canal have recently been repaired by removing earth from canal bunds which have thus been weakened ;

(b) whether it is a fact that there are motor roads on both sides of the canal ;

(c) whether it is a fact that under the orders of the engineering authorities the use of these roads is not open to private motor cars ;

(d) whether it is a fact that private motor traffic on these roads is not at all likely to be great ;

(e) what are the objections to throwing open these roads to private motor traffic ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : The information has been called for.

SERVICE ROADS, JAMRAO CANAL : WHEELED TRAFFIC

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM (Eastern Sind) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that there are what are called " Service roads " on both sides of the Jamrao Canal and its minor distributaries ;

(b) whether it is a fact that these roads have been used for the last 26 years by the public for wheeled traffic ;

(c) whether it is a fact that orders have recently been issued prohibiting the public from using them ;

(d) how much has been spent by Government on the construction or repair of such roads during the last five years ;

(e) what is the purpose of these service roads ;

(f) whether it is a fact that sometimes the only road available to zamindars to bring their farm produce from the farm to their deh village is the service road and by prohibiting the public from using these roads the engineering authorities have seriously inconvenienced the zamindars ;

(g) whether they have any objection to the issue of orders throwing open these roads for public use as has been the custom hitherto ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : The information has been called for.

DISTRICT LOCAL BOARD, SIND : APPOINTMENTS OF MUSLIMS

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM (Eastern Sind) : Will Government be pleased—

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI: What is the reason of the large increase of expenditure of Rs. 14,000 in 1926 over expenditure in 1925?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: I think much larger quantities of kadbi were purchased in the latter year.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI: The question asked for the cost of the maintenance of the fodder depôt and did not refer to the purchases of kadbi.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: The honourable member who addressed the question should have made that clear.

ROADS ACROSS THE GHATS IN KANARA

Mr. M. D. KARKI (Kanara District): Will Government be pleased to state whether they are aware that the forest trees on the sides of the roads across the ghats in Kanara cause land-slips and also damage to the roads?

(d) whether they are aware that motor services have been opened between Belgaum and Karwar over that road ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : The information has been called for.

ENTERTAINMENT TAX PROCEEDS

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI (Ahmedabad and Surat Cities) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the income from the entertainment tax from 1st February 1923 (the date of its coming into force) till the end of March 1927 ;

(b) how the said proceeds were applied by Government ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : (a) The total income from the Entertainment Tax from its inception till the close of the year 1926-27 is Rs 35,65,000.

(b) The proceeds were merged in general revenues but they have been regarded as available only for the purposes of increased expenditure on primary education.

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI : May I know from the Honourable the Finance Member whether it is shown in the budget that this amount is to be used for purposes of primary education ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I am afraid the honourable member will find that it is shown in the budget as merged in the general revenues, but it has been used for additional expenditure on primary education.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : Has the whole amount been used for the purpose, or a part of it ? What is the meaning of "they have been regarded as available only for the purposes of increased expenditure on primary education" ? Has the whole amount been actually used or a part of it only ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I should think it has all been used.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : For expenditure on primary education ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Yes.

B. B. AND C. I. RAILWAY : RESTAURANT CARS

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI (Ahmedabad and Surat Cities) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that dining and refreshment cars for Indians are attached only to a few trains on the B. B. and C. I. Railway ;

(b) whether they are aware that the present arrangements mentioned above do not give sufficient facilities to the passengers ;

(c) what steps they propose to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Government are informed that no dining cars specially provided for Indians are now running on the B. B. and C. I. Railway. They were given an extended trial on several sections of the Railway, but the experiment proved a failure as the cars were not patronized or appreciated by the public. Practically the only food asked for was light refreshments, which are already available at the principal stations on the Railway. The catering facilities at stations are generally speaking satisfactory and adequate. The continuance of such special dining cars would not therefore be justified.

(b) No. Government are informed that travelling caterers for Hindu and Mahomedan passengers now travel on certain trains and are fairly well patronized. The Railway authorities are constantly improving the catering facilities by providing additional refreshment rooms and stalls.

(c) In the circumstances no action is considered necessary.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT : EMPLOYMENT OF UNQUALIFIED CANDIDATES

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI (Ahmedabad and Surat Cities) : Will Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that Government Resolution No. 1144, Revenue Department, dated 8th November 1926, which gives the power to Collectors and Commissioners to employ in special circumstances unqualified candidates in the subordinate revenue service in the Bombay Presidency excluding Bombay City and Sind is meant for Bhangis and Dheds and not for other backward classes such as Muhammadans and others ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : No.

BLIND RELIEF ASSOCIATIONS : CONTRIBUTIONS

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that in the district of Thar Parkar the condition of the zamindars is very bad on account of the losses caused by locusts and the failure of the cotton crop owing to shortage of water and that several appeals have been made to the Government for remission ;

(b) whether it is a fact that those people who cannot afford to pay in cash on account of the bad harvest are forced to transfer their lands to the Blind Relief Association ;

(c) what steps they have taken to return such lands to the owners or what steps do they propose to take ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Some zamindars suffered losses on account of locusts, and the past year on the whole was not a good one. Applications for remission of land revenue were treated with special consideration.

(b) No.

(c) Does not arise.

GHAR CANAL CUT

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that a new cut was excavated from the Indus to the Ghar Canal, and if so, what the expenditure on it was ;

(b) whether it is a fact that the zamindars petitioned them to excavate a cut from Arab Dhoro instead of the new cut and that no attention was paid to the petitions ;

- (c) whether it is a fact that the new cut was a failure ;
- (d) whether it is a fact that now they are excavating a cut from Arab Dhoro for which the zamindars had petitioned them before ;
- (e) what the expenditure on the Arab Dhoro cut will be ;
- (f) who is responsible for this double expenditure and what steps they propose to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : (a) An expenditure of Rs. 1,07,791 was incurred on excavation of a feeder to the Ghar Dhand in 1925-26.

(b) The zamindars complained to the local officers in 1925 that the new head proposed for the Ghar was not suitable and advanced alternative proposals. Thereupon all the dhands and dhoro were inspected by the local officers along with the zamindars, who came to the conclusion that the alignment of the feeder selected by the local officers was the best.

(c) and (d) It was never contemplated or intended that the feeder of 1925-26 should be adhered to in future as the permanent source of supply to the Ghar and Nasrat Canals. The feeder was only a makeshift to meet exceptionally unfavourable circumstances, continuance of which was most improbable. At the beginning of the season, however, it silted heavily and did not carry its designed discharge and owing to the entire change in the course of the river the Arab Dhoro has been made a source of supply to the Ghar Dhand.

(e) The cost of clearance in the Arab Dhoro is estimated at Rs. 2,25,273.

(f) There has been no waste of double expenditure.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (In Urdu) : It is stated that in incurring the expenditure of Rs. 1,07,791, it was never contemplated that the feeder of 1925-26 should be adhered to in future as the permanent source of supply to the Ghar and Nasrat Canals. May I know for how many years it was intended to last?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR: The answer is given in (c) and (d), that, as the case was an urgent one, the money had to be expended. It was not intended that the work should be of a permanent character.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH: It is stated that the expenditure of Rs.1,07,791 was for a work of temporary character. How many years was it intended to last? One year, two years, or three years, or what ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : I presume the expenditure was incurred to last as long as it would. When it was found that the temporary measures taken did not come up to the expectations of the officers, further expenditure had to be incurred immediately, or within a year.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : For how many years, did this give service?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR: The answer is there in (c) and (d).

Dr. M. K. DIXIT : How long after the excavation did the channel silt up ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR: At the beginning of the season it silted up. The answer is given there.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT : Am I to understand that it silted up after a few months ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : It may be after a few months, or a little more than a few months. It says at the beginning of the season.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT : Within less than a year ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : I presume so.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : May we take it that this expenditure has been a waste ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : It cannot be said to be a waste. If the river does change its course sometimes, such expenditure does not yield the return that one expected.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : May I know whether the engineers considered the advisability of going in for the cut from Arab Dhoro instead of the cut from Ghar canal in preference to the latter ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : There is no comparison between the Arab Dhoro and the Ghar canal.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Was the silting due to any defect in the design ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : I am afraid I cannot answer that question straight off. It was a question as to where this head should be. At first it was decided as explained in the answer that the head should be at a certain place. When that head failed, the head was taken to the Arab Dhoro.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : Did not Government examine it before it was undertaken ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : They did.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : By whom was it sanctioned ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : By Government.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : Who is responsible for this loss ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : The whole of the circumstances are explained in the answer.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Has any enquiry been made to ascertain who is responsible for it ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Government have seen all the papers on the question.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : What is the name of the officer who is primarily responsible for it ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : There is no officer primarily responsible.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : Is there anybody secondarily responsible ?

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : Do Government spend money on makeshift arrangements ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : If the honourable member was acquainted with Sind, he would realise that these makeshift arrangements sometimes cost a lot of money, and that they are in the interest of Government and the zamindar.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : Do they go in for these makeshift arrangements knowing them to be so, because they say they never intended it to be permanent ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Yes.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : In answer to (e) it is stated that the cost of clearance in the Arab Dhoro is estimated at Rs. 2,25,273. Is that going to be a permanent arrangement ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : I am afraid I cannot answer that question.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : Is there no possibility of its being a failure ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : My latest information is that the Arab Dhoro was flowing on the 8th of October.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH : Can they say for how many years it will be effective ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : The engineers were of opinion that since the first head failed, the next best place was the Arab Dhoro.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : Is this a makeshift or a permanent arrangement ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : It depends upon the river.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : What do Government consider, as they have spent the money ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : If the honourable member was acquainted with the river Indus, he would know that these things do happen.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : What do Government consider ? Do they consider it permanent, or a makeshift ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : I would ask the honourable member to ascertain that from the river Indus.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : I protest strongly against such replies. My question was a simple one, whether Government consider it to be permanent or only a makeshift.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I think that there is some sort of misunderstanding on both sides. I understand that honourable members are very anxious to pin the Honourable the General Member down to some particular statement while the Honourable the General Member has been trying to make the honourable members understand that in the case of these canals where the Indus is concerned nobody can foretell the future.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : In the first place they say that it was not contemplated to be permanent. I want to know whether this expenditure of two lakhs was incurred as a permanent or makeshift arrangement ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : The honourable member seems to protest about something which does not exist. I referred him to the river Indus. I can only say again that it will depend upon the river.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : How Government have considered it ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : If Government could control the Indus they will be in a position to say whether it is permanent or makeshift.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : How do Government consider it ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : I am unable to explain a matter which the honourable member cannot understand.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. The honourable member Mr. Swaminarayan. Will he resume his seat ? When I call to order, honourable members must resume their seats. Honourable members cannot but hear when I call to order.

In the reply in one place it is specifically explained that the expenditure Rs. 1,07,700 odd was not intended to be of a permanent nature. The honourable member wants to know, whether the next item of two lakhs was intended also to be of that nature or permanent.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : I have answered the honourable member's question that it will depend upon the river Indus whether it is a permanent measure or a makeshift measure.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Is the establishment in Sind makeshift also ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : No.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : What is now the intention of Government—whether they have considered it permanent or makeshift ?

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : On what grounds Government sanctioned the expenditure ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Government realised that the expenditure was necessary and that it will depend on the river whether this head will be a failure or a success.

The THAKOR of KERWADA : May I know whether the engineer in charge was not competent enough to submit to Government a definite scheme rather than spending money in this haphazard way ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : The engineers stated that Arab Dhoro head would be successful.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : Do Government desire the honourable member Mr. Hooseinbhoys to go to Indus personally ?

GHAR CANAL, SIND : NEW CUT IN INDUS

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that a new cut was made in the Indus in 1926 to supply more water to the Ghar Canal at the cost of about Rs. 60,000 ;

(b) whether it is a fact that that new cut was objected to by the zamindars and public of the vicinity as it was on a lower level than the Ghar Canal ;

(c) whether it is a fact that the zamindars and public suggested having a cut in the Indus at Arab Dhoro which is on a higher level ;

(d) whether it is a fact that the objected cut in the Indus has proved a failure ;

(e) whether it is a fact that another new cut was made at Arab Dhoro in 1927 at the cost of about Rs. 60,000 ;

(f) what were the special reasons for rejecting the advice of the zamindars and the public to make a new cut at Arab Dhoro at the first time ;

(g) who was the officer responsible for this double expense for this double cut ;

(h) what action Government has taken or proposes to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANJIR : The Honourable Member is referred to the reply given to his question above about Ghar Canal Cut.

LLOYD BARRAGE : LAND ASSESSMENT AND WATER SUPPLY

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City) : Will Government be pleased to state whether the Lloyd Barrage and Canals Construction Department will invite the opinion of the zamindars on the question of land assessment and water supply distribution or proceed independently on the lines indicated in Mr. A. A. Musto's book ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : It may be pointed out that the rates of assessment detailed in Mr. Musto's pamphlet "The future of Sind" are merely estimates and not sanctioned rates. Each taluka which is to be commanded by the Barrage will be resettled, and in accordance with the usual practice the Settlement Officer will consult the zamindars in the course of his enquiries. When his proposals are complete, they will be published in the prescribed form and objections invited.

Government can give no undertaking to consult the zamindars in the matter of the distribution of the water.

Mr. Haji Mir Mahomed BALOCH : Why the zamindars will not be consulted with regard to the distribution of water ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I refer the honourable member to the Honourable the General Member.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANJIR : I presume the honourable member is referring to duties when he talks about distribution of water. There can be nothing else. In a new canal, before it is constructed the distribution of water depends upon the duties that have been settled. The duties settled in the case of the Barrage are all in the project and we trust that those duties will stand.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : When the canal is going how the quantity will be distributed ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : That will depend upon the duties. The duties have been fixed in the project, that is, the number of acres that will be cultivated per cus. c. That has been fixed and is in the project report.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : The question is : whether Government will invite the opinion of the zamindars on the question of assessment and water supply distribution. The answer is : Government can give no undertaking to consult the zamindars in the matter of the distribution of water. How do we know what Government intend by that ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : I have already informed the honourable member that the duties have been settled in the project and that Government have no intention of consulting the zamindars.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : There is nothing about the duties ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : My honourable friend cannot understand the meaning of duties. This has been settled by the Project report.

BARRAGE LANDS : CROP AREAS

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City) : Will Government be pleased to state ---

(a) the annual intensity of cultivation during the last three years of each crop on the (Upper Nurwah) South Eastern Perennial Canal ;

(b) how much area has been provided for each crop by the Barrage Department on the South Eastern Perennial Canal ;

(c) what is the size of the sluices in existence on all the big canals and small karias ex-river bund from Sukkur to Sehwan and what will be the size of sluices which the Barrage Department will provide in the new canals, i.e. South Eastern Perennial Canal and Rice Canal ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) A statement * giving the required information is placed on the Council table.

(b) and (c) The Honourable Member is referred to the Honourable the General Member for information regarding these clauses of his question.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : I ask the Honourable the General Member to reply ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : I must have notice.

N. J. HIGH SCHOOL : ADMISSION FOR MUSLIM STUDENTS

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that the steps taken by them to confine the N. J. High School to one class of each standard of Gujarati and Sindhi has resulted in a large number of Mussalman students not getting admission in any A.-V. School in Karachi, owing to congestion in the Sind Madressah and Karachi Academy;

(b) whether they are aware that the Sind Madressah-Tul-Islam has no sufficient accommodation to admit the increasingly large number of Muslim students who are passing from the vernacular fourth standard;

(c) whether they intend to increase the percentage of admission for Muslim students in N. J. High School, and to see that Muslim students are admitted in Sindhi and Gujarati classes to the proportion of their population and given their due share of free studentships?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: (a) No Muslim boys were refused admission to the Sind Madressah. The Karachi Academy refused admission to 10 Muslim boys only. Probably these boys have joined elsewhere as no complaint has reached the Educational Inspector in Sind so far.

(b) No Muslim boy has so far been refused admission to the Sind Madressah, Karachi. Efforts are being made to provide more accommodation by transferring the vernacular branches—Sindhi and Urdu—to the Karachi Municipality.

(c) The number of Muslim students seeking admission to the N. J. High School is far below the number already fixed for them. The question of raising the percentage of admission for Muslim students does not therefore arise.

BHAGAR (BAGHAR ?) CANAL CONTRACTORS

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the name of the first contractor of the Bhagar (Baghar ?) Canal;

(b) the name of the second contractor after the death of the first contractor;

(c) whether fresh tenders were invited when the contract was given to the second contractor;

(d) if the reply to (c) is in the negative, the reasons for the same;

(e) whether it is a fact that the second contractor is an approved contractor, and, if so, his previous experience in the line;

(f) in how many stages the payments were made with their respective dates?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR: The information has been called for.

TELANG HIGH SCHOOL LIBRARY, GODHRA : NEWSPAPERS

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM (Panch Mahals District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have prohibited the Bombay Chronicle from the Telang High School Boys' Library at Godhra in Panch Mahals;

(b) if the Bombay Chronicle is not prohibited, what newspapers they have prohibited from the school library at Godhra ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) and (b) It has been left to the discretion of the heads of schools and colleges to decide what papers should be admitted to their libraries. The Bombay Chronicle has not been subscribed for by the Boys' Library of the Telang High School, Godhra, because the question of taking this paper has never arisen.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : Does it mean that the heads of schools and colleges are independent ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Yes.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : Do not Government interfere with their selection ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : They generally do not.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : Have they not ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I will require notice of that question ; I will require time to go into the past.

SPECIAL MINIMUM BALANCE FOR DISTRICT LOCAL BOARDS

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the authority under which they have prescribed a special minimum balance for district local boards by their executive orders in spite of the clear provision made in section 89 (1) (a) of the Local Boards Act, 1923 ;

(b) whether they are aware that under the said executive orders the District Local Board, Surat, has been obliged to maintain a minimum balance of Rs. 60,000 while under the Act it will have to maintain Rs. 6,600 only ;

(c) if the reply to (b) is in the affirmative, whether in view of the straitened financial condition of the District Local Board, Surat, they intend to withdraw the said orders ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN (a) The instructions regarding the minimum balances have been issued not under any provisions of the Bombay Local Boards Act but have been issued essentially in connection with the working of treasuries.

(b) Yes.

(c) No. Section 89 (1) (a) of the Bombay Local Boards Act, 1923, lays down that the minimum balance of a district local board shall not be less than Rs. 5,000. This is an absolute limit below which no district local board can allow its liquid funds to dwindle down. This section is the same as section 57 (a) of the old Local Boards Act, I of 1884. It should be borne in mind that with a sum of Rs. 5,000 just at the beginning of a year it will not be possible for any board to meet its liabilities fully as their income is not recovered just at the beginning of a year. If the boards have not sufficient funds at their credit, they have to overdraw from Government Treasury at which their funds are ordinarily kept, otherwise they cannot make their payments when they fall due. In the latter case they have to postpone such payments, which is inconvenient. As regards the former such overdrawals are not allowed unless the boards obtain a loan or a contribution from Government to cover it. In order to avoid these contingencies it is necessary that the local boards should have sufficient funds at their credit. Government have therefore sanctioned different working balances for different local boards by executive orders since 1896. The minimum balances have thus been prescribed with a view to minimise the necessity of overdrawals by boards from Government Treasuries, and are intended to safeguard the interests of the boards. At present, if the District Local Board's receipts plus the minimum balance is not sufficient at any time to cover expenditure, the board is allowed to overdraw, the amount of the overdrawal being covered by an advance from the Provincial Loan and Advance Account free of interest. This is a concession and Government are entitled to demand by executive orders that district local boards should keep prescribed minimum balances. The present minimum balances have been fixed at their existing figures as experience had proved that they were necessary in order to carry on the administration.

LOCAL BOARDS : MINIMUM WORKING BALANCE

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have received any reply from their legal adviser in connection with the minimum working balance of the district and taluka local boards ;

(b) if the reply to (a) is in the affirmative, what it is ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN (a) Yes.

(b) Government are not prepared to lay it on the Council Table.

HOUSE-RENT ALLOWANCE

Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR on behalf of Mr. N. E. NAVLE (Ahmednagar District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether excise inspectors are given rent-free quarters or house-rent where there are no quarters ;

(b) if so, why similar provision is not made for Mamlatdars ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) At present Excise Inspectors stationed at places where Government quarters are available are permitted to occupy them rent-free. The question of charging them rent is under consideration. At certain places where no Government quarters are available but where it has been recognised that it is difficult to secure suitable accommodation at reasonable rent, a suitable house-rent allowance is granted. At the remaining places the officers have to find accommodation for themselves at their own expense.

(b) The honourable member is referred to the honourable the Revenue Member for a reply to this part of the question.

SIND CANALS : SILT CLEARANCE

CHAVDI AT RAVER

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR (East Khandesh District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Collector, East Khandesh, had issued orders to collect along with land revenue anna 1 pies 6 more per rupee of revenue assessment, at Raver for the construction of a chavdi there;

(b) if so, whether he was authorised to issue such orders;

(c) whether it is a fact that the public of Raver had submitted a petition to the Collector, East Khandesh, requesting him not to collect any contribution to the chavdi from the public if that building is to be a Government building;

(d) if so, what action was taken with regard to this petition;

(e) whether they will lay before the Council the petition of the public of Raver referred to above and the orders of the Collector relating to this matter;

(f) whether it is a fact that subscriptions for this chavdi at Raver have been collected from the public against their wish;

(g) if so, whether Government propose to refund the amounts recovered from those persons who were not willing to pay;

(h) what amount by way of contribution to this chavdi fund was collected at Raver before the 27th of January 1927, when the Collector of East Khandesh went to that place;

(i) whether it is a fact that after the 27th of January 1927 contributions to the chavdi fund were collected from persons who were unwilling to pay under the influence of the Collector;

(j) the amount of contributions collected after 27th January 1927 and the names of persons from whom these contributions were collected;

(k) whether their attention has been called to the matter appearing in the "Kesari" newspaper of 22nd February 1927 under the heading (शेतसाज्याचें शेंपूट) "tail of land revenue" about the action of the Collector of East Khandesh with regard to these contributions towards the chavdi fund, Raver;

(l) if so, what action they have taken in the matter?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) The upper portion of the chavdi at Raver was burnt down in 1921 during the non-co-operation movement and the remaining portion required repairs. The people of Raver had expressed their willingness to contribute towards the reconstruction of the chavdi building, but stated that they were unable to collect the contributions themselves and requested that this should be done by the Mamlatdar at the time of the collection of land revenue. It was proposed to collect  $1\frac{1}{2}$  annas per rupee from each khatedar. This was in April 1925. But no collection was made during 1925-26 owing to the partial failure of crops. As the people had asked for the employment of official agency, the Collector applied for the sanction of Government; and this was accorded. The Collector thereupon asked the Prant Officer to collect subscriptions at the above rate through official agency as requested by the people.

(b) The Collector had obtained Government sanction as stated in (a) above.

(c) A petition was received by the Collector on 15th December 1926 signed by about 100 persons requesting him not to collect subscriptions for the chavdi if it was to be a Government building.

(d) The petition was forwarded to the Prant Officer for report. On inquiries being made it was found that about 20 of the signatories had no land at Raver and 12 had signed the petition without knowing to what subject it referred. All but twelve of the signatories seemed willing to pay, and as a matter of fact did pay their contributions later. The Collector camped at Raver from 27th January 1927 to 3rd February 1927. He met the people at the Municipal Office on 31st January 1927 and explained to them the necessity of a chavdi at a place like Raver and told them that though the chavdi was a Government building, they could use it for their social functions. He found that very few were unwilling to pay the contribution and asked the Mamlatdar to see that payment was strictly voluntary. He came to the conclusion that the petition was merely the outcome of a mischievous agitation.

(e) The petition is placed on the Council table*. While the Collector's camp was at Raver he had personally asked the Mamlatdar to accept only voluntary contributions. In the official correspondence also he approved the Prant Officer's recommendation that only voluntary contributions were to be accepted.

(f) No. On the other hand orders were issued to accept only voluntary contributions.

(g) This question does not arise.

(h) Rs. 504-1-0 were collected before 27th January 1927.

(i) No.

(j) The amount collected after 27th January 1927 was Rs. 821-6-10. A list of the persons who paid this amount is placed on the Council table *

(k) Yes.

(l) No action has been taken.

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR : In reply to (a) it is stated that the people of Raver expressed their willingness. Was it done in writing ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I do not know.

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR : With regard to (k), Government say that their attention has been drawn to the article. Is Government also aware that for non-payment to this fund Mr. Ganbhir Ghanashyam Shet, a municipal councillor, was insulted by the Collector ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I am not aware.

GOVERNMENT SERVANTS : HOUSE RENT ALLOWANCE

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR (East Khandesh District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the average house rent which a Government servant in the subordinate service drawing less than Rs. 100 per mensem is required to pay at Poona and Thana ;

(b) whether a house rent allowance or a compensatory allowance is paid to such subordinate Government servants at Poona and Thana ;

(c) the average house rent which such a subordinate Government servant is required to pay at Jalgaon, Dhulia, Bhusaval, Amalner and Chalisgaon ;

(d) whether any representations for a house rent or compensatory allowance have been received by Government from subordinate Government servants at Dhulia, Jalgaon, Bhusaval, Amalner and Chalisgaon ;

(e) if so, whether they propose to take any action with regard to such representations ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : (a) Government have no information.

(b) Yes.

(c) Information is not available for all these places.

(d) and (e) The question of allowances to non-gazetted ministerial and non-ministerial officers at various places in the Presidency was, recently considered by Government and they came to the conclusion that relief was necessary in some cases in Poona and Thana only.

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR : With regard to (d) and (e), may I know when the question was considered ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I cannot give the exact date, but I think it was very recently ; probably last year within six months.

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR : With regard to (c) will Government call for information from those places ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : It is not available.

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR : I asked, will Government call for it ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I am afraid it will be difficult now to re-open this question ; it was only recently considered and this is the decision which Government have arrived at, the conclusion stated.

GOVERNMENT SERVANTS : HOUSE RENTS

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR (East Khandesh District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the maximum monthly house rent in the case of the District and other Government officers occupying Government residential quarters is fixed at 10 per cent. of their monthly salaries under the provisions of the Public Works Department Code ;

(b) whether they are aware that at many places in the Presidency subordinate Government servants not provided with Government quarters have to spend more than 10 per cent. of their salaries on house rent ;

(c) if not, whether they propose to make any inquiries in this matter at least in important commercial and industrial towns where no house rent allowance is paid ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : (a) It is so fixed under the Fundamental Rules.

(b) and (c) The question of house rent allowances to non-gazetted Government officers throughout the Presidency was recently considered by Government in great detail and Government sanctioned allowances where they considered them necessary.

CHALISGAON RAILWAY CROSSING

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR (East Khandesh District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that the G. I. P. Railway main and branch lines cross the Chalisgaon Dhulia Road near the Chalisgaon town, that there is no bridge at the crossing, that the crossing is within the shunting limits of the Chalisgaon Station, that the goods office at the Chalisgaon Station is situated on the other side of the crossing, and that the gates at the crossing have to be closed for most of the time of the day for the Railway trains to pass or the shunting operations to take place;

(b) whether they propose to take any action in the matter?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIFU : (a) Government are aware that the Chalisgaon Dhulia road crosses the G. I. P. Railway at Chalisgaon within shunting limits, that there is no overbridge, and that the goods office and the town are situated on opposite sides of the crossing. The census taken during the period 1st to 7th September 1927 inclusive shows, however, that the average number of times the level crossing was closed to public traffic daily was 36 and the average time of each closure was  $14\frac{3}{4}$  minutes. The gates were therefore closed for about  $8\frac{3}{4}$  hours in each 24 hours, on the average.

(b) The Railway Authorities expect to commence the remodelling of Chalisgaon Station in 1928 and state that this scheme includes the provision of a goods shed on the same side of the line as the town.

DREDGERS : OUTPUT

Mr. G. I. PATEL (Ahmedabad Millowners' Association) : Will Government be pleased to place on the table a list containing the guaranteed output and the actual average output of every dredger which worked in each of the years 1925, 1926, 1927 in this Presidency with reasons for reduction in the average if any?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHANGIR : There are three dredgers in charge of the Public Works Department, viz., the "Sandpiper," "Rohri" and "Ruk." The "Sandpiper" is of the Dipper Dredger type. Its guaranteed output is one dipper per minute with  $2\frac{1}{2}$  cubic yards capacity bucket which is equivalent to about 30,370 cubic feet per day. The average actual output during the past three years has been as under :—

			Cubic feet per day
(a)	During the year 1924-1925	..	24,678
(b)	" " 1925-1926	..	22,914
(c)	" " 1926-1927	..	25,083

The average output as shown against (a), (b) and (c) is considered good in consideration of the fact that the work was done under water and completely filled buckets cannot be ensured. The dredgers "Rohri" and "Ruk" were taken over on 21st January 1926 and 25th March 1926 respectively. The guaranteed output of each was specified to be 8,000 cubic feet of solids per hour. Both the dredgers were subjected to strict trials and gave the same output as that specified per hour. The average output of each dredger during the two years 1926 and 1927 was between 2 to 3 thousand cubic feet per hour. The low rate of output is due to thick layers of brush wood and large stumps of trees, etc., met with in the mud.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : Is the output satisfactory, when it is admitted that against a specification of 8,000 cubic feet, the actual output is only 2,000 to 3,000 cubic feet ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : The output is not certainly satisfactory, but there are circumstances explained in the answer which account for the lesser output.

Mr. G. I. PATEL : But the actual output is only one-third of the specification.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : The honourable member is referred to the last two lines of the reply.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : It has been stated that trials were taken. Where were the trials taken ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : In two places ; first on the Clyde, and then at Sukkur.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : Who took them ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : At Sukkur they were taken by the Chief Engineer and the Superintending Engineer ; and on the Clyde by the Consulting Engineer on behalf of the Secretary of State.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : Have the Government of India a copy of the contract ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Yes.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : Will they be pleased to place it on the table ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : If the honourable member gives me notice, I will consider it.

INCOME-TAX REFUNDS, AHMEDABAD

Mr. G. I. PATEL (Ahmedabad Millowners' Association) : Will Government be pleased to state whether the income-tax authorities at Ahmedabad asked the Committee of the Ahmedabad Mills' Tilak Swaraj Fund Charities to submit to them a list of text-books and such other information pertaining to the educational policy of the Labour schools conducted in Ahmedabad by the Labour Union on a question of refunding the tax already deducted from the interest of Government loans held by them ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Income Tax is a Central subject and questions relating to it should be put in the Central Legislature.

RETRENCHMENT OFFICER'S REPORT

Mr. J. R. PATEL (Kaira District) : Will Government be pleased to place on the Council table the report of the Retrenchment Officer together with a statement showing the action which Government have taken or intend taking on the recommendations contained in the report ?

(c) how many applications for sanction to prosecute have been made against him since 1923 in the civil court at Yeola or the civil courts at Nasik ;

(d) what has been the result in each of the complaints and applications against him ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Already answered.

(b) During the last twelve months three criminal complaints have been instituted against him, one under section 342 of the Indian Penal Code, another under sections 323 and 109 of the Indian Penal Code and the third under sections 379 and 426 of the Indian Penal Code. The first case was compounded and Mr. Shindore was discharged in the second and the third.

(c) None has been filed in the Civil Court at Yeola, but one was filed in the Court of the First Class Subordinate Judge at Nasik, consideration of which has been held over pending the decision of the High Court on an appeal against the decree of the First Class Court at Nasik.

(d) A reference is requested to the replies to clauses (b) and (c).

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : Is it not a fact that in the case under section 379, Mr. Shindore tendered an apology ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I have no information on that point.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : Have Government examined the papers with a view to satisfying themselves whether Mr. Shindore deserves to be continued as an honorary magistrate ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : No examination has been made by Government.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : Have they considered the advisability of examining the papers with a view to seeing whether he deserves to be continued as an honorary magistrate ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : No.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Plans and estimates for repairs to the existing bandhara at Deopur have been prepared and the work will be carried out as soon as the water in the river goes down.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : What is the difference between a dam and a bandhara ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : If the honourable member will give me notice I will give him a scientific description.

DEV DAM, DEVAPUR

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN (Nasik District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) why there has been delay in the construction of the dam to the river Dev at Devapur, taluka Sinnar, district Nasik ;

(b) whether they are aware that the delay is causing dissatisfaction among the villagers ;

(c) whether they have considered the desirability of asking the local officers to expedite the execution of the work ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : (a) There is no proposal for constructing a dam at Deopur but certain repairs are proposed to be carried out to the existing bandhara to keep it in good order. Such repairs can only be done when there is no water in the river and the channel is not required by the irrigators. Plans and estimates for the repairs have been prepared and the work will be taken in hand shortly

(b) No.

(c) Yes.

GOA LOTTERY TICKETS : SALES IN BOMBAY CITY

Mr. HOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Bombay City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) what new taxes have been passed by the Council since the Montagu-Chelmsford Reforms ;

(b) the amount realised under each tax each year since its passing and the budget estimate for the current year ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : (a) (1) Increased duties under the Court Fees Act,

(2) Increased duties under the Indian Stamp Act,

(3) Levy of increased duty in respect of Transfers of Property in the Town and Island of Bombay,

(4) The Entertainment Duty,

(5) The Totalizator Betting Tax.

(b) It is not possible to give the exact additional revenue realised from each of the measures (1), (2) and (3) above, because the rates were not raised by any uniform percentage except in the case of (3), and there are many other factors affecting the revenue in all cases including (3). In respect of measures (4) and (5) above, the revenue derived in past years and the estimates for the current year are as follows :—

(Figures of receipts in thousands of Rupees)

Tax	1922-23	1923-24	1924-25	1925-26	1926-27	1927-28
						(Estimates)

Totalizator Betting Tax				4,13	12,15	15 00

Mr. HOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA : What is the rough estimate of realization ? Was it based on any rough estimate ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Yes, they were based on some kind of rough estimate. It was mentioned by the Finance Member in his budget speech.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN : Will Government consider the advisability of postponing this entertainment duty until the time the Government are able to pay fully for primary education ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I do not think there is any relation between the suit which the municipality has filed and the entertainments duty.

Mr. HOSEINBHAY ABDULLABHAY LALLJEE : Is it a fact that Government are finding a new source of taxation ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Government are always on the look-out for new sources of taxation.

Mr. HOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA : Are not these estimates based on some calculations ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I suppose so. I do not suppose they were imaginary.

Mr. HOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA : Could not calculations be made in the same way to find out the actuals ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I have explained what the difficulties are.

Mr. HOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA : What were the difficulties ? I could not understand.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I will ask the honourable member to read the reply to (b). There are many difficulties, as the honourable member himself is aware, such as the state of trade and commerce which leads to more or less sales of property.

Mr. HOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA : I only want to know the actual amount realised.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : We do not know the increased amount realised. I wish we did. It is very difficult to work it out because as the honourable member has already been informed the duties were not raised by any uniform percentage and for other reasons.

Mr. HOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA : I only want the amount realised.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I am afraid I have already answered this question.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Information has been called for.

HIGH SCHOOLS : SANCTION FOR OPENING

Mr. RAJMAL LAKHICHAND (East Khandesh District) : Will Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that they have refused permission to convert an aided or unaided school into a High School on the only ground that the number of boys in a particular class was small though the school was willing to supply it (The High School) with efficient staff and material according to the Government standard ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : If the Honourable Member specifies the school referred to in the question, enquiries will be made.

(c) The Vala Darbar in the villages of Kamlej and Undvi in the Ghogo Mahal.

The THAKOR OF KERWADA : Is it not a fact that the superstructure of the building belonged to the talukdars ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : In the case of wanta land it is a fact.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Did not this refer to the ejection of the cultivators from their land ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : It may be due to both.

BHAGOD VILLAGE TANK

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District) : Will Government be pleased to give the following information about the tank in the village of Bhagod in the taluka of Bulsar in the Surat district :—

PATELS . TRAVELLING ALLOWANCE

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

- (a) whether the Patels of villages are given travelling allowance when they are called away from their village on Government work ,
- (b) if they are given such allowance, what is the scale of this allowance ;
- (c) if they are not given such an allowance what are the special reasons for not giving them travelling allowance ;
- (d) in that case have Government considered the desirability of giving them such an allowance ;
- (e) if so, what decision have they arrived at ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) No.

(b) The question does not arise.

(c) Patels are not full-time servants of Government. It has always been held to be part of their duties to visit taluka headquarters for Government work when called upon to do so.

(d) The matter has been considered.

(e) As stated in reply to clause (c) above.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : As regards (d), When was the matter last considered ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : About two or three years ago.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Was any G. R. passed on the point ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I think so.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Is it a fact that the patels get Rs. 2 to Rs. 3 per month.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : That may be the fact in certain cases.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Is it not a fact that it would cost them more.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I presume they have their regular own arrangements for travelling to the taluka headquarters.

SCHOOLS : ISOLATION OF DEPRESSED CLASSES

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : Will Government be pleased to state:

(a) whether it is a fact that in very many villages in the Mofussil Schools in Gujarat children of the Depressed Classes are made to sit in the verandah outside the school rooms by teachers of primary schools and are thus exposed to the heat, cold and rains in different seasons with the result that these children are neglected and taught nothing and their health is impaired and the parents of such children get tired of such cruel and inhumane treatment towards their children and remove them from the schools thus depriving them of the benefit of education which Government have brought to their very doors.

(b) whether they are aware that in some cases where these children are allowed to sit inside the class rooms particular care is taken by the teachers in charge of such classes not to allow the children of the depressed classes to mix freely with the children of the other Hindu caste children even though these children may be clean and decent in their habits and dress and appearance :

(c) if so, what action they propose to take so as to put a stop at once to such cruel and differential treatment from the hands of the teachers of the Primary Schools in the mofussil ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) and (b) In six District Local Board Schools at Gothan, Madhar, Morthan, Motavarachha, Sania Hemad and Kharvasa in the Surat District, the depressed class pupils are not allowed to mix freely with the children of other Hindu castes but are made to sit in the verandah of the schools. The teachers in the schools are not, however, responsible for this arrangement. The depressed class people themselves prefer their children to sit on the verandah rather than displease the high caste Hindus.

(c) The educational officers of Government have been trying their utmost to persuade the people of the advanced classes to allow the depressed class pupils in the schools to be seated along with those of other castes. It is hoped that the opposition of the advanced classes will gradually disappear.

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : With regard to (b) the Honourable Minister says "the depressed class pupils are not allowed to mix freely with the children of other Hindu castes but are made to sit in the verandah of the schools?" How does the Honourable Minister account for this? Has he made any special enquiries?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : The answer has been given. The reason is that the depressed classes do not want to seek the displeasure of the high classes.

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : Is it a fact that the depressed class people are threatened by the advanced class people that if they insist upon the children sitting inside the school room, they themselves would be isolated.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I have no reports of that character.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT : (Inaudible).

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : They do no work; they are made to sit in the verandah with a high plinth and there is a roof to it.

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : Is the Honourable Minister aware that some of these children are exposed to rain and cold and heat without shelter on the verandahs?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : The Minister is not aware.

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : May I bring to his notice that the depressed class people have approached me and told me that it is a great grievance and humiliation for them that their children are not allowed to sit inside the class rooms?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : There can be no speech on that.

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : I am only bringing it to his notice, Sir.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : That has been brought to his notice.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Is the Honourable Minister aware whether it is true that there is intimidation from the advanced classes to the depressed classes?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : If any question or instance is brought to my notice, I will certainly enquire.

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : It is replied by the Honourable Minister that the teachers are not responsible for forcing the students to sit outside in the verandah, while I am informed by the local people that it is the teachers.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Where is the question?

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : I want to bring it to the notice of the Minister. Is it not a fact, Sir, that the teachers themselves force the boys to sit outside in the verandah?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The Honourable Minister has replied that to his knowledge it is not a fact, while the honourable member informs the Minister that it is so.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : Does the Honourable Minister consider that as a satisfactory arrangement ? As a responsible Minister, does he approve of that ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I do not consider that arrangement as satisfactory, and we are trying our best to persuade people not to object. . . . .

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : What class of people are you persuading ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : The advanced class people.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : Do they object ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : The parents do object, and, therefore, the parents of the depressed class pupils, in order not to displease the higher class Hindus, ask their children to sit on the verandah.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : I want to know, Sir, whether all the laws of the State are administered by the method of persuasion or are they enforced ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : As in the case of railways, this difficulty will wear out by time, and I hope that it will.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : Has the Honourable Minister ever persuaded himself ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. The next question of the honourable member Dr. Solanki and the rest of the questions we shall take on Monday.

PRIVATE BILLS.

(Consideration of Bill No. XXV of 1927, a bill further to amend the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888, resumed).

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE (Bombay City, North) : Sir, as regards the speech made against this bill by the honourable member Mr. Petit, the argument he has brought forward in opposition is only this that the people should be of the right and proper quality. Mr. President, I do not see any sense in this statement and he has not proved what should be the right and proper quality in a voter. The voter as such, when he pays the rent is entitled to a vote and he does not require any other quality than this for the purpose of franchise, he has got every right to vote, and I do not see any sense in the argument that has been brought forward in opposing this bill by the honourable member Mr. Petit.

Now, Sir, I come to the arguments of my honourable friend Mr. Marzban. He has stated that at the time of elections the voters have been given a sort of bribe as drink, and I can openly state in this House, Sir, that if ever such a bribe has been given, it must have been given by people of the type of the honourable member Mr. Marzban and nobody else.....

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN : I protest against this, Sir, and would ask whether the honourable member is justified in saying that I gave a bribe in my election.

Mr. R. S. ASVALE : I said members like Mr. Marzban.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN : Will you kindly ask the honourable member to repeat what he said, Sir ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : He says he said "members like Mr. Marzban," which I hold includes Mr. Marzban, and if he said so, the honourable member will withdraw it.

Mr. R. S. ASVALE : I said men of his class who possess means to do so.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The honourable member has to withdraw those words.

Mr. R. S. ASVALE : All right, Sir. I bow to your ruling. I withdraw. As regards another statement that he made, instead of decreasing the franchise, he wants to increase it again by giving the vote to a tenant who pays Rs. 20. Sir, look at the mentality of the honourable member. This argument clearly shows what sort of mentality he has.

Now, Sir, I shall turn to my honourable friend Sir Vasantao, who stated that he doubts the calibre of my honourable friend Mr. Bole and he has doubted the correctness of his statement about the number of voters in the roll. But I doubt the calibre of the honourable member Sir Vasantao. I can ask the honourable member Sir Vasantao whether he had ever stood or even tried to stand for any election, either municipal or Council. So, Sir, he can't be in a position to know the calibre of an elector or a candidate. He had never used his sense in doing that, and I must openly state here, Sir, that these representatives of the poor people as far as possible try never to go into such councils by the back door as my honourable friend Sir Vasantao does. They try their best to seek a seat through election and if at all they fail then and there only in order to serve their people they go through nomination. When his nomination is quite safe, and he has always been given the right of coming to this House by the back door, he thinks that others also should seek the same way and they should not try to come by election. This is the calibre of the honourable member Sir Vasantao. I can say this much, Sir, that if the other communities and other people can ensure their seats by reservation of seats or by nomination, they will never seek any special privileges.

My honourable friend referred to the illiteracy of the people who want this right. I ask, who is responsible for it ? They are the people like my honourable friends Sir Vasantao, Mr. Petit and Mr. Marzban who oppose every move and every attempt made on behalf of the people to get education. Not only this but they oppose every resolution and every bill that we may try to bring before the corporation or in this honourable House. They are in the majority and they do not like to reduce the franchise or give any sort of help as regards representation on the corporation. In 1925 the question of compulsory primary education was brought up in the Bombay municipal corporation and it was only by a snatch vote that the resolution to have compulsory primary education introduced was passed as far as F and G wards were concerned. The reason for illiteracy among the labouring population is not thus far to seek. It is people like my honourable friend Sir Vasantrao who stand in the way of our progress wherever they go. Had it not been for the efforts of the Honourable the Minister for Local Self-Government, it would have been very difficult to reduce the original franchise to ten rupees. If, similarly, he comes to our help now also, he will earn the blessings of thousands of workers and will make a name for himself.

As regards the question asked by my honourable friend Mr. Lalji Naranji as to whether the labouring classes will make good the losses suffered by capitalist merchants and traders, does he mean to say that losses should be made good by the labouring classes who are not paid enough for their work and then demand the right of vote ?

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : Do the merchants share their profits with the labourers ?

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : You can ask the honourable member Mr. Lalji Naranji himself ; he knows it better.

The Indian Merchants' Chamber and the Chamber of Commerce have the right of vote and send their representatives. Their total membership is somewhere about 200, and for this number there is one representative, but here there are lakhs of people who have no right to send their own representative. Unless the franchise is reduced, the poor people cannot have their own representative and their grievances will not be redressed unless their real representative is there.

I would only draw the attention of my honourable friends to the Ahmedabad and Karachi municipalities. Out of 3 lakhs of people in Ahmedabad, nearly 75 per cent. are voters. What does it show ? It shows that 25 per cent. of the people are voters. Look at the city of Bombay, where not even 10 per cent. are voters, and if my bill is passed the city of Bombay can be brought to the level of Ahmedabad or Karachi as regards the percentage of voters. The reason why a big city like Bombay lags behind small cities like Ahmedabad and Karachi is that Bombay is inhabited by people of the type of my honourable friends, Sir Vasantrao Dabholkar, Mr. Jehangir Petit and Mr. P. J. Marzban. We want our own people to represent us on the municipal corporation so that we can get our grievances redressed. This is a legitimate desire on our part and we hope our popular Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government will grant our prayer. If he fails, whatever he has done will be considered as of very little use to us. So it is up to him to come to our help. I request him and the other Government officials to come to our assistance.

[Mr. R. S. Asavale]

As promised yesterday, I will not take up much time of the House. If the Honourable Minister is not satisfied about the first part of my bill about adding the word "residence," and if the first reading is passed, I will move for the bill to be referred to a select committee where a decision to keep or omit it can be considered. Even the question of the reduction of the franchise to Rs. 5 can be looked into and it will be up to the House to accept it or to reject it at the time of the second reading. So, I move that the bill be read a first time.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Sir, the honourable mover of this bill proposes to prevent multiple voting by the first part of his bill. I informed the House yesterday that there are several safeguards against that evil already provided in section 19. In reply, I did not hear anything from the honourable mover except that the list of voters is so big that it is very difficult for a candidate to detect or to prevent multiple voting by informing the Municipal Commissioner. He complained about the list of ten rupee voters as a big list. I am afraid he will have to complain much more if the franchise qualification is reduced to Rs. 5 in accordance with his bill, because in that case the list is bound to be very much bigger than at present. In order to save himself and other candidates the trouble of scrutinising the lists, he has brought this bill and he wants to take away a big slice out of the existing democracy and to deprive thousands of voters of their right of vote. To save himself and other candidates the trouble, he says "do away with a large number of votes." As regards the first part of his bill, I hope no honourable member of this House will agree with the mover of the bill because whatever democracy the corporation has will disappear.

Now, coming to his next proposal. I may at the outset inform the honourable members of this House as well as the members of the backward communities that I have every sympathy with the aspirations of those communities. It is not merely in words that I have expressed my sympathy, but I have translated my sympathy into action, by always nominating a fairly good number of those classes on the local bodies and by making provision in the various statutes for the representation of the depressed classes. I have even widened the franchise of the local boards, where the backward communities have established their ascendancy, and I am sure that with the wide franchise in the major city municipalities, they will come into their own and there also they will be in the ascendant. Now, having got into power in the mofussil local boards and municipalities, I would request them to work those bodies well before they set their eyes on the Bombay corporation. In order to facilitate their coming on the Bombay corporation, four years' back, I reduced the franchise to Rs. 10, in spite of the organised campaign of vilification against me. But I did what I considered to be my duty and did not mind the abuse that was levelled against me. However, I think that franchise has not yet been worked sufficiently. Besides, that franchise gives a sufficiently large number of votes to the backward communities.

Now, let us examine the circumstances which the honourable mover mentioned here yesterday. He said that he lost his seat in the last election because some people enticed away his voters either by drink or promises of drink. If the ten-rupee-wallahs are enticed away by drink or promises of drink, what will be the state of the five-rupee-wallahs ?

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : I never said that they were enticed away. It is the double voting that cheated me ; nothing else.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : I think I heard some honourable member mention it yesterday. But, Sir, I might bring to the notice of the honourable mover of the bill one important fact, that in the ward in which he sought election, as far as my information goes, there is a fairly large number of voters of his community.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : No.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Now, if the members of his own community will not vote for such an articulate and vocal member as the honourable mover of the bill, then I am sorry for him, and I or anybody else cannot help him. That only shows want of organisation.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : For the information of the Honourable Minister I would only say that there are only 200 voters belonging to my community out of 12,000.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : How many votes each ?

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : Nearly 1,000 ; there were 6 seats.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Then again, for the elections to the Legislative Council also there is the same franchise. I was surprised when I found that the representatives of Parel and Mahim wards and other wards were not the members of the honourable mover's community, but they were non-Hindus. That shows lack of organisation on their part. They have the vote, but they do not use that vote in an organised way. However, whatever my sympathies be for these communities, and however anxious I may be to safeguard their interests, I have to look to the feelings of the House. Yesterday I heard it stated in this House by several honourable members that they wanted the franchise to be Rs. 20 instead of Rs. 10, but that was a small section—I may say an infinitely small section. Therefore, I paid no attention to it. As regards the Rs. 10 franchise, the trend of the speeches made seemed to favour it, and the number of honourable members who supported it appeared to me to be very large. Whatever that be, they are honourable members of this House, and I have to respect their wishes.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Those who wanted to speak on the five-rupee franchise did not get time.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : I think those who support the five-rupee franchise are a very small section.

An Honourable Member : It is a very large section.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : The voices even show only three or four. So, as a responsible Minister I have to carry out the wishes of this House—I mean the wishes of the majority of this House, though, those wishes may be against my personal inclinations or desires.

[Sir Ghulam Hussain]

Secondly, the bill concerns the Bombay corporation, which is the premier local body in the presidency, and that corporation has turned down this proposal a number of times. Now, I will explain to the honourable mover of the bill the position in which I stand. The majority of this House are against the five-rupee franchise; the corporation, which is the body concerned, and which is affected by this franchise, is against it.....

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Vested interests.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Whatever that be, I shall be guided by the opinion of the majority of the body concerned. That majority being against it, I am against the first portion of the bill which is a retrograde measure which seeks to decrease the number of voters, as well as against the second part which seeks to increase the number. So we stand quits.

Question put. House divided. Ayes 21 : Noes 56. Motion lost.

*Tellers for the Noes : Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR AND Mr. J. B. PETIT.BILL No. XXVI OF 1927 (A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE CITY OF BOMBAY MUNICIPAL ACT, No. III OF 1888)(Motion for first reading)Mr. S. K. BOLE : Sir, I move that Bill* No. XXVI of 1927

First reading.

(A Bill further to amend the City of Bombay Municipal Act, No. III of 1888) be read a first time. Sir, this consists of three parts. The first part deals with reservation of seats. The second part deals with the re-distribution of seats for wards. The third part deals with the lowering of franchise. But as the question has been disposed of by the previous bill moved by the honourable member Mr. Asavale, I am not going to refer to it. Sir, the Bombay corporation as it is constituted consists of 106 members of which 76 are elected excluding one each for the Bombay Chamber of Commerce, the Indian Merchants' Chamber and the Millowners' Association and the Bombay University. Sixteen members are nominated by Government and 10 are co-opted. Though the number of backward communities and depressed classes is between 5 and 6 lakhs, in the present corporation there are only 7 elected members and 3 nominated members belonging to these classes. I am now going to give some figures in order to show the existing condition and I should not be understood as grudging that the other communities have got more than their fair share. The population of Hindus in the city of Bombay is 837,000 and they ought to get 52 elected seats. But as at present there are only 41 members or so. Mahomedans are only 184,000.....

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Why "only?"

Mr. S. K. BOLE : When compared with the number of the depressed classes, their number is very small. As I said, I do not grudge their having more seats. The provision is already there and if they want to make still further provision, I am prepared to support them.

According to population, Mahomedans should have 12 elected seats, but they have got more than 20. The population of Parsis is 52,000 and they ought to have only 3 seats. (An Honourable Member : "Only.") They have got more than 20 seats. (Interruption.) They are intelligent, and clever at manœuvring elections. These figures will show how the members of the backward and the depressed classes are labouring under great difficulties and how they have to go without equitable representation. (An Honourable Member : What is the population of the backward and the depressed classes?) From 5 to 6 lakhs. It may be argued that as their population is very large, they should be able to come in by election. But election means a great deal of manœuvring, manipulation and election tactics by the candidates, but the candidates of backward and depressed classes are novices in these things; they do not know how to get elected by fair or foul means. . . . . (An honourable member : By foul means ?) Foul means are adopted by some. Yesterday we were told that even liquor was served; and it is a fact that liquor is served by some capitalist members. The backward class candidate being a poor man cannot afford to serve liquor. . . . . (An Honourable Member : But he can drink liquor.) The backward and the depressed classes generally reside in the northern part of the city. It is there that all the mills and factories are situated, and when members of the capitalist class stand for election, it is well known how they carry the voters from their mills in large numbers in lorries to the polling station to vote for themselves or their nominees. These poor workmen, who belong to the backward and the depressed classes, are under the thumb of their masters, and it is well known that they are carried away to record their votes against their will for their masters or their nominees. (Mr. Hooseinbhoy Abdullabhoy Lalljee : But there is the ballot.) Yes; but they are afraid. They are also very honest and straightforward, and if they once give a promise to any person that they will vote for him, they will never break their promise. Now, what happens in the elections? When election takes place, there are several candidates and each and every one of the candidates is promised first vote at the time of co-option in the Bombay corporation, and so each one thinks he is sure to go through by co-option. Even a man like Mr. Baptista was defeated by this method. The last time he stood for election, he was promised that he would be given the first vote for co-option. What was the result? The promise was never kept by some of the members of the corporation, and able and qualified though he was, he was thrown out. That is the difference between the honesty of the poor people and the honesty of some of the members of the corporation. Again, in the general elections, vast amounts of money are required, as voters are required to be taken in motor cars and given refreshments and several other things. These poor men cannot afford to spend money like that. Even Mr. Mangeshrao Dabholkar, who happens to be a brother of Sir Vasant Rao Dabholkar, who is the gallant knight of the British Government, was thrown out in the general elections. If people of such big families are thus thrown out, what will be the fate of the members of the backward and the depressed classes? (Mr. Hooseinbhoy Abdullabhoy Lalljee : Who threw him out?) You ask him.

Mr. J. B. PETIT : Sir, are dialogues allowed ?

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Sir, if I am constantly interrupted. . . . .

The CHAIRMAN (Mr. B. G. Pahalajani) : The honourable member may disregard the interruptions and proceed.

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Sir, I may be asked why members of the backward and the depressed classes should be in the corporation. Sir, it is well known how the affairs of the corporation have been carried on up till now. If the honourable members of this Council will visit the southern part of the city and the northern part of the city, they will be able to see how the affairs of the city are carried on. Compare the roads of the southern part of the city and the Queen's Road.....

[Mr. S. K. Bole]

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : Sir, may I rise to a point of order ? I beg to draw your attention to the proceedings of 28th July 1924. When Mr. Nariman wanted to introduce his bill to amend the Bombay Rent Act, the Honourable the President drew his attention to Standing Order 3 of Chapter V :

"A motion shall not be moved which is inconsistent with any decision at which the Council has arrived at some stage of the business, or in the same session unless such decision has been arrived at a different stage."

It is only half an hour since the question of a five rupees franchise was thrown out by the Council. Is the honourable member in order in moving an amendment for the reduction of the franchise from Rs. 10 to Rs. 5 ?

The CHAIRMAN (Mr. B. G. Pahalajani) : The honourable member could have waited, because the Chair was going to rule that clause 6 of the bill was out of order. Clause 6 is out of order ; the rest of the bill is in order. Clause 6 deals with a matter which has just been voted on, but the rest of the bill is in order, and the honourable member may proceed.

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Sir, the honourable member Sir Vasant Rao Dabholkar has surprised me by his point of order. I was not.....

The CHAIRMAN (Mr. B. G. Pahalajani) : The honourable member may proceed now without further remarks on it.

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Sir, I was going to point out that the affairs of the city are not carried on in the interests of the poor classes, as they ought to be. There is a wide difference between the northern part and the southern part of the city in the matter of roads, drainage and lighting arrangements. There are several other grievances. In the services of the corporation these classes are not represented according to their population, and unless the members of these classes are on the corporation in adequate numbers their grievances will never be attended to. Take the case of primary education. The sufferers are the members of the backward and the depressed classes. They have applied the Compulsory Primary Education Act only to F and G wards, and the other wards have not been given any attention. And therefore representation of the backward and the depressed classes is required. In the statement of objects and reasons it is stated :

"It has been a matter of bitter experience that in a general election the representatives of the backward and depressed classes are nowhere and in their absence there is hardly any one to pay heed to the grievances of these unfortunate classes. To do away with such a sad state of affairs the bill proposes a scheme of reserved seats in the interests of these two classes. However in setting apart seats for these two classes particular care is taken to preserve as far as possible the number of seats that are at present filled up by nomination and co-option each one-half and adding to the seats that are filled up by election. The result is that notwithstanding the reservation of 18 seats for the backward and the depressed classes there remain under the new scheme 71 free seats."

[Mr. S. K. Bole]

So 18 seats are reserved for the backward and depressed classes and 71 seats will be open to the others. In support of my statement I will just state why this reservation is required. It is very difficult for members of the backward classes to get elected in the general election and therefore reservation of seats is required. The principle of reservation is accepted by this Council as well as in the municipalities and local boards. My submission therefore is that this principle should be admitted in the case of backward and depressed classes in the city of Bombay. Unless reservation is given to them there will not be an adequate number of members belonging to these classes on the corporation.

Then, Sir, it was stated that members of these classes are seeking nomination. They do so because they find it difficult to come in by election. I appeal to the honourable members of this House to give them this indulgence and they will never seek nomination in the case of the corporation. If you do not want them to come by the backdoor, some allowance ought to be made to get them elected to the corporation by the front door.

As regards the second part of the principle in the bill, namely the redistribution of wards, I may say that these wards were first set up I think thirty or forty years back and the wards also require to be redistributed. But I do not touch that point now. Just now I would be satisfied if the seats allotted to each ward are redistributed. Since the time Sir Chunilal Mehta and Sir Cowasji Jehangir were in the corporation this question has been engaging attention. They were themselves thinking of doing this. A committee was appointed. But the vested interests are there and the members of particular wards who have got more seats than they deserve do not want to part with what they have got. They will never agree to doing so. The Honourable Mr. V. J. Patel when he was president of the corporation was a hard task master. He made the committees work day and night, still he was helpless before this committee which was appointed for the redistribution of seats per ward and it was only in the year 1925 that a fresh resolution was passed by the corporation. This resolution is dated 23rd of April 1925 and it runs thus :

“That in the opinion of the corporation it is desirable for the purposes of municipal election that the number of wards should be materially increased and the seats allotted to them redistributed on a more equitable basis and therefore the corporation appoints a committee of members to be named at the meeting to investigate the question in all aspects and to make recommendations within a fortnight.”

Now, this committee was asked to report within a fortnight and it is now two years, still the report is yet to come. I therefore appeal to the honourable members of this House to come to the help of the poor classes. Unless they do so, no justice will be done. At present the seats are allotted in this way. In the A ward the population is 74,000 and at present they are allowed 12 seats. My proposal is to give them 7 seats according to the population. In the B ward the population is 1½ lakhs and they are allowed 16 seats. My proposal would give them 11 seats. In the C ward the population is 2 lakhs and they have at present 16 seats. In my scheme I have retained the same number.

[Mr. S. K. Bole]

In the D ward the population is  $1\frac{1}{2}$  lakhs ; they have got 10 seats and I have given them 12—2 more. In the E ward the population is  $2\frac{3}{4}$  lakhs ; they have got 10 seats at present. I have proposed 18 seats for this ward. In the F ward the population is  $1\frac{1}{2}$  lakhs and they have at present 6 seats. My proposal is to give them 12 seats. In the G ward the population is  $1\frac{3}{4}$  lakhs ; they have 6 seats and my proposal is to give them 13 seats.

This proposal is based on a more democratic basis. Mr. Baptista in a letter in the " Bombay Chronicle " dated the 18th July 1922 says :

" In several modern constitutions the number of seats keeps pace with the population. The basis of distinction is population and not the number of electors. "

That is the opinion of Mr. J. Baptista, about whose qualifications I need not say anything. So, the basis of population is a more democratic and a more equitable basis.

Now, I have also to point out that in this case the corporation will never come to any conclusion because of vested interests. Those who have got more than their due share will be never willing to part with that share. So, there will be no end to this matter unless the help of legislature is taken. I therefore hope that the first reading of this bill will be unanimously passed.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The question proposed is that Bill No. XXVI of 1927, a Bill further to amend the Bombay City Municipal Act, No. III of 1888, be read a first time. And it must be pointed out that it has been ruled that clause 6 of the bill is out of order, and, in consequence, the last sentence of clause 7. Therefore, these two do not form part of the bill.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : Sir, I rise to oppose the first reading of this bill. (Honourable Members : Hear, hear). I am glad to see, Sir, that honourable members from Ahmedabad and Gujarat are supporting me by saying " Hear, hear, " and I should like to draw their attention particularly to the most selfish object of the honourable mover of the proposition which is contained in clause 4 of the bill. . . . .

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Is the honourable member in order in calling an honourable member of the House selfish ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : He means the selfish object of the bill.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : My remarks will be quite clear to my honourable friend sitting opposite (Mr. Swaminarayan). Sir, I beg to draw his attention to clause 4. There the honourable mover is defining the backward classes and the depressed classes as Marathi speaking, as if there are no Gujarati Dheds speaking Gujarati and he leaves their lot to the tender mercies of the Honourable Minister, in other words, Government. Is it not selfish, will my honourable friend, Mr. Swaminarayan understand it ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Please address the Chair.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : Does the honourable member like the Gujarati Dheds, in these days of democracy, being tried by a member of the backward classes to be excluded ?

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : I think he will have no objection to add those words in the bill.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : It is not a question of objection. It is a question of motives and aims of the honourable mover of this bill. However, Sir, this is only the beginning. Now, Sir,.....

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Sir, it has been made very clear in the bill that :

“ For the same purposes Depressed Classes shall mean persons belonging to any of the following castes, namely, the Mahar, Chambhar, Mang, Dhed and Bhangi castes.”

An Honourable MEMBER : Marathi speaking ?

Mr. S. K. BOLE : No. I have used the words “ Marathi speaking ” only in the case of the backward classes, not in the case of the depressed classes.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : Now, Sir, coming to the question of the clauses of the bill, first I will take the schedule, and the honourable member has taken upon himself the task of giving a representation of 7 seats to “ A ” ward in the city of Bombay, a ward which has a population of 74,000. But my honourable friend does not understand how many people do come in the Fort during the business hours. Has he got any statistics as regards people coming into the Fort for business ? And where the corporation after mature consideration gives 12 seats to A ward there he has put down 7. But he has not forgotten about the backward and depressed classes,—I hope they are Marathi speaking. May I know what the backward classes have to do in the “ A ” ward ? The backward classes more or less stay in the north of the island, the majority of them. Even assuming that some of the backward classes are there, in the “ A ” ward, may I know why the honourable member is reducing the number to 7 when the corporation has given 12 ? If he wants, he should add. Now, I come to ward “ B.” In “ B ” there is a population of 1.14,000. There the honourable member is giving only 16 seats. At the same time he forgets that the Dana Bander people, who may not be staying at Dana Bander, do come during the business hours. When they come during the business hours there, what is the population in “ B ” ward ? Nearly 2,00,000. Now, leave that alone.

Then, coming to his own ward, “ F ” and “ G ” wards, with a population of 1,50,000, instead of six seats, there he wants double number.

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Population basis.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : If he wants population basis for “ F ” and “ G ” wards, why should he not apply that basis to “ B ” ward and give one seat more ? Sir, over and above that, out of the 89 elected seats, my honourable friend wants 18 to be reserved for depressed and backward classes. Then, Sir, coming to the question as regards the Parsis living in the north coming in the last election of the Council by two, it is said that they can afford to come by manoeuvring and that they came in the last Legislative Council from the north and the south two each. But he must understand that in the north of the island there are very few Parsis, perhaps there may be a large number in "A" ward. If the candidates are wanting in intelligence, their own people will not support them; such is the case with the backward classes. Now, I will give an instance. In the corporation there are 6 members co-opted, and there are at present nearly 10 members from backward classes out of a total of 106. But these solid 10 members cannot co-opt one member out of the 6 seats. May I know why? At the same time, I can give another instance. Out of the 6 Europeans who are in the corporation, they can co-opt one European, but, as there is no organization among the backward classes, though they are 10 in number, they cannot co-opt anybody. On the corporation they could surely have co-opted at least one. But those who can co-opt have got no confidence in their candidates. Then, coming to the question of Mr. Baptista and the dishonesty of some voters for which Mr. Bole had charged some of the members of the Corporation has failed, in his statement to this House and so it is a misleading one. Mr. Baptista was not thrown out because of any one's dishonesty, but his own community did not stand by him. There were eight or nine Christians and surely Mr. Baptista would have come in if they had helped him. So, I do not see where the question of dishonesty arises. Sir, in these days of democracy, when democracy is so much talked of, my honourable friend wants reservation. May I know for what? As a matter of fact, I know that during the last Legislative Council elections I had to help a friend of mine, who, I am glad to say is present here to-day, I mean to refer to Mr. Marzban. He wanted to stand from the south for this Council. I wanted to help him. I wanted to see whether my tenants had registered their names as voters but I found that out of a large number only 10 names had been registered on the electoral roll. Does it not show that although the franchise has been reduced to Rs. 10, people do not care to exercise their right of vote and they do not care to have their names registered. If candidates anxious for election do not take the trouble to see that the people entitled to vote get their names registered on the voting list, who is to blame? Yesterday I said that the number of voters under the 10 rupee franchise was 1,40,000. It was corrected as being two lakhs by the nominated member for Labour Mr. Munawar and now after a fresh roll is prepared for the fresh election now due 1929 probably the figure may go up to three lakhs.....

Mr. R. S. ASVALE : All bogus votes.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : The honourable member who used the word "bogus" is himself "bogus." I am sorry that he used that word and called the voters of the city of Bombay bogus voters.

It has been complained that it is always the capitalists who carry away the elections, but my honourable friends forget that the elections are by ballot.....

Mr. S. K. BOLE : May I point out that the Municipal Commissioner in his letter dated 12th April 1927 gives the figure as 1,19,679 as the number on the roll of 1927 ? It is not two lakhs as mentioned by Sir Vasantao.

Sir VASANTAO DABHOLKAR : I am glad that the figure has been given by the honourable member as 1,19,679, but that shows his ignorance of the number of voters in B ward. Does he know what is the number of voters in B ward alone ? And for what month is the Commissioner's figure applicable ?

Mr. S. K. BOLE : April 1927.

Sir VASANTAO DABHOLKAR : We are now in the month of October.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : On a point of information, Sir.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : If the honourable member Sir Vasantao yields.

Sir VASANTAO DABHOLKAR : I refuse to yield because the honourable member Mr. Asavale did not yield yesterday. I return tit for tat.

As regards this question of the voting strength of Bombay, my friend is still maintaining that there are only 1,19,000 voters. The figure of 2,00,000 was given to me by no less a member than the nominated member for Labour Mr. Syed Munawar, yesterday evening after I had made my speech. If that figure is incorrect, it only shows to what extent we can depend on the accuracy of the statements made by honourable members nominated to represent labour. If we are going to have representatives of the labouring classes who give us incorrect information, would it be right to give them reserved seats (Laughter) ? If we give them reserved seats, they will create more mischief than they are doing now. I say for all these reasons that far from attaching any importance to a bill of this character, we should not do it even the honour of a glance but we should throw it out unceremoniously.

Rao Saheb D. R. PATIL (East Khandesh District) : Sir, I beg to move the following motion :

The consideration of this bill be postponed to the next session.

The only object with which I move this motion is that if we look to the present atmosphere of the Council and the spirit in which speeches are being made, I think we must wait for some months for the temperature to cool down a bit so as to allow this matter to be considered in a dispassionate manner. I believe my honourable friend Mr. Bole will not object to this motion. By accepting this motion there will be one more advantage gained. As there will be more speeches on this question without any fruit we shall, according to my humble opinion, be saving valuable time of this House. There are several subjects before this House which deserve consideration and I think it is better also in the interests of the tax-payers that we should be saving some money if we could finish our business soon. For these reasons, I move that the matter be postponed to the next session.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Is there any opposition to it ?

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : I rise to oppose it, Sir.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : I too oppose the motion for postponement. This bill affects the interests of the labour population of Bombay. My honourable friend Mr. Bole has been calling himself all these years a representative of labour. Labour includes both Hindus and Mussalmans. This bill is likely to cause serious dissensions in the ranks of labour, and therefore I think that we should throw this bill out unceremoniously.

Question put and lost.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE (Bombay City) : Sir; I rise to oppose the bill moved by my honourable friend Mr. Bole. I am very sorry that he should have brought forward a measure of this character. In the first place, I see that he tries to restrict the operation of this bill to backward Hindu communities only. He must agree with me that Bombay's labour population contains both Hindus and Mussalmans. My honourable friend Mr. Bole has been posing as a representative of labour both in the Bombay municipal corporation and in the Legislative Council. I never knew that he represented only Hindu labour and backward classes. Here in clause 4 of his bill he clearly limits the expression "backward classes" to various backward Hindu communities. I need not say more about this now.

Leaving aside the good relations prevailing between the Muslim labour and the Hindu labour of Bombay and between these two communities, the feeling between all the communities of Bombay at present and up to now has been very good. It is for this reason that the Bombay municipal corporation has got a mixed electorate which exists nowhere else in India. To this important fact I invite special attention. Are you going to upset this without consulting the people of Bombay? Has the honourable member Mr. Bole placed before the House the views of any public meetings held or the views of the Bombay municipal corporation on this vital question? I ask him, is it prudent, is it right at present to introduce this sort of feeling and to create ill-feeling?

My honourable friend Mr. Bole makes much of the allotment of seats on the population basis. He has been a member of the corporation for many years. He knows very well that in the allotment of seats not only population basis but several other important factors are taken into consideration whether in the case of nominations or elections to the Bombay municipal corporation or to the legislative Council or to the Legislative Assembly or the Council of State. We have got to depend upon industries for the welfare of Bombay. We have got to depend upon trade and commerce for the prosperity of Bombay and it must not be forgotten that the revenue of the Bombay municipality is nearly  $3\frac{1}{2}$  crores of rupees per annum, and that a large portion of that revenue is derived from industry and commerce. It is these factors which contribute largely to our revenues, and it is due to these revenues that we can do what little we have been able to do for the good of the people. Large open spaces, a continuous water supply, the drainage schemes, all these have involved the corporation into a debt of nearly 16 crores of rupees, and we can only meet this debt if trade, commerce, and industry prosper in the city of

[Mr. Hooseinbhoi Abdullabhoi Lalljee]

Bombay. Furthermore, I would like to draw the attention of my honourable friend Mr. Bole to the fact that, out of this population of 4 or 5 lakhs of the backward classes, 3 lakhs or  $2\frac{1}{2}$  lakhs at least belong to the labouring classes, who depend upon the mill industry and the docks. If the mill industry does not prosper, as it does not at present, that population must dwindle. They cannot afford to remain in Bombay, and if he does not wish that these commercial interests should be represented on the corporation, I do not know whether he will be able to come before this Council very soon to say that the population of the backward classes in the city of Bombay is 4 lakhs. Already, nearly 10 mills out of 80 have closed down, and I am sure the result of that closing down will be that 20,000 labourers will go out of Bombay. Twenty thousand labourers means 20,000 families; that means practically 80,000 to a lakh of people out of Bombay, and if that is the condition which prevails at present, I do not know how soon the population of Bombay will go down. After the census of 1921 I am sure the population of Bombay at present is not what my honourable friend Mr. Bole says it to be, especially in those wards for which he wants more representation. I ask him to deny the fact that as a result of the closing down of 10 mills, the population in E, F and G wards is not reduced by 80,000. How can they afford to remain in Bombay without employment?

Mr. S. K. BOLE : The Municipal Commissioner's statement is there.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : That is on the basis of the census; but what is the population at present?

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : I rise to a point of order. This is the first reading, and the principle is to be discussed. The principle is the reservation of seats. I think the discussion is going rather into details of population.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The honourable member understands of course that he has to discuss the principles of the bill, and not go into details which would be outside that limit.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : I am going to prove that the seats allotted on the basis of population are not correct, that the population does not exist, and also the fact that it is not wise to allot seats on a population basis and other considerations should also prevail.

Well, Sir, then my honourable friend Mr. Bole has said that the corporation is not moving in the matter of education. Now, the corporation has resolved that free and compulsory education should be applied not in A, B and C wards, but in E, F and G wards, at any rate first in F and G wards which comprise the great majority of the labour population. In E ward there may be a few, but not all. Therefore, I cannot understand the insinuation that the Bombay corporation is not looking to the welfare of the labouring classes. The whole question in this respect is one of money. The corporation are spending lakhs of rupees on compulsory education, and they have introduced it first in F and G wards. They are not able to do more at present since

[Mr. Hooseinbhoj Abdullabhoj Lalljee]

Government are not helping them. How can the honourable member blame the corporation for not introducing compulsory primary education?

Mr. S. K. BOLE : They have done it now only.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : The corporation have all along been doing it, and even now, if it is not extended in all the wards, it is because they have no money ; it is not their fault. The corporation are doing all they can, and lakhs of rupees are spent on education in E, F and G wards. (Interruption).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. The honourable member will have his chance when he replies.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : Then, my honourable friend Mr. Bole has said that we are not incurring any large expenditure on Development of congested areas. That may have been some years back, but what is our condition at present ? Lakhs and lakhs are being spent on Dadar. The greater portion of our debt is due to the Dadar and Mahim schemes. We are undergoing all this taxation on account of the development of Dadar and Mahim. How can he blame us for doing what we have done ? The main roads in Mahim and Dadar, everybody will agree, are almost equal, and in some ways better than even Queen's Road. Somebody mentions the Cadell Road ; it is the main road, the great artery and the finest and longest road in Bombay passing through from Worli right up to Mahim.

Then, Sir, I come to what my honourable friend Mr. Bole said about my friend Mr. Mangesh Dabholkar. He was thrown out from G ward, which he just said was a Labour ward, and my friend Mr. Bole, if I am right, was thrown out from that ward more than twice. He is the only lucky gentleman.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : There again, I think the honourable member is digressing. I think the point of order raised was very pertinent. Let the principle that this bill is aiming at be discussed.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : The honourable mover went into the details and showed his justification for the change he is advocating, and I am going to show that the figures that he has placed before the House are not correct, so far as I am concerned.

With regard to the Muhammadan elected members, I can tell my honourable friend Mr. Bole that they are only 13. There are only 13, and it is only due to nomination and co-option that our number has gone up to.....

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Still you have got 13.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : Yes, still we have got 13, and with a population of 2 lakhs.

My honourable friend Sir Vasantao clearly said that there are 10 backward class members, and they could not return even one co-opted member. When they did not find any one fit, they did not return any.

In conclusion, Sir, I think there is no justification now to create reserved seats for backward classes. I think, Sir, this Council would be wise in throwing out the first reading of the bill.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN (rose.)

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Mr. Marzban may speak when we meet again after tea.

Before the House rises, I must inform the House of one thing. The Honourable the Leader of the House has reported to me, as the Chairman of the select committee on the Small Holdings Bill, that two of the honourable members who were appointed on the select committee, namely, Mr. Munshi and Mr. Chikodi have resigned. I have, therefore, under the power given to me, appointed honourable members Mr. Gunjal and Mr. Pataskar to serve on the committee.

(After recess.)

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN (Bombay City, South) : I am sure that this House will not feel any very great difficulty in extending to the honourable mover of this bill the same courtesy which the House has extended to the honourable member Mr. Asavale. I will not waste much of the time of the House in replying to this bill, because one thing is quite apparent that this House is not in a mood to accept it. But the honourable member Mr. Bole made one or two remarks on this bill which require a reply and I will deal with them.

It is only the supreme self-confidence of my honourable friends from the backward and depressed communities, it is the supreme estimate which they have for their own powers, for their intelligence and for their brain to do something extraordinary for the welfare of the public life of this presidency that they, in season and out of season, clamour for more seats and more seats. I will not say anything more about it than what I have already said in the corporation. But, Sir, one question I want to ask them whether they are logical. If they have so much self-confidence in their own powers, in their own intelligence, in their own number and in their ability to work wonders in the public life of this presidency, why should they want to reserve seats, and why should they not come out and fight in the open election ? This is a question I am not able to solve. I hope some honourable members of that community will be able to give an answer. Then, Sir, the honourable member Mr. Bole wants that there should be 18 gentlemen of his community in the corporation. What he deplored was that in spite of the fact that the population of the Parsis was only 50,000 there were 19 Parsis in the corporation ! He was gracious enough to grant us three seats ! I am very thankful for the honourable member Mr. Gole for this huge condiscension on his part. (An honourable member : Mr. Bole.) I am sorry ; but Boles and Goles are so mixed up.... (Mr. S. K. Bole : That is the mentality.) I ask Mr. Bole without any attempt at vainglory or false pride what would be the result if you have only three Parsee members on the corporation. I ask, Sir,—(I hope nobody will take it as self-adulation)—does not Mr. Bole know what part the Parsis are playing in the administration of the corporation ? The part they are playing in the corporation warrants their existence there in such large numbers. Now, it seems to me that the honourable members Mr. Asavale and Mr. Bole have a regular horror for nomination. Mr. Bole wants to restrict to 8 the seats now provided for nomination ! The honourable member Mr. Asavale does not want to be a member by the back door of nomination ! (Mr. R. S. Asavale : Still I do.) May I ask the honourable member Mr. Asavale why he accepted nomination on the standing committee ? He was very keen and very anxious to get a nomination on the corporation too, after his defeat at the general election. (Mr. R. S. Asavale : Because we are not in a majority.) I say, after he was defeated on the polls he was keen about getting a nomination ! I ask the honourable member Mr. Bole whether he would have been either in the Council or in the corporation but for nomination ? Without any gratitude he runs down nominations which Government reserve in the hands of the backward and depressed classes to see that the interests of any community are not jeopardised. I hope, Sir, in future they will not run down nominations. I do submit that the Government are as much interested in the welfare of the Presidency as any one of us ; and so I do not see why these gentlemen should now come forward and say " Oh ! Government should have only 8 seats to nominate."

Now, Sir, as to the redistribution of seats : the honourable member Mr. Bole has been gracious enough to allot 7 seats for the Fort ward, the constituency which I have the honour to represent in the corporation. I will not waste any time of the House by quoting the proposed figures for other wards. But let me say that the Fort ward contains the intelligentsia of the Bombay city ; it is from the Fort ward that most of the trade and industry of Bombay is directed, and the industrial and economic prosperity of the city mainly depends on that ward. Government have therefore sagaciously allotted 12 seats to the Fort ward. That ward has always been represented on the corporation by men who have taken not a mean part in its activities. This question of re-distribution of seats has come before the corporation more than three times, and more than three times the corporation has, with an overwhelming majority, turned down any question of re-shuffling of the seats. They have tried to lessen the number of seats given to the Fort ward, but the corporation—let me say to its credit—has not supported the proposal. Without further remarks I appeal to the House to put a stop to this.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD (Central Division) : Mr. President, I had no desire to take any part in this debate, but I have to make a few observations on the remarks that have been made by the mover of this bill with regard to the Muhammadans and with regard to the middle classes. Sir, I think the honourable mover of the bill is rather inaccurate in regard to the number of Muhammadans. I know he has quoted the census figures ; but the census was taken at a time when the Khilafat movement was going on and a large number of people thought that they would be assisting Government if they filled up the forms and therefore they did not fill up those forms. My honourable friend will find that the population of Muhammadans in Bombay is much larger than what he has quoted. Besides, the depressed classes and the labouring classes in Bombay are a floating population ; sometimes they go back ; sometimes they come in. Therefore it cannot be said that they are a permanent population.

[Moulvi Rafiuddin Ahmad]

However, even taking all these things into consideration, I do sympathise with him in his view that more representatives of the backward communities should come forward. But I would give him the advice that Sir Pherozezshah gave us, and that is that it is not always the numbers that count, but quality. Sir Pherozezshah, without the other Parsis, was powerful enough in the corporation to carry anything he liked. So, I would advise my honourable friend Mr. Bole to look to the quality that gets into the corporation. I know he is an eminent member of his community, and his calibre is not as has been alleged by the gallant knight. I think by his simplicity and inherent weight he is able to carry everything. I would advise him therefore to look to the quality. I would advise him to educate the people. Look at the history of England. You know that before 1832 there were hardly any members of the lower middle classes in the Parliament, which was entirely in the hands of the upper middle classes. It was not till 1867, when the franchise was lowered, that the lower middle classes were able to find a place there. See how long it took for them to come up. It is only recently that the labouring classes have established themselves in Parliament. It took them fifty years of education. Now, the right thing for us is to educate the people and then agitate for more seats. I do not think that more seats is always good, because we have ourselves seen that mere numbers do not carry the day.

Sir, it has been pointed out that the constituencies are corrupt; if so, the central seat, the corporation, must be to a certain extent corrupt. The quality of the electors will be reflected in their representatives. Therefore, I do not think that that is a strong argument in his favour. He might say "let us have universal adult franchise, let every man have the right to vote." Does he really think, as a serious politician, that it will do any good? I think the Honourable Minister is blamed by a large number of people, especially of Bombay, for lowering the franchise in Bombay. I think he has gone as far as he possibly can. With regard to the reservation of seats, when the franchise was lowered the Honourable Minister pointed out that if the Marathas organised themselves they would be able to return more representatives.

I may also point out that the labouring classes also contain Muhammadans; the labouring classes are not drawn exclusively from the Hindu population. So, we have also to educate them. Our labouring class is not superior to the Hindu labouring class in any respect. Therefore, I would advise him not to make enemies. It is not a wise policy for him to alienate the feelings of the Muhammadans, Parsis and other small minorities and to say that they are manœuvring elections. We all manœuvre elections in our own way. An honourable member said the other day that we elect Parsis in Bombay because they are clever men or because they have given so much in charity. The honourable member Mr. Bole tells us that they are a manœuvring class. I do not think that either of them are correct. The truth lies possibly between the two. The Parsis are elected for their qualities, and mind you they are centred in Bombay.

[Moulvi Rafiuddin Ahmad]

With regard to the over-representation of Muhammadans that he alleged, he must remember that we have no separate electorate in Bombay; we come in owing to the good feeling of and neighbourly relations with the other communities. You should also remember that before the British Government came, all that land of Bombay belonged to the Muhammadans and a large number of them were settled there. They were the people there.

I think we have had enough discussion on this subject, and I do not think it would be wise for the honourable member Mr. Bole to carry this bill to a division. This has become a hardy annual. I would advise him to withdraw this bill.

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE (Satara District): Sir, this bill affects the city municipality and I had no mind of speaking on it, but I think it would have been better if the university bill had followed the discussion on this bill. We find that a cry was made that the nominations should be increased from 40 to 50. But here we see quite the reverse is the case, and the honourable mover wants to reduce it from 16 to 8. What difference is there as to principle between the corporation and the senate that it should be necessary for us to reduce the number of nominated seats in the one and to increase it on the other? I also think that Moulvi Saheb said that nominations were necessary for the senate and now he comes forward and says that quality should be taken into consideration and not the quantity. I therefore want the honourable the mover to explain how he makes the distinction between these two.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE (Bombay City, North): I had also no mind of speaking on this bill, because I have already spoken on my bill. I will therefore be very brief. The present bill seeks to achieve two objects: first is the redistribution of seats in the different wards and the second is the reservation of some seats to people of the backward and depressed classes. At present as the Act stands you will find there are 76 elected seats allotted to all the residents of the City of Bombay. Sixteen seats are for nominated members and 10 for co-option from amongst the elected and nominated members. From the co-opted members on the corporation you will see that there is no one from these communities for which the reservation has been sought for in this bill. That is why I had brought in my bill in order that all these communities may be able to send some of their representatives on the corporation through election. When that question came up before the House for discussion yesterday everybody opposed it though it was not meant for any one community. My friends who advocate now against the cause of these communities come and say you have made this a communal thing. My bill was not at all communal, it was for the benefit of all, Marathas, Muhammadans, Brahmins and Parsis, etc. Are there not poor Parsis who are paying Rs. 5? There are many. But friends like the honourable member Mr. Marzban.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Order, order. The particular clause about the reduction of franchise has been deleted in this bill also and the question which the honourable member is referring to has also been decided upon. Therefore any reference to that or argument in that behalf would be out of order as that question is not before the House.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : I only want to show why this proposal should be supported. Otherwise, I would have been the first man to oppose this bill which seeks to give reservation to certain communities. If you refuse to give them any reservation or a right of vote by reducing the franchise how are these communities to get themselves elected? There is no ground whatever. That is my point. I know what would be the fate of this bill, when such a good bill as mine has such a bad fate. I do not see any reason why the honourable House should feel shy to give some representation to the communities who are few in numbers as voters. They would not bring down the corporation hall but instead be of great use to the city of Bombay. With these few words I support the first reading of the Bill.

Rao Bahadur S. N. ANGADI (Belgaum District) : Mr. President, I rise to support the first reading of this bill. I am really surprised at the attitude of most of the honourable members. I have no doubt that this is a democratic body and so I thought that most of the honourable members would not so easily go under the arms of the Bombay capitalists. The underlying principle of this bill is that there are nearly 6 lakhs of people belonging to the backward classes and representation for such a large number of people is only 10 on the corporation. It is obviously a very meagre representation and all that the bill seeks to do is to ensure increased representation in certain wards which are not properly represented and to decrease the seats allotted to others where a larger number of seats should not have been provided. That is in short what the bill proposes to do. Now the question is this, whether it is fair that such a large population should be ruled by communities whose percentage in the general population may be about 2 to 3. Is it fair, in these democratic days—whatever may be the reasons—it may be that the backward classes are very backward having no education or that their calibre may be inferior to that of the advanced classes—that their vast mass of population should be ruled with an iron hand by a handful of capitalists? It is very natural that the backward classes should desire to be ruled by their own people. It may be that their own people may be less intelligent than the capitalists and it may be that the capitalists may have done them more good in the past, but there can never be a good substitute for self-government. We are trying to curb their natural feeling for being ruled by their own people rather than the capitalists. Sir, it is exactly for this reason that the honourable member has brought forward this proposition and I think it is being entirely misunderstood. I know also the Parsi community has done a lot of good; they have given a lot of money to various charities and the whole of India has reason to be grateful to this community. But that is no reason why the masses should be held in bondage for all time to come. It is a natural feeling which ought to be encouraged rather than discouraged. I have carefully listened to the speech of my honourable friend Sir Vasantao. He appeared to admit the principle of the bill. But he quoted certain figures to show that the seats allotted by the honourable member in this bill were not correctly allotted. If there is any mistake in the distribution of these seats it can be amended in the select committee, but that is no reason why the honourable member Sir Vasantao or a man of his calibre should oppose the first reading of this bill. I think, Sir, the House should have the decency to allow the first reading of this bill. This House, which is almost entirely democratic in composition, should not insult itself by allying itself with the capitalists of Bombay. There has been much adverse criticism hurled against what is called the reservation of seats. This is allowed in larger bodies. It is allowed in this Council. It is also allowed in local bodies. If in the case of a larger body this principle is allowed I do not see why it should not be allowed in the corporation. We know the capital is powerful and these poor classes cannot compete with money. Money is admittedly all powerful. It is only because of the handicaps that it is impossible for them to get themselves elected and to assert themselves and it is only because they are feeble to stand on their own legs that they ask for this special reservation. Do we not ask for the encouragement of indigenous industries? Is there anybody here who would say that we are fit to compete with the world so far as industries are concerned? Do we not demand protection on the plea that without substantial subsidies from Government our indigenous industries will not thrive? Do we not blame the Government for having dragged us into the vortex of world-competition? Is it not for want of special protection that we are hit hard industrially? If Government's protection by raising tariff-walls against foreign commodities is absolutely necessary to make our own industries thrive, it is more so in the case of depressed and backward classes who have been neglected in the past. For these reasons, Sir, I strongly support the first reading of the bill. It is exactly for this reason that these masses and poorer classes ask for a special concession. A time would certainly come when they themselves would throw it off. But now, as it is the beginning, there is no reason why this honourable House which is democratic in its composition, should deny this concession to this movement in its very birth. I, therefore, do not see either logic or reason in the arguments of the capitalists like the honourable member Sir Vasantao and others. I therefore think that the House should allow the first reading of this bill.

Mr. HOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Bombay City): Sir, so far the city of Bombay is the only city which has done without communal representation, the reason being that the citizens of Bombay live in brotherly spirit and, therefore, no need has been so far felt for communal representation in the city of Bombay. I therefore do not know the reasons that have actuated my honourable friend the mover of the bill to bring forth, for the first time, the question of reservation of the seats for the backward communities. Sir, he wants to have reserved seats for the backward classes, and there also, Sir, he makes communal divisions, Hindus and Mahomedans. He wants to have seats only for

[Mr. Hoosenally M. Rahimtoola]

Hindu backward communities, and not for the Mahomedan backward communities. Then, among the Hindu backward communities also he wants to sub-divide them into Marathi-speaking and Gujarati speaking, and he does not want for the others. I do not think there is any necessity for having reserved seats in the city of Bombay, where all the communities live together in a friendly and brotherly spirit, and to introduce this spirit in the city of Bombay would be quite undesirable.

The second principle of the bill is for distribution of seats in the different wards, and that, Sir, he bases on the ground of population, on the population basis as in the census report. Now, Sir, he accuses the Bombay corporation of avoiding this question. I may inform him—probably he knows it very well—that a committee of the corporation has already decided to increase the number of members in the F, G and E wards and to make alterations and to submit a representation to Government in that behalf. The matter is shortly going to come before the corporation for their final decision, so that, before the next elections this change will come into force to a certain extent, as desired by my honourable friend. As regards the population basis, he wants to reduce the representation for A and B wards on the ground that the population in those wards is less than in other wards. Here I may point out a fallacy made by him, and that A and B are commercial wards. That is to say, even people living in other wards, D, C, F, etc., come for trade purposes in A and B wards. That is the reason why, though many of these people pass their whole day for business purposes in A and B wards but reside in other wards, the population of A and B wards appears less apparently than it really is, though it is very large during day-time as mentioned by me. Sir, the basis of the census report is also faulty, because a proper census was not taken at the time during non-co-operation days.....

An Honourable MEMBER : Whose fault was it ?

Mr. HOUSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA : Fault of the people. As regards the number of voters, my honourable friend the mover complains that the number of voters on the roll is small. That is also the fault of the voters. A large number of voters have not got themselves enrolled, nor have their leaders taken care to get them enrolled on the rolls, and that is one of the reasons why the number is smaller than it really ought to have been. I understand from one of the representatives of labour, Mr. Syed Munawar, that the number of voters ought to be 2,00,000 or more. (Mr. R. S. Asavale : He does not know the A B C of voters' list of Bombay City). I am told by another representative of labour that the honourable member I referred to does not know the A B C of voters. Well, they can settle the dispute among themselves and decide. Under these circumstances, Sir, I submit that there is no necessity for this bill at present and the House will throw it out.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA (Bombay City, North) : Sir, I rise to support the first reading of this bill. In this bill, as pointed out, there are two principles. The first principle is the reservation of seats and the second principle is the population basis. Now, Sir, as regards reservation, I may draw the attention of the honourable members of this House that in the corporation as at present constituted, there are three methods in which members are returned. The first is election; the second is nomination; and the third is co-option. And my honourable friend wants to introduce this further method of reservation which has been observed and introduced in the election of members of this House, the Legislative Council. If that principle has been approved and adopted for the Legislative Council and found to be convenient for the purpose of giving adequate representation to those who are suppressed and backward classes, it is only reasonable that similar representation may be given to those classes in the case of municipal elections until such time as they may be quite advanced to join the general electorate, until such time as they are able to come in the general electorate or are better educated for the purpose. At present they do not possess the means or money which are necessary for the purpose of fighting the different elections, and for that purpose, instead of having communal electorates, instead of recommending the principle of nomination, I should have been glad to support this principle of reservation of seats, because they generally have to face elections. The only thing is that certain seats are reserved for the members of the community. Then, I think that in the present tension in the country when everybody is voting or going on communal lines, this is a right solution, namely, those who are less advanced may be given reserved seats and they would be prepared of their own accord to throw out this form of concession and to fight elections when they are sufficiently advanced. On that ground, Sir, I am willing to support this bill.

Then, I come to the second point as regards the question whether representation should be according to population. I was a member of the Bombay corporation, and this principle of representation according to the number of population was brought on time and again by several members from Bombay (North), because they realised that Bombay (South), which boasted of capital and intelligence, were against the population basis and said "in view of our capital, and our wealth and our intelligence—the so-called intelligence—we have a right to representation in the corporation". But, Sir, if you dissect the figures, you will find that A, C and D wards have the right to return 38 candidates and for the remaining 4 wards B, E, F, G the same number of seats, i.e., 36 is reserved. Then, there is one glaring instance. In A ward there is a population of 74,000 and it wants to have a representation of 12 seats against the G ward, which I represent here; the population in G ward is 1,75,000, but they only get 6 seats. I say, Sir, that it is self-evident and the members have realised that this has got to be revised and that more representation has to be given. But somehow or other they try to shelve this proposal and they try and see that it does not succeed. We, the members of this House, should take a more reasonable and more impartial view of the whole situation on this question and support the principle of giving representation on the basis of the population of the ward.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT (Surat City) : Sir, I had no intention of speaking on this bill as I am not a man from Bombay, but I do feel that the system of reservation of seats is a very vicious system. It has led to internecine quarrels and to inter-communal tension. This system has been introduced into the legislative councils and even the Legislative Assembly and Government is responsible for introducing it. From there it has now permeated into the lower strata, namely, local boards and municipalities. Fortunately, the Bombay municipality was the only municipality which had enjoyed immunity from this evil system and in it there was nothing like communal representation or reservation of seats, and till now it has maintained that enviable position. Unfortunately some of the members of this Council are now trying to introduce this system into the municipality which enjoys such a high reputation of being absolutely non-communal and of having no reserved seats. I was partly tempted to support the bill brought forward by my honourable friend Mr. Bole only on one ground, namely, that when the City Municipalities Act was passed by this House, we made room for the depressed classes to a certain extent but nothing for the backward classes. The depressed classes were given reserved seats because their voting strength was so poor in the municipality that it was not possible to secure even one seat for the depressed classes and therefore it was only natural that the Honourable the Minister allowed such a thing to come in and the House accepted that principle. But no seats were reserved for the backward classes because the number of voters of the backward classes was quite big, and they enjoyed a certain position in the industrial life of the cities, and they were able to send up some members to represent them on the corporation. If my honourable friend Mr. Bole had stuck only to reserving a few seats for depressed classes of Bombay, I do not think that the House would have looked upon such a suggestion with a want of sympathy—in fact he would have received a greater amount of sympathy than at the present moment. His demand is rather too ambitious. He wants eighteen seats to be reserved—ten for backward classes and eight seats for the depressed classes, and I am afraid that because his demand is too ambitious, the House is disinclined to support him.....

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : Why not move an amendment ?

Dr. M. K. DIXIT : I leave that to those honourable members who wish to do it.

Further it was pointed out by the gallant knight of Bombay, Sir Vasantrao Dabholkar, that there was a sort of selfish character in the bill itself in saying that there must be a reservation of seats for the Marathi-speaking Hindus. Bombay contains both backward and depressed classes speaking not only Marathi but Kanarese, Sindhi, Gujarati and other languages, and my honourable friend Mr. Bole would have done better if he had not laid down the Marathi-speaking qualification,

[Dr. M. K. Dixit]

Another point which my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Angadi made was that self-government means rule by the people themselves. I say that those voters belonging to the communities mentioned in the bill need not necessarily seek to send their representatives from among their own communities. They have votes, they can select their own men; and they can send up any men of their own choice, not necessarily belonging to their communities. So it is wrong to think that they should send men of their own communities. It is enough that they have a right to vote. It is not necessary that they should belong to their particular classes.

If we go on reserving seats for different communities, it will be difficult for us in future to draw a line somewhere. We have got at present backward classes, depressed classes, intermediate classes, ordinary classes, advanced classes and we do not know where it will all end. Practically it will amount to reserving seats for every community which inhabits this country. I therefore submit that my honourable friend Mr. Bole will be well advised to withdraw the bill.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City): Sir, it is with great diffidence that I rise to support this bill. I use the word "diffidence" advisedly on the ground that I have been absolutely against the principle of reservation of seats and dividing the Indian society into small sections, but the experience that we have had this afternoon in the matter of voting on the bill that had been moved by my honourable friend Mr. Asavale, has given us very good food for thought. In one of the books which Mr. George Bernard Shaw has written entitled "Major Barbara," he has very closely and very finely indicted the capitalist classes and he sums up his indictment in one small sentence namely, "poverty is crime." The only crime which these poor people have done, the only sin which these poor people have committed is this—that by some selfish system of society we find that all these labourers, who originally came from the villages to the cities, were deprived of their land, they were made landless, and now when they come to the cities there is nobody to look after them. The city of Bombay for all practical purposes has divided itself into two cities, the city of the rich and the city of the poor. I do not wish to go on quoting, but that also has been written of England by an English writer who said that there is an England of the plutocrats and an England of the proletariat and what do we find in Bombay? I have gone into Bombay's labour quarters in the north of the city and I know the kind of treatment and the kind of care taken by the Bombay municipality in that quarter of the city. Apart from the political grounds, apart from the civic rights which every man over 21 is entitled to have, I put my case upon the actual realities. It is not a matter of sentiment but it is a matter of a great economic necessity. If you go and look at the conditions of squalor, poverty and distress of the slums in which the majority of the labouring classes in Bombay live, I say it is a disgrace to our civilisation. I have seen five or six families huddled together. . . . .

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN: Are we discussing the poverty of Bombay or the bill before the House?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : It is rather very difficult to draw a line of distinction. Every honourable member who has a value for the time of the House will see that his remarks are limited. It is difficult for the President to decide as to where the line is to be drawn. Here is a question of the representation of the backward classes in the municipality of Bombay, and representation in the municipality means the protection of certain interests of the citizens of Bombay. Now, the honourable member is drawing a picture of the conditions in which certain classes are living there. That may be said to have a bearing on the point, but it may also technically be taking the whole discussion outside. I would therefore request honourable members who wish to speak on subjects before the House to have the highest regard for the value of time.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : And if they have not ?

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : I shall try to be brief. My honourable friend need not have interrupted me. His only ground of interruption, if I can follow it, appears to be that the power which is in the hands of his class in the municipality should not be given up. That is the only ground which I can see for his wanton interruption.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : All that can be done by voting ; it need not be by speech.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : Then we might vote and have no speeches at all. All bills and all resolutions may be put to the vote straightaway.

Now, Sir, as has been rightly pointed out, there are only one lakh of voters in a population of nearly 11 lakhs in Bombay. That means that one-tenth of the population is ruling over the city of Bombay, and these people want to pose themselves as friends and fathers of the poorer classes. That is how one little poem goes. They say " We shall look after your interests ; you need not think for yourselves, because we shall think for you ; whatever is necessary for you, we shall do ; we are your custodians, we are your guardians." Sir, this theory will not hold ground in these days. Unless and until the poor depressed classes, unless and until the poor backward classes, come into their own, there will be no justice. I am sure that men like my honourable friend Mr. Marzban can hardly feel the difficulties of these poor people, particularly with regard to the depressed classes. The tyranny between man and man which is exercised by the rest of the population over the submerged classes is so revolting that I think whatever steps that are necessary to be taken to bring them to a certain standard of life should be welcome to this House.

Now, Sir, we have heard so much about the reservation of seats. I would ask my honourable friend Mr. Hooseinbhoj Lalljee, who spoke so much against the reservation of seats, whether he had at all opposed the reservation of seats for the Millowners' Association, for the Chamber of Commerce and for the Indian Merchants' Chamber. Sir, what are these seats ? Are they not reservations ? I ask him whether it is right that each of these associations, between themselves, each a pocket borough, should each send one representative to the corporation. These people have got the right of representation. These people represent particular interests, the capitalist interests, and I ask them with what show of reason they deny to the poor working classes the same right of representation which is conceded to the capitalists in the present Municipal Act.

Again, it has been argued that my honourable friend who has brought forward this bill has tried to omit the other communities who may be equally backward but who speak other languages than Marathi, or are hailing from other parts than Maharashtra. But it does not follow from that that if the first reading of this bill is accepted the bill will not be capable of improvement. It is capable of improvement, and I am entirely in sympathy with one or two honourable members who spoke on behalf of the Muhammadans, although I know that they have hardly anything to do with the poor labouring Muhammadans whom they are exploiting just the same. I do not think that these people who are speaking in the name of religion have hardly anything to do with those poor people. Whether he is a Hindu or a Muhammadan, he is exploited just the same. There is not the slightest difference. The Muhammadan and Hindu capitalist will exploit Hindu labour or Muhammadan labour just the same, for as you know, capital knows no religion, and I ask my honourable friends Mr. Hooseinbhoy Lalljee and Mr. Hoosenally Rahimtoola whether they belong to these poor backward Muhammadans. I say, my honourable friend Mr. Syed Munawar is the right person to speak on their behalf, and if he opposes the bill, I will say there is some reason for his opposition. There are labouring classes belonging to the Muhammadan religion, and they should be included. It has also been stated that certain people who speak Gujarati and other languages are excluded. I say, this bill is capable of improvement. Let all these labouring classes be lumped together in the backward communities and representation to the extent of whatever is reasonable be given to them. We need not necessarily insist upon the 10 or 15 which my honourable friend has provided in the bill; you may have a smaller number of seats but they should have some representation as owing to the manner in which the whole of the Bombay Municipal Corporation is constituted at present, it does not look after the interests of the poor people. That is my firm belief that unless and until you give representation to these people, there will be no justice. The higher classes want these people to go to the wall. I ask, is it fair treatment? It has been stated off and on by capitalists in opposing the just rights of labour on the pretext that it is not right to introduce this kind of division in society, but these very people come to us for support whenever there is a case of getting protection for any industries, and they say that it is a national industry. I cannot understand what kind of nationalism it is. It is the same kind of junkerdom which goes on in the name of nationalism in Germany. The capitalists want to become the bosses. I positively resent it, and if it is intended that in Swaraj these poor people should continue to occupy their present down-trodden position and the capitalists should be their masters, then, I say that Swaraj is not worth having. I go further and say that unless and until they realise the larger interests of the country and take these poor labourers with them, Swaraj is not going to come. A Legislative Council or a charter from White Hall is not going to solve our problem. It will be solved by these very labourers, and unless and until you make them realise their political aspirations, they will not fight for you. I do say again, and there is great force in it, and I have felt it that unless and until we get the labourers on our side, we shall not be able to fight the battles of the country. That is the point which I wanted to bring forward before the House.

Again, it has been stated that these poor Ramas and Balus will turn the municipal administration upside down. Now, do you mean to say that they will have such great power with the small number of seats on the corporation that they will be able to do anything? If my honourable friends refer to the provisions of the City of Bombay Municipal Act, they will find that the Municipal Commissioner of Bombay is almost an autocrat. He wields such a large amount of power that it is not likely or possible for any members to throw the municipal administration into the melting pot. What will happen is that these people will try to influence the corporation to look after the interests of their community. And what is wrong? But I feel that with the mass of intrigue and reaction in which the party politics have thrown the affairs of this House no progress is possible.

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : Sir, I want to give a personal explanation. My honourable friend Mr. Bechar said that I did not represent labour. I represent the Mahomedans of Bombay and most of the voters paying a rental of Rs. 10 are labourers.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : I welcome, Sir, this bill which has been brought forward by my honourable friend Mr. Bole. There would not have been any necessity for this bill if the franchise had been reduced to Rs. 5. As the franchise has been kept on the level of Council election it is necessary to help the depressed, oppressed and suppressed classes. These depressed, oppressed and suppressed classes do not want to live on the mercy of Government. The honourable member Mr. Bole wants that the representatives of these classes should come by the front door of election and not by the back door of nomination. (An Honourable Member : Question). He wants that the number allotted for nomination should be reduced by 50 per cent. and that the number allotted for co-option which is nothing but a pocket borough should also be reduced by 50 per cent. Co-option is nothing but a pocket borough as people desirous of being co-opted have only to go to 70 or 80 members and thus get themselves co-opted. Therefore, the number of members who get in through co-option is to be reduced by 50 per cent. The saving thus effected in the number of seats should be given to the backward and depressed classes. They are very backward and we have even heard of instances where the children of these classes are made to sit outside the schoolroom in certain places. In their present condition they will not be able to compete in open elections. The honourable member does not want to reserve any separate electorate for them. What he wants is that in the general electorate for the Bombay city some seats should be reserved for them. In Ahmedabad and Surat which are city municipalities they are given a separate electorate. In Ahmedabad three seats are allotted for the depressed classes and three of their representatives in the municipality have been elected and they have taken a nice part in the municipal administration.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : There is an outsider in the House. (He was removed from the floor of the House).

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : All these three men came by the front door of election. These men will be able to efficiently represent the grievances and safeguard the interests of their own community. Others who come by nomination will not be able so efficiently to represent them in any body. Therefore, they should come by the front door of election. That is the principle of this bill. Till they are able to compete in general electorates with the more advanced classes they say that they should have reserved seats, as in the case of legislative council elections. I may here give one touching illustration : England was an advocate of free trade. The other nations like Germany and Austria which were unable to compete with England which was far advanced in trade adopted the policy of protection, in order to protect their own interests. As commercial competition with England would be like a fight between a giant and a dwarf, the other nations adopted the policy of protecting their own trade. Till the depressed classes are in a position to compete in general elections they deserve to be given a helping hand. They do not say " Give us a separate electorate ", which is enjoyed by the other municipalities. What the depressed classes of Bombay want is that they should be allowed to sit with them in the corporation. Every now and then we are told that Government have got the good of the depressed classes in their heart.....

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Then, who gave the depressed classes representation ? Is it the Government or the honourable member ?

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : This House.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Who brought in the bill ?

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : It will take time for the depressed classes to come to their own and it is why they want this assistance which should be ungrudgingly given to them.

It has been pointed out by the honourable member Mr. Hoosienbhoy that the words " Marathi speaking " should be omitted. This can be done in the select committee and I am sure the honourable member Mr. Bole will not have any objection to omit them. I think it is necessary that they should be given this concession in order that their political aspirations may have a proper and right growth. They do not want to be at the mercy of Government and they do not want to come by the back door of nomination. They want to come by the front door of election. I hope the principle of this bill will be supported by this House and that the bill referred to select committee for making the necessary changes.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : Sir, I rise to support the first reading of this bill which advocates representation on the strength of population and reservation of seats to depressed and oppressed classes, which form an integral part of the working classes, whom I have the honour to represent in this honourable House. Of course, there are certain defects which have crept in through inadvertence. These defects can be removed if and when the bill is referred to a select committee. Within a total population of 11,75,914, according to the Census Report of 1921, in the city of Bombay the population of the depressed classes as shown by the honourable member Mr. Bole is between 5 and 6 lakhs. That is to say, it includes the backward, labouring and depressed classes. But the honourable member has omitted to mention the Gujarati speaking backward classes and Mahomedan working classes who, as a matter of fact, form part of the backward classes. For these six lakhs of people how many representatives are there in the corporation? It is by a lucky chance that my honourable friend Mr. Bole, Mr. Baloo and Mr. Nekaljay have come in to represent these backward communities and that too by nomination. It has not been definitely ascertained as to how many people belonging to the depressed and the backward classes came in through the general elections. Therefore it is but legitimate and fair that this large population of the backward and the depressed classes should be given adequate representation in an important civic body like the Bombay municipal corporation where a number of vital problems directly connected with the everyday life of these citizens are discussed and solved. I am myself moving a similar bill subsequent to this bill, whereby I desire to provide for representation to the labouring classes, which include the backward and the depressed classes; but I do not know what fate my bill will meet with. All the same I am in sympathy with the underlying principle of this bill. Of course there are certain defects which can be remedied in the select committee. With these words I support the first reading of the bill.

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : Sir, I rise to support the first reading of the bill moved by my honourable friend Mr. Bole. Much has been spoken on behalf of the backward classes as well as against the backward classes. But let me make the motive of the honourable member Mr. Bole quite clear. It is by some error that he has specially mentioned the Hindus in connection with the backward classes. He ought to have put in "backward classes, including the Muhammadans", and that would have been more generous. And I am sure the honourable member Mr. Bole would condescend to make the necessary corrections or amendments in the select committee.

I stand specially on behalf of the depressed classes and to echo their voices here. As my honourable friend Mr. Hooseinbhoy Lalljee found fault with the honourable member Mr. Bole for mentioning only Hindu backward classes, let me ask him if there is any community such as the depressed classes among the Muhammadans. The moment a depressed class Hindu becomes a Muhammadan he is lifted up high, and he is no longer a depressed man, and he can advance onward by his own merits and efforts. But unfortunately it is the bane of Hindu society, that once a man is born by accident in the depressed Hindu fold he remains as a branded man and he dies as a branded man, as an untouchable. Sir, allow me to assure my honourable friend Mr. Hooseinbhoy Lalljee that Mr. Bole's intention was not to exclude the Muhammadans. With a liberal heart he will be willing to take Muhammadans among the backward or labouring classes of Bombay. I appeal specially to my honourable friend Mr. Hooseinbhoy Lalljee and other capitalists not to come in the way of the depressed classes, because their lot is pitiable in the society of Hindus. They should be classed as Hindus belonging to the depressed classes and they should be given special reserved seats on the corporation. I would also bring to the notice of the honourable House that even if the power of election is given to the depressed classes, they will be handicapped in every way. They have no money and no education, and their status is nowhere; they are confronted with difficulties everywhere. I do admit the claim of the Honourable the Minister for Local Self-Government that it was he who brought in the depressed classes in the Council. I do give credit to the Government for nominating members of the depressed classes. But I request Government to come to the help of the depressed classes and give them adequate representation on the Bombay corporation. There is a very vast population of the depressed classes in the Bombay city, and it would not be out of place and going out of their way if Government made a special reservation of seats for the depressed classes of Bombay.

About the backward classes, I have already made it clear that if the backward class Hindus and the Muhammadans make common cause, there will not be any room for the unpleasant view that the honourable member Mr. Hooseinbhoy Lalljee has taken of communal rivalry. I may assure the honourable House that among the labouring classes of the Bombay city there is no prejudice and difference of opinion among the Hindus and Muhammadans. The Muhammadans and the backward classes of Hindus stay in the same chawls, and we do not find any fracas or trouble among them. It is only when the sinister-motived from the higher and advanced priestly classes and agitators who come there and exploit these backward classes that they, fight amongst themselves. Otherwise, they live as brothers. I have seen Hindus attending Muhammadan functions and Muhammadans attending Hindu functions. I would therefore appeal to honourable members not to bring in the communal question so far as the backward classes and the depressed classes are concerned. Let that be assigned to the advanced classes, and they will take care of themselves. I appeal to this honourable House to give reserved seats for the backward and the depressed classes. With these words I support the first reading of the bill.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Sir, I had not any intention of addressing this honourable House on this interesting subject but I am tempted to do so on account of the speeches of the representatives of the "oppressed, depressed and suppressed" namely my honourable friends Mr. Swaminarayan and Mr. Bechar. They claimed to be representatives of the suppressed and the depressed, but I fail to understand how they can be called representatives of the "suppressed" because they are the most unsuppressible members of this honourable House. ....

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : I am a member of the depressed classes.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Mr. President, my honourable friend Mr. Bechar informed the House of the constitution of the corporation, and he said that representatives of labour are at present unable to find seats on the corporation. That is the long and short of his argument—the representatives of Labour are unable to get into the corporation. Firstly they tried to get a lower franchise ; they failed and they have failed in this House ; they now want reserved seats. But may I ask my honourable friend who the majority of the electors happen to be ? They are those paying a ten rupee rent. ....

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : And you exploit them.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : They are those paying that rent, and, Sir, they are after all the working classes. (Mr. R. S. Asavale : Question). The large majority of the electors of Bombay who pay a ten rupee rent, I contend, are the labouring classes. Considering the rents that are prevailing to-day and are likely to prevail for some time to come, I cannot understand how my honourable friend opposite can in any way controvert the argument I am going to place before the House. I say, Sir, that the major portion of the electors are the labouring classes and if the labouring classes refuse to send what some people choose to call themselves the representatives of labour to the corporation it is not the fault of Government. It is the verdict of the electorate. The electorate refuses to recognise certain so-called leaders of labour as their leaders. ....

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : Question. I am elected to this Council by the labourers.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Therefore it comes to this. Because the labouring classes refuse to send certain gentlemen, who call themselves leaders of the labour party, to the corporation, they now come forward for special treatment. I feel certain that those who can with justification call themselves leaders of the labour party, those who belong to the labouring classes and who have risen from the labouring classes, will get into the corporation to represent the labouring classes even with the present franchise. ....

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : All your tenants of the development chawls will have no franchise.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : It may be that some tenants who pay less than Rs. 10 are at present without a vote. But all those who pay Rs. 10 and more have got the franchise and a large majority of these in the city of Bombay are the labouring classes. ....

An Honourable MEMBER : Question.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : It is no use saying "question" when I am stating absolute facts. As the result of the election shows, the labouring classes have no confidence in the so-called leaders and therefore however much you may reduce the franchise those leaders will not be returned because the electorate will continue to elect people who do not call themselves labour leaders. The point is this—Do these gentlemen who call themselves labour leaders deserve special facilities to come into the corporation? That is the whole point. The intention of the honourable mover of the bill is that a certain class should get into the corporation who are now not returned by the electorate. This is the whole intention.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : Is it not an insinuation?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Is there any doubt about it? It is an admitted fact that the intention of the honourable mover of the bill is to get certain labour leaders into the corporation.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : Not that.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Well, what is the meaning of it? (Interruptions) Mr. President, I cannot continue if these interruptions continue.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. I would request the House not to interrupt.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : My contention is, that by the reduction of the franchise so-called labour leaders will not be returned to the corporation. If labourers produce their own leaders they will be respected. So far as I know in this Honourable House there is only one honourable member who can clearly claim to be a labour leader and that member is my honourable friend Mr. Haji Mir Mahomed Baloch. As far as I know, he is the only honourable member in this House all honour to him—who has risen to be a member from what may be called a workman. There is no other member who can really be said to represent labour and therefore what I would ask honourable members to do is to help labour so that they can produce their own leaders and if they do this the present electorate namely, those paying Rs. 10 will be able to return the right sort of men in greater number to the corporation.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : Question.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : It is no use grumbling about the franchise. You must produce the men who deserve special facilities. The present franchise is low enough. Since I was a member of the corporation the whole situation has changed. There are a large number of men who cannot be called of the labouring classes but men of lower middle classes. As you have got these men in the corporation it is no use giving them special facilities. What I have got to say to honourable members of this House who represent labour is "use your energies in other directions than asking for the lowering of the franchise, use your energies in uplifting labour so that they may be able to produce such who will represent true labour interests".

An Honourable MEMBER : I propose closure.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I accept it. The honourable the mover.

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Sir, I knew that my bill would meet with great opposition. My honourable friend Mr. Hooseinbhoy who spoke on this bill said that he was a sympathiser of labour and asked me why the Mahomedan labour is excluded from this bill. But when the Rent Act was introduced the object of which was to protect the Labour, including Mahomedan labour it was my honourable friend who opposed it. That is the sympathy he has got....

Khan Saheb A. M. MANSURI : Did you vote for Labour ?

Mr. S. K. BOLE : It is absurd to interrupt members when they are speaking, but may I tell him that the voting was by ballot and if I now disclose how I voted, then what is the use of having a ballot ?

It is said that the corporation has undertaken new schemes. But, for whose benefit ? It is for the benefit of the capitalists, for motor owners and drivers who wanted smooth roads and they have destroyed or driven away the working classes from those places. Sir, what will a visit to the Chinchpokli and Parel side show ? All the roads were formerly inhabited on both the sides by the working classes, but you will now see palatial buildings erected there. And who are living there ? The higher classes. And the working classes are thrown to winds. Of course, it is for the benefit of those higher classes to mix up issues, and they have mixed up issues by bringing in the communal question. I never went and I never voted against the interests of the Mahomedans. Sir, I would tell this House that when separate electorates were given for Mahomedans in mofussil municipalities, I was with my Mahomedan friends. And in this bill if the Mahomedans want representation along with the backward classes, I am prepared to give them. They may amend the bill in any way they like. Sir, I may tell my honourable friends that I stood for election twice and I failed. I knew what would be my fate, but I faced the election. That was a fight, as pointed out by my honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan, between a giant and a dwarf. But I still asserted my rights. And who was my rival ? Sir Fazalbhoy Currimbhoy. But my friend Sir Vasanttrao stood for election once. His rival was Sir Fazalbhoy Currimbhoy's brother. (An Honourable Member : When did Sir Vasanttrao stand for election ?) That was long, long ago. But he dared not face the election and he withdrew and since that time he is nominated without any hindrance or interruption.

Then, Sir, as regards my honourable friend Mr. Marzban, he has spoken just like an aristocrat as he is. He says.....

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN : I rise to a point of information. I should like to know who is an aristocrat and who is a democrat ? I repudiate the statement that I am an aristocrat.

Mr. S. K. BOLE : As a journalist, Sir, the honourable member ought to know better who is an aristocrat, and he says that it is the Parsi community only which has done something, what has been done for the city of Bombay is done only by the Parsi community.....

[Mr. S. K. Bole]

An Honourable MEMBER : He never said that.

Mr. S. K. BOLE : I am told he never said that. Very well, I leave it at that. Then, it is said that in the corporation no communal matters are discussed. But may I tell my honourable friends, if some posts are to be given to some candidates, then the Parsis vote for the Parsis, and there are a number of Parsis in service. I do not grudge them these posts, but I want to have our share on the same basis. Look to the services. There is a vast number of Parsis in the corporation as well as in the Improvement Trust. The Mahomedans and the Backward classes are nowhere. Advanced classes are also there. Then, it is said we are not qualified, we must take to education. If that is our admission, then why ask the Royal Commission to come here earlier than the prescribed time ? If the Royal Commission comes here and if evidence is given before them that the majority of Indians are not educated, are not qualified, then just imagine what will be the result. Now, election is a difficult task ; it requires money. May I tell the honourable members of this House that in the mofussil formerly all the seats in the municipalities and local boards were captured by the advanced and capitalist classes. But now what has happened. They are captured by our backward classes. It is the men from the advanced classes who are seeking nomination now in the mofussil municipalities. If the franchise is lowered, there is no doubt that the majority of these seats would be captured by the backward, labouring and depressed classes. Then, I am told that the higher classes have introduced compulsory education. It is only now that it has been introduced. It is the municipality of Bandra which introduced compulsory education long ago, and the Bombay corporation is going to do that now. And why ? Because many of the members belong to the capitalist classes. Sir, I had occasion once to see a member of the capitalist class, a big millowner, in connection with some strike and I told him that it would be better if compulsory education is introduced. He said : " You want to give education to these people ; then who will come to work in our mills ? " As it the backward classes are born for working in their mills ! He owns several mills in Bombay. Sir, that is the reason why the introduction of free and compulsory education has been delayed in the city of Bombay. Had there been the representatives of the Mahomedan, backward and depressed classes in the municipality in sufficient numbers, then compulsory education would have been introduced long ago.

Now, as regards my honourable friend Sir Cowasji Jehangir, I know what are his feelings. When he was sitting on the opposite benches, and when my honourable friend the Minister for Local Self-Government brought his bill in the year 1924 to amend the Act for giving franchise to the tenants, my friend the Honourable the General Member fought tooth and nail to oppose the bill. He did not want any franchise to be given to the tenant classes. He was against the franchise being lowered to Rs. 10. And it is just like him. It is no surprise that he would oppose this bill and he has misrepresented many facts. There was no sound argument in his speech (Laughter).

I may tell you that it was never my intention to bring this bill in the interests of some labour leaders alone. It can be clearly seen from the bill itself that it is not meant for any particular individual but that it is meant for certain classes.

The Honourable the General Member said that by lowering the franchise to ten rupees, the number of voters from the labouring classes has been considerably increased. But may I point out to him that out of the 5,000 G. I. P. Railway workmen, residing in Bombay there are only 75 voters. In the B. B. & C. I. Railway in Bombay there are 5,000 to 6,000 workmen, out of whom only 100 are voters. If my honourable friend the General Member condescends to come with me and if he has no objection to walk or, better still, for his sake I shall be glad to accompany him in his motor car, I shall show him several chawls where workmen live paying less than five rupees rent. Being in charge of the Development portfolio, he ought to know the number of voters living in the Development chawls. My honourable friend Sir Vasantrao said there are 100 tenants in the Worli chawls.....

An Honourable Member : What is the percentage of voters ?

Mr. S. K. BOLE : I do not go by percentages, I go by accurate figures (Laughter). In the Press Note that has been recently issued by the Development Department, it is said that in the industrial housing scheme the figures of tenants in the Development chawls is nearly 7,000 paying rent below Rs. 10. All these go without a vote. These facts show how the Honourable the General Member has misrepresented facts. . . . .

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : How many voters pay rent of ten rupees or more in the city of Bombay ?

Mr. S. K. BOLE : 1,19,000, or one-tenth of the total population.

An Honourable MEMBER : What about children ?

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Honourable members who are members of the corporation and also of this House must know that children are not entitled to vote.....

Mr. HOOSEINBHOY ABDULLABHOY LALLJEE : Are not children included in the population ?

Mr. S. K. BOLE : I am not in a position to say that. Now, let me proceed. The same is the case with the Improvement Trust Chawls at Dhobi Talao, Mandvi, Nagpada and Clerk Road, where the rent is below Rs. 10. The trouble is that these honourable members from Bombay who are opposing my bill live at places like Nepean Sea Road, Walkeshwar and in other aristocratic quarters and cannot naturally be expected to know the conditions in which the poor classes manage to live. In fact I doubt whether they care to find out how these poor workmen live. For these reasons it is necessary that the real representatives of these classes should be on the corporation by right.

[Mr. S. K. Bole]

Some other objections have been taken to my bill, but as regards the principle involved in it, I may tell the honourable House that the corporation will never come to any conclusion in the matter. My honourable friend Mr. Hoosenally M. Rahimtoola told the House that the committee has submitted a report. Although I am not on that committee, I know that the corporation committee appointed a sub-committee and the sub-committee submitted its report. That report has been sent back to the sub-committee for reconsideration. This process will go on till doomsday, because they will not be the sufferers. The sufferers are the poor people. The committee members have got more than they need or deserve (Laughter). So I say they are indifferent. When the question of the franchise was being considered, we know how the Bombay municipal corporation behaved. In the same way, we know how it acted in the case of the fees given to members of the Improvement Trust Committee. The House knows the antics in which the Bombay municipal corporation indulged. It first asked this House to do away with the fees. Then it passed another resolution asking this House not to pass that bill. What importance can be attached to its opinion which is changing every now and then.....

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE: Then why did the honourable member support nominations?

Mr. S. K. BOLE: My friend Mr. Deshpande wants to know why I supported nomination in the beginning. My honourable friend comes from the privileged classes and so he does not know the reason. The wearer alone knows where the shoe pinches. In the University bill we wanted separate electorates. Some of our friends sent amendments to that effect but on the ground of principle they were not allowed to be moved. For that reason we wanted nomination. Some of my honourable friends ask why we need nomination. Well, we say "give us representation by reserved seats and we will do away with nomination", but when we ask for such representation they ask us why not ask for nomination. Anyhow they want to oppose the backward and depressed classes and they do not want to improve the lot of these classes. They do not want to bring up to their own level the backward and depressed classes. I know what the fate of my bill is going to be, but if the Government allows its members not to vote, then it would perhaps be a different matter. I want to make it clear that if the principle of redistribution of seats is accepted in the select committee, the rest may be dropped, and I shall have nothing to say. Then again, as regards the reservation of seats for backward classes, there was some opposition, and I am prepared to do away with that also, provided some representation is given to the depressed classes. They may amend the bill in the select committee in any way they like.

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN: It will be out of shape.

Mr. S. K. BOLE: No, it will not be out of shape. We do not care for shape or anything else. We want bread, give us that bread; that is our request. I am asked what about butter? Butter of course is meant for the higher classes who are well versed in the art of using it. With these words, I resume my seat.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Mr. President, honourable members of this House are aware of the saying that so and so wants to have it both ways. My honourable friend the mover of this bill wants to have it in three ways. Firstly, he wants 18 seats by reservation ; secondly, he wants a redistribution of the wards in order to capture most of the seats in those wards where the population and voting strength of the backward classes are strongest ; thirdly—you have ruled it out of order, Sir—he wanted that the franchise should be reduced from Rs. 10 to Rs. 5. Now, being ruled out of order in one direction, the honourable member wants to have his way in the other two directions.

I was very much amused at the speeches of the two honourable members, ardent advocates of nationalism, Mr. Ginwalla and Mr. Swaminarayan, that this House should accept the principle of communal representation, which they have been running down on the platform as most pernicious. Now, Sir, for whom does the honourable member want the reservation of seats ? He says that, for the purposes of the reserved seats, backward classes shall mean persons belonging to any of the following Marathi-speaking Hindu classes, namely, the Maratha, Kunbi, Mali, Koli, etc. But he excludes the Sindhi backward Hindus and the Gujarati backward Hindus, apart from the Muhammadans, with whom the Backward Mahrattas made common cause some time back. If we admit this principle of giving to the Marathi-speaking Hindu backward classes 10 seats by reservation, then I am afraid the Sindhi Hindu backward classes in the city of Bombay, who are also educationally backward, the Gujarathi backward classes, and also the Muhammadans will come forward and claim reservation of seats for themselves also. If you once accept this principle, there will be no end to the number of classes asking for special representations.

Then I will come to the remarks of my honourable friend Mr. Bechar. He says you can add on the Muhammadan backward classes also. He proposes to divide the Muhammadans into classes, which is against the very spirit of Islam. But I would like to inform him that there is nothing like a Muhammadan backward class. With reference to the remarks of my honourable friend Mr. Syed Munawar I might say that the labourers preferred Mr. Hooseinbhoy Lalljee to him.

Now, Sir, in order to give the franchise to the backward communities, only four years ago the franchise qualification was reduced, and now they have a sufficiently large number of voters.

(Mr. R. S. ASVALE Indicated dissent.)

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : The honourable member simply shakes his head, but he has not made any statement as to how many voters there are belonging to the communities mentioned.

Mr. R. S. ASVALE : It is 5,000.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: Distributed over the whole of Bombay city? Then I do not think that 6 to 7 representatives of the backward communities could have been returned to the Bombay corporation, for, including the nominees from the depressed classes, they have 10 members there.

Now, what do we read in the newspapers? Who are the leaders of Labour and the backward communities? Who are their representatives who come before committees to give evidence? Mr. Jhabvala and Mr. Ginwalla. That is what we read in the papers. They do not say that Mr. Bole or Mr. Asavale is their representative or leader.

As the Honourable the General Member stated, these classes have been given the right to vote, but if they do not want to exercise that right, it is not the fault of anybody else. My honourable friend always says that it is the rich people that entice away their voters, but I have taken special care to see that voting should be by ballot. So, these classes can vote without fear or favour, but the results clearly show that they do not consider their own people as competent enough to represent them on the corporation, and therefore they do not vote for them and return them to the corporation.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE: No sufficient votes; that is my argument.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: It is voting by ballot, and there are sufficient votes.

Now, Sir, the revenue of the Bombay municipal corporation is Rs. 3 crores. Who contributes this money for the purposes of the corporation? It is the millowners, the capitalists, the Chambers of Commerce, that contribute these three crores of rupees to the corporation.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR: Are not ultimately the consumers to pay?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: My honourable friends wish to call for the tune and want the capitalists to pay the piper. My honourable friends say "We are paupers, we are unable to contribute" and at the same time they say that they pay out of their own pockets to the corporation. My honourable friends ought not to contradict themselves in this way. Then the honourable member wants to reduce the number of nominated seats to 8. I am afraid the honourable member is kicking the very door through which he entered the corporation. (An Honourable Member: He does not want it). Then he ought to resign. The House should realise that there are a number of minorities in the city of Bombay besides the Mahomedan community and backward classes. (Interruption). They are not properly represented. Further, we require nomination for the adjustment of the representation of the various communities after the elections are over. The Bombay corporation has even passed a resolution that we should appoint certain officials who have rendered valuable service to the corporation.

Then, Sir, the honourable member wants to reduce the number of co-opted seats. There are 7 members of the backward classes elected on the corporation, and there are three more by nomination, as has been admitted by the honourable member. They are in all ten. If all the ten members had joined together and voted for a single man of their own community he would have topped the list of co-opted members. This really shows that they do not like to be represented by their own people. It also shows that they are not organised. If they were organised, they could have secured one more seat. (An Honourable Member : Two) At least one. They would have had at least 11 members on the corporation to-day. As has been admitted by an honourable member, the local boards and municipalities have been captured by the members of these classes—they have practically monopolised the local bodies. When they organise themselves, they will be able to do the same in the Bombay corporation also.

Then the honourable member wants that population should be the only criterion for representation in the city of Bombay. This is the first time that I have heard of this principle with regard to that city. In this respect I wish my community and the backward classes to emulate the splendid example of the Parsi community. Though that community has got a small number of voters, owing to their education, influence and their services to the corporation, they have captured not less than 19 seats, which has been admitted by the honourable member. Leaving that matter for a moment, we shall consider the facts as they are. If the depressed classes and backward communities felt that the members of their community were as good as members of other communities, they would surely have elected men of their own community. But they do not like to vote for their own men and prefer to vote for others. (An Honourable Member : Influence.)

Then the point was raised that out of a population of 11 lakhs, there are only 140,000 voters. That is true. Ordinarily a family consists of four or five members. There might be families consisting even of 10 members. In that case, a family of so many members occupying a tenement will have one vote. Therefore, the number of voters in a population is dependent upon the number of members in each family, and it will thus come to nearly 50 per cent.

Sir, my sympathy with the backward classes is not merely in words. I have shown it by action. They are now in increased numbers on the local bodies. My honourable friend opposite (Mr. J. C. Swaminarayan) said that Government are not sympathetic towards the depressed classes. Is the honourable member more solicitous than Government for the welfare of the depressed classes? Who brought in the bill to give the depressed classes representation? It is a member of this so-called Satanic Government. It is not the honourable member who gave that representation. (Interruption) My honourable friend (Mr. N. A. Bechar) decries communal representation from the platform but preaches that doctrine here. His professions are different from his practice. I do not wish to be like the honourable member. If I want to adopt a principle, I must be consistent throughout. If the backward communities in the Bombay city organise themselves, as the backward communities in the mofussil have done, they will be able to capture a much greater number of seats in the corporation.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: There is a request made to me in writing, signed by sixteen honourable members of this House proposing that on the last day of the Council, that is the 18th (Tuesday) the Council should sit from 10 to 2, in order to give convenience to those who wish to go away to their places in the afternoon. I should like to know the general opinion of the House, and particularly the opinion of the Leader of the House.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: Sir, this matter was mentioned to me this morning. An objection was raised by the honourable member Mr. Asavale on the ground that there is a Housing

[Sir Chunilal Mehta]

Committee meeting on that day before 2 p.m., but it was pointed out to him that the Housing Committee meeting could be held later on during the day. It seemed to be the general desire of the members of the House that we should sit in the morning. We have no objection to that.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Then, I understand that it is the desire of the House that the House should meet at 10 and sit till 2, and that will be so.

BILL No. XXVII OF 1927 (A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE CITY OF BOMBAY MUNICIPAL ACT, ACT No. III OF 1888).

Motion for First reading

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR: Sir, I beg to move the first reading of Bill No. XXVII* of 1927 (A Bill further to amend the First reading City of Bombay Municipal Act, Act No. III of 1888).

Sir, it will be seen from the five clauses of the bill that it is absolutely free from any tinge of communal bias. There are three principles underlying this bill. One is, lowering of the franchise; secondly, re-distribution of seats on the basis of population; and thirdly, provision of Labour representation by adding four more seats to the existing number of corporators without disturbing the present arrangement.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Clauses 3 and 4 are now out of order. Do I understand the honourable member to speak about the point which is in order leaving out those which are out of order?

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR: Mr. President, the first two points have already been declared to be out of order. The only point that remains then is the provision of representation to Labour. In the Bombay municipal corporation representation has been given to the Indian Merchants' Chamber, the Bombay University and the Bombay Chamber of Commerce and the Bombay Millowners' Association. So the capitalists have been given more representation in spite of their small number. Though the working population which according to Mr. Findlay Shirras's "Family Budgets" numbers 4,58,000 out of a total 11,75,000, they have not been given adequate representation in order that their interests may be properly safeguarded. Sir, it is now admitted on all hands that Labour as such has been recognised in the local legislature and in the Imperial legislature where due representation is given to Labour. When three seats have been given in this House to Labour—no matter whether it is by nomination, and nominations will have to be continued until Labour is well organised, the fact remains that Labour as such has been recognised in this bigger body. So it is but legitimate on the part of Labour, with such a big population in the industrial city, Labour which is directly concerned with the civic problems of the city, to claim that they should be given proper share of representation. I have put forward a very modest claim namely, four seats, without disturbing the present arrangements. As compared with the population, four seats are quite negligible.

and I think the House will fully realise the importance of my claim and will lend its support to this provision with regard to Labour representation. If there be any defects in the bill I hope the same will be remedied by referring the bill to a select committee. I do not like to take much of the precious time of the House. I hope that some honourable members who are in sympathy with the cause of Labour will lend their support and I trust the House will allow the passage of this bill.

Question proposed.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : I rise to a point of order. In clause 4 the honourable mover proposes that the word "ten" shall be substituted by the word "three". This was not under discussion before the House.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The principle, namely, the reduction of the franchise was before the House. The honourable mover has understood it already.

I want to know if there are any speakers who can finish in five minutes.

Mr. S. K. BOLE : I shall be able to speak in five minutes, Sir. I rise to support the first reading of this bill moved by my honourable friend Mr. Syed Munawar. The bill is very simple. When due representation has been given to the capitalists such as the Indian Merchants' Chamber and the Chamber of Commerce, why should there be no adequate representation for Labour who have got no sufficient number of votes in the general election? I was defeated not because I got no Labour support but because Labour has got no sufficient number of votes. Even Mr. Jhabwala was defeated in the last municipal election on account of the same reason. I therefore think that the demand in the bill is very modest and there is no any communal question there. It is in the interests of general Labour and I hope there will be no objection at least to this bill.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The House is adjourned to 1-30 p.m., the day after to-morrow, Monday, the 17th October 1927.

Monday, the 17th October 1927

The Council re-assembled at the Council Hall, Poona, on Monday, the 17th October 1927, at 1-30 p.m., the Honourable the President, Mr. A. M. K. DEHLAVI, Bar.-at-Law, presiding.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. Questions.

PROSTITUTION, BOMBAY CITY

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have taken any steps to remove prostitutes, dancing girls and houses of ill-fame from the main roads and thoroughfares of Bombay through which the main tram lines pass in general, and such roads as Duncan Road, Foras Road and Falkland Road in particular, and also from the vicinity of religious places of worship of all denominations and castes and schools and teaching institutions all over the city ;

(b) whether they intend to launch prosecutions against landlords who receive rents from prostitutes and such other persons of ill-fame ;

(c) whether they intend to segregate the locality and habitations of prostitutes and such allied persons away from the thickly populated places in all the wards of the Bombay city and to locate them in the northernmost part of the city ;

(d) whether they have got any scheme in view for the same, and if so, whether they will be pleased to put the scheme on the Council table ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a) Some steps of the nature described in the question have been taken, but the subject is one bristling with so many difficulties that every separate case has to be dealt with on its merits. There is only too much reason to fear that extreme measures would cause at least as much evil as they might cure.

(b) No, because the reception of such rents is not punishable under the Prevention of Prostitution Act.

(c) and (d) No.

COTTAGE INDUSTRIES : DEPRESSED CLASSES

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : Will Government be pleased to state—

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the reply given to question No. 4 put by the Honourable Member for Nasik District printed at page 32 of the eighth list of questions and answers of the last session of the Legislative Council.

(b) Government consider that as a result of their policy in assisting the backward classes educationally and giving them reasonable facilities for employment there has been a general rise in their economic condition during recent years.

PUBLIC SERVICE : DEPRESSED CLASSES

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : Will Government be pleased to give the number of the depressed classes in public services in the five districts of Gujarat and in Bombay City, with their respective sub-castes :

District	Department	Number of Depressed Classes employed
		As peons	On the staff

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : The information is being collected ; but it will not be possible to ascertain their sub-castes without considerable expenditure of time and labour.

PRISONER SHERSING

Mr. V. A. SURVE (Ratnagiri District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the health of Mr. Shersing, convicted in the Ghaddar case at Lahore and now confined in the Karwar prison, has been seriously undermined owing to indigestion and severe intestinal pain owing to want of proper medical attendance ;

(b) what was Mr. Shersing's weight two years ago and what it is at present ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a) No. The prisoner is robust and his health has not been undermined by indigestion or any other complaint.

(c) His weight was 188 lbs. in July 1925 and is 196 lbs. at present.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM : Is it not a fact, Sir, that sometimes increase of weight is also caused by certain illnesses ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : I do not think the honourable member can have it both ways, Sir.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM : Have Government any objection to have this prisoner transferred to the Punjab, from where he comes ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : It is not a question of what we desire. It is the Government of the Punjab and the Government of India who have arranged to send him here.

REVENUE IN GUJARAT : LAND REVENUE, INCOME TAX, AND EXCISE REVENUE

Mr. V. A. SURVE (Ratnagiri District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the amounts realised from land revenue, income tax and excise revenue in each of the districts, viz., Ahmedabad, Kaira, Panch Mahals, Broach and Surat, in the year 1926-27, together with the population of each of the above-mentioned districts ;

(b) the amounts of cost to Government for the administration of each of the above-named subjects in each of the above-named districts in 1926-27 ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : (a) For figures of receipts under land revenue and excise in each of the five districts, the honourable member is referred to the reports on the administration of Land Revenue and Excise in this Presidency for 1925-26 and he is informed that similar reports for 1926-27 will shortly be published. As regards revenue from Income Tax, the honourable member is informed that income tax is a central subject and that the proper place for such a question is the Legislative Assembly. For figures of population of each district, the honourable member is referred to the Bombay Census Report, 1921.

(b) The cost of that part of the administration dealing purely with land revenue has not been worked out as there are various other duties which revenue officers have to perform. Information regarding the cost of excise administration in each of the five districts is being called for. As regards the cost of Income Tax administration, reference is invited to the last but one sentence of the reply to clause (a) above.

THAKOR OF SANAND : HOUSE CONSTRUCTION

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether Mehta Keshavji Chhaganlal got permission No. 115 from the Municipality of Sanand by the Municipal Resolution No. 294, dated 19th January 1924, in response to his application dated 1st January 1924 for reconstructing his house which had fallen down ;

(b) whether the servants of the Thakor of Sanand prevented him from reconstructing the fallen house, demolished the fallen house from its very foundations and took away all the materials of the fallen house ;

(c) if the answer to (b) is in the affirmative, on what grounds the action of the Thakor to confiscate the materials of a fallen house is justified and under what authority the Thakor is preventing the reconstruction of a house for which a regular permission has been given by the Municipality of Sanand ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes.

(b) The plot was enclosed by wooden rafters and bamboos, with a gate, but had no roof. The Thakor's servants prevented the reconstruction and demolished the erection. There is however no evidence to show that they removed the materials.

(c) The question is one that affects the civil rights between the Thakor and his tenants, and Government have no means of knowing whether the Thakor's action was justified or not.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Have the Thakor's servants any right of ownership to structures before the Thakor's establishment his rights in a civil court ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I would refer the honourable member to the answer to part (c) of his question.

THAKOR OF SANAND : LEVY OF HOUSE RENT

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether Fakir Daoodshah Abhramshah got permission from the Municipality of Sanand by the Municipal Resolution No. 345, dated 18th February 1927, in response to his application dated 17th November 1926 for constructing houses on his land situated in the Gamtal of the town of Sanand ;

(b) whether the Thakor of Sanand is summoning the said Fakir Daoodshah Abhramshah to the Darbargadh and threatening him to consent to pay a rent for the houses which he has built on his own land with the permission of the Municipality ;

(c) if the answer to (b) is in the affirmative, what steps Government have taken to prevent such threats and harassments to the said Fakir by the Thakor of Sanand ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes, but the question whether the land is the property of Fakir Daoodshah is in dispute.

(b) The Thakor is demanding that the person in question should agree to pay rent on the ground that the house is built on wanta land which is his property.

(c) No action can be taken by Government in regard to this demand. The aggrieved party's remedy lies in the Civil Court.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Is not wanta land within the municipal limits of Sanand ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Yes ; presumably so.

HIGH SCHOOL, MODASA : GRANT-IN-AID

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Director of Public Instruction informed the authorities of the Modasa Education Society's High School, Modasa, on the 3rd January 1927 to the effect that—

“ It is noted that Rs. 3,472 is a grant due to the school for the current year. This amount or any lesser amount which can be spared according to the funds being available will be sanctioned to the school at the close of the official year ; ”

(b) if the answer to (a) is in the affirmative, what were the reasons of entirely neglecting the payment of any grant to the said High School at the end of the official year 1926-27 ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) Yes.

(b) The grant could not be paid because funds were not available.

SCHOOLS : CLASSIFICATION FOR GRANTS

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether a new school to which a grant has been sanctioned to be paid but has not been paid at the end of the official year is treated as an old or a new school in the succeeding year ;

(b) whether such a school is eligible for the payment of the grant along with the old existing school or is compelled to wait till the end of the official year for the payment of a grant at the end of the official year from any surplus funds which would be left after the payment of grants to all the existing schools ;

(c) if the answer to (b) is that the kind of school referred to in (a) is treated as a new school in the succeeding year, whether Government intend to consider the question of removing the hardship in the case of new schools by ruling that a new school to which a grant has been sanctioned but not paid at the end of the official year will be treated as an old school and will be made eligible for the payment of a grant along with the old schools ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) It is treated as a new school.

(b) Grant-in-aid is paid to such a school only when funds become available.

(c) No.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Is it not likely that the new school would in this case have to wait for years after years because no funds may be available ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : It is possible. But when a school is recognised once for a grant, it will stand a higher chance of getting it.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Supposing a school to which a grant has been promised may not receive the grant in that year. Would it not be treated as a new school in the next year according to this practice and would it not have to wait for a grant ad infinitum ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : It may be possible, but the question will be specially considered.

HIGH SCHOOL, MODASA : GRANT-IN-AID

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state

(a) whether they are aware that Modasa High School is a public school managed by Modasa Education Society ;

(b) whether the financial condition of that society has been greatly straitened by the failure of Government to pay any portion of the grant of Rs. 3,472 which was sanctioned to the school on 3rd January 1927 ;

(c) whether Government intend to give special consideration to the Modasa High School during the current year 1927-28 by treating it as an old school eligible for grant along with the other existing old school ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) Yes.

(b) Government have no information in this respect. It may however be observed that the grant was provisionally sanctioned on the condition that it would be paid only if funds were available.

(c) Funds permitting, attempt will be made to consider the matter favourably.

EXCISE ADVISORY COMMITTEE : REPRESENTATION BY

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : Will Government be pleased to state in regard to the personnel of the various Excise Advisory Committees in Bombay City, how many are Mussalmans, how many Christians how many Parsis, and how many Hindus and how many others ?

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : May I know why there is such unfair distribution among the different communities ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Does the question arise ?
The only question is how the committees are constituted.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : From the number of representatives of the different communities on the committee, does the question not arise ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : No.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN : Will the Honourable Minister for Excise say whether these advisory committees represent the figures of the advisory committees before the former committees resigned ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Yes.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN : And will Government be pleased to say whether these figures are of advisory committees appointed by the corporation ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Yes ; the committees were appointed by the corporation ; so, the question of the constitution does not arise.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT : Can Government interfere with the constitution of a committee appointed by the corporation ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : No ; Government cannot.

EXCISE ADVISORY COMMITTEE : REPRESENTATIVES INTERESTED IN THE TRADE

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : Will Government be pleased to state how many persons in the several Excise Advisory Committees in Bombay City are interested in the liquor trade, and also how these persons have generally expressed their views ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Three members of the Bombay Excise Advisory Committee hold liquor licenses and can therefore be said to be interested in the liquor trade. Government are not aware how these persons have generally expressed their views, and are not prepared to make enquiries on the subject.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : May I know why Government are not prepared to make enquiries on the subject ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Because presumably they must have voted for the liquor trade as they are holding liquor licenses, but it is not the practice of Government to make enquiries of the advisory committees as to how each member voted.

SEAMEN'S RECRUITMENT : JOINT MARITIME BOARD

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether their attention has been drawn to the International Labour Office Bulletin "Industrial and Labour Information," dated 16th May 1927 concerning seamen's recruitment in Japan ;

(b) if so, whether and when they propose to start such a system in Bombay ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : (a) Yes.

(b) A system similar to that which has been started in Japan has not been considered by Government and they are not at present prepared to give any assurance that they would be prepared to accept it.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : In the latter part of answer (b) it is stated "A system similar to that which has been started in Japan has not been considered by Government and they are not at present prepared to give any assurance that they would be prepared to accept it." Is this recommendation not similar to one of the alternative recommendations made by the Clow Committee appointed by the Government of India in 1922 ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Is it the honourable member's question that the system prevalent in Japan was suggested by the Clow Committee ?

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : It is similar to one of the recommendations made by the Clow Committee appointed by the Government of India in 1922, and the recommendation was made by the Government of India to the Bombay Government.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : No recommendation was made to the Government of India by the Government of Bombay. The Clow Committee submitted their report to the Government of India.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : Were not recommendations made to the maritime local Governments ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : No recommendations were made to the local Government.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : Will the Bombay Government be pleased to consider these recommendations ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : They have considered these recommendations.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : With what result ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : The result is that Government are at present of the opinion that the system prevailing in Bombay is the best adapted under the circumstances. They are giving the matter further consideration as my honourable friend knows.

QUACKS

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : Will Government be pleased to state what steps they propose to take in order to prevent quacks from practising medicine as a profession, whether dentistry, surgery, ophthalmology ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : The honourable member is referred to the Bombay Medical Act, 1912, and the Indian Medical Degrees Act, 1916. The former confers certain privileges on doctors who register under it, and thus indirectly discourages quacks. The latter provides penalties for falsely assuming or using Medical titles. Government do not propose to take any further steps in the matter.

TEXTILE WORKERS : DISMISSALS

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether their attention has been drawn to pages 8--10 of Bombay Textile Labour Union Report for the year 1926 ;

(b) whether, in view of the fact that welfare of labour is a provincial subject, they have considered the expediency of providing necessary legislation to protect textile workers ;

(c) if so, when and what steps they propose to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : (a) Yes.

(b) and (c) No.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : May I know why the answer is in the negative to (b) and (c) ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : I am afraid that the answer will be a very lengthy one, Mr. President. Shortly, so far as I remember, the recommendations contained in pages 8 to 10 are for actions which concern the internal administration of the mills and such actions can best be taken by the agents of individual mills.

LABOUR WELFARE : COTTON TEXTILE BOARD RECOMMENDATIONS

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether welfare of labour is a provincial subject ;

(b) if so, what steps they have taken in the interests of Labour, to give effect to the recommendations of the Indian Tariff Board (Cotton Textile Industry Enquiry), particularly recommendations Nos. 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 53, 54, 55, 56 and 57 in the summary of conclusions and recommendations (pages 209 and 210 of the report) ;

(c) whether, after the publication of the Tariff Board Report, they consulted either the employer's or employees' organisations about such of the recommendations which are stated to be conducive to the welfare of labour ;

(d) if so, the names of the organisations which they addressed and also what replies were received by them ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR, : (a) Yes.

(b). (c) and (d) The Tariff Board was appointed by the Government of India and the report submitted by the Board is on the whole for the consideration of that Government. The Government of India have so far addressed the Government of Bombay with regard to the recommendations contained in paragraphs 57, 59-72, 82 and 99 of the report which are under the consideration of Government at present. The recommendations mentioned in part (b) of the question do not call for any official action, as the initiative in such matters rests with the Mill-owners.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: (a) Government do not propose to raise the pay of their peons and menials, but the revision of their pensions is under consideration.

(b) No.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA: Is it because the pay of Government peons and menials is high that Government do not propose giving them increments?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: Because of the financial condition of the Presidency and because their pay has already been raised.

MOSSUM BRIDGE, MALEGAON

Mr. G. A. D. WASIF (Central Division): Will Government be pleased to state—

(b) No.

(c) No.

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI on behalf of Dr. B. R. AMBEDKAR : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware of the enormous extent of unemployment prevailing among the depressed classes ;

(b) whether in view of the fact that many occupations are closed to the depressed classes owing to the system of untouchability, they intend to consider the question of forming settlements of the depressed classes wherever tracts of forest lands are available as has been done by the Mysore Government ;

(c) whether they intend to give preferential treatment to applicants from the depressed classes for forest lands ?

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : May I know whether Bhils and Dharalas are included in the depressed classes ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : They are backward communities but I do not think they can be called depressed in the sense of untouchability. Facilities should be given to them because they are backward.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : Do they come under this special category ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : I think Government will be prepared to consider their case favourably, but I am not prepared to call them “depressed” or “untouchable.”

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) There are waiting rooms for the public in all the Mamlatdars' offices in the district except those at Barsi and Malsiras, which are old fashioned buildings.

(b) Yes.

Khan Saheb ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN : May I know the meaning of the word " old-fashioned ? "

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I am not a dictionary.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Could not some alterations be made to make it up to date ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I presume not, otherwise arrangements would have been made long ago. Government do recognise the desirability of providing sufficient accommodation.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : In that case will Government consider the question of making necessary changes ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : It is largely a matter of funds.

FLOODS, GUJARAT : DAMAGE AND RELIEF

Mr. H. J. AMIN (Broach District) : Will Government be pleased to give the following information about the areas affected by heavy rains and floods in each taluka of Gujarat—

- (a) Number of villages affected ;

- (c) Number of animals lost ;
- (d) Number of houses fallen and destroyed ;
- (e) Number of acres of lands rendered unfit for agricultural use ;
- (f) Amount of total loss of all kinds ;
- (g) Amount of free relief given ;

- (m) Number of affected villages visited by the Commissioner, Northern Division, Collector, Deputy Collector and Assistant Collector of each district in his own district with their dates, up to end of August 1927 ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) to (m) The information desired by the Honourable Member can only be made available when the present abnormal conditions have ceased and it becomes possible to appraise the full extent of the damage done and of the relief measures undertaken.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : Will the information be supplied when it is available ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : So far as possible, it will.

FLOODS, GUJARAT : OFFICIAL REPORTS

Mr. H. J. AMIN (Broach District) : Will Government be pleased to place on the Council table the reports of the Honourable Members and Honourable Ministers of Government who visited the affected areas in districts of Gujarat as also the reports of the district officers of each district on the same subject, and the action taken by Government with regard to them ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : It is not the practice of Honourable Members and Ministers to write reports upon their tours, and in any case any notes that they may record are confidential. The reports of district officers are intended for departmental use and not for publication.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : Will the Honourable Members and Ministers of Government give us some impressions of the observations they made ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : If the honourable member will address each Member or Minister of Government separately, his request will receive due consideration.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : Will the Honourable the Revenue Member himself give his own impressions ?

(No reply).

STRIKE : SWADESHI SPINNING MILLS, KURLA

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE (Bombay City, North) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware of the fact that there was molestation of women, free use of brick-bats, stone throwing, use of lathis and occasional rioting in Kurla during the period of the strike at the Swadeshi Mills in July 1927 ;

(b) if so, how long the disturbance lasted ;

(c) how many people were injured ;

(d) out of these, how many were men and how many women ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : (a) On one day only of the strike, which lasted for a week, was there any disturbance. There was no molestation of women, no true rioting and no use of lathis, but there was a little stone-throwing.

(b) The disturbance on this one day lasted for not more than half an hour.

(c) and (d) Six persons, of whom one was a woman, were slightly injured by stones.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : May I know the direct cause of the trouble ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : I am afraid I cannot remember just now the direct cause of the trouble, but if the honourable member will give me notice, I will give him the reasons which directly led to the stone-throwing.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : What is meant by a true riot ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR: Throwing of a few stones is not a true riot ; a true riot means a little more than that.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : I want to know what is meant by a true riot.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR: I have not been informed how many stones were thrown to be able to judge. But I presume that the throwing of a few stones for half an hour could hardly be called a riot.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : In reply to (c) and (d) it is stated that a woman was slightly injured. How does the Honourable Member say then that there was no molestation of women ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR: A stone may hit a woman, but it does not mean that there was actual molestation of women.

(CITY SURVEY, ALIBAG)

Mr. A. M. ATAVANE (Kolaba District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) what is their policy in introducing city surveys in different towns and villages of the Kolaba District, and what are the reasons of such introduction ;

(b) whether they are aware of the principle that city survey is generally to be applied to a village or town which consists mostly of gavathan lands ;

(c) the reasons why a city survey is applied to the town of Alibag in face of the fact that out of the area of 403 acres of the town 20 gunthas are gavathan land ;

(d) whether they intend to provide gavathan for the town area of Alibag ;

(e) (i) whether they are aware of the agitation carried on by the landholders of the town of Alibag against the introduction of the city survey, and (ii) whether they intend to give any redress to the grievances in the matter ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Government have no policy special to the Kolaba District in this matter. The general reasons for the introduction of a city survey in certain towns and villages of this district are those common to city surveys in other districts. In the case of Alibag there were the special reasons that the Municipality had pressed for a city survey and that it was desirable to make a detailed enquiry into the numerous cases where agricultural land has been appropriated to non-agricultural purposes.

(b) The Honourable Member is referred to sections 95 and 131-133 of the Land Revenue Code and he is informed that his interpretation of the principle is not correct.

(c) The question of the existence or non-existence of gavathan land is not a factor in such cases. The essential condition is the existence of land which is being used for non-agricultural purposes, and this condition is fulfilled in the case of Alibag.

(d) Government have no such proposal under consideration.

(e) (i) Yes.

(ii) No, as Government do not admit that the landholders have any.

FLOOD RELIEF, GUJARAT AND SIND

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased—

(a) to lay on the Council table a comprehensive statement giving details of financial assistance rendered in connection with relief in flooded areas in Gujarat and Sind, particularly with reference to the work of reconstruction ;

(b) to state how far it falls short of the needs as expressed by the representatives of Gujarat at the Nadiad Conference ;

(c) to state how far it falls short of measures taken by the Baroda Government in their territory an account of which appeared in Times of India of 10th August 1927 ;

(d) to state whether they have perused a leaderette entitled “ A New Gujarat ” which appeared in the Times of India of 10th August 1927 ;

(e) to state whether they propose to do anything as indicated in the above article beyond supplying a few corrugated sheets and bamboos, etc., and again allowing the old insanitary conditions to prevail ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) and (b) It is impossible to lay on the table a statement of the character desired by the Honourable Member until the relief operations have been completed.

(c) The Honourable Member will be able to form his own conclusions on this point after the relief operations in both areas have been brought to a close and their respective financial results are known.

(d) Yes.

(e) Government do not admit that this is an accurate description of their proposals.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : In regard to (d) and (e), beyond saying yes, and that Government do not admit that this is an accurate description of their proposals, they do not give any indication as to how they propose to carry on the reconstruction. I want to know if there are any concrete proposals relating to this.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I should have thought that the statement I made to the House on the demand for the supplementary grant for flood relief operations would have given all the information required by the honourable member.

MILCH AND PLOUGH CATTLE SHORTAGE

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state whether they are aware that the people of the presidency are subjected to great hardship on account of the inadequacy and deterioration of milch and plough cattle ?

PASTURE GROUNDS AND FODDER CROPS

(b) whether a representation was submitted to Government asking them to remove the stand from its present site ;

(c) what action Government propose to take in the matter ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a), (b) and (c) Enquiries are being made.

FLOODS, GUJARAT : HOUSING OF MILL WORKERS, AHMEDABAD

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Will Government be pleased to state what steps they have taken to house the mill workers who were dishoused in Ahmedabad during the recent floods in Gujarat ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Government are prepared to finance co-operative housing societies generally, including any such societies as may be established in Ahmedabad City up to a limit of Rs. 6 lakhs, and they are aware that non-official agency is devoting itself to this problem.

LIQUOR SHOP, VERSOVA

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the residents of the village Versova near Andheri in the Thana District have submitted a petition to Government requesting them to remove the liquor shop at Versova ;

(b) if so, what steps Government have taken in the matter ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) Yes. It is pointed out to the Honourable Member that Versova is in the Bombay Suburban not in the Thana district.

(b) The matter is under consideration.

TOURS OF THE HONOURABLE MINISTERS IN 1926

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI (Belgaum District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the villages or the towns together with their respective districts visited by each of the Honourable Ministers during their tours in 1926 ;

(b) the dates of these visits ; and

(c) the total expenditure incurred by each of the Honourable Ministers on account of such tours during the year 1926 ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : (a), (b) and (c) The attached statements* A, B and C furnish the information asked for.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : In view of the fact that the Honourable Minister visited, during the course of about four months, a particular district fifteen times, I should like to know from Government whether there was any special work or any special circumstance like the Gujarat floods for which the Honourable Minister was deputed to go to Satara, and in connection with which Government have paid the expenses of touring ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I would refer the honourable member to the Honourable Minister in question.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : This question is before the House, and I should like to have the information from whatever source it is available.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Unfortunately, I am not, in possession of the information which the honourable member asked for, and I therefore refer him to the Honourable Minister concerned.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : Do you want fresh notice ? That is what I want to know.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I think the answer was due from the Honourable the Leader of the House, and he considers that the answer he has given is the answer to the question.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : Then I put the question to the Honourable Minister. In view of the fact that the Education Minister went to Satara 15 times in the course of four months during the year 1926, the election year, I should like to know whether there was any special work, or anything like floods, for which the Government deputed the Honourable Minister of Education, and in connection with which Government have incurred an expenditure to the extent of Rs. 4,000 on account of touring by the Ministers ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : The honourable member is referred to the honourable member Mr. Jadhav, who was then the Minister, and who is present in the House.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : I should like to have some guidance from you, Sir, as to what you propose I should do.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I think the honourable member is entitled to ask the question he has asked, and it is not quite fair on the part of Honourable Members on the Government side to refer the honourable member to a Minister who is not in charge of the department now. The information is with Government, and the reasons are with them.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : So far as I can understand the question, the honourable member wants to know whether Government deputed any Minister to visit any place. Government do not depute any Minister to visit any particular place. It is entirely the option of the Ministers to visit various places. I have not the least doubt that the then Honourable Minister had perfectly good reasons for visiting the place he did. Neither I personally nor Government possess the detailed information which I understand the honourable member to ask for, and under those circumstances, Sir, I cannot add anything to what I stated, and therefore I was constrained to refer him to the honourable member himself.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : From June to November the Ministers are out on tour. May I know the special reasons for all the Ministers to be out on tour in the period between June and November 1926 ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I am under the impression that the whole presidency including the constituencies of the Ministers desire to have as frequent visits from the Ministers as possible, and I am sure the honourable member from the Panch Mahals (Mr. Mukadam) desires the same.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : May I know whether Government have allowed the Honourable Ministers to have their election campaign side by side with the official work ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Yes.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : In these particular cases, may I know whether the Honourable Ministers were on their election campaign and performing their official duties, or while on official duty they were carrying on the election campaign ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I dare say it was greatly intermixed, but I am certain that they went for their official duties.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Government are not prepared to place upon the table the reports of their officers which are written for departmental use and not for publication.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : Is it a confidential report ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : It is a report to Government from their officers ; to that extent it is confidential.

Mr. H. J. AMIN : (Inaudible).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I have often informed honourable members that all reports submitted by their officers are confidential until they are published by Government and if they are published they can be placed on the table of the House.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : How are we to know, Sir, whether a report is confidential ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : If they are not placed on the table of the House they are of the other nature.

(b) the rate of interest at and the period for which the tagavi advances are made ;

(c) whether it is a fact that they have decided that no interest will be charged on tagavi advances made in consequence of the damage done by the flood. If the reply to this be in the affirmative, for how many years no interest will be charged on such loans ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : (a) Information has been called for and will be placed on the Council table when received.

(b) and (c) Attention is invited to the press notes of 22nd August and 30th September. Cases not mentioned in those memoranda will be dealt with under the ordinary tagavi rules.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (a) Yes.

(b) The estimated costs of constructing bridges at three different sites are as under :—

	Estimated cost
	Rs.
(1) Bridge over the existing Khodshi weir	.. 5½ lakhs.
(2) Bridge 300 ft. downstream from Khodshi weir.	5 ..

(b) whether they intend to invite the applications of rayots concerned for considering their grievances before they come to the conclusion that the scheme should prima facie be sanctioned ;

(c) whether they will be pleased to lay on the table a copy of the scheme of Messrs. Tata Sons, Limited ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) The scheme submitted by Messrs. Tata Sons, Limited, is only a preliminary one, and details of the villages and their area that will be covered by it are not yet available.

(b) Yes.

(c) Government are not prepared to do this.

KRISHNA CANAL, SATARA DISTRICT

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE (Satara District) : Will Government be pleased to state whether sanction for the insertion of certain conditions stated on page 761 of Volume XX of the Council Debates of 1927 was given by Government ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Yes.

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE : The condition laid down in Volume XX is " No complaint shall be made if there is any insufficiency of water in the canals." Government say that they have given their sanction. Section 31 of the Irrigation Act says that such claims shall be allowed. Contrary to that provision Government have sanctioned that this condition should be inserted in the printed application ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : I am not in a position to give a definite reply just now. We have noticed this point and we are looking into it.

Mr. N. R. GUNJAL (Poona District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether their attention has been drawn to the speech of one Mr. Gulam (Gulab ?) Shamatkhan, a Government servant, the purport of which speech was published in the Baramati Samachar of the 15th July 1927 ;

(b) whether they intend to take any action in the matter ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : (a) Yes.

(b) The subordinate has already been transferred from Baramati.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : Will Government be pleased to place on the Council table the nature of his speech ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : The speech has been reported in the Baramati Samachar of 15th July 1927.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : Will Government be pleased to place on the Council table the report they have received on the enquiry made on the Baramati Samachar's report ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Honourable members have so often been told that the reports from their officers to Government are not to be placed on the Council table, as they are treated as confidential. That is the reply given by you, Sir, to some honourable member.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : Will Government be pleased to place a cutting of that report in the Baramati Samachar on the Council table ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : The honourable member can get a copy of the newspaper which is public property just as Government can.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : I want to know whether Government will place it or not on the Council table, irrespective of the fact whether we can get a copy in the bazaar or not.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The Honourable the General Member doubts the reasonableness of the question and says that a copy of the paper can be had anywhere.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHAᅀGIR : It is not usual to place on the Council table papers which are available to honourable members by other means. You place on Council table papers for the information of honourable members which they cannot get in any other way. It is quite open to the honourable member opposite to get a copy of the paper and read it.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM : The right of asking the Government to place a certain document on the Council table is intended to draw the attention of the House and Government to it. In this case the attention of Government has been drawn to it. It is to draw the attention of the House that Government are now asked to place a copy of it on the Council table.

Sardar G. N. MUJUMDAR : May I know the subject-matter of the speech referred to in the question ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The Honourable the General Member has referred honourable members to the paper itself.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : If the paper is not before the House how are we to know ?

An Honourable MEMBER : I think he raised communal hatred in that speech.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHAᅀGIR : I think he did.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : Is transfer a sufficient punishment ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHAᅀGIR : I understand that the officer in question has apologised to certain parties concerned.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : It is not given in the answer.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHAᅀGIR : I am given to understand that he has tendered an apology.

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM : Can we add it to the reply ?

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM (Eastern Sind) : Will Government be pleased to state

(a) whether it is a fact that the sanad issued to Mr. P. D. Shamdasani of Hyderabad, Sind, soon after the first city survey of the town in respect of a certain plot of ground held by him stated that the ground described therein was thereby declared to be " private property " and that it would therefore be continued by the British Government without any objection or question as to title to him or to whomsoever should from time to time be its lawful holders ;

(b) whether it is a fact that later on Government issued fresh orders relating to the grant of sanads and Government Resolution No. 10347, dated 26th October 1909 directed that the sanads should only recite and set out the nature of each tenure and "should in no way alter the tenure ; "

(c) whether it is a fact that in Government Resolution No. 9656 (Revenue Department), dated 9th October 1916 Government adhered to the orders contained in the above Resolution ;

(d) whether it is a fact that on 16th May 1927 a new sanad was issued to Mr. Shamdasani for the same plot of ground but his right of " private property " declared in the original sanad was altered into a right of mere " occupancy ; "

(e) whether it is a fact that section 37 of the Bombay Land Revenue Code recognizes the right of private property in land ;

(f) the legal sanction for the conversion of Mr. Shamdasani's right of private property over the above-mentioned plot into a right of occupancy ;

(g) whether it is a fact that all other sanads recently issued to holders of land in the town of Hyderabad contain a similar alteration of tenure ;

(h) what objection, if any, they have to issuing orders that in granting new sanads no alteration in the nature of the tenure as contained in the old sanad should be made ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) Yes.

(d) Yes.

(e) Yes.

(f) The words " or to the like effect " occurring in section 133, Land Revenue Code, which are intended to provide for cases where the terms of schedule H to the Code are not strictly applicable to the tenures of the holders, were apparently lost sight of, and as the resurvey was ordered under sections 106 and 131, the sanad granted to property holders followed the exact wording of form H.

(g) Yes.

(h) None. In fact Government have issued orders directing the grant in such cases of fresh sanads confirming property-holders in their original rights according to the terms of their old sanads.

PUBLIC PROSECUTOR, SIND : APPEARANCE FOR ACCUSED PERSONS

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM (Eastern Sind) : Will Government be pleased :—

* * * * *

(e) to state whether it is a fact that in what is known as the Mehar Rape case the Sessions Judge, Larkana, had ordered further inquiry but the accused having applied in revision to the High Court against that order, the Public Prosecutor appeared for the Crown and successfully supported the order for further inquiry, that thereafter while on leave he took up an engagement on behalf of the accused, appeared before the District Magistrate of Larkana and having secured his sanction for withdrawal of the case he applied to the Sessions Judge, Larkana, for his consent to the withdrawal, that when the Sessions Judge refused to give consent, he personally filed a revision application before the High Court against this last order of the Sessions Judge and that after this application was dismissed by the High Court he appeared in the Sessions Court, Larkana, to defend the accused ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (e) This question was answered at the July-August session and the reply given was " Government have no information." Government have since obtained the information. The facts are as stated in the honourable member's question. The Public Prosecutor had, however, obtained permission to appear on behalf of the accused. Also when Mr. Elphinston appeared for the accused in the Sessions Judge's Court and in the court of the Judicial Commissioner of Sind to support the application for withdrawal of the case against the accused under section 494 of the Criminal Procedure Code, he did not appear against Government, for the District Magistrate and the Police were agreed that the case had collapsed and should not proceed.

MISCONDUCT OF A TEACHER OF A SCHOOL AT SHAHPUR-CHAKAR IN NAWABSHAH DISTRICT

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM (Eastern Sind) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the "Hindus" of Hyderabad (Sind), dated 22nd June 1927, published a correspondent's letter criticising the action of the School Board of Nawabshah District in regard to certain allegations made against a teacher in a school at Shahpur Chakar, a village in the district ;

(b) whether it is a fact that the allegations made affected his moral character and that many inhabitants of the village had gathered at the spot where the teacher was caught misbehaving ;

(c) whether it is a fact that the School Board instituted inquiries into to the teacher's conduct and numerous witnesses, Hindu and Muslim, confirmed the truth of the allegations made against the teacher ;

(d) whether it is a fact that the teacher has not been dismissed but has been pardoned ;

(e) the cases, if any, in which Government have allowed teachers proved to be guilty of immoral conduct to remain in charge of students ;

(f) whether it is a fact that allegations have been made that the teacher sent messages and presents to his paramour through young boys of the school ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) Yes.

(b) It is true that the allegations were made in the letter referred to.

(c) The answer to the first part is in the affirmative. As regards the latter part the result of the inquiry failed to prove the truth of any of the allegations made against the master.

(d) In view of the reply to (c) above, the question of dismissing the master did not arise. However, in the interests of the administration the teacher was transferred to another school as the enquiries showed that the trouble was due to the fact that the Head Master was not on good terms with the assistant master in question.

(e) There have been no cases in which teachers proved to be guilty of immoral conduct have been allowed to remain in charge of students.

(f) Yes, but they have not been found to be true (vide reply to (c) above).

CIVIL AVIATION

Mr. HAJI IBRAHIM HAJI MAHOMED JITEKAR (Southern Division): In view of the rapid strides of progress which commercial aviation has made in Western countries ensuring expeditious conveyance of men and material from one place to another, will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have considered in conjunction with the Government of India the possibility of introducing and encouraging aviation as a measure of commercial utility for the Presidency ;

(b) if so, whether they will be pleased to place on the Council table the correspondence which has passed between the Government of Bombay and the Central Government ;

(c) whether it is proposed to institute measures for the training of the youth of the presidency as pilots and mechanics ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) No.

(b) Does not arise.

(c) There is no such proposal under the consideration of Government at present.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM : Are Government aware that at a recent meeting in Simla which dealt with the question of aviation a suggestion was made that a route from Karachi via Badin and Nagar might be investigated ? Have the Government of Bombay been consulted about it ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : So far as I am aware no such suggestion has been communicated to this Government.

COUNTRY LIQUOR : UPSET PRICES

Mr. V. N. JOG (Dharwar District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) what is the cost price, per gallon, of country liquor in Bombay ;

(b) what was the upset price, per gallon, in excise auction sales of Bombay for country liquor shops for the years 1925-26, 1926-27 and 1927-28 ;

(c) what were the prices realized, per gallon, at Bombay at these auction sales of country liquor shops for the years mentioned above ;

(d) what was the selling price, per gallon, of country liquor in Bombay by licensees for these years ;

(e) what is the cost price, per gallon, of country liquor for the districts of Dharwar, Karwar, Belgaum, Bijapur, Sholapur, Poona, Thana and Nasik for these years ;

(f) what was the upset price, per gallon, in excise auction sales of the districts mentioned above for country liquor shops for these years ;

(g) what were the prices realized, per gallon at these auctions in the districts mentioned above for these years ;

(h) what was the selling price, per gallon, of country liquor in the districts mentioned above for these years ;

(i) whether it is a fact that the upset price fixed for Bombay was lower than that of the districts of the mofussil mentioned above for these years ;

(j) if so, why the price fixed in Bombay was lower for these years ;

(k) whether the drinkers of country liquor in Bombay got the benefit of it, and whether they got the liquor cheaper thereby ;

(l) whether the fixing of lower upset prices in Bombay brought in less revenue to Government and consequent more gains to licensees ;

(m) whether there are any rules laid down, or principle followed for the fixing of upset prices ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) and (e) Statement showing the cost price of country liquor charged to the licensees is placed on the Council table.

(b) and (f) Upset prices are fixed solely for the Collector's guidance at the auction, and are liable to variation, being either raised or lowered according to facts which come to his knowledge during the auction. The incidence varies not only from district to district but from shop to shop. Government are accordingly not prepared to furnish this information.

(c) and (g) The prices realized for shops vary. The average prices realized are shown in statement B which is placed on the Council table.

(d) and (h) The honourable member is referred to the reply given by Government to clauses (c) and (d) of a similar question asked by him which is published at page 1007 of Part XII of Volume XX of the Bombay Legislative Council Debates.

(i) In some cases the upset price fixed for Bombay was lower than that in the mofussil and in some cases it was higher.

(j) Where the upset prices are lower they are due to the necessity of keeping down selling prices to meet the competition of cheap foreign liquor and also to the fact that overhead charges such as rents, servants' wages, etc., are high.

(k) There is no question of the consumers of country liquor benefiting by lower upset prices as these are counterbalanced by higher overhead charges. But so far as it can be ascertained, it appears that country liquor is sold cheaper in Bombay than in some places in the mofussil, on account of the competition of cheap foreign liquor.

(l) No.

(m) No rules have been laid down for fixing upset prices. The prices are fixed by the Collector after taking into account various factors such as (1) the price at which the licensee is likely to sell liquor, (2) the price fetched by the shop in previous years, (3) the ration fixed for the shop, (4) overhead charges, (5) facilities for illicit practices in the neighbourhood, etc.

FOREST RANGERS : PROMOTIONS TO VACANCIES IN PROVINCIAL SERVICE

Mr. V. N. JOG (Dharwar District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether there is a single gradation list of forest rangers for the whole Presidency including Sind ;

(b) whether it is the policy of Government to make the selection for appointment to the Provincial Service strictly according to seniority combined with merit ;

(c) whether vacancies occurring in the Provincial Service are distributed equally among the four circles without any reference to seniority and merit ;

(d) if the answer to (b) is in the affirmative, the reasons why the sixteen rangers, serial Nos. 4 to 7 and 9 to 11 in the first grade and 1 to 9 in the second grade, have been passed over for promotion to the Provincial Service ;

(e) how they propose to remedy the injustice to senior and fitter rangers in other circles, the list of gradation being on ;

(f) whether they have any direct control over the maintenance and scrutinization of the service record of rangers becoming eligible from time to time for promotion to higher service ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) No.

(d) In making promotions merit as well as seniority is taken into account.

(e) There has been no injustice. If any instances of injustice are brought to the notice of Government they will be ready to remove the injustice.

(f) The service records of Rangers are maintained by the Chief Conservator of Forests, but before making their final selection Government are at liberty, if they so desire, to scrutinize these records.

Mr. V. N. JOG : The answer to (d) does not seem to be a proper one. The answer to (b) is in the affirmative. The answer to (d) is : "In making promotions merit as well as seniority is taken into consideration."

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Probably because they were found wanting in merit.

Mr. V. N. JOG : So, they were superseded ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : It appears from the answer that probably they were wanting in merit and so they were superseded.

Mr. V. N. JOG : What is the definite reason for superseding them ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : If a senior man is found wanting in merit and if the junior man has greater merit than his senior, then the junior man is promoted, superseding the senior man.

Mr. V. N. JOG : Were all the 16 men from Nos. 4 to 7 and 9 to 11, found wanting in merit ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : That is how I interpret it.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Is it owing to favouritism or merit that seniors are passed over and juniors are promoted ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : The question of favouritism does not come into play.

REGISTRATION : COPYING CHARGES

Mr. S. C. JOSHI : Will Government be pleased to state whether—

(a) it is a fact that Article 10 (1) of the Registration Manual prescribes a rate of annas two per folio for copying charges and not annas four as stated by the Honourable Member the Inspector General of Registration during the debate on the Registration Bill in August 1927 ;

(b) this rate has subsequently been changed by any order ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) The fee for copying documents in the register books is annas two for each folio of 100 words.

(b) No.

WATER RATE, DAHIWADI AND PINGALI KHURD VILLAGES

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Satara District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether applications have been received by the Collector and Executive Engineer, Satara, and the Commissioner, Central Division, from the villagers of Dahiwadi and Pingali Khurd in Man taluka of Satara district, complaining of excess rates levied for water taken for irrigating their lands from the Dahiwadi and Gondavale canals under the Pingali tank ;

(b) whether it is a fact that from the time that the Pingali tank was constructed about the year 1880 up to now, the practice was to levy the water rate on the area actually watered after measuring the same ;

(c) whether it is a fact that the old practice is discontinued and a new one introduced by which applicants for water are required to state in their applications the exact areas which they intend to water and that while the full rate on that whole area is collected even though the water actually available was not enough to cover the whole area, double the amount is levied as soon as a slight excess is found in the area actually watered ;

(d) whether, in view of the fact that the new practice presses hard upon the ryots, owing to the difficulty of ignorant agriculturists in being unable to know and state the exact area to be watered in gunthas and fractions of gunthas in their applications, they intend to take any steps to remedy the hardship ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : (a) Two petitions were received by the Commissioner, Central Division, in July 1927.

(b) The practice was in force up to the introduction of the Bombay Canal Rules, 1922, in 1924-25.

(c) Action is taken according to Bombay Canal Rules, 1922. In order to prevent the irrigators from applying for much larger areas than what they actually irrigate, the result of which would be that in the forecasts these larger sanctioned areas would be taken into account and other people would be deprived of their legitimate share of water, the irrigators are required to state in their water applications the actual areas they wish to irrigate. Full area applied for is charged provided water was available.

(d) Contiguous areas of equally rated seasonal crops entered in one and the same application are added together and sanctioned in multiples of 20 gunthas and assessed in multiples of 10 gunthas. As a further concession to the irrigators in the Satara Division, excesses up to 5 per cent. in the case of perennial crops and 10 per cent. in the case of other crops are charged at ordinary rates. Government do not consider that any further action is called for in the matter.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : May I ask a supplementary question as to whether this concession to irrigators in the Satara Division up to 5 per cent. was given after the matter was investigated or from the beginning ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : So far as I remember, the answer is in the affirmative.

FLOODS : DAMAGE AND RELIEF

Mr. V. N. JOG on behalf of Rao Bahadur S. T. KAMBLI (Dharwar District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the exact or approximate loss of life and loss of cattle and damage to crops and houses (with the number of collapsed houses) in the Bombay Presidency caused by the floods of July 1927 ;

(b) the measures taken by Government to give relief to flood-stricken people of the Presidency ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Complete information is not yet available.

(b) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the statements in connection with the demands for supplementary grants which have been presented to the Council.

(b) the number of ganja shops in the said district ;

(c) the number of foreign liquor shops in the said district ,

(d) the total amount of revenue realised by Government from the auction of toddy and liquor shops in the Dharwar district in 1927-28 ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) 111.

(b) 54—50 retail and 1 wholesale.

(c) 10—8 “ off ” shops and 2 Railway Refreshment Rooms.

(d) The vend fees realised from the auction of toddy shops and country spirit shops for 1927-28 amounted to Rs. 3,92,590 and Rs. 2,57,836 respectively.

KOLEROGA : METHOD OF TREATMENT

Mr. M. D. KARKI (Kanara District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether their attention has been drawn to the statement ‘ a request to Government ’ in a correspondence published in the issue of the ‘ Kanara Leader ’ dated 9th August 1927 on page 11, columns 2 and 3 ;

(b) whether they have considered the desirability of experimenting upon and demonstrating the method of treating the ‘ Koleroga ’ (ಕೊಳರೋಗ) in one or two places in each of the garden tracts in the Kanara district for a number of years to induce and convince the people about the utility of the treatment ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) Yes, after notice of this question was given.

(b) Yes, but they have not yet reached any final conclusion.

Mr. M. D. KARKI : May I know how long the experiments will go on ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Experiments are still being carried on ; further experiments are necessary before a final conclusion can be reached.

Mr. M. D. KARKI : May I know where the experiments are going on ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : I will require notice of that question.

Mr. M. D. KARKI : In view of the fact that “ Koleroga ” is very detrimental to the crops, does the Honourable Minister propose to expedite the matter ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Certainly ; as a matter of fact experiments are being carried on.

CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES : ADMINISTRATION REPORT

Mr. M. D. KARKI (Kanara District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the copies of the annual administration reports on the working of the Co-operative Societies are sent to the Co-operative Institute and its branches and the co-operative urban banks in the Presidency ;

(b) if not, whether they propose to do so ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) Yes.

(b) Does not arise.

Mr. M. D. KARKI : On whose information is the reply to (a) based ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : On the information of the Registrar of Co-operative Societies.

Mr. M. D. KARKI : May I inform the Honourable Minister that I am the Chairman of the Havik Bank and that that bank to my information has not received the report ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : I will make enquiries in the matter, but as a rule the reports are sent.

CO-OPERATORS' DAY

Mr. M. D. KARKI (Kalaria District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that a day known as Co-operators' Day is being observed every year in the month of July and that men of all ranks in society and of all shades of opinion in life meet together in every town and many villages of this Presidency on that day on the common platform of co-operation ;

(b) whether they are aware that Government officers and servants take part in the functions for the celebration of that day freely ;

(c) if so, why that day is not declared a public holiday ;

(d) whether they intend to declare that day as a public holiday and order the closing of all the Government offices on that day ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) and (b) Government are aware that some form of celebration does take place, though they have no information that it is on so comprehensive a scale as the Honourable Member's question would suggest.

(c) and (d) The question has not been considered by Government as no demand for a public holiday has been received from the public.

Mr. M. D. KARKI : Is not the suggestion of the honourable members of this House a demand from the public ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : I cannot accept that as a demand from the general public. If a holiday has to be declared, I think there must be a demand from the general public.

Mr. M. D. KARKI : May I know from whom the Honourable Minister expects the demand ? Do not the members of this House represent the public ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : In the first place, Government do not know that the Co-operators' Day is observed on such a comprehensive scale as is stated by the honourable member in part (a) of his question. If Government find that it is observed on such a comprehensive scale, then Government may think of declaring it a holiday.

Mr. M. D. KARKI : Does the Honourable Minister know that the Education Department does allow that day as a holiday ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : I will require notice of that question.

MOTOR ACCIDENTS IN KANARA

Mr. M. D. KARKI (Kanara District) : Will Government be pleased to state

(b) whether all or any of them were due to rash or negligent driving ;

(c) how many of them were fatal :

(d) whether there was prosecution for all of them ; if so, how many ended in conviction and how many in discharges or acquittals ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : The information is being obtained.

DISAFFORESTATION APPLICATIONS

Mr. M. D. KARKI (Kanara District) : Will Government be pleased to state

(a) whether it is a fact that the Member of Legislative Council for Kanara had forwarded to the Honourable the Minister of Forests the application of Mr. Narayan Venkatraman Hegade with his remarks on 24th December 1926 regarding the disafforestation of some land in the vicinity of his (Hegade's) cultivation and habitation in the village of Hennur, taluka Honavar ;

(b) whether he (the Member of the Legislative Council) had made a special request to the Honourable the Minister that the enquiries in the matter should be made through the local revenue authorities only and not through the forest authorities ;

(c) through whom the enquiry was made ; if through forest authorities, why ;

(d) whether they would place the whole correspondence on the Council table ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) The subject matter of the petition pertained to the Forest Department. The enquiry was therefore made through the local officers of that Department, and their report was communicated to Government through the Collector of Kanara.

(d) Government do not consider that any useful purpose would be served by placing the correspondence on the Council table.

Mr. M. D. KARKI : May I know whether the Collector of Kanara differed from the report of the Forest Department ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : He did not differ from it.

TAGAVI FOR FLOOD-STRICKEN PEOPLE, KANARA

Mr. M. D. KARKI (Kanara District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Resolution on the subject of granting of tagavi free of interest in the flood-stricken areas which was moved by the Member of the Legislative Council for Kanara in the October session of 1924 and passed by the Council by a majority of votes, was fully given effect to ;

(b) if not, why not ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : The Honourable Member is referred to item No. 29 in the statement placed on the Council Table in reply to the question regarding Bombay Legislative Council—Resolutions adopted, put by Rao Saheb D. P. Desai on behalf of Mr. G. I. Patel at the last sessions of the Legislative Council and printed at page 186 of the Bombay Legislative Council Debates, Volume XX, Part II.

SEASON REPORTS

Mr. M. D. KARKI (Kanara District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) what amount has been taken by them as the normal price of rice, jowari and bajri for the purpose of their season reports :

(b) whether this normal price has been fixed for all times or whether it is liable to be changed according to the times ;

(c) whether the normal price fixed for rice, jowari and bajri is uniform throughout the Presidency or varies in the different districts of the Presidency ;

(d) if so, what is the normal price of rice (both of white and boiled quality) in the four districts of the Bombay Karnatak and of jowari and bajri in the three districts of Dharwar, Bijapur and Belgaum ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) and (b) In fixing the normal prices the average of the five years preceding the war (1909-14), excluding the abnormal year 1912-13, is taken at present. Government however are considering whether a new scale should not be adopted.

(c) It varies in the different districts of the Presidency.

(d) The accompanying statement furnishes the information required by the Honourable Member. Separate figures for white and boiled rice are not available.

Mr. M. D. KARKI (Kanara District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Chief Conservator of Forests has submitted his report after consulting the Commissioners of Divisions to them on the subject of establishment and constitution of forest advisory committees the formation of which was sanctioned by them in their Revenue Department Resolution No. 7324/24, dated 15th July 1927 ;

(b) if so, the names of the districts where the advisory committees have been proposed to be established and their constitution and when the committees will start working ;

(c) if the reply to (a) is in the negative, the reasons why the report is delayed by the Chief Conservator of Forests and when he is likely to submit it ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) No.

(b) Does not arise.

(c) The submission of the report must necessarily take some time, as the scheme has to be framed in consultation with the Divisional Commissioners.

BETTAS : PROPRIETARY RIGHTS

Mr. M. D. KARKI (Kanara District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have called for the opinion of the Commissioner, Southern Division, on the unanimous recommendation of the Forest Grievances Enquiry Committee of 1925 that the proprietary rights over bettas should be given to the gardeners ;

(b) if so, when and what has been the opinion of the Commissioner on the subject ; and when they intend to give those rights to the gardeners ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) Yes.

(b) On 30th July 1927. The Commissioner's report has not been received. The question of the grant of proprietary rights over bettas to gardeners will be considered on receipt of the report.

PROHIBITION POLICY

Mr. M. D. KARKI (Kanara District) : Will the Honourable Minister of Excise and Forests be pleased to state—

(a) whether he intends to introduce the policy of prohibition as an experimental measure in any of the districts of the Presidency ;

(b) if so, when he proposes to introduce it and in what district it will be introduced for the first time ;

(c) whether he is aware that Kanara is a district where it can be successfully introduced without much loss to Government ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : The Honourable Member is referred to the reply to the question asked by Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale on 13th October 1927.

DRINKING WATER. SHOLAPUR

Mr. N. G. MAJMUJAR (Sholapur District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) which of the villages in the district of Sholapur had no supply of drinking water during the month of May 1927 ;

(b) the distance from which the people in each of the villages in the district of Sholapur referred to in (a) had to fetch water for drinking purposes ;

(c) the number of people that left each of the villages in the district of Sholapur referred to in (a) due to water famine ;

(d) what action they propose to take for improving the supply of drinking water in the villages of Sholapur District which at present experience water famine during summer ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a), (b) and (c) The collection of the detailed information asked for in these clauses would entail an expenditure of time and trouble out of all proportion to its possible utility. There was scarcity of drinking water supply in several villages of the Karmala and Malsiras talukas, and the people had in some cases to fetch water from a distance. No instance has so far come to notice where the people had to leave their villages owing to water famine.

(d) The provision of an adequate supply of drinking water is a function of the District Local Boards, which are liberally subsidized by Government for the purpose.

Mr. N. G. MAJMUDAR : Will the Honourable Member be pleased to state the number of villages in the Karmala and Malsiras talukas where there was scarcity of drinking water supply ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : That is already replied to in the printed answer.

Mr. N. G. MAJMUDAR : It is not.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : It is not possible to state the names of the villages ; that would require a detailed list involving a very comprehensive enquiry.

Mr. N. G. MAJMUDAR : (Inaudible).

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Even that would involve a considerable amount of labour and it is not apparent what benefit would result from the information if it were obtained.

FLOODS, THAR PARKAR DISTRICT : DAMAGE

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware of the heavy rainfall in Mirpurkhas, Jamesabad and Digri talukas in the Thar and Parkar District, Sind, and the subsequent flood caused by the overflow of "Doro Puran" and breaches in canals between 22nd and 30th July last ;

(b) whether it is a fact that heavy damage was caused to the kharif crops ;

(c) what is the total number of houses destroyed in the villages of Jamesabad and Digri talukas ;

(d) what is the total value of the house and other property destroyed ;

(e) whether it is a fact that about 50 per cent. of the cattle have been destroyed in these villages ;

(f) if the replies to (a), (b) and (e) are in the affirmative, what steps Government have taken or propose to take to relieve the distress ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) and (b) Yes.

(c) and (d) Full information is not yet available, but the total losses in houses and moveable property in these two talukas are roughly estimated to amount to Rs. 9½ lakhs.

(e) No. It is estimated that Jamesabad taluka has lost 9 per cent. of its plough cattle and Digri 25 per cent.

(f) Government are prepared to grant loans for the rebuilding of houses, the terms of which have been announced. Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of boys desirous of prosecuting their studies with Urdu as their vernacular after passing the fourth standard vernacular from municipal as well as other primary schools in Karachi, and who are refused admission in the secondary schools there;

(b) whether they are aware that about 200 boys learning Urdu from various local primary schools are expected to appear for the 4th standard examination to be held under the supervision of the school board, Karachi, and that the seats available in the Sind Madressah secondary school are less than this number;

(c) whether they are aware that this was brought to the notice of the Honourable Minister for Education during his last visit to Karachi, by a deputation of leading citizens and that the Honourable Minister had promised to look into the desirability of making necessary arrangements in the local N. J. High School for Urdu 1st standard English in addition to similar Gujarati, Marathi and Sindhi standards;

(d) if so, what steps have been taken to redress that grievance? if no steps have been taken the reason therefor;

(e) whether they have formulated any scheme to meet the desire of an increasing number of students to take Urdu as their second language;

(f) if so, what the scheme is;

(g) whether they are aware that several representations from Karachi have been made for the grant of permission to take up Urdu language in the secondary scholarship examination as is done in Bombay Presidency in the case of Mussalman candidates;

(h) the reason why they have not removed the condition in the secondary scholarship examination rules forbidding the taking up of Urdu language in the secondary scholarship examination in Sind;

(i) what steps they intend to take in the matter?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: (a) and (b) Forty-four Hindu and 131 Muhammadan boys passed the Vernacular Standard IV (Urdu) last March. Seventeen Hindu and 138 Muhammadan boys with Urdu as their vernacular applied for admission to Standard I (English) in the various local schools where Urdu is taught. All these boys were admitted.

(c) There is nothing on the record to show whether the grievance referred to in part (b) was specifically brought to the notice of the late Honourable the Minister of Education.

(d) In view of the special facilities for the advancement of their secondary education by way of a special grant to the Sind Madressah and particularly in view of the prevailing financial stringency no steps have been taken.

(e) No.

(f) Does not arise.

(g) A representation was received from the Karachi Municipality requesting that Urdu and Marathi may be allowed as media of the High and Middle School Scholarships Examinations.

(h) At present only Sindhi and Gujarati speaking boys are allowed to compete for the scholarships. This concession was not, however, extended to the Urdu and Marathi speaking boys as their number was not considered to be large enough to justify it.

(i) The question is under consideration.

ACQUISITION ACT : LLOYD BARRAGE

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that certain owners of lands in the tracts affected by the Lloyd Barrage, whose holdings have been acquired for purposes of the Barrage under the Land Acquisition Act, have applied for grants of land in preference to monetary compensations in return for their lands that have come under acquisition ;

(b) if so, whether it is a fact that such applications for the grants of land in exchange for land acquired have invariably been rejected ;

(c) whether it is a fact that they have issued orders totally prohibiting the grant of land as compensation in exchange for lands acquired ; if so, for what reasons and on what authority ;

(d) whether they are aware that such orders have resulted in inflicting grave hardship and heavy loss on several of the parties affected by them ;

(e) whether they propose to consider the advisability of an immediate modification of their orders so as to permit of land exchanges in suitable cases where equity demands such a course ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes.

(b) No.

(c) No.

(d) and (e) Do not arise.

FLOODS, SIND AND GUJARAT

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether their attention has been drawn to the havoc caused by the recent floods in Sind and Gujarat ;

(b) what action has been taken by them in (i) Sind, (ii) Gujarat ;

(c) whether it is a fact that the distress in Sind is the same as in Gujarat ;

(d) whether it is a fact that Gujarat is relieved of the distress by the activities of the public combined with that of Government ;

(e) whether it is a fact that very little has been done in Sind in comparison to what has been done in Gujarat on account of the weakness of public opinion ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes.

(b) The Honourable Member is referred to the statement of supplementary demands presented to the Council in the course of this session.

(c) Yes.

(d) Yes.

(e) No ; if the people of Sind have not given the same expression to their feelings over the calamity that has befallen them as the people of Gujarat have, it does not follow that Government have been less solicitous of the interests of Sind than they have been of those of Gujarat.

FLOODS : TAKAVI AND OTHER HELP BY GOVERNMENT

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the total population in each of the talukas of Sind affected by the recent floods of (i) Mussalmans, (ii) Non-Mussalmans ;

(b) the total number of Zamindars and others who received Takavi and other help in each taluka (i) Mussalmans, (ii) Non-Mussalmans ;

(c) whether it is a fact that the Sind Government has issued orders to stop giving Takavi to distressed zamindars and others ;

(d) if the reply to (c) be in affirmative the reasons for such orders ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) and (b) The information will be called for.

(c) No.

(d) Does not arise.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (In Urdu) : Government have said that orders have not been issued to stop tagavi. Is it a fact that out of the tagavi given, 7 per cent., is deducted by the mukhtiarkars and tapedars and 10 per cent. have to be given to the Blind Relief Fund ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : No.

KARACHI MUNICIPALITY

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City) : Will Government be pleased to state

(a) whether they are aware that the President of the Karachi Municipality has been intentionally delaying the consideration of the proposed new Act ;

(b) whether they are aware that though the population of Hindus and Muhammadans is equal, yet the number of Muhammadan representatives is 3 less and that the Hindu majority is further increased by the election of Hindu members from the Chambers of Indian Merchants, etc. ;

(c) if so, whether they propose to take any steps in the matter ;

(d) whether they are aware that the proposed legislation of amending the Karachi Municipal Act has been delayed too long ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (a) The allegation made is incorrect. The Bill was placed on the agenda of the Municipality several times but the members themselves showed a disinclination to proceed with its consideration as some of them were unable to obtain copies of the Bill from their predecessors in office.

(b) Yes.

(c) The question of redistributing the seats among the various communities of Karachi will be considered after the views of the Municipality are received on the Bill.

(d) Greater expedition might possibly have been advantageous.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (In Urdu) : Who has stated that the members did not receive copies of the bill from their predecessors ; the members or the President ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN (In Urdu) : This is what the President has stated.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (In Urdu) : Has the President given the names of the members who have so stated ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN (In Urdu) : No.

Mr. L. M. DESHPANDE : Sir, cannot the answers be given in English ?

FLOODS, GUJARAT : SUPPLY OF CORRUGATED SHEETS

Mr. W. S. MUKADAM (Panch Mahals District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) if in the matter of gratuitous providing of corrugated iron sheets for roofing of huts of very poor people in the flood affected districts of Kaira and Ahmedabad to the extent of Rs. one lac in each district any non-official relief workers or non-official opinion were consulted with a view to the proper selection of deserving persons ? If not, why not ;

(b) whether the selection of deserving persons was left merely to the village officers—Talati and Mookhi or to any superior officers ;

(c) whether non-official opinion was consulted even with regard to the stoppage of overlapping official and non-official charity in the matter of free distribution of sheets ? If so, who were the non officials consulted in each of the various talukas of the two districts concerned ;

(d) the number of families relieved in each taluka of the two districts classifying them by their caste, and the number of sheets given collectively to families of each caste, giving at the same time the size of sheets distributed if possible ;

(e) whether they are aware that there has been great dissatisfaction at the quite inadequate way in which the corrugated iron sheets were distributed in the Thasra Taluka of Kaira, i. e., by giving only 4 to 8 sheets per hut instead of 10 as ordered by Government, this being the minimum number required for a hut of the smallest size ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes.

(b) No ; non-official agency has also been consulted.

(c) Government do not believe that there has been any overlapping, inasmuch as there has been only one agency for the supply of the sheets,

(d) Government are not in possession of this detailed information at the moment, nor is it likely that it will be possible to compile it later without an altogether excessive expenditure of time and labour.

(e) Government are aware that it was not possible at the outset to supply the full number of sheets to every person who required them, but steps are being taken to make up the deficiency wherever it exists.

NUMBER OF CATTLE AND GRAZING AREAS IN SURAT DISTRICT

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District): Will Government be pleased to state--

(a) the number of cattle in each village of the Surat District and the grazing area assigned for them in each village ;

(b) whether they are aware that the grazing area assigned is insufficient in proportion to the number of cattle ;

(c) if so, whether they intend to remedy this state of things by assigning additional area ?

The Honourable Mr. J. I. RIFU : (a) Statements* furnishing the required information are placed on the Council table.

(b) No complaint has been received from any village regarding the inadequacy of the grazing area. In addition to the area assigned for free pasturage Government waste land in those villages in which it is available is yearly leased out to the villagers at the rate of 2 annas per acre or auctioned according to the orders in force in each case. Besides every khatedar keeps land uncultivated for the purpose of grazing his agricultural stock according to his own requirements. Moreover, no general standard of area for free pasturage per head of cattle can be fixed, as the productivity of grazing lands varies and the proportion of the cattle maintained in a village which is actually essential for cultivation is also a varying factor.

(c) It is not possible to provide any considerable additional area of free grazing land without resorting to the compulsory acquisition of occupied land and so inflicting hardship on the occupants concerned.

INDIAN MANGOES

Mr. B. R. NANAL (Ratnagiri District): Will Government be pleased to state--

(d) Steamer companies charge Rs. 5 per dozen for Egyptian and European ports.

Mr. B. R. NANAL : With reference to (a), will the Honourable Minister state why no enquiries have been made ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : A committee has been appointed to make enquiries as regards all these. Part of the report has come.

Mr. B. R. NANAL : Does the Honourable Minister think that the charge of Rs. 5 per dozen is reasonable ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : It is not a question of what I consider a reasonable charge. It is a fact that the companies charge that rate.

Mr. B. R. NANAL : Are not Government bound to procure reasonable charges ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : I really do not know whether the companies will listen to us. But if notice is given enquiries will be made.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Has Government no control over these companies ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : This Government has got no control whatever.

(a) for tagavi with and without interest, respectively ;

(b) for housing and reconstruction ;

(c) for free distribution of grain, food and clothing ;

(d) for other measures of relief ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) to (d) The Honourable Member's attention is invited to the demands for supplementary grants presented to the Council in the course of the present Session.

DAMAGE TO CROPS IN CERTAIN AREAS OF THE PRESIDENCY

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI on behalf of Mr. G. I. PATEL (Ahmedabad Millowners' Association): Will Government be pleased—

CO-OPERATIVE HOUSING SOCIETIES : STATEMENT OF THE HONOURABLE MR. DEHLAVI

Mr. J. R. PATEL (Kaira District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether their attention has been drawn to the statement appearing in the Times of India of the 23rd August 1926, made by the Honourable Mr. Dehlavi, ex-Minister for Co-operation, regarding co-operative housing societies ;

(b) what they have done to simplify and shorten the lengthy procedure referred to in the above statement ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) Yes. The statement appeared in the Times of India of 23rd August 1927 and not 23rd August 1926.

(b) In the case of ordinary co-operative housing societies the necessary technicalities cannot be dispensed with. Government will consider what steps should be taken if cases of avoidable delay are brought to their notice.

FLOODS, GUJARAT : HOUSES OF DEPRESSED AND BACKWARD CLASSES

Mr. J. R. PATEL (Kaira District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether their attention has been drawn to the fact that the majority of houses that have been damaged or washed off by the recent floods in Gujarat belonged to the depressed and backward classes ;

(b) whether it is a fact that for the most part such houses were situated on the outskirts and the low-lying places of the villages ;

(c) what measures they have adopted to provide new house-sites on a higher level to such people to prevent recurrence of such disasters in future ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) and (b) Yes.

(c) This matter is already engaging the attention of the Flood Relief Officer, Gujarat.

FLOODS, GUJARAT : RELIEF

Mr. J. R. PATEL (Kaira District) : Will Government be pleased—

(a) to place on the Council table a statement showing in a tabular form the amount spent by Government in providing gratuitous relief in the form of corn, clothes, seeds, corrugated iron sheets, timber and other building materials, bricks and tiles respectively in each taluka of Gujarat, as also the amount spent by the Bombay Central Relief Fund Committee and other agencies in a similar manner ;

Bombay

Rs. 10,52,799.

From these figures the Honourable Member can calculate the amounts placed on the totalisator.

CHAVDI BUILDING, RAVER

Mr. N. R. GUNJAL on behalf of Mr. RAJMAL LAKHICHAND (East Khandesh): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the public of Raver in the East Khandesh District had applied to the Prant Officer and the Collector for the removal of the present chavdi building and for building it elsewhere in the town;

(b) whether it is a fact that the municipality of Raver had requested the Collector to accept a sum of Rs. 2,000 for the chavdi building on the condition that the second floor of the building should be used by the municipality for its office and that the request was refused;

(c) whether there is any difficulty in changing the present chavdi building to another site;

(d) whether the present order of the Collector not to remove the chavdi building will hold good in spite of the public opinion and the request of the municipality in view of the fact that the chavdi is the property of both, i.e., inhabitants of the town and Government?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: (a) Yes.

(b) The Municipality of Raver offered to contribute a sum of Rs. 2,000 for the chavdi building on condition that the chavdi was removed from the present site and rebuilt on the site occupied by the cattle pound and the upper storey was allotted for the Municipal Office. This site was however considered unsuitable as it was too small for a chavdi at a place like Raver and was hemmed in on both sides by houses. Another site in proximity to the existing chavdi was proposed, but this was not more convenient than the existing one, and moreover the cost of building on any new site would have come to more than Rs. 6,000 even with all the available materials of the old building. On the other hand the cost of renovating the old chavdi on the existing site was only about Rs. 3,000. The proposal to rebuild the chavdi on a new site was therefore negatived on the ground of expense, and it was decided to rebuild it on the existing site with certain additions and alterations providing for the increase of the width of the road. The Municipality was informed accordingly, and that body having resolved to have its own separate building, withdrew its offer of a contribution to the chavdi fund.

(c) There is no other more suitable site; and there is moreover the question of expense as explained in (b) above.

(d) Chavdis are Government buildings, the ownership of which vests in Government, though the public are allowed to use them. Government are satisfied that there are good grounds for the Collector's decision to rebuild the chavdi on the existing site and they do not therefore intend to interfere in the matter.

ANNAWARI : ADWAL AND JALIA

Mr. N. A. BECHER on behalf of Mr. A. D. SHETH (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state the annawari estimate of crops in the villages of Adwal and Jalia ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU :

Adwal	6·1 annas
Jalia	6·3 "

ANNAWARI : ADWAL AND JALIA

Mr. N. A. BECHER on behalf of Mr. A. D. SHETH (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware of the annawari estimates of the villages in Dhandhuka Taluka prepared and published by Committee of the Taluka Local Board, Dhandhuka ;

(b) whether they are aware that the said committee put less than anna 4 for Jalia and Adwal ;

(c) how much land in the said villages was uncultivated because of excessive rains, and how much land could give little or no crops because of damage by insects ;

(d) the approximate area in which kharif was sown and in which rabi was sown ;

(e) whether they are aware that at the time of annawari kharif crop was all taken home ;

(f) whether they are aware that Adwal and Jalia are both talukdari villages held in partnership by different talukdars and that the vahivat books are kept of the village crops in regular form in which all the receipts of crops are entered ;

(g) whether they are aware that receipts of kharif crops in these villages could have been seen in the vahivat books at the time of preparing annawari estimates ;

(h) whether Talati, Mamlatdar, Assistant Collector, Collector or the Commissioner or any of them attempted to have a look of these vahivat books ;

(i) whether any of the above said officers asked villagers their opinion in the matter ;

(j) whether the annawari estimates were prepared and confirmed without any opportunity being given to the villagers to explain their case in person ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) In Adwal and Jalia 78 and 250 acres, respectively, were left uncultivated owing to the unfavourable character of the season. The crops in 1,500 and 100 acres of the two villages were found to have been damaged by insects. The anna valuations for these uncultivated and damaged areas were shown as nil in the statements.

(d)		Kharif		Rabi
		Acres		Acres
	Adwal	..	.. 1,000	5,800
	Jalia	..	.. 1,108	392

(e) Inquiry is being made on this point.

(f) Yes. It was not known to the Mamlatdar that vahivat books in the proper form were regularly kept by all the talukdars. Annawari statements are prepared before the vahivat books are written up.

(g) The vahivat books were not examined. It is not possible to say what information they contained.

(h) No, as it is in no way obligatory or even customary to look into the vahivat books of a coparcenary talukdari village in preparing the annawari of the crops.

(i) Yes. The talukdars of these villages were given an opportunity to explain the agricultural situation in their villages.

(j) The inspecting officers consulted the villagers.

ANNAWARI : ADWAL AND JALIA

Mr. N. A. BECHAR on behalf of Mr. A. D. SHETH (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the annawari estimate made by the Mamlatdar of the villages Adwal and Jalia ;

(b) the annawari estimate made by the Assistant Collector of the said villages ;

(c) whether it is a fact that the Assistant Collector had personally visited the villages in question and tried to understand the people's point of view while the Mamlatdar, though he had visited the villages, had not tried to elicit the people's view and that the Collector had done neither ;

(d) the grounds why the Collector accepted the Mamlatdar's view, refused to accept that of the Assistant Collector and paid no heed to the view of the local board committee ;

(e) whether it is a fact that though these villages are not more than four miles from Dhandhuka where Collector had encamped for more than a week, the Collector had not visited them ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Adwal 6·1 annas
Jalia 6·3 „

(b) 4·6 annas for both the villages.

(c) Yes, as regards the Assistant Collector. The Mamlatdar did his best to elicit the views of the people. The fact that his view and that the Assistant Collector differed is no reason for concluding that he took no trouble in the matter. The Collector did not visit the villages.

(d) The Mamlatdar considered the condition of each crop and prepared detailed annawaris of them. The Prant Officer reduced the annawari for the whole village without giving his opinion about each crop separately. The anna valuations of the Bandh Karkun and the Mamlatdar agreed. The Collector reached his decision after considering these factors and a variety of other information.

(e) Yes. The Collector visited other villages of the taluka which he thought required his attention, irrespective of their distance from the taluka headquarters.

ANNAWARI : ADWAL AND JALIA

Mr. N. A. BECHAR on behalf of Mr. A. D. SHETH (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Collector, Ahmedabad, had received any application from talukdars of Adwal and Jalia to reconsider the annawari estimates and consequent revenue collection orders made by him ;

(b) if the answer to (a) is in affirmative, what further inquiries he made in the matter ; if not, why not ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes.

(b) The Collector forwarded the petitions to the Mamlatdar and from further enquiry through him it was found that the orders already passed did not require to be modified.

RICE LANDS, VASVARI

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the area of rice lands (Kyari) in the village of Vasvari, taluka Olpad, district Surat ;

(b) in what portion of this area was rice grown in each of the last five years ;

(c) what are the other crops grown in this rice land ;

(d) what is the reason why other crops are grown instead of rice in these lands ;

(e) whether Government charge himayat assessment and akasia assessment on those rice lands in this village in which rice is not grown ;

(f) if so, what is the reason for charging himayat assessment and akasia on these lands ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) 110 acres 36 gunthas.

(b)	Acres	Gunthas
	11	8	in 1922-23.
	9	5	in 1923-24.
	6	3	in 1924-25.
	0	23	in 1925-26.
	8	36	in 1926-27.

(c) Cotton, Wheat, Rabi, Juwari and grass.

(d) Partly because the kyari land does not get sufficient water from the irrigation tank and partly because of the deficiency of the rainfall. It may also be assumed that the cultivators have found it more convenient and profitable to grow other crops.

(e) Yes.

(f) Because the land has been so classified and assessed.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : With reference to (d) it is stated that people cannot cultivate rice "because they do not get sufficient water from the irrigation tanks." Do they not get remission of Himayat cess ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : The answer to that is in (f).

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : In years of failure of crops do not Government give remission of himayat cess ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : The answer to that is in the affirmative.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Then why are not people given remission ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I must ask for notice of that question.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : As regards akasia also, in cases of failure of rainfall, why are they not given remission ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : I have already replied that I am unable to say what the reason for not granting remission in this particular case was.

DRINKING WATER FOR GHOGHO

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether, in view of the fact that water of the boring in the port of Ghogho is undrinkable, they are considering the question of damming the river for securing an adequate supply of drinking water ;

(b) if so, what has been the result of those considerations ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (a) and (b) A scheme for water-supply to Ghogho known as " Badi Padwa Project " estimated to cost Rs. 1,31,717 was entered in the famine relief programme of the Northern Division for 1926-27. The survey of the project was not carried out for want of funds and it is unlikely that it will be taken up in the near future.

FERRY FARE : GHOGHO TO BHAGWA DANDI

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that the passenger fare of the ferry boat plying between Ghogho and Bhagwa Dandi of Surat which was only eight annas per passenger has been raised to a rupee and a half per passenger ;

(b) if so, whether they intend to take any steps for having the abnormally high fare reduced to a reasonable amount ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) The fare was raised in 1920-21 from Re. 1 to Rs. 1-8-0 per passenger ; but this fare is only for two " tapal machwas " which ply between Ghogho and Bhagwa Dandi. There is no regular ferry boat plying between these ports.

(b) Any owner of a machwa is allowed to ply for hire between Ghogho and Bhagwa Dandi under a license granted by the Collector of Salt Revenue, and no person has been given an exclusive right of plying. As the rules do not contemplate the prescription of any maximum fare, it is not possible for Government to interfere with the rates of fares.

FOREIGN LIQUOR LICENSE : TEMPORARY RENEWAL

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether there have been any precedents of reviving a cancelled foreign liquor license for the purpose of disposing of its balance stock after the date of its cancellation ;

(b) if so, what were those precedents, and when and in whose case they were allowed to happen and by which officers of Government ;

(c) if the answer to (a) is in the negative on what principles the precedent of reviving a cancelled foreign liquor license in the case of E. R. Fanibanda and Sons in “ Fanibanda Building ” near Saher Kotda Police Chowky, Ahmedabad, was created ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) No.

(b) The question does not arise.

(c) The license which was cancelled by the Commissioner of Excise was revived by Government in the special circumstances of the case.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : What were the special circumstance which necessitated Government to revive the license cancelled by the Commissioner of Excise though there was no precedent according to the reply to (a) ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Government are not to be guided by precedents alone. If they are to be guided by precedents alone they can take no original action in any case. In this particular case the liquor license was cancelled within five months.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN : Is the Honourable Minister aware that this sort of question has been asked by this same honourable member Mr. Swaminarayan over and over again — about fifty times at least ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Yes, a dozen questions at a time.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN : Will the Honourable Minister please say why these questions are asked over and over again ? And what is the motive behind ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : He knows best. I cannot say.

LIQUOR LICENSES : TRANSFER OF STOCK

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is the policy of Government to transfer the balance stock of a cancelled license to some other existing license of the same licensee ;

(b) if so, what were the reasons for not transferring the balance stock of the cancelled "off" foreign liquor license of Messrs. E. R. Fanibanda and Sons of Ahmedabad to his "Refreshment Bar" license situated in the same premises?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) No.

(b) The question does not arise.

FOREIGN LIQUOR LICENSES : SURRENDER AND TRANSFER

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the reasons why the surrendered "off" license of Messrs. D'Souza and Sons of Camp, Ahmedabad, was transferred to Saher Kotda Police Chowky, Ahmedabad, in the neighbourhood of which there was already an "off" license of Mr. F. C. Athayde and where there was no necessity of another "off" license being opened in a neighbouring building :

(b) whether there have been precedents for transferring surrendered licenses to distant localities ;

(c) if the answer to (b) is in the affirmative, the exact circumstances under which those precedents were created and the names of licensees in whose favour such action was taken ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a), (b) and (c) The Honourable Member is referred to the reply to the question asked by him at this session.* Government do not think that any public purpose will be served by instituting inquiries with reference to clauses (b) and (c) of the question.

REFRESHMENT ROOM LICENSES, AHMEDABAD

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether in each of the refreshment rooms of Ahmedabad City, the average sale of foreign liquor for the last 3 years, 1924, 1925 and 1926 is less than 1,000 gallons except in the refreshment room of Messrs. E. R. Fanibanda and Sons, where the average sale for those 3 years is more than 3,700 gallons ;

(b) if the answer to (a) is in the affirmative whether this is due to the fact that the said license is not conducted as a refreshment room license but as an "on" license for supplying abundant quantity of liquor to the customers including high caste Hindus who are morally and financially ruined ;

(c) if so, what steps Government intend to take to prevent refreshment room licenses from being utilized as "on" licenses for supplying abundant and unlimited quantities of foreign liquor for being drunk on the premises ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) Yes.

(b) Government have no reason to believe that this refreshment room is conducted otherwise than in strict accordance with the terms of the license, or that its conduct leads to the moral and financial ruin of high caste Hindus and others.

(c) The question does not arise.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Will the Honourable Minister refer to the next succeeding question No. 7 which refers to drunkards coming out of the liquor shop and doing mischief on the public road ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : If one person comes out drunk it does not follow that the high caste Hindus are morally and financially spoiled. If high class Hindus choose to go and drink, it is not the fault of the refreshment room.

REFRESHMENT ROOM, AHMEDABAD : NUISANCES

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that on the 29th of August 1927, a very heavily drunk person came out of the refreshment room of E. R. Fanibanda and Sons located at "Fanibanda Building" near Saher Kotda police chowky, Ahmedabad, and caused nuisance to the passers-by, boarded the motor car of one Mr. Purshottamdas and abused the chauffeur ;

(b) whether it is a fact that when the chauffeur called the owner of the car, the said drunkard abused the owner who was forced to hand him over to a police sergeant who was patrolling there ;

(c) whether it is a fact that the said drunkard abused also the police sergeant who consigned him to the Saher Kotda Police Chowky from whence that person owing to his being heavily drunk was sent to a hospital ;

(d) whether the above-mentioned case has been regularly registered by the police authorities and proper steps taken by them in that connection ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : This does not appear to be a matter of any public or general interest.

JUDGE, SMALL CAUSE COURT, AHMEDABAD

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the name and age of the present Small Cause Court Judge at Ahmedabad ;

(b) the average number of cases per day fixed for hearing for each of the last three months ;

(c) the average number of cases decided per day ;

(d) the average number of cases postponed without any hearing ;

(e) whether it is a fact that even in those cases which are postponed the parties, their witnesses and pleaders are kept awaiting from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. ;

(f) whether it is a fact that this results in very great inconvenience and trouble to parties, their witnesses and pleaders ;

(g) whether it is a fact as a result of this harassment good pleaders do not like to take up cases in this court ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: (a) to (g) Enquiries are being made.

JAIL COMMISSION REPORT: HONORARY VISITORS

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR: Will Government be pleased to state—

- (a) the names of honorary visitors to the jails in Bombay city;

- (d) whether the appointments so far made include social workers as recommended by the last Jail Commission Report;
- (e) the names of the social workers and the institutions to which they belong?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON: (a) A list is placed on the Council Table.

(b) The Honourable Member is referred to Chapter XVI, Bombay Jail Manual, Part I, revised edition, 1927.

(c) The number of separate visits during the first six months of the current year has been—

GRASS FARMING SPECIAL OFFICER

Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR (Nasik District): Will Government be pleased to state—

- (a) whether they had sent an officer to America to specialise in grass farming;
- (b) when he returned;

- (c) what amount was spent on him ;
- (d) what post he holds at present ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) Yes.

(b) In December 1924.

(c) This is being ascertained.

(d) Acting Assistant Professor of Botany, Agricultural College, Poona.

Rao Saheb R. V. VANDEKAR : What is the name of the officer ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : I do not know.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : As regards (a), it is stated that an officer was sent to America to specialise in grass farming. If that is so, why was he not given some appointment connected with farming ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : I really do not know whether the Assistant Professor of Botany has anything to do with farming or not. I will make enquiries.

IRRIGATION ASSESSMENT : SANGAMESHWAR

Mr. G. A. D. WASIF (Central Division) : Will Government be pleased to state the reasons why the assessment of Sangameshwar (taluka Malegaon, district Nasik) II Class Irrigation has been raised by 50 per cent. whereas in other villages where there is similar irrigation it is raised by nearly 33 per cent. ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Sangameshwar adjoins Malegaon and its irrigated area is within five minutes' walk of Malegaon Bazar. This is a very great advantage in the matter of marketing garden produce, and the advantage is reflected in the lease multiple of 6.64. The village has also the highest sale multiple in the Taluka. These are the main grounds for raising the assessment to the extent decided.

MUNICIPALITIES IN THE CENTRAL DIVISION : NOMINATION OF MUHAMMADANS

Mr. G. A. D. WASIF (Central Division) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is the policy of Government not to nominate Muhammadan members to municipal councils where seats are reserved for Muhammadans ;

(b) if not, what is the strength of nominated members to municipal councils in the Central Division and how many Muhammadans are nominated by Government to such seats and where ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (a) No. (b) Information is being called for.

GOVERNMENT BILLS

(Consideration of Bill No. XXXV of 1927, a Bill further to amend the Bombay Port Trust Act, 1879, resumed).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I understand that the House had discussed an amendment by the honourable member Mr. Bole for .

[The President]

the deletion of the words " officers and " in clause 2 of the bill. I should like to know from the Honourable the General Member as to what is the understanding.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : There is no understanding, Sir. The honourable House thought it advisable to have a little more time to consider the clauses of this bill, and they have had that time. I have also had a little time to consider the remarks made by honourable members when the bill was introduced and I have already given notice of a few amendments which I propose to move. I think the amendments I am moving now will cover all the points raised by my honourable friend Mr. Bole, and if to save the time of the House, he withdraws his amendment I will move my amendments as they come.

Mr. S. K. BOLE : In view of the statement made by the Honourable the General Member, I beg leave to withdraw my amendment.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Has the honourable member leave of the House to withdraw his amendment ?

Question put and leave granted.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Mr. President, I move the following amendment :

In clause 2, line 10, after the word " fund ", insert the words " or funds ".

Question put and carried.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : My next amendment is :

In line 14 of clause 2, delete the words " and the Chairman ".

Question put and carried.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Sir if the Honourable the General Member is prepared to restrict the benefit of the welfare fund to officers and servants drawing say Rs. 200 and lower, then I can withdraw my amendment.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : I am not prepared to accept any such amendment ; I am only prepared to move my amendments.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Then, I move my amendment as follows :

In clause 2, line 12, delete the words " the officers and ".

Question proposed.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City) : I would request my honourable friend from Ahmedabad not to press his amendment. As a result of the conversation that we have had on this question after the matter was adjourned we understood that it might affect the salaries of clerks and others. Now, we do not like to make a distinction between a labourer and a clerk, and we would allow this to go on. I do not think, Sir, that the amendment proposed would make a very big difference. I would draw your attention to the fact that we are not at all satisfied with one or two concessions that the Honourable the General Member has made,

[Mr. N. A. Bechar]

He has omitted, Sir, a very serious concession ; he has not satisfied us in matters anywhere in regard to the committees that we wanted....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. The Secretary informs me that the honourable member has already spoken on the subject, when there was an identical amendment moved by the honourable member Mr. Bole. Does the honourable member Mr. Swaminarayan wish to press his amendment ?

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Yes, Sir. I want to press it, whatever may be its fate.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Mr. President, I think the amendment of my honourable friend will not carry out his intention. His intention is that if the working man contributes towards the fund, the working man should take advantage of such contribution. If the higher paid servants of the Port Trust contribute towards this fund, they should take advantage of such contributions. That is the intention of my honourable friend. But I would draw his attention to the fact that there is no definition of " officers " or " servants " in the whole of the Port Trust Act, and, therefore, if he omits the words " officers, " he does not know really what he is doing. He may be cutting out men who may be the most deserving of assistance. Therefore, I suggest to my honourable friend that he should withdraw his amendment, lest he may be doing more harm than good. He will notice that the next amendment that I have given notice of, will cover both his points. I can tell him just now that it will cover both his points.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : In view of the explanation given by the Honourable the General Member. I beg to withdraw my amendment Amendment by leave withdrawn.

Clause 2, as amended, ordered to stand part of the bill.

Clause 3 (Amendment of section 49 of Bom. VI of 1879)—

In section 49 of the said Act—

(a) for clause (1) the following shall be substituted, namely :—

" (1) (i) the salaries, fees, allowances, pensions, gratuities, compassionate allowances or other moneys due to the trustees and to the officers and servants appointed under this Act ;

(ii) the contributions, if any, duly authorized to be made.

(a) to any provident fund established by the said officers and servants, or,

(b) to such provident fund or welfare fund, if any, as may be established by the Board for the benefit of such officers and servants and the chairman ;

(iii) the contributions or appropriations to such special fund or funds as may be established by the Board for any of the purposes of this Act ; and

(iv) if any such provident fund or welfare fund or special fund be established by the Board, the cost and expenses, if any, which may be incurred by the Board in the conduct and administration thereof ; "

(b) the following proviso shall be added to the said section, namely :—

" Provided also that the Board shall have power and shall be deemed always to have had power at any time to apply, with the sanction of the Government, the moneys credited to the general account in payment of any other charge not included in the foregoing clauses of this section."

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Sir, I beg to move the following amendment to clause 3 :—

In line 18 of clause 3, sub-clause (b) of part (ii) of new clause (1) of section 49 of the Act, delete the words " or welfare fund."

[Sir Cowasji Jehangir]

In the next amendment I will ask the honourable House to insert a section by itself for welfare work and so I ask the House to allow these words to be deleted from the section as it stands.

Question put and carried.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Sir, I beg to move the following amendment to clause 3 :—

In clause 3 after sub-clause (b) of part (ii) of new clause (1) of section 49 of the Act, insert the following sub-clause :—

“(c) to such welfare fund or funds if any, as may be established by the Board for the benefit of such officers and servants ; Provided that any contribution to a welfare fund established by the Board for the benefit of such officers and servants drawing not less than Rs. 300 a month shall not exceed the amount accruing from the following sources, viz.—

- (i) fines levied from such officers and servants ;
- (ii) unclaimed salaries of such officers and servants ; and
- (iii) forfeitures of contributions to the provident fund established by the Board for the benefit of such officers and servants.”

Sir, there are two principles involved in this amendment. I have already informed the House that a part of the money to be used for the welfare fund will come from fines levied from officers and servants, from their unclaimed salaries and from forfeitures of their provident fund. Honourable members suggested that there should be some provision in the bill to safeguard the interests of the different classes who forfeit their salaries, etc., that is to say, that if workmen contribute to the provident fund by forfeiting their salary, etc., such amount should be utilised for the benefit of such workmen, and if officers contributed to the welfare fund from forfeiture of their salary or provident fund, such amount should be used for the benefit of such officers. That was one principle. I have agreed to the addition of such a provision in the bill and this amendment will carry out that intention.

Then, in this bill the Trustees have been empowered to use money for welfare work from general revenues over and above any money that may be provided by different classes of employees from their fines, etc. I personally think that if the Port Trustees are given this power, perhaps this honourable House would like to restrict that power to a certain extent and I have, therefore, provided that as the Trustees are allowed to use funds from the general revenues, those monies should not be utilised for the benefit of any officers drawing more than Rs. 300 a month. That principle has been embodied in this amendment. Therefore we are restricting the use of monies contributed by the various classes of employees for the benefit of those classes. We are also restricting the Trustees to using monies from the general revenues only for the benefit of officers drawing a salary of less than Rs. 300.

I think these two provisions are very sound and I trust they will be accepted by the honourable House.

My honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan gave me an indication of his criticism to this amendment by saying that he would like the Rs. 300 to be reduced to Rs. 200. I think I will meet his criticism before he actually speaks on this amendment. My honourable friend must realise that in the City of Bombay the cost of living is rather higher than in the mofussil and that a man drawing Rs. 300 a month is sometimes more deserving of a little help by way of welfare assistance than even the lowest paid employees of the Trust. Therefore, we have got to judge—it is not easy to judge—as to which employees deserve such assistance. In my humble opinion an employee drawing Rs. 300 a month deserves such assistance and therefore I put the figure at 300. There are some clerks in the Trust who draw Rs. 300 a month and, as we do not wish to do any injustice to any class of employees who really deserve assistance on account of the high cost of living in the city of Bombay, I trust my honourable friend will accept this as an explanation from one who has lived in Bombay for many years and who has begun to realise which class are the most deserving of assistance. I trust he will accept this figure of 300 and let the amendment pass.

Question proposed.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV : I support the amendment.

Question put and carried.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Sir, I beg to move the following amendment to clause 3 :—

In clause 3 (b), line 37, insert the words “if the Board decide with a majority of two-thirds of the whole number of trustees” between the word “that” and the word “the.”

The necessity for some such control becomes apparent when we think of expenditures likely to be incurred on such things as, for instance, the lunch given to the South African Deputation. In matters like this I think there should be some control on the part of trustees as in the case of city municipalities which require a two-thirds majority for voting an address. It is a wholesome check and I hope the House will accept my amendment.

Question proposed.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD (Central Division) : Sir, I rise to oppose this amendment. I notice that the learned professor from Ahmedabad is always fond of two-thirds and that he is never satisfied with a bare majority. Now, he should remember that the Board of Trustees is an independent body consisting of very able and very experienced men, and it is doing them an enormous injustice to say that they will not be able to manage their affairs with a bare majority. If the affairs of this House and other large bodies are managed with a bare majority, I think it is a stigma on the trustees, the majority of whom are Indians, to make such a provision.

An Honourable MEMBER : The majority are not Indians.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : They may not be in a majority, but they are very distinguished, far more distinguished than even Englishmen. Therefore, I believe that it will not be doing the right thing to make this provision, and I hope the honourable member will withdraw his amendment.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Sir, this refers to special expenditure and there should be a wholesome check on it. In the case of municipalities, this kind of expenditure can be incurred only when it is passed by a two-thirds majority.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : That is the same argument as the honourable member has used in moving his amendment.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Therefore, I have moved my amendment in that form. If the Honourable Member in charge is prepared to accept it, then I have nothing more to say.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Sir, the honourable member has contended that such a provision exists in the City Municipalities Act. Let me give him the analogy of two other Acts, the Karachi Port Trust Act and the Aden Port Trust Act. We have taken this provision from these two Acts. Section 61 (7) of the Karachi Port Trust Act provides as follows :—

“ Any other charge which may be specially sanctioned by the Commissioner on the application of the Board, or for which the Board may be legally liable.”

It gives the Board entire discretion to ask the Commissioner to sanction any expenditure. The Aden Port Trust Act also makes the following provision :—

“ Any other charge which may be specially sanctioned by Government on the application of the Board or for which the Board may be legally liable.”

Both these Acts provide for a similar measure, and I do not see why we should make a distinction between the trustees of the Ports of Karachi and Aden and the trustees of the Port of Bombay. Further, they have to get the sanction of Government to any such expenditure. I hope, therefore, the honourable member will withdraw the amendment, since I have shown him two Acts containing similar provisions.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : In view of the explanation given, I ask for leave of the House to withdraw my amendment.

PRIVATE BILLS

Further Consideration of Bill No. XXIII of 1927, [A Bill Further to Amend the City of Bombay Municipal Act] (Act No. III of 1888)

Mr. S. C. JOSHI : Sir, I rise to support the first reading of the bill moved by my honourable friend Mr. Syed Munawar. The only object of the bill is to make provision in the City of Bombay Municipal Act for the representation of Labour on the municipal corporation. The honourable mover has quoted figures to show that more than 45 per cent. of the population of Bombay belongs to the labouring classes, and there is no representation on the municipal corporation for such a large proportion of the population. It is most unfair that such a large population should go unrepresented in a corporation, which is a part of Local Self-Government. The need for Labour representation has now been well recognised. Other bigger bodies, such as the Provincial Legislatures and the Legislative Assembly Labour has been given representation. In the discussion on the Bombay University Bill a few days ago, it was admitted by this House that there should be a representative of Labour on the Senate of the Bombay University, and the Honourable the Leader of the House was even prepared to give franchise for the election of a representative of Labour, provided it was well organised. The case for the representation of Labour on the Bombay municipal corporation is much stronger. The most important questions of primary education, sanitation, health and other important civic rights are often discussed in the corporation. On such important question the labour must have its voice felt. Therefore it is necessary that labour should have representation on the corporation. The labour population of the city is very large and it is fair and reasonable that the request made in this bill by the honourable mover Mr. Syed Munawar should be accepted. I hope that the Honourable Minister in charge of Local Self-Government will accede to this very reasonable request which is contained in the bill and which does not in any way disturb the present arrangement. I appeal to the honourable members of this House to give representation to labour in the Bombay municipal corporation.

Mr. HAJI MIR MAHOMED BALOCH (Karachi City) (Addressed the House in Urdu): Sir, I heartily support the bill which has been brought by the honourable member for labour. During the last few days several bills were brought for reducing the franchise to Rs. 5 and for securing representation thereby to the backward communities in the city of Bombay. Those bills have been rejected by the House. Now, this bill asks for representation of labour on the Bombay corporation, which is absolutely essential. Here there is no communal question, because labour consists of men of all communities, Hindus, Mahomedans and others. Therefore there is no room for any honourable member to be actuated by any communal considerations on this question. Some honourable members of this House who are also members of Bombay corporation said that labourers live on wealthy members of the society, but I say labour is absolutely essential for the production of wealth and if there is no labour there will be no wealth. Both capital and labour are absolutely interdependent and essential for the economic progress of the country.

In the Karachi municipality there are representatives of labour. They look after the welfare of their constituents very efficiently with regard to primary education, drainage, sanitation and so on. Seven years before there were no representatives of labour on the Karachi municipality and the two wards viz., Lahari Quarters and Ranchhod Line Quarters ward which are mostly populated by labourers was neglected, because rich people who were in the municipality looked after the sanitation, health, primary education and drainage only of their respective wards. The representation of labour is absolutely essential in order to look after the civic amenities of labour. The officers of the Karachi municipality pay heed to the grievances of labour and remedy any defects that may exist with regard to water supply, sanitation, drainage, primary education and so on. In Government nomination according to their choice there is a defect. In the Karachi Port Trust they gave representation to labour. Government nominated a European to represent labour and the next time they nominated some prince or chief who did not know anything about labourers' grievances and difficulties.

The bill asks for only 4 representatives on the Bombay corporation and these four representatives will be able to ameliorate the condition of living of their men in the several wards of the city. This modest representation of labour by only four men will not in any way jeopardise the municipal administration as it was feared in the case of backward communities.

Whenever a ward has a right to return a member, its interests, viz., sanitation, drainage, education, are very carefully looked after by its representatives. I trust all the members of this honourable House will support this bill.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE (Bombay City, North) : Sir, now three bills that were brought forward in this House in the interest of labour have been rejected. I am afraid this bill also will have the same fate. (Honourable Members : No, no.) If it is not so I shall be very much grateful to the honourable House. This bill which has been brought by my honourable friend Mr. Syed Munawar has two objects. He wants first that the number of representatives on the corporation should be increased from 106 to 110, out of which four seats should be allotted to labour by Government nominating them. He does not want to interfere with the existing arrangement of the corporation at all. He wants only to increase the number of members on the corporation by four, which should be given to labour. But there is one thing in this demand that these four members should be nominated by Government in consultation with the organised labour bodies—that no member who will not be recognised by the labour union should be nominated by Government. As it has been pointed out for the last six days that unless labour is organised we are not going to give any representation to that body. Now, the demand is that the members for nomination should be chosen in consultation with organised labour organisations. I do not think the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government will refuse this demand.

There is also another demand in clause 3, namely, that representation should be given according to the population.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : That has been withdrawn.

Mr. R. S. ASAVALE : Then, I have nothing to say about that. With these few remarks I support the first reading of the bill.

Mr. P. J. MARZBAN (Bombay City, South) : Mr. President, I am in favour of this bill, because this removes the objection that I had to the preceding bill moved by the honourable member Mr. Bole. And, Sir, when I give support to this bill, I do trust that the honourable members of the backward and depressed classes in the House will now concede that my opposition to the honourable member Mr. Asavale's and the honourable member Mr. Bole's previous bills was based on my sincere conviction as to their inadvisability. This bill seeks to add by nomination four more Labour members to the corporation, and I support it because I do presume that their presence in the corporation will not upset the existing machinery. Sir, there is only one difficulty, and it is that a clear definition of the term 'labour' is required. I am given to understand, Mr. President, that a labourer is one who works with his hands and not with his brains. For instance, I also work with my hands—with the pen in my hand ; where do I come in ? I suppose I am a labourer. Mr. Ginwalla, who is a fearless champion of labour, is a solicitor ; he works with his brain and he employs labour. Where does he come in ? If, therefore, the labouring class would once and for all define "labour" and if they have a proper organisation, i.e., if we once clearly understand to which proper labour organisations we must look to while making nominations, the whole difficulty will disappear.

I do hope that in the corporation Labour members will be very useful. For instance, in the mechanical department and in the health department, where we employ a number of mechanics and sweepers, Labour members will be very useful in giving useful practical suggestions. I am sure that the Honourable the Minister for Local Self-Government will not see any difficulty in acceding to this reasonable demand, and thus setting at rest the fears of the members of the depressed classes that Government and some members of this House are trying to suppress them. This Council, I understand, has got four seats specially reserved for Labour, and I do not see why the corporation should not have four seats.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Mr. President, when the Improvement Trust Act was on the anvil, the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government very gladly accepted the principle of representation for labour on the Trust. At that time he was in a mood to listen to the demand of the poorer classes. But for the last two days, what have we seen ? The labourers and the poorer classes wanted to get in through the front door of election by a reduction of the franchise. That being shut, they wanted to get in through the side door of reservation of seats for the labouring and poorer classes. That door also was shut. And this is the third door, the back door, of nomination. They now want Government to allow them to enter through this door into the corporation of Bombay. Now, if you shut all the doors you will be sitting on the safety-valve of a steam boiler. If you do not allow them access by any of these means, it will lead to revolution or red revolution. Therefore, I think it would be wise for Government to allow the poor people to get in at least by this third door of nomination. This is the last way, and if this last way also is shut, the consequences cannot be imagined. Government should satisfy their aspirations in a legitimate way. If you shut all the legitimate ways, the result will be disastrous.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD (Central Division) : I rise, Sir, to support this bill. I am rather glad that my honourable friend from Ahmedabad is now in favour of nomination although he has been always denouncing it. My main ground for supporting this bill is that Labour members would be very useful in the Bombay corporation. We all know that the city of Bombay is a paradise of the rich, but continues to be a purgatory for the poor. I therefore think that these Labour members, if sent to the corporation, will do their best to improve the condition of Bombay. After extending so enormously the franchise, I do not think it would be right for the Honourable Minister to entertain disbelief of Labour ; it would be inconsistent with his policy. I wish him to go down to posterity as a great friend of Labour as well as of wide, almost universal, franchise. He may feel some difficulty in accepting the bill as it is because it may cause him some trouble in future but I would advise him not to bid good morrow to the devil until he meets him. I am sure everybody will sympathise with Labour, and perhaps the rich all the more will because their riches are derived from the labour of the poor. It may be that the Honourable Minister does not like to increase the number of members of the corporation. If so, he may move an amendment to this bill at a later stage. But by some method or other he should provide by statute nomination for these people. An amendment may be moved in the select committee, but the principle should be recognised now. I do not think, from what I know of the inclinations of the Honourable Minister, that he will reject this motion. I do not think the motion is opposed by any side of this House.....

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : It will not be opposed now.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : It will carry greater weight if you oppose it now. With these remarks, I would request the Honourable Minister to support the Bill.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR : Sir, I rise to support the bill, because this is the most reasonable of all that we have discussed on the floor of this House. This is a laudable bill. I do not understand why the honourable member who just resumed his seat should entertain the fear that the Honourable Minister may not like to increase the strength of the corporation. What is the strength of this honourable House ? It is 114. The present strength of the corporation is 106, and if four more are added, it will make 110. Why should the honourable member, the Moulvi saheb, say that the Honourable Minister would not accept the increased number on the corporation ? On the contrary the corporation would welcome it. Sir, my honourable friend the mover has brought in the bill in such a reasonable manner that he has asked for nomination leaving the option to Government who are in a better position to know who are the leaders of Labour and who are in a position to watch their interests. It is on this ground that the bill should be accepted. This bill is not like the two other bills which have been rightly thrown out.

[Sir Vasantao Dabholkar]

Sir, my honourable friend Mr. Marzban said that he was himself a labourer; he was employing labour. My honourable friend on my right (Mr. Ginwalla) also said that he was a labourer and that he was employing labour in his office. We do not reckon Mr. Marzban as a labourer, he has got a palatial house, nor my honourable friend Mr. Ginwalla. We do not want labourers of the type of Mr. Marzban or Mr. Ginwalla, to represent Labour on the corporation; we want those who are intimately acquainted with the circumstances and conditions of the Labour. I have always found my honourable friend Mr. Marzban supporting the A ward. I do not say he does not support other wards such as F and G. But his tendency is more towards the A ward. He admits that it is natural. If he admits that his tendency is to support his own ward, namely A ward, which is a very sanitary ward, how can this Council count upon him as a representative of labour?

Sir, as far as this question is concerned, surely the time has come to give representation to Labour on the corporation. But I would like to give the mover of the bill a piece of advice and also to those honourable members who were disappointed when their bills were rejected. The time has come when Labour should see that their unions are properly organised so that Government may be given an opportunity to have a representative of Labour on the corporation from such organization which have been properly organized. With these few remarks, I heartily support the bill.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: I rise to reply to my honourable friend who has just sat down and who is always taunting me in this House with doing things without consulting the wishes of the corporation. May I ask him whether in this matter we are in a position to say what their opinions are? Does he authorise me on behalf of the corporation to act as I like? This bill affects the Bombay corporation, which is a premier corporation, and I think it is in the interests of the corporation as well as in the interests of Labour that we refer the bill to the corporation.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind): I move:

That the bill be postponed to the next July session of the Council and in the meanwhile the opinion of the corporation be obtained.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR: Sir, I rise to oppose the motion to defer the matter to the next July session. No grounds have been given by the honourable member. The Honourable Minister said that I was always taunting him as regards referring the matter to the corporation. I have done so because I know the feelings of the corporation.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The honourable member must confine his remarks to opposing the motion before the House.

Sir VASANTRAO DABHOLKAR: I think the matter should not be referred to the corporation.

Question put : House divided : Ayes 48 : Noes 18 : Motion carried.

BILL No. XXVIII OF 1927 (A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE BOMBAY LOCAL BOARDS ACT, 1925).

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR (East Khandesh District) : I do not wish to move the first reading of this bill at this session, Sir.

BILL No. XXIX OF 1927 (A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE BOMBAY CITY MUNICIPALITIES ACT, 1926)

(Motion for first reading.)

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Sir, I move the first reading of this bill.* Before the City
First reading Municipalities Act was passed, under the District
Municipal Act, the municipality had the power of determining the rebate to be given on rentals. As for example, in Ahmedabad municipality, the tax is determined upon the rental. The compulsory water tax is levied at the rate of 5 per cent. on the rental and the connection water tax for those who have got water connections is also at the rate of 5 per cent. on the rental. That is to say, the former rate was 10 per cent. on the rental. Formerly, the Ahmedabad municipality was deducting 1/6th of the rent for the purpose of repairs, etc., and on the net rental after deduction the tax was to be levied. Now, in section 78 (2) of the new Act it has been provided that only 10 per cent. shall be deducted. Now, this change lays very heavy burden on the poor, because the classification under which water tax is levied in Ahmedabad municipality is 1 to 20. That is to say, on a rent of 1 to 20, the tax will be levied on 20, and between 20 and 40, whatever may be the rent, the man will be charged at the rate of 40. Similarly between 40 and 60. Thus, the classification in Ahmedabad municipality is 20, 40, 60, 80, 100, 120 and so on. Now, by the new change, the poor man will have to pay a very heavy tax. The increase in the tax of the poor people will be very heavy. Suppose a man pays a rent of Rs. 2 per month, that is, Rs. 24 per year. Now, according to the old rebate, 1/6th would have been deducted and Rs. 20 would be the net rent and the man would be required to pay a tax of Rs. 2. Now, by the new change of 10 per cent. the net rental after deduction will be 21·6 and the man would be charged a tax on Rs. 40. That is to say, a man who was paying Rs. 2 as water tax will have now to pay Rs. 4 as water tax. That is to say, in the case of a man who pays a rent of Rs. 2, the increase will be from Rs. 2 to Rs. 4; that is to say, 100 per cent. increase. Similarly, in the case of a man who is paying a rent of Rs. 4 per month, that is, Rs. 48 per year, after deducting 1/6th the net rental was calculated to be Rs. 40. Now, after the deduction of 1/10th, it would be Rs. 43·2. That is to say, a man who was paying a tax of Rs. 4 formerly would have to pay Rs. 6. That is to say, the increase would be 50 per cent. In the case of a man whose rental is Rs. 25, that comes to Rs. 300 per year. Now, after deducting 1/6th, the man should have to pay Rs. 25, and after deducting 1/10th he will have to pay a tax on Rs. 270. That is to say, a man who has got a monthly rental of Rs. 25 would have to pay Rs. 27 instead of Rs. 25. He will have only 8 per cent. increase in his tax. By this new arrangement, all the poor people in Ahmedabad who were paying a tax of Rs. 2 formerly have now to pay an increase of Rs. 2. That is to say, they have got a 100 per cent. increase. A man paying four rupees pays six rupees. Therefore this bill is in the interest of the poor living in small houses.

An argument may be advanced that I am advocating the cause of the landlords and rich people, but really speaking in Ahmedabad everybody, even widows, live in their own houses come down to them from ancient times. The majority of the people in Ahmedabad live in their own houses, small or big, and many people live in houses paying two rupees a month as rent. The owner of the house puts additional taxes on their tenants. The change has been very disastrous and has placed a heavy burden on the heads of the poor to the extent of 50 and 100 per cent. whereas there is a moderate increase in the case of people paying 25 and more rupees rent. Even the income tax authorities allow a rebate of 1/6th in calculating income from rents. I do not know why the municipalities should be more exacting than the income tax authorities. The municipalities lost their power. The power I am asking for municipalities to fix the rebate at the minimum of 1/10th and the maximum of 1/6th would be in accordance with the constitution of various municipalities. There should be no favouritism or any room for partiality. By wishing to give discretion to the municipalities I do not suggest that such discretion should be abused or improperly used. My one and single object in bringing forward this bill is to prevent heavier burdens from falling on the heads of the poor than on the heads of the richer classes. I hope therefore that it will meet with the approval of the House, and that it will pass the first reading.

Question proposed.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Sir, I have been hearing so much from the honourable mover of the bill that he brings every measure in the interests of the poor that I am beginning to feel tired. Last time when he brought a bill against the talukdars of Gujarat, it was in the interests of the moneylenders, but he pleaded that it was in favour of the poor. I must say, Sir, that the present bill will, if passed, work in favour of the landlords, and yet he urges that he has brought the bill in the interests of the poor. What does he propose ? Section 78 (2) of the City Municipalities Act lays down that 10 per cent. of the rental value should be allowed as rebate for repairs. He proposes that the minimum should be one-tenth and the maximum one-sixth, that is, he is keeping the door open to the municipalities to grant rebates varying from one-tenth to one-sixth, as against the present uniform rate of ten per cent. laid down by the section I have just quoted. May I ask him, who owns the houses, the rich or the poor ? The rich people own houses. That being so, what will be the effect of passing his bill ? The poor people cannot pay Rs. 100 or Rs. 200 a month for rent. They pay 2 to 3 rupees and if the rebate suggested is to be given, it will have to be given to the owners of houses fetching large amounts of rent. . . . .

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Instead of three, he will pay four.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Certainly not.

Again, it has been observed that in the Bombay corporation, the premier corporation in this presidency, where the cost of materials and labour is comparatively higher than in the mofussil, there has been no complaint made, against 10 per cent. rebate. On the contrary there have been complaints that landlords, though they get rebates, do not carry out repairs. What will be the effect of accepting the amendment proposed by the advocate of the poor ? It will make the municipalities hotbeds of quarrels, and give rise to favouritism, nepotism, corruption, and so on. What will be the result ? I do not want to attribute motives, but some of the councillors themselves may be owners of houses. The councillors will try to influence the chief officer, whose life will become miserable.

[Sir Ghulam Hussain]

Again, the Ahmedabad municipality is always pressing for more grants from Government, and here is a legitimate source of income which the honourable member wants to deprive the Ahmedabad and other municipalities of. When it is necessary to put more money into the coffers of the municipalities, he is trying to put more money into the pockets of the owners of houses, in other words, of the rich. If we give this discretion to the municipalities, the result will be that one-sixth will be the rule, because if one man gets one-sixth, the others will also demand the same, and so many influences will come into play, such as the councillors influencing the chief officer, that it will give rise to many quarrels.

Even in Bombay where the cost of building and materials is higher, 10 per cent. is the uniform rate of rebate, and yet there has been no complaint. This rule has been in force for 40 to 50 years without any dissatisfaction. On the contrary, complaints have been received to the effect that landlords do not care to carry out repairs although they get the rebate. I would request the honourable mover not to do harm to municipalities whose resources are meagre enough, and I would ask him not to deplete their resources completely. I therefore oppose the first reading of the bill.

Mr. S. A. SARDESAI (Bijapur District): Sir, I rise to support this bill, but I must admit at the same time that the honourable mover has made some confusion in framing the bill as regards the fixing of the minimum and maximum percentages. I think if only 6 per cent. letting-value is restored according to the old Act, this bill will do great benefit, but as stated by the Honourable the Minister for Local Self-Government, it would be very difficult for the chief officer to decide in which cases one-sixth would be the proper figure and in which cases one-tenth would be the proper figure. Except for this provision, I think the bill would be very useful. I support the bill in respect of the principle of one-sixth letting value. With these few remarks, I support the first reading of the bill.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind): Sir, I strongly oppose the first reading of this bill. This bill has a long history behind it. My honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan quoted the instance of the Ahmedabad municipality, and stated that that municipality allowed a rebate of one-sixth. However, if the Ahmedabad municipality was the only municipality that should guide the discretion of this Council, perhaps he has made out a case for the bill. But as long as other municipalities exist, which have their own rules and estimates about the rebate that ought to be allowed, and which have their own idea of the income—and there are 157 municipalities in this presidency—I do not think an honourable member belonging to one municipality has the right to inflict his opinion on the other municipalities. Sir, when the Major Municipalities Bill was being discussed in the select committee, the whole of this question was closely examined by the select committee. It was in the select committee—I think its proceedings are no longer confidential because the bill has passed into law—that all these calculations were actually gone into. Section 154 of the Bombay City Municipal Act, which already existed, is a section that has never been departed from. It has always been admitted to be a sacred section. There were in the select committee engineers and Commissioners of separate divisions and men like Mr. Mountford, who had great experience of these municipalities, and after long discussion as regards the amount needed for repairs, we arrived at the definite conclusion that the figure 1/10th rebate fixed was the right figure, and that is the figure that exists in the Major Municipalities Act. Therefore, so far as the actual figures were concerned, they were considered in the select committee, the calculations were carefully gone into, and after considerable discussion it was finally agreed that a rebate of one-tenth of the total letting value was sufficient. Now, sub-section (2) of section 78, which is proposed to be amended reads :

“ In assessing a tax on buildings or lands, where the valuation determined under clause (d) of sub-section (1) of this section is the annual letting value, a sum equal to ten per centum of the said valuation shall be deducted therefrom in lieu of all allowance for repairs or on any other account whatsoever.”

Now, this sub-section (2) refers to a tax upon houses or lands, not according to their value, but it refers to what I may call the house tax levied on the rental of the houses. Now, in all municipalities, the letting value of houses occupied by the poorer people is taken at an extremely low figure. The figures of the rents earned however are ascertainable, and on that ascertainable figure the house tax according to this sub-section is levied, and if a rebate is allowed on the rents that the landlords earn, then it in no way affects the interests of the poorer people. There should be no attempt to make a distinction between the poor and the rich. This bill does not intend to grade the rebate on various amounts of house tax. This bill does not say that on Rs. 25 it should be one-sixth, on Rs. 50 it may be a little more, and on Rs. 100 still more. It does not grade the letting value. Now, Sir, I should like to bring to the notice of honourable members here that in every municipality there are Government buildings, in every municipality there are local board buildings, and in every municipality there are other official buildings occupied by public servants. Now, all the public buildings, including Government buildings are bound to pay house tax, and the rental value is determined by Government or by a special officer appointed for the purpose. The rental value is to be fixed by Government, and once the rental value is fixed, even Government and local board buildings have to pay the tax on that basis.

Now, Sir, what would be the result if you give the discretion to the municipalities to determine the rate of rebate ? We all know the working of municipalities, and the result will be that the benefit that will accrue most will be to the municipal councillors themselves. The municipal councillors in their own case will always reduce it to one-sixth because they can vote it down, and in the case of the poorer people, who have no voice in the municipality and who are not represented on the municipality, only one-tenth will be allowed as the rebate.

[Mr. B. G. Pahalajani]

The bill, as it stands, says "add the words 'according to the discretion of the municipal borough'." The discretion to make it one-sixth or one-tenth is given to the municipal borough, and if these words are added, there would be nothing in the wording of the section to prevent the municipality in fixing one-sixth for a new and influential man and one-tenth for the poor man. The result will be confusion; not only confusion but considerable favouring of municipal councillors, and not only favouring of the municipal councillors but the favouring of people who can influence the members of the municipality. If we introduce this amendment, the result will be extreme chaos. I could have easily understood it if the honourable member had introduced a uniform rate, say one-sixth, in all cases. But he says the discretion should be left to the municipal borough to fix any rate between one-sixth and one-tenth. Now, take the case of a municipality whose income on house tax is Rs. 60,000. The difference between one-sixth and one-tenth is one-fifteenth, that is to say, in the case of Rs. 60,000 house tax there will be a difference Rs. 4,000. By this method, there is an immediate reduction of Rs. 4,000. The result will be that the ordinary income of the municipality on which it lives, a direct tax like house tax, will be diminished, and in order to make up for it, indirect taxes must be increased. The octroi, which is a tax more upon the poorer population, and which is an indirect tax, will increase, and the result will be not, as my honourable friend supposes but it would involve disaster, more for the poor than for the rich. It is the rich that pay now; it will be the poor that will have to pay afterwards, if the bill is passed. I must therefore strongly oppose the first reading of the bill.

(After recess)

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City): Sir, I am sorry that I have to differ from my honourable friend for Ahmedabad Rural. My honourable friend will reply to the objections raised by the Honourable the Minister for Local Self-Government and if the Honourable Minister has taken up the correct position in what he stated, then I am sorry that my honourable friend's zeal has outrun his discretion. I have the experience of municipal working as I have been a municipal councillor in the Karachi municipality for the last three elections and I know how landlords are clamouring to get more rebate from the municipality for the repairs, etc. We allow 10 per cent. for the purpose of repairs to these landlords and yet I know that they do not spend even this 10 per cent. which is allowed to them. When the new municipal bill came up for discussion they raised the same cry that the prices of materials had gone up and that they should be allowed a larger rebate. I want this House to understand whatever rebate the municipality may give towards repairs on the rental value of the House, all that will go to the benefit of the landlords. If the municipality allows one-sixth then also the poor tenants will not get the slightest benefit. The tenants have to pay the same rent and the landlords when once the larger rebate is made will argue that they are spending that much on the repairs of their buildings. The poor tenants will not get the slightest benefit while the landlords will get something more in the form of greater rebate and pay less tax. This is hardly desirable. The Karachi municipality and other municipalities are getting as tax less than what they require for the services they render and they have to meet the demands for a number of growing social services. The demands on the municipalities are much more than their finances would permit. The point that the tenants have to pay more is beside the point. They have to pay economic rent governing the laws of supply and demand. The honourable member cited the case of the Ahmedabad municipality. In the Ahmedabad city there is no Rent Act. If there had been Rent Act, then there would have been a possible reason for the landlords to recover the excess amount charged by the municipality under the Rent Act but as there is no Rent Act they will try to realise the utmost rents that the tenements can fetch. Therefore, one has hardly any relation with the other. This bill is thus unconsciously intended for the benefit of the rich landlords. Therefore, I would like to differ from him.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District): Sir, I rise to support the first reading of this bill. This bill merely gives a certain discretion to the local body concerned. The District Municipalities Act affects municipalities situated from the north of Sind to the South of Kanara. It covers a very wide area. It cannot be maintained that what is suitable for one municipal area will be suitable for another. Let each municipality be the judge of what rate will be suitable for its area. The bill does not lay down that the municipality shall make one-tenth or one-sixth rebate but it only gives the discretion to them. We know that the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government always tries to give the fullest possible liberty to the local bodies. As some honourable members put it he gives a very long rope to every local body. The Ahmedabad municipality paid  $1\frac{1}{2}$  lakhs for paying the debts of national schools. Several honourable members approached the Honourable Minister to intervene but he refused to do so and said that that was not his business and that it was the business of the ratepayers to bring to book the municipality and the councillors. I ask him that if he is of that opinion what reason could he have to oppose this bill which merely gives discretion to the municipalities. Further I may point out that even in the case of big Government buildings the scale laid down for the repairs is much in excess of one-sixth which is the maximum proposed under this amending bill. Government make a provision of 1 per cent. of the capital outlay for ordinary repairs, and  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. for special repairs; that is, they make a provision of  $1\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. for repairs. And the rate which Government charge for their bungalows is 10 per cent. of the salary or  $6\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. on the capital outlay whichever is less. The rate is probably less now. Before the war the maximum rent used to be 5 per cent. of the capital outlay. During the last few years the rate of interest went up, and therefore the rate was increased. I do not know the exact rate at present, but it is not more than  $6\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. Government have pucca built bungalows for their officers and charge a rent of  $6\frac{1}{2}$  per cent., and allocate  $1\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. out of that for repairs that is one-fifth of the rental, for repairs. In some places some houses are very old, and everybody knows that the cost of repair of an old kutchha house is very much more than the cost of repairing well-built pucca houses. Let us take the concrete example of a room the rent of which is Rs. 2 per month. The total rent of that per year will be Rs. 24. Now, I ask, will not the landlord have to spend Rs. 4 per year for keeping that room in a state of repair. Tiles-turning, whitewashing and other work of ordinary and special repairs will cost him much more than Rs. 4 per year.

As a matter of fact, it is contended that this is a tax to benefit the landlords. My honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan is not a landlord, and from what we have been able to see we can be sure that he is not likely to bring in a bill which will injure the poor man and benefit the landlord. Of course, if the landlord has to pay more taxes, though he may pay it directly, in the long run he will shift the burden on to the tenant. This is bound to happen. There are some taxes which cannot be shifted, but in several cases to some extent the landlord is bound to shift the tax on to the tenant. Therefore, taking into consideration the fact that even for pucca Government buildings Government find that they have to spend as much as one-fifth of the rental for repairs and also the fact that in the case of kutchha houses the cost of repairs is much more than the cost of repairs of pucca houses, there can be no doubt that in several municipal areas the cost of repairs of buildings will exceed one-tenth and may even exceed one-sixth of the annual rental. In the last floods several houses were washed away, and although their replacement now cannot be called a repair, in the long run the landlords will have to consider such special contingencies ; the foundations may settle down or the walls may crack and a wall or a roof may come down. That will come under special repairs. Repairs do not mean only tile-turning, white-washing and getting small things of that sort done. If you take 30 or 40 years, you will have to take into consideration special repairs which will have to be done. Ahmedabad is an old city, and several houses there are very old and kutchha, built not with lime but with mud. Therefore, it is possible that in some municipalities the cost of repairs may exceed one-sixth or may come up to one-sixth. (The Honourable Sir Ghulam Hussain : What about Bombay ?) Bombay is not an old city like Ahmedabad ; the buildings in Bombay are much more pucca ; you will scarcely find a house in Bombay that is built without lime ; you will not find a house built of mud in Bombay ; you will not find kutchha houses in Bombay. The cost of repairs for kutchha houses is much more than for pucca houses. Also the rents are much more in Bombay. Ten per cent. of the rent will represent a much higher amount in Bombay than 10 per cent. in Ahmedabad. Therefore, you have also to consider the scale of rents.

My point is why should you not give discretion to the representatives of the people to determine what would be the fair allowance to make ? Why should you lay down a flat rate which is not likely to be equally suitable for all the municipalities coming within the scope of the Major

[Mr. H. B. Shivdasani]

Municipalities Act? The argument which the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government advanced was that we cannot trust the representatives of the people; that it would convert municipalities into a hot bed of intrigue and corruption. I do not see why he should be afraid of this. He is in favour of giving them the longest possible rope; he is in favour of letting them commit mistakes and learn by committing mistakes; he has often said that.....

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (Made some remarks which were inaudible).

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI: If they want more income, they can introduce further taxation. It is open to them to raise the rate of taxation. There are several ways of raising revenue for a municipality. If a municipality is convinced that the cost of repairs does actually come to one-sixth, is it right that the municipality should allow only one-tenth? That is the position which I am taking up. Why should we refuse to make an allowance for repairs, which from our knowledge and experience we find to be the actual cost the landlord has to incur? Why should we not make an allowance for an amount which we actually find that he has to spend? If the Honourable the Minister for Local Self-Government really thinks that even in a small matter like this he cannot trust the municipalities, that they will be open to intrigue and corruption, I think it is time that he should amend the original Act and give them less powers in matters of taxation, etc. If he thinks that he cannot trust the municipalities to exercise their discretion properly in the matter of making allowances in respect of the payment of this taxation, I think he is not altogether consistent. On the one hand he thinks that they are quite competent to safeguard the interests of the tax-payers, to distribute the burden of taxation fairly and evenly; on the other hand he says that they cannot even be trusted to deal fairly in the matter of the allocation of a small tax like this. With these words I support this bill.

Mr. H. DOW: Sir, I rise to oppose the first reading of this bill. I have always regarded the honourable member for Ahmedabad, Mr. Swaminarayan, as the Marie Stopes of the Legislative Council. During the time when Government business was on, it was always he who was ready to tell us how the Council could get into the very closest contact with a subject, and could even live with a problem for years and years and still produce nothing. And one might have expected that such a master of contraceptive methods, when he came at last to be the parent of bills, would produce good healthy ones. We have had his Talukdars Bill, and now we have the present bill. In the first he was most anxious to conciliate opposing interests, the interests of the tenants and the talukdars. He professed to be looking after the interests of the tenants but I think most members of this House could see that his bill was designed mainly in the interests of the talukdars. Similarly this bill professes to be in the interests of poor tenants, but it is quite obviously designed to help the landlords.

[Mr. H. Dow]

From looking in these two opposite directions, both his children have developed most terrible squints. The Council did not allow the first to live and I do not think the Council will allow the second a better fate.

The honourable member, I understand, was a professor of mathematics, and in trying to show us that this bill would alleviate the lot of the poor, he took care to choose his figure very carefully. He said that if a poor tenant's rent was Rs. 2 per month, the annual rent would be Rs. 24. If you deduct one-sixth, such a house would be exempt from taxation. Now, Sir, all this is perfectly true, but if the rent selected for illustration had been Rs. 2.2 or Rs. 2.4, then this bill would fail to have any effect on the tax paid. Whatever the figure is, whether it is one-sixth or one-tenth, it must be perfectly obvious to every member that there will be a certain number of cases which will come just above or just below a particular classification. Moreover it is at the option of the municipality to get rid of this particular difficulty by making its schedules instead of in twenties, rise by thirteens or forties of rupees. So everything depends upon the particular figure which the honourable member chooses to bring forward to illustrate his point.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : I was speaking of the classification which exists.

Mr. H. DOW : Exactly. I say nothing about the choice of classification, but I say that the choice of illustration was not happy. If you take the illustration of a man who pays Rs. 3 instead of Rs. 2, then this bill will make absolutely no difference. The illustration was carefully chosen to fit the honourable member's point.

I think the only real argument that he could have brought forward would have been to say that the income of the municipality is at present greater than is necessary. Then, Sir, I submit a bill which would reduce that income might be justified. Now if the income of the municipality is not too great, presumably the reduced income which this bill would lead to, would have to be increased either by the amendment of the schedule of the house tax, or it would be necessary to replace it by other taxation. Now, I am not aware that the income of the Ahmedabad municipality is too great, nor do I think that this bill would be popular if it were coupled with a revision of the schedule house tax which led to the same total tax being collected.

Sir, it has been said by the honourable member that this bill is in the interests of the poor. Now, I do not think it is. The schedule is not a graduated one, like the income-tax. In the English income-tax or the Indian income-tax, for example, we are familiar with the principle by which a man with a smaller income pays income-tax at a lower rate, and a man with a higher income not only pays a larger income tax but pays it at a higher rate. If the Ahmedabad municipality or any other municipality wants to give relief to its poor tenants, I would like to suggest that the best way to do it is to graduate their house tax scale so that they may relieve from house tax altogether those people at the bottom of the scale. They might have a scale of tax rising in incidence as the house rises either in capital or rental value. Some 10 years ago I was Municipal Commissioner of the city of Surat. The city of Surat has a house tax which is not based on rental value, but is based on the capital value, and the municipality used to exempt—I believe they still do—the taxation altogether on a house the rental value of which was less than Rs. 500. There was a graduated house tax according as the house rose in value; and for each Rs. 500 or Rs. 1,000 that the house rose in value, there was a different rate of tax. But, Sir, I regret to have to say that the tax was graduated in the wrong way, so that people at the bottom paid a higher rate of tax than people at the top. Now, Sir, I thought that was a wrong principle and when I was municipal commissioner, as I knew that there were a number of councillors who professed sympathy with the poor, I put up a scheme for revising this house tax. I did not want to raise more money, because I thought that that would lead to opposition, and I was anxious not to provoke opposition. But I brought forward a schedule which, while bringing in the same amount, instead of graduating the house tax against the interests of the poor imposed a flat rate. By the imposition of a flat rate, I showed that all taxation on houses up to the value of Rs. 1,000 instead of Rs. 500 might be altogether remitted. That scheme was not then acceptable to the municipal council. I am prepared to believe that some such scheme might now be acceptable to the Surat municipality and even to other municipalities in Gujarat. As the bill stands it is quite obviously not in the interests of the poor, but it is in the interests of the rich.

There is one other point which was partially made by the honourable member from Sukkur. I think it is an important one. The matter has been under discussion in the past in other municipalities also. I think I am right in saying that the Karachi municipality considered this question not very long ago, and they definitely came to the decision that they did not want the one-sixth rebate, but preferred the one-tenth. It is a matter, Sir, which I think ought not to be altered before consulting other municipalities. On these grounds I oppose the first reading of this bill.

Mr. N. B. CHANDRACHUD (Poona City): Sir, I rise to oppose the first reading of this bill. I have tried to follow the honourable mover in his argument as to how this bill, even if it is passed, will assist the poor tenants. But I regret to say that I was not satisfied that this bill, even if it is passed into law, will assist the poor tenants. Sir, I have had some experience in assessment matters and also revision of assessment. I may tell you plainly that my experience in these matters is not gratifying. The landlords, to say the least, are not fair to the municipality; they do not think it below their honour or dignity to mislead the municipality by giving them incorrect figures. They do not think it to be a sin to mislead the municipality by giving them incorrect figures. If the rent is only Rs. 10 they take a rent note for Rs. 5 and it is a sight to see the landlord and the tenant quarrelling, the landlord saying that the rent is only Rs. 5 and the tenant saying "I am paying Rs. 10 as rent."

[Mr. N. B. Chandrachud]

Sometimes pagdi is taken—an advance amount from the tenant—so that the municipality may not be in a position to assess and tax that income. These are the precautions of the landlords and as I told you my experience is not very gratifying. As the municipality increases the assessment by Rs. 5 or Rs. 10, the landlord tries to exact from each tenant Rs. 5. As a matter of fact it becomes a race between the landlord and the tenant on the one hand and the municipality on the other. Besides, Sir, under the rules framed by the municipality the poor are exempted from the assessment. I do not know what the practice is in Bombay, but I think the practice in the Poona municipality—and I take it the practice in other municipalities also is the same—is that certain buildings the rental of which does not exceed Rs. 20 are exempted from assessment. So, the buildings of the poor are exempted from assessment. Charitable buildings are exempted, mosques, temples and schools are also exempted from assessment. So, there is no reason to fear that any undue assessment is exacted from the poor landlord.

Now, there is also another point. This Act was passed in June 1926. My honourable friend had a hand in passing this legislation. Now, is it fair to this House, is it consistent with the dignity of this House, that within one year of its passing an Act we should try to introduce amendments and changes in it? Now, in the select committee also the consensus of opinion was that deduction may be made to the extent of one-tenth only. Now, hardly a year has elapsed, and my honourable friend wants to move an amendment to reduce one-tenth to one-sixth. So, it is not very fair to this House that an amendment should be brought in so early. There is also a third argument. Supposing even exemption to the extent of one-sixth had been given, will it benefit the tenants? I do not think so. The landlord will pocket it. As it is, and from my experience of Poona I may tell you that even one-tenth is not spent on repairs in the mofussil. The only repairs the landlord does is very little. He does absolutely nothing besides tile-turning. My honourable friends who live in Poona cantonments must be knowing. Letters after letters are to be sent to the landlord. The landlord becomes awake. He orders some tile-turning. I think for repairs one-tenth is necessary, and not more than one-tenth is required. I was surprised to hear from my honourable friend Mr. Shivdasani that supposing a wall comes down, the landlord will require to build a new wall or to add a new storey. Then, to that my reply would be "You cannot call that 'repairs'." Those repairs are extraordinary repairs. The law has made a distinction between ordinary repairs and extraordinary repairs. Building a wall and adding a storey are extraordinary repairs, and the municipality cannot be expected to give any allowance for such repairs. Ordinary repairs, such as tile-turning white-washing or paving, are the repairs which the municipality is to take into account. If the landlord builds a wall, it will make his property stronger. But that is no argument why the municipality should give him credit for that. So, my submission is that the bill will not in any way give any relief to the poor tenants. The landlords will pocket it. As it is, the landlords are not fair to the municipality, and the municipality does not realise the full amount of assessment. The municipality loses not only on account of the tricks of the landlords, but on account of the pliant nature of the municipal commissioners. Last year we had a municipal commissioner as a revising officer. I was really surprised to hear that he reduced the assessment by Rs. 10,000 or Rs. 20,000 of one ward only, and the matter was so scandalous that Government auditor had to intervene and had to call the attention of the municipality to the scandalous state of things. I do not think the municipality does recover the full amount of assessment that is due from the landlords. So, as it is, there is no necessity of amending the law and I, therefore, oppose the bill.

Mr. V. N. JOG (Dharwar District): Sir, I rise to support the first reading of this bill. Those who have opposed the first reading of this bill think that all the municipal boroughs are towns like Ahmedabād, Surat, Poona or Karachi. They forget that there are also Belgaums, Dharwars, and so on, where not only landlords live, but small owners live, and if this amendment is not accepted, I think, Sir, it will be a hardship on the small owners who live in small towns which have now been raised to boroughs under the Major Municipalities Act. It has been said, Sir, that this bill is not in the interests of the poor persons. I beg to submit, Sir, that there is a fallacy that lies at the bottom of this. There are many small owners. If you take an instance like Dharwar, more than 50 per cent. are owners of small houses. They do not let their houses, as my honourable friend Mr. Shivdasani has pointed out. Suppose there is a house which fetches, if we calculate it in the terms of the rent, only Rs. 2 per month, because the definition which has been in the section is of only letting value and does not actually say the rent which is recovered or realised but the word is "letting value," or the amount for which it might reasonably be expected to let from year to year. Here in this case the municipalities are assessing the letting value on the strength of certain houses which have been let. But that analogy would not be applicable to houses where the owners themselves live. And is it possible, Sir, that though the owner does not let the house and we suppose that he gets a rent of Rs. 36, that the house repairs should only amount to Rs. 3-8-0 or something like that? There is tile-turning, white-washing, and so on, and that man has to do all that. So, I submit that the persons who are considering from the point of view of big towns like Ahmedabad, Poona, Surat and Karachi, should not think that there are no towns which have not developed to that extent, and therefore, the principle of the bill, which does not make it obligatory that it should be 1/10th or 1/6th, is sound. It gives two points—one is that if the municipal borough thinks that their houses are mostly occupied by tenants, then that entails the first limit. And if the municipal borough comes to the conclusion that the majority of the houses are in the occupation of the owners themselves they can take the larger limit. A reference was made to the income-tax where there was a sliding scale and not a flat scale. But even in that case I may point out that when they assess the income for income-tax, they have taken 1/6th. They deduct under the Income Tax Act 1/6th for repairs and other charges. So, I submit, Sir, that there is nothing wrong in the principle of this bill, which gives two points to the municipality. According to the circumstances all the municipal boroughs may, by their rules or law, admit 1/10th or 1/6th. With these remarks I beg to submit that the bill is really in the interests of poor owners and should be accepted.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Satala District) : Sir, I wish to oppose this bill on the broad ground of principle. It seems to me that when amendments in Acts which affect municipalities or local boards are concerned, it is the duty of the honourable member wishing to make the amendments to ascertain the opinions of the various municipalities in the Presidency. In fact this procedure is adopted by Government when they try to amend any Acts. We have listened to the different experiences of several honourable members and we have seen how divergent are the views on a subject like this. I had been a member of Satala municipality for seventeen years and I must admit that my experience in regard to the house tax is very sad. I am in favour of a rigid rule. I have great respect for my honourable friend Mr. Jog, but I feel that if discretion is given in the matter of taxation or reduction of taxation, it is liable to be exercised too much in favour of the inhabitants and too little in favour of the interests of the municipalities. That is my experience. I do not wish to say more on this point.

My honourable friend the mover has brought in amending bills after bills, but I ask him whether he has ascertained the opinions of the various municipalities in the presidency, and if the majority of the municipalities are in favour of the principle of his bill, then it will be time for this House to consider what should be done, but in the absence of any data in that respect, I do not feel justified in voting for his bill. His individual experience may be different from mine or from anybody else's but I feel strongly that in a matter of this kind we must find out what the majority of the municipalities want. As that has not been done in this case, I do not think the House will be well advised in passing the first reading of the bill.

Rao Bahadur S. N. ANGADI (Belgaum District) : Sir, I rise to support the first reading of the bill. My honourable friend Mr. Jog has already pointed out that in the case of towns like Belgaum, Dharwar and so on, more than fifty per cent. of the people are owners of small houses and if the principle of the bill were accepted, it would work in the interests of such owners. I have to make this speech in order to corroborate the evidence of my honourable friend Mr. Jog, so that his testimony may stand good.

My honourable friend Rao Bahadur Kale was afraid that the effect of acceptance of the principle underlying this bill would be to sacrifice the interests of the municipalities to the interests of the rate-payers. There is no logic in this argument. I do not see why my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Kale should try to separate the two interests—the interests of the municipalities and the interests of the inhabitants—both of which are quite identical.

Mr. SHAIKH ABDUL AZIZ ABDUL LATIF (Central Division) : I rise to oppose the bill and in doing so, I am in full agreement with what fell from the honourable member Rao Bahadur Kale in regard to his experiences of Satara municipality. I know that in the case of owners of houses who live in their own houses, a special concession of about 25 per cent. is usually given. The points mentioned by my honourable friend Rao Bahadur Kale are worth considering and therefore I oppose the first reading of this bill.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Sir, as I pointed out in the beginning, the change in the rebate presses very heavily on the poor homeowners. In Ahmedabad no exception is made and therefore a man whose rent is two rupees has to pay the double tax. The system that obtains in Ahmedabad is that the houseowner rents his house to a tenant and the rent-note contains a stipulation that over and above the rent the tenant will pay all the municipal taxes. As soon as the municipal bill is received, the owner shows it to his tenant who pays it. The board of the Ahmedabad municipality passed a resolution on the strength of which I brought in this bill. As a resident of Ahmedabad I must carry out their behest and take care of the interests of the Ahmedabad municipality, and, if there is any injustice done to the inhabitants of Ahmedabad, I feel it my bounden duty to come here and try to get that injustice removed. By my bill I seek to give nothing more than discretion to the municipalities. The Ahmedabad municipality had in fact passed a resolution in November 1926 and applied to Government in this matter but I do not know what reply Government gave to them. I did not bring this bill of my own initiative.

My honourable friend Mr. Pahalajani says that if this bill is passed, his municipality will suffer. I do not wish to harm his municipality. My bill would only be a permissive measure and not at all obligatory. As I have already stated, even the income-tax authorities give one-sixth rebate. There is no reason why this discretion should not be given to the municipalities. I wish to remove the gross iniquity which now obtains as between poor people and rich people.

The District Municipal Act gives such a discretion and therefore I do not see any reason why the city municipalities should not enjoy a similar discretion.

I have pointed out that the poorer people are pressed much harder, and therefore in the interests of the poor people who live in Ahmedabad, I have brought this bill and I hope the House will pass its first reading.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : On a point of information. The honourable member stated that the income-tax authorities allow one-sixth. I want to know from him whether that one-sixth represents the municipal taxes as well as the repairs or only the repairs.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Only one-sixth rebate is given.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Mr. President, as Minister for all the municipalities of this presidency, I find from the speeches of several honourable members who are connected with several important municipalities that their behest to me is to oppose this bill. Therefore I oppose this bill, just as my honourable friend says he is carrying out the behest of the Ahmedabad municipality in bringing forward this bill.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : He is no longer a member of that body.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Now, Sir, my honourable friend is very fond of confusing the issue. If he reads section 78 (2), he will find that it lays down that in assessing a tax on buildings or lands on annual letting value, the municipality may allow 10 per cent. rebate for repairs. But it does not say that it is absolutely necessary for every municipality to tax every house, even a hut or a cottage. If my honourable friend wants to see that the poor people are exempted, he ought to go back to the municipality and ask them to exempt all the houses whose rental value is Rs. 5 a month or Rs. 10 a month, and they can do it without this amending bill. Therefore, I have become a little suspicious that the bill is in the interests of the landlords and no one else. If the honourable mover thinks that he is carrying out the behests of the Ahmedabad municipality, I would advise him to go to them and tell them that they have the authority, under the law, to exempt every poor man from this house tax. The municipality has full authority and liberty to do so. They can exempt the man who pays Rs. 20 if they choose to do so. So, the proper remedy for the honourable mover is to go back to the municipality and tell them to exempt the poor people. So, the argument that the poor would suffer does not stand. He can get them exempted by asking the municipality to let them alone.

I may bring to the notice of this House that this bill does not affect Government adversely. On the contrary, if this bill is passed into law, the Government will gain thousands of rupees. Should I support the bill in the interests of Government and against the interests of municipalities, being Minister in charge of Local Self-Government?

Mr. V. N. JOG : On a point of information, are there not municipalities who have exempted Government buildings from house tax ? There are many.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : I refer the honourable member to the Act.

Mr. V. N. JOG : Government buildings are given exemption.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Read the Act which is going to be amended. What are we discussing ? I may remind my honourable friend of the man who, after hearing the whole story of Leila and Majnun, asked what they were to each other. We are discussing the application of the section to all the city municipalities, and yet my honourable friend gets up and says that many municipalities do not levy any tax on Government buildings.

[Sir Ghulam Hussain]

The next point is that, as the bill confers the discretion on the municipalities, honourable members who are connected with the municipalities have given expression to the view that it will lead to favouritism and corruption. Why should we disturb the peace of the municipalities? And then, what will be the effect? If you leave this discretion to them, it will become the rule. We already know that the resources of municipalities are depleted, and I pity the Ahmedabad municipality. Every morning, in this House, I am flooded with half a dozen questions regarding grants for water-supply, grants for drainage schemes, and grants for other purposes, for the Ahmedabad municipality, and yet here is my honourable friend who, in the interests of the Ahmedabad municipality, wants to decrease their revenues. If we accept this bill, as I already told the honourable mover, it will in no way benefit the poor; on the contrary, it will benefit the rich. Then, what will the municipality do in order to replace the revenues which they have lost? As is usual with the municipalities, they will never touch the rich; they will avoid increasing the house tax; they will increase the octroi duties, which is an indirect tax paid by the poor. I may remind my honourable friend that he is not the only honourable member who is solicitous of the interests of the poor; there are others also in this House who have the same object in view. But this bill is in no way in the interests of the poor. If it is passed into law, I am afraid the poor will be burdened with extra taxes in the shape of octroi duties. With these words, I hope the House will throw out this bill.

BILL No. XXXIV OF 1927 (A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE CITY MUNICIPALITIES ACT, XVIII OF 1925)

(Motion for first reading)

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind) : Sir, I move the first reading of this bill. . . . .

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The honourable member has to introduce the bill first.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : I introduce Bill* No. XXXIV of 1927 (A Bill further to amend the Bombay City Municipalities Act, XVIII of 1925).

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The bill is introduced.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : Sir, I move the first reading of Bill No. XXXIV of 1927. I have obtained the permission of His Excellency the Governor to publish this Bill ; and therefore, this bill has been put down for first reading. The urgent necessity for this bill is this. In the original Act Government assumed no power to extend the term of municipalities whose election had not taken place. Section 25 of that Act made provision giving power to Government to extend the term of municipalities whose elections had to take place after the passing of this bill and under the new Act. Hence the necessity for this amending bill. . . .

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : We do not follow either the head or tail of what the honourable member says.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : What is it ?

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : We are not following what the honourable member says.

✓ Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : I will turn that side.

Act XVIII of 1925 was passed and received the sanction of the Governor General on 8th June 1926. Section 25 of that Act made provision giving power to Government to extend the term of municipalities whose elections were to be held under the new Act. Then, Sir, it made no provision for those bodies which had been elected under the old Act but whose term has not expired. In January 1927 the Government brought in an amending bill by which they added to sub-section (1) of section 24—

“ Provided that Government may, by a notification in the Bombay Government Gazette and subject to the other provisions of this Act, extend the term of office of any municipality for a period up to a date not later than the thirty-first day of December 1927.”

So that, in February 1927 they assumed the power of extending the period of municipalities up to 31st December 1927. But that did not take into consideration the case of municipalities whose term had to expire after the month of December 1927. For instance, there is the Sukkur municipality which was constituted in 1925 and whose natural term expires after 31st December 1927, and to which no provision for extension will apply. By that same bill, they enacted—

"Any municipality of a municipal borough included in schedule I which has not been constituted in accordance with the provisions of this Act and the rules made thereunder shall, save where it is otherwise provided in this Act, be deemed not to have been duly constituted and its members, both elected and nominated, shall be deemed not to have been duly elected and nominated."

According to the new Act, elections after 1926 can only be held under the rules framed under the new Act, and no relaxation can be made in favour of any municipality. Government asked the municipalities to frame rules and submit them to Government by the 30th April 1927. Many municipalities have done so, and the Sukkur municipality has done so too. But these rules will be slow to come into operation. Section 221 says :

"All rules made by the Government or the Commissioner under this Act shall be laid on the table of the Bombay Legislative Council for one month previous to the next session thereof, and shall be liable to be rescinded or modified by a resolution of the said Council tabled at its next session."

Therefore, these rules have to be placed on the Council table, and Government have not been able to place them at this session. Before these rules finally come into force it will take another two or three months to frame the roll and it will not be possible for the Sukkur municipality to hold its general election before the 31st December 1927. Therefore, the municipality will come to a deadlock. We have also one or two other municipalities in Sind similarly situated. This bill is only intended to give power to Government to extend the period of such municipalities whose election will be held by the 31st of December 1927, up to 31st December 1928. By that time the new rules will have been framed. It is only to remove a deadlock that this bill has been brought in. His Excellency has been pleased to permit me to get it published in the Government Gazette. It is a non-contentious bill, and I place it before the Council for the first reading.

Question proposed.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Sir, I support the bill.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Sir, if further support is necessary, I also support it.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Sir, if the second reading is to come now, I shall have to move an amendment. I want to add at the end of "1928" in clause 2 : "Provided that before such order of extension is made Government shall invite and consider the objections, if any, of the rate-payers of the borough concerned."

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : That could be moved at the second reading.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Sir, I may inform the honourable member that there is no sense in his amendment.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Will the honourable member move it at the second reading?

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN: I will move it just now.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: It cannot be moved now. How is it an amendment of principle?

Question put that the bill be read for the first time and carried.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: Sir, I beg special permission of the President, in view of the urgency of the bill, to move the second reading of the bill at once.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Yes.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: Then, I move for the second reading of the bill that Bill No. XXXIV be read for the second time.

Second reading. Question put and carried.

Bill read clause by clause

Clause 2.

In the proviso (a) to section 24, substitute "1928" for "1927."

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Sir, I move: that at the end of proviso (a) to section 24, the following be added:

"Provided that before such an order of extension is made Government shall invite and consider the objections, if any; from the rate-payers of the municipal borough concerned."

Question proposed.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind): I rise to object to this amendment as it is beyond the scope of the section 25.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I should like to know how it is beyond the scope of the section 25.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: Section 24, as it originally stood refers to nothing but an extension. Even section 24A added by Bill I of 1927 enabled Government to extend period in certain cases up to December 1927. Now this bill is only intended to convert the 1927 into 1928. The elongation of the period is therefore the scope of the bill. If you will please refer to section 25, it reads as follows:—

"Provided before such an order is made Government shall invite and consider the objections from the voters.....of the borough concerned."

If the amendment proposed is sought to be made to section 25, it will be in order. But section 24 contains only the elongation of the period and does not refer to the conditions which should be applied. Therefore I contend that the amendment is beyond the scope of the section, which is sought to be amended.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: There is considerable force in what the honourable member Mr. Pahalajani says as against the amendment. On the other hand, if I remember right, if the House is possessed of a section which is sought to be amended by a certain bill, then it is within the power of any honourable member to move an amendment further to amend the original section, and this amendment, as I understand it, is quite logical. When the period is extended, it means a certain privilege and the honourable member who moves this amendment wishes to limit that privilege under certain conditions. I think, therefore, the amendment is in order.

[The President]

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Sir, the object with which I move this amendment is this. This additional power of making extensions may be given to Government but it must not be a blank cheque. There must be a check on it. Just now the additional power was given up to the 31st December 1927. When the bill was moved in this House we were told, just as the honourable member Mr. Pahalajani now tells us, that it is brought forward only for the purpose of removing technical difficulties that may come in the way of holding the elections of the municipality. Sir, in Ahmedabad two extensions were given. At the time of the first extension Government had invited objections and after considering the objections they decided in any way they liked. But at least they invited objections in the month of October of the last year and after these objections were considered, Government decided on the matter. Afterwards the list of voters was ready and all the preliminary precautions were gone through. There was no technical objection in holding the elections on May 31st and at that time when there was no technical objection Government extended the period for four months up to October 15th in the case of the Ahmedabad municipality without ascertaining the wishes of the voters. The spirit of the Act wants that the voters should be consulted and their views ascertained as to whether an extension is necessary. We did not object to this provision when it was inserted as we were told by the Honourable the Education Minister that it was only to remove technical objections. We never thought that this power would have been used in the light way in which it was used afterwards. This additional power of further extensions without any conditions or control will be a dangerous weapon in the hands of Government. Secondly I wish to state that even in the matter of these extensions Government may be required to consult the voters otherwise the authorities of the municipality may make a common cause with Government and then the Government will utilise this additional power for the purpose of giving an extension to the municipality when they require it. Therefore, it is necessary that there should be some condition attached to it similar to the one in section 25 and if this additional power is to be given, then let this proviso be also added :

“ Before such an order of extension is made Government shall invite and consider the objections, if any, of the rate-payers of the borough concerned.”

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Sir, I oppose the amendment. The amendment proposes that Government should give such extensions after consulting the rate-payers, according to the honourable member. Now, the object of the amending bill is to remove deadlocks in one or two municipalities. Suppose we accept this amendment and the rate-payers on whom my honourable friend relies are opposed to the extension, then the deadlock will continue and the municipality will be defunct. In fact, the amendment is absurd. Again, if we look at the amendment from another point of view, it will be found to be equally impracticable. The honourable member says that objections of the rate-payers should be invited. But he forgets that there are people who occupy, as owners or tenants, houses the rental value of which is rupee one and are voters. He excludes those people. He says "Do not consult the voters; consult only the rate-payers." Another absurdity of his amendment. If he means that the objections of the voters should be invited, then he made a mistake in using the word "rate-payers." Then, too, his amendment is absurd. The reason why my honourable friend has moved this amendment is to give an extension to the municipality to enable it to prepare the electoral roll. How can you possibly consult the voters? The municipality are in possession of the old electoral rolls. The new ones are not ready; they have not prepared them yet. The amendment is absurd, Sir, on the face of it. It frustrates the very object for which the bill has been brought.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City): Sir, I rise to support the amendment moved by my honourable friend from Ahmedabad rural. Sir, I think it is the Major Municipalities Act which applies to all these municipalities. The Ahmedabad municipality prepared its rolls and rules in time in order to carry on its elections, although I am told a few extensions are given. But I fail to understand why the Sukkur municipality was so remiss in either submitting the rules required by Government in time in order to be able to hold their elections when the life of the municipality would expire or why the election rolls were not ready. Sir, this House does not exist to facilitate the Sukkur municipality and other municipalities for the indifference that they may have shown to carry out their duties. Sir, the honourable mover of the bill did not tell the House, or, at any rate, he did not find it convenient to inform the House as to when the rules required by the Government were actually submitted to Government. It is said, Sir, that by April 1927 the rules had to be submitted, and I want to know whether the rules were submitted in time or whether on account of the red-tapism in the Secretariat all this delay took place or whether the municipality itself took such a long time. If it is the municipality which took a long time, then the mover of the bill is merely utilising his position as a member of this House to simply take our time and benefit himself. We have had enough of these tactics in this House and we know that the municipalities on one pretext or another want to have extensions, and I do not think it is proper or in the fitness of things that we should go on becoming a party to this sort of thing. Then, what has been said? If the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government thinks it is not possible to consult the voters or that the consultation is restricted to mere rate-payers, it is for him to suggest an amendment to the amendment in order to make it workable. But merely to oppose it is to really burke the issue. I do not want that these issues should be avoided like this, and I want, Sir, that either the municipalities concerned ought to be consulted as to whether they want the extension or the rate-payers or the public in the municipalities concerned should be consulted. I find, Sir, that this is the first bill coming from the honourable the leader of the so-called Coalition Nationalist Party which has been accepted by the Government, and, Sir, as Dicey lays down in his "Law of Constitution" he finely analyses that only when Governments show some willingness to accept some legislative measures from private members, there can be any chance of it being carried. And we have seen, Sir, how the bills which were moved and intended to popularise and democratise the municipalities were simply thrown out by the help of the strength of this side (Government benches) and that side (pointing to some of the non-official benches).....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I should warn the honourable member at this proper moment that he should not digress into a broader issue.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR: I bow to your decision, Sir, but I do mean to state, Sir, that when the honourable member chooses certain things either on the Government side or on the other side and chooses to bring bills and to make.....

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI: I certainly object to this kind of criticism.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Yes; all that is foreign.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR: At any rate, Sir, I do insist that for the sake of Sukkur municipality we should not be made a pawn in this small game. I do not see, Sir, that the municipality or the people concerned had any opportunity of expressing their views on the bill. We have heard for the first time here that this bill is going to be passed in its second and third reading also in half an hour in this Council. Sir, this is not the way to tie the people's hands, and I do think, Sir, that the amendment moved by my honourable friend is quite reasonable that the people should be consulted before extensions are given to municipalities, or, if it is not possible or agreeable to the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government, I think we ought to postpone this matter to the next session. In the meantime the opinions of the bodies concerned should be invited whether they agree to this bill.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Sir, I am very sorry that the Honourable Minister for Education, who introduced the amending bill in the month of March, has not got up and opened his lips. At that time we were given to understand that only for technical irregularities extension shall be given under this section. But, unfortunately, in Ahmedabad municipality rules were made and the list of voters was ready and every technical formality was gone through, but still the extension was given. Therefore, this power is likely to be used light-heartedly by Government. Therefore, I want only a provision similar to the provision in section 25 of the Act to be tacked on to this amendment. The additional power may be given up to 31st December 1928, but only if he adds a proviso.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind): Sir, I am not surprised at the personal insinuations made in this Council on the moving of this very urgent and harmless bill. If the honourable member from Karachi wanted to take this opportunity, because I happen to be the president of the Sukkur municipality, of bringing forward the whole.....

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : I rise to a point of order, Sir. Is the honourable member speaking on the amendment ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. I think the honourable member is right in drawing my attention to the point. I draw the attention of the honourable members to Standing Order V (9) (3) which reads as under :—

“The mover of a motion, but not the mover of an amendment other than an amendment of a Bill or of the Standing Orders, may speak a second time on the conclusion of the debate by way of reply ; and if such motion is moved by a non-official Member, the Member of the Government in charge of the Department concerned shall have the right of speaking after the mover has replied whether such member of Government has previously spoken in the debate or not.”

Unless I am shown anything to the contrary, I will call upon the Honourable the Minister for Local Self-Government to reply.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Sir, there has been no collusion between the Government and the honourable leader of the Coalition Nationalist Party in this matter. The bill has been moved by the president of the Sukkur municipality, who is a responsible member of this House, and we know that unless this extension is granted to them, the Sukkur municipality and the Shikarpur municipality will come to a stand-still, there will be a deadlock, the doors will be closed, and then my honourable friends will blame Government and say “these autocrats do not want local self-government institutions to be run by the people and that they are running them themselves”.

As regards the amendment. I would have most willingly accepted it, but I request the honourable mover to consider his own amendment himself. He says “after consulting the voters.” But the whole trouble is, these voters do not exist. He is putting the cart before the horse. Suppose the amendment is carried as the voters do not exist, it will be impossible for Government to consult any one. Unless we give them an extension and new rolls are prepared, how can Government consult voters who do not exist ?.....

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : Municipalities.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : The president of the municipality himself has brought this bill. This amendment is absurd because there are no voters to consult.

Suppose this amendment were carried, I would not know whom to consult before giving the extension, because under this Act those who occupy or own houses whose rental value is rupee one have the right of vote. Such an electoral roll does not exist, and therefore I am sure the House will not stultify itself by passing this absurd amendment.

Question put and lost.

Clause 2 ordered to stand part of the bill.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind) : Sir, I wish to move a slight verbal amendment as under :—

In clause 1, after the word "Municipalities" and before the word "Amendment," insert the word "Second" in brackets.

Question put and carried.

Clause 1, as amended, ordered to stand part of the bill.

The preamble ordered to stand part of the bill.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind) : Sir, I beg to move that Third reading the bill be now read a third time.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : Sir, we heard the principle laid down by two stalwarts, namely, Rao Bahadur Kale and the honourable mover of this bill, that before any measure concerning local bodies can be brought in in this House, the municipalities and local bodies should be consulted.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : That is not in order, because the House as a House has not laid down any such principle.

Bill read a third time Question put and carried.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT . The bill is read a third time and passed into law.

A BILL TO AMEND THE BOMBAY PLEADERS' ACT, 1920

(Motion for leave to introduce the Bill)

Mr. N. B. CHANDRACHUD (Poona City) : Sir, I beg leave of the House to introduce my bill to amend the Bombay Pleaders' Act, 1920.

Being a pleader myself, it may appear strange that I am trying by means of this bill to reduce the fees chargeable by pleaders, but the evil has assumed large proportions. As the House knows, when a suit is to be brought by a landlord against his tenant, the claim for court fees is equal to one year's rent, that is to say, if the monthly rent is Rs. 5 the claim for court fees is Rs. 60. But for purposes of pleaders' fees the calculation is made on the value of the property. If the property is worth Rs. 2,000, the claim is valued for the purposes of pleader's fees at Rs. 2,000, and as a result the tenant has to pay pleader's fees on Rs. 2,000. These cases are absolutely simple. They do not take more than two or three minutes, and unfortunately, the tenant has not only to give up the premises but also to pay pleader's fees quite out of proportion to the labour of the pleader and the trouble involved. But the law has no other alternative, because it has been ruled by the High Court that the pleaders' fees ought to be calculated on the valuation of the property. The evil has become so great that Sir McLeod, the Chief Justice of the High Court, suggested that an amendment should be made in the Act, and it is with that view, in order to remove the hardship to the tenants that I have brought forward this amending bill.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I should like to remind the honourable member that only a brief statement can be made.

Question put and leave granted to the honourable member to introduce the bill.

Mr. N. B. CHANDRACHUD : I introduce the bill.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The bill is introduced.

A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE BOMBAY LOCAL BOARDS ACT, 1923

(Motion for leave to introduce the Bill)

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Sir, I ask for leave of the House to introduce a bill further to amend the Local Boards Act, 1923. The object of this bill is to reduce the franchise from an assessment of Rs. 32 to Rs. 16. I submit that the qualification should not be as high as that for the Legislative Council. It should be something between the qualification for the Council and that for the taluka local boards, that is to say, it should be reduced from Rs. 32 to Rs. 16.

Question put and leave granted to the honourable member to introduce the bill.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : I introduce the bill.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The bill is introduced.

A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE BOMBAY LAND REVENUE CODE, 1879

(Motion for leave to introduce the Bill)

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : I was informed that the period of notice in regard to this bill should be increased to two months. I cannot move it.

A BILL FURTHER TO AMEND THE CITY OF BOMBAY POLICE ACT, 1902

(Motion for leave to introduce the Bill)

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Sir, I ask the leave of the House to introduce a bill further to amend the City of Bombay Police Act, 1902. The bill refers to the shooting of animals. Now, the change that I wish to make is that before an animal is destroyed, an opportunity should be given to the Bombay Humanitarian Society or a pinjrapole to take care of the animal, and reasonable time should be given to them for the purpose of removing the animal or treating it according to their desire. I want to incorporate this into the Act, and I desire to ask the leave of the House to introduce this bill.

Question put and leave granted to the honourable member to introduce the bill.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : I introduce the bill.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The bill is introduced.

MOTION TO AMEND STANDING ORDERS(Motion for leave to introduce)*

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Sir, I rise to move an amendment to the Standing Orders. The Standing Order which I wish to amend is II-3 (2). As it at present stands the Standing Order says:

“On the prorogation of a Session, all pending notices shall lapse and fresh notice must be given for the next Session:”

Now, this requires that fresh notice has to be given for the next session of all such notices. Now, in the Central Provinces the Standing Order is that all pending notices shall be carried over to the next session. Therefore, I want to correct this Standing Order II-3 (2) in such a way that all pending notices shall be carried over to the business of the next session. This has to be done by substituting for Standing Order II-3 (2) the following:

“On the prorogation of a session all pending notices shall be carried over to the pending list of business of the next session.”

Question proposed.

Mr. J. R. MARTIN: Sir, I oppose the amendment.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Then the next procedure is that those who wish to support the motion should stand up in their places.

(Thirty members not having stood up in support of the motion, leave was refused to the honourable member.)

An Honourable MEMBER: There are so many members outside.

Rao Bahadur S. N. ANGADI: There was no ringing of the bell. Many honourable members might be outside.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: This is no division that has been asked for. All the honourable members who wanted to support the motion should have been in their places.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN (Nasik District): Sir, the motion that stands against my name reads thus:—

That the following humble address be presented to His Excellency the Governor of Bombay:—

“May it please Your Excellency,—

We, the members of the Bombay Legislative Council respectfully pray that Your Excellency may be pleased to appoint immediately standing committees of the Legislative Council as recommended by the Joint Parliamentary Committee on the Government of India Bill, 1919, in paragraph 10 of their report on the Bill.”

I wish to preface my speech with a few words of explanation as to the form of the motion. Some honourable members have asked me why my motion has been couched in the form of a motion to present an address to His Excellency and one honourable member who is not present here and who will be unnamed, on simply noticing that the motion is to present an address to His Excellency the Governor asked me whether His Excellency was retiring so soon. This motion is made under Standing Order XII-6, because it will be seen in the course of the debate that the appointment of standing committees is entirely in the hands of His

[Mr. R. G. Pradhan]

Excellency the Governor. It is so to speak his privilege—it is his prerogative—and therefore if I had submitted my motion in the form of an ordinary resolution embodying a recommendation to Government, I stood the risk of having such a resolution ruled out of order. I did not intend to take such a risk and therefore I have couched my motion in the form of a motion to present an address to His Excellency the Governor.

Sir, the history of the question to which this motion relates is interesting; and I propose to review that history briefly. The proposal that standing committees should be attached to the various departments of Government was made in that historic report on Indian constitutional reforms, popularly known as the Montagu-Chelmsford Report. The authors of that report observe on this proposal:

“Our next proposal is intended to familiarise other elected members of the legislative council, besides ministers, with the processes of administration; and also to make the relations between the executive and legislative more intimate. We propose that to each department or group of departments whether it is placed under a member of the executive council or under a minister, there should be attached a standing committee elected by the legislative council from among their own members. Their functions would be advisory. They would not have any administrative control of departments. It would be open to Government to refuse information when it would be inconsistent with the public interest to furnish it. We do not intend that all questions raised in the course of day to day administration should be referred to them; but that they should see, discuss and record for the consideration of Government their opinions on all questions of policy, all new schemes involving expenditure above a fixed limit, and all annual reports upon the working of the departments. If the recommendations of the standing committee were not accepted by Government it would, subject of course to the obligation of respecting confidence, be open to any of its members to move a resolution in the legislative council in the ordinary way. The member of the executive council or minister concerned with the subject matter, should preside over the committee, and as an exception to the rule that it should be wholly non-official, the heads of the departments concerned, whether sitting in the legislative council, or not, should also be full members of it, with the right to vote.”

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I should like to interrupt the honourable member at this stage and inform him that I intend as regards time limit on this motion to follow the same procedure as is followed in the case of resolutions.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN: Half an hour?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: Yes.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN: This was then the proposal made by the authors of that report. The question was considered by the Joint Parliamentary Committee on the Government of India Bill, 1919, and their proposal on this question reads thus. In paragraph 10 of their report the committee observe:

“The committee think that it may often greatly assist the political education of India if standing committees of the legislative bodies are attached to certain departments of Government but they only express the opinion on the understanding that the appointment of such committees, their composition and the regulations which govern their procedure shall be matters wholly and exclusively within the discretion of the Governor-General or of the Governor as the case may be.”

It will be seen from the paragraph which I have just read out that the Joint Parliamentary Committee approve of the recommendation. They only urge that the appointment of the committees, the regulations about the appointment of these committees, and all questions relating to such committees should lie entirely in the hands of the Governor-General in the Central Government and of the Governor in the provincial governments. Now, Sir, honourable members may, perhaps, be aware that in the central government such standing committees are attached to various departments. In 1922 in the Legislative Assembly one honourable member brought forward a resolution which recommended the appointment of such committees. That resolution was passed, and since then the Government of India have been giving effect to that resolution. Recently in the Simla session, held in August, resolutions were moved on behalf of the Government of India to appoint several standing committees, for instance, a standing committee of the Department of Industries and Labour; then there was also a proposal to appoint a standing committee for the Commerce Department; there was a third proposal for the appointment of a standing committee for the Department of Education, Health and Lands. And all these resolutions moved by the Government were adopted.

The Government of India have made certain regulations with regard to the constitution of these committees, and one of the regulations is that generally a panel should be elected by members of both houses of the Central Legislature, and out of the panel so elected by the Legislative Assembly and the Council of State, the Government should nominate members of the standing committees. The Government of India have attached great importance to these standing committees. They have recognised that such committees have proved very valuable. When in this session, held in August, these resolutions were moved on behalf of the Government, I find, in the speech made by the Honourable Sir Bhupendranath Mitra, whilst speaking on his resolution on the subject, he frankly admitted that his committee had been very useful to him, and he concluded by remarking :

“ I would ask the House to consider whether because they do not like the present constitution of these committees or because they do not like the panel system on grounds of high policy, if I may use that expression, it is fair to me that they should deprive me of the services of this committee and compel me to go without the assistance of my honourable friends like Mr. Joshi and Mr. Chamanlal.”

Then, perhaps, it will be very interesting to this honourable House to know that Mr. A. R. Dalal, who was a member of this House and who has been deputed to the Government of India as Secretary of the Education, Health and Lands Department, in moving his resolution in connection with the committee to be attached to his department observed :

“ I do not wish to say anything further except to mention that we have found the advice and the help of our Standing Emigration Committee, which we frequently consult, of the greatest help to us. I trust, therefore, that the House will not deny similar advice and assistance from this committee.”

From these extracts, which I have read, I hope the honourable House will be satisfied of the statement that I have made, that the Government of India have gladly and willingly accepted the principle of these committees; that they have been appointing such committees since. I believe.

the year 1923 or 1924 ; and that they have given public testimony to the value and importance of such committees and have gladly recognised the services they have rendered.

Now, Sir, the position is this. Here is a proposal which I am making, which is, in the first place, recommended by the then Secretary of State for India, the late Mr. Montagu, and Lord Chelmsford, sometime the Governor General and Viceroy of India ; which has received the imprimatur of the approval of the Joint Parliamentary Committee ; which has received further the approval of the Government of India and has in principle been acted and carried out by them for several years.

Coming to the provincial Governments, I regret I have not been able to obtain the latest information on the subject, but I have gone through the report submitted to the Reforms Enquiry Committee as regards the working of the Reforms in the provincial Governments for the years 1923 and 1924, and I find in the report for the year 1924, committees appointed by the Madras Government and also, I believe, by one or two other provincial Governments. Recently, since the elections that took place last year, I understand that standing committees have been appointed by the Government of the United Provinces and also by the Government of the Central Provinces. I speak subject to correction, but so far as my information goes, these two Governments have recently appointed standing committees to their departments. Such is the position on this question. And what I am asking this honourable House is that a request should be made to His Excellency the Governor to consider whether it would not be advisable that similar committees should be appointed by our Government to the various departments. I do not desire to submit that all at once there should be a standing committee attached to every department. For instance, there is the Political Department, which, I believe—and believe rightly—is entirely administered by His Excellency the Governor.....

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : So far so good.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : As my honourable friend Moulvi Saheb says so far so good. I share his sentiments. If it is not His Excellency's desire to attach a committee to that department and let us peep into the arcana of that department, the mysteries of that department, I would not mind it. A beginning may be made by appointing standing committees say for the Revenue Department, for the Education Department and for the Home Department. In fact, Sir, the principle of appointing such committees has been, to some extent, partially, accepted by this Government also.

We have the Finance Committee and Government have recently appointed a committee to advise the Development Department. The Finance Committee is but an advisory committee attached to the Department of Finance and I do not think Government will say that that Finance Committee is not giving them valuable assistance and guidance in administering the financial affairs of this presidency. They have recently appointed a committee to advise as regards the Development

[Mr. R. G. Pradhan]

Department. It would have been much better if such a committee had been attached to that Department earlier. I venture to submit that if such a committee had been in existence ever since the establishment of the Development Department.....

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : It has been there.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : I am very glad to hear it. If such a committee had been in existence ever since the establishment of the Department some of the very serious mistakes in connection with that Department would have been avoided. Government themselves have, as a matter of fact, recognised the principle of these committees and I do not think that there can be any valid objection to the appointment of such committees. I do not want at this stage to anticipate the objections. I know when I submitted the motion to the Secretary of this Council, certain criticisms appeared in a certain newspaper in Bombay which shall be nameless, criticising me for making this motion on the ground that, enamoured as I am certainly not of the dyarchical system, as I have always been one of those who wanted to improve the constitution so that we may have full responsible government as early as possible, I should have been the last person to bring forward a proposal the result of which would, according to the critic, would be to strengthen the dyarchical constitution. That was the criticism that was made against my proposal. I do not think that criticism will be levelled on the floor of this House. If it is levelled I shall answer it when I reply.

Then, Sir, it may perhaps be contended that the appointment of these committees may be expensive. Meetings will have to be held, travelling allowance will have to be paid and so on and some additional expenditure will have to be incurred by the Government. No doubt some expenditure will have to be incurred and, therefore, in view of the financial position of the presidency I do not contend that committees should be appointed to every department all at once. I realise that there is some force in that contention but certainly Government can appoint some committees. I do not think expenditure on account of these committees would be too heavy for the Government to bear in spite of the fact, which we all recognise, that the finances of this presidency are not as satisfactory as they should be.

Then it might be urged— and I remember that I had an informal talk on this question with a Minister who asked me— how these committees can be worked. Well, the Government of India have not found it difficult to work such committees. They have made rules and I do not see any reason why the Government of Bombay should not frame rules governing the business and the constitution of these committees. Personally, I have not the slightest objection to their following the example of the Government of India and making a rule to the effect that a panel of certain members shall be elected by this honourable House and then Government can appoint committees out of that panel.

There is one observation which I should like to make before I resume my seat. I attach very great importance to the appointment of a standing committee in connection with the Home Department. I am sorry the Honourable Member for the Home Department is not here on account of his not being quite well. But if he had been here, I would have certainly earnestly appealed to him to take into consideration my suggestion that he should appoint a standing advisory committee for his department. The Home Department is concerned with the most important, the most vital, the most responsible function of maintaining peace and order. Time at my disposal is very short ; otherwise I would have given several reasons why I urge very strongly that a committee should be attached in particular to this Department. I shall, however, content myself with saying this, namely, that if such a committee is appointed, Government probably will receive considerable assistance in this solution of communal questions. Probably the communal atmosphere will become clearer and clearer if the Honourable Member in charge of the Home Department, whose responsibilities are very serious, would take the assistance of a few members of this House belonging to both communities as also of other communities. If such assistance is taken by him, probably he will find himself in a better and stronger position to deal with the various questions relating to his department of peace and order, which have cropped up and which may crop up in the future.

I am also very keen that a committee of this kind should be attached to the Department of Education. The importance of a committee attached to the Education Department should be so obvious to the Honourable Minister of Education that I need not say more on the point. I also suggest that a committee should be appointed in connection with the Revenue Department.

I submit, Sir, there is every reason, every argument in support of the appointment of such committees. Authority, argument, reason, experience, utility, expectation of advantage, all these considerations are entirely in favour of the motion I am making and I do hope as it is only a motion to present an address to His Excellency the Governor, there would not be the least objection on the part of the Government to allowing this motion in this House. It is simply the presentation of an address to His Excellency : the matter will rest entirely in the hands of His Excellency. I do not think honourable members on the Government benches will be the least inclined to oppose a motion which simply amounts to this ; that it is a request coming from this honourable House to His Excellency the Governor that His Excellency may be pleased to consider the advisability of appointing such committees in the interests, as I say, of the better Government of this province. With these words, Sir, I strongly commend my motion to the acceptance of the House.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The House is adjourned to 10 a.m. to-morrow, Tuesday the 18th October 1927.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. Before we proceed, I should like to point out to honourable members that we have a question list of 87 pages before us, and that, therefore, I would request honourable members on the Government side to say "as printed" as often as they possibly can and on the non-official side, I would request honourable members to limit their supplementary questions to the fewest number. Questions.

EKRUK TANK, SHOLAPUR : CANAL OFFICER

Khan Saheb ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN (Poona and Sholapur Cities) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) to whom the powers of a canal officer were delegated by Government for the Ekruk tank at Sholapur since its construction ;

(b) whether the powers are exercised by that officer at present; if not, who exercises them now and from what year;

(c) if the answer to (a) is in the negative, what were the reasons for this?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : (a) Executive Engineer.

(b) Yes; but due to the insufficient storage of water in the Ekruk tank, the Executive Engineer submits (since 1923) the annual forecast for the approval of the Superintending Engineer, Central Circle.

(c) Does not arise.

KARACHI PORT TRUST

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that some of the Superior Staff in the services of the Karachi Port Trust is superfluous;

(b) whether the Indian members of the Port Trust Board have drawn the attention of the Chairman to the excessive number of Pilots in comparison to those of other important ports;

(c) whether it is a fact that a very large quantity of cement and coal for the construction of the West Wharf Scheme is imported from abroad and Indian Industry not patronised in spite of pressure from the Indian members of the Board;

(d) whether it is a fact that on almost all popular issues before the Board the Indian point of view has been rejected;

(e) whether the Honourable the General Member intends bringing in a fresh Bill to amend the Karachi Port Trust Act with a view to securing that the Indian view prevails in the Port Trust?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : (a) No.

(b) The question was raised by one of the Indian members.

(c) English cement has been used up to date for under water work.

For work above low water about 3,000 tons of Indian cement have been used and an order has just been placed for another 2,500 tons.

Only Indian coal was used from 1914-15 to 1919-20. Since August 1925 Bengal coal has been used except one consignment of 1,696 tons of South African coal purchased locally in November 1925.

(d) Government have no reason to believe that such is the fact.

(e) There is no such intention at present.

KARACHI PORT TRUST LOAN

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to furnish a list showing separately the total amounts tendered towards the last Karachi Port Trust Loan by the Imperial Bank of India themselves at their head office and all other branch offices ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : Government regret that the information asked for is not available.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : May I draw attention to the fact that we are greatly handicapped in not getting question and answer lists at least a day or two in advance to enable us to see whether any supplementary questions are necessary ? We cannot do so if we get the lists just about when the Council assembles.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I know the difficulty, one which has been brought to the notice of the President before now, but when copies are received by the office itself this morning, they cannot be supplied to honourable members the day before.

JAIN HOLIDAY, KARACHI

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that there is a large population of Jains in Karachi ;

(b) whether they are aware that there is not a single Jain holiday included among the public holidays ;

(c) whether they propose to take any action in the matter in view of the fact that two such holidays are observed in Bombay and Ahmed abad ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Information has been called for.

TEACHERS' SALARIES : KARACHI MUNICIPAL SCHEME

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City) : Will Government be pleased to state what progress has been made with regard to the scheme submitted by the Karachi Municipality in connection with the revised scales of salaries for their teachers ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : The Commissioner in Sind has been asked to ascertain from the Municipality whether it is prepared to agree to Government sanctioning the scales of pay proposed by it on the understanding that Government will not bear any portion of the extra cost involved.

SCHOOL BOARD, KARACHI : NOMINATIONS

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the election of the Karachi School Board took place on 10th June ;

(b) whether it is a fact that immediately afterwards in response to an enquiry from the Collector the Municipality by an overwhelming majority expressed itself against nominations by Government ;

(c) whether it is a fact that in spite of this resolution the President of the Karachi Municipality recommended nomination of members ;

(d) if so, whether they will lay on the Council table the correspondence that passed between the President and the Collector and Commissioner in Karachi ;

(e) whether it is a fact that the Honourable Minister for Education gave an undertaking during the passage of the Primary Education Act in the Council that Government would not exercise their power of nominations ;

(f) whether it is a fact that they recently issued a resolution that unless the local bodies desire it they will not make any nomination on school boards ;

(g) if so, whether there has been any change of policy since then ;

(h) if not, what the cause of the delay of about three months in gazetting the names of the members of the Karachi School Board was ;

(i) whether they have perused articles in the press in Karachi, expressing resentment at this delay ;

(j) whether it is a fact that the Honourable Minister upheld the opinion of the Municipality and that the President of the Municipality and the Commissioner have again pressed for nominations ;

(k) when they propose to bring the matter to an end ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI :

(a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) Yes.

(d) Government regret that they are unable to comply with the request as the correspondence contains reports of Government officers which are meant for the information of Government only.

(e) Yes, so far as Dr. Paranjpye himself was concerned.

(f) No. Government merely declared their intention to consult the local authorities before appointing additional members.

(g) No.

(h) The delay was due in the main to the necessity of giving adequate consideration to certain points of view which were put forward.

(i) No.

(j) I would invite the attention of the Honourable Member to the replies given to parts (d) and (k) of his question.

(k) The names of members of the School Board have now been published in the Sind Official Gazette.

SALARIES OF MENIALS, KARACHI

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) what salaries they pay to their peons, sweepers and other low paid employees in the various departments in Karachi;

(b) whether it is a fact that for years the sweepers, ward-boys, peons, etc., in the Civil Hospital have been representing to Government that they are unable to exist on a salary ranging from Rs. 16 to Rs. 20 or so;

(c) whether they are aware that the Karachi Municipality and Port Trust pay their sweepers Rs. 20 to Rs. 25 whereas Government pay only Rs. 16 to 18;

(d) whether they are aware that it is impossible for a man with a family to live on Rs. 16 to 18 particularly in a city like Karachi, and if so whether they intend to revise the salaries and bring them at least into line with those of the Municipality;

(e) whether they are aware that their recent orders sanctioning a consolidated salary of the same amount formerly paid as salary and war allowance affords not the slightest relief to the servants in the Civil Hospital in Karachi and that the discontent among the staff is growing on that account;

(f) whether there are any Government servants in the ranks of clerks and above who get no annual or alternate year promotions for years as is the case with sweepers, etc.?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: (a) A statement containing the required information is placed on the Council Table.

(b) Yes.

(c) No. The pay of sweepers in the Karachi Municipality is Rs. 20-½-22, while in the Karachi Port Trust it is Rs. 17 to Rs. 22 plus Rs. 4 as house rent allowance where free quarters are not provided. The pay of sweepers in Government employ at Karachi ranges from Rs. 16 to Rs. 20 with free quarters in certain cases.

(d) Please refer to answer to (c) above.

(e) The Honourable Member is referred to the Honourable Minister in charge of the Department.

(f) Yes.

SCHOOL BOARD, KARACHI : MODEL RULES

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Karachi Municipality as the local authority proposed certain changes in the model rules for election of school boards and communicated the same for adoption by Government to the Director of Public Instruction;

(b) whether it is a fact that in their reply they regretted that they were unable to accept the said modification in rule 4 (2) and the adoption of a new sub-rule to rule 12 of the said election rules;

(c) whether they are aware that the general impression in such matters is that however reasonable the proposals may be Government are as a rule unwilling to adopt them and that Government are rarely found to give up their position;

(d) the reasons why they found the proposals of the Karachi municipal local authority unacceptable?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) No.

(d) Out of the two amendments proposed by the Municipality the addition of a sub-rule to rule 12 of the model rules for the election of the school board, was considered unnecessary in view of the provisions of rule 17 of the Bombay Primary Education Rules, 1924. The other amendment which dealt with the question of dispensing with the presence of the proposer and the seconder at the time of presentation of the nomination paper to the President, was regarded as unacceptable in the interest of the candidate himself, especially in the case of candidates who belong to the backward and depressed classes, as the presence of the proposer and the seconder gives an opportunity to the candidate to present a fresh nomination paper in time in case the proposer or the seconder refuses to acknowledge his having signed the nomination paper.

PRINCIPAL : SIND MADRESSAH

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether their attention has been drawn to an article in the Sind Observer, dated 16th July about the Degrees of Mr. Mathews, the Principal of the Sind Madressah;

(b) whether they propose to take any action in the matter?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: (a) Yes.
(b) No.

KURLA MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS : VOTERS' QUALIFICATIONS

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they received a representation from the residents of Kurla asking them to give the right of voting at the municipal election to tenants who pay a monthly rent of Rs. 3 ;

(b) if so, what steps they have taken in the matter ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : (a) Yes.

(b) The matter is receiving the attention of Government.

PRIMARY EDUCATION : EXPANSION IN THANA

Mr. S. K. BOLE : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the district local board, Thana, have submitted long ago proposals for opening new schools ;

(b) whether they are aware of the fact that the district local board, Thana, has resolved to open 90 new schools in anticipation of Government sanction in view of the unusual delay on the part of Government in sanctioning its proposals ;

(c) whether any communication on the subject has been received by Government from the Chairman, district school board, Thana ; if so, what action has been taken thereon ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) and (b) Yes.

(c) Yes. It is under the consideration of Government.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : Since when has this matter been under consideration ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Since the time the proposals were received.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : May I know the approximate date when the proposals were received ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : About nine months ago, I believe.

GRAZING FEES : BELGAUM DISTRICT

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI (Belgaum District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the villages in the Belgaum District have been classified as forest villages and ordinary villages, and what the actual basis is that has been adopted in making such classification ;

(b) what the number is of the forest villages in the Belgaum District and what their names are ;

(c) since what date this classification has been made, what the reasons are for making it, and whether they will place a copy of their orders or resolution in respect thereof on the Council table ;

(d) whether there are different rates levied for grazing in forest in respect of cattle belonging to forest villages and of those belonging to ordinary villages, and if so, what those rates are ;

(e) whether these rates have been increased and if so, since what date and what the old and new rates are ;

(f) whether they have decided that it is unnecessary to consult the villagers or their representatives in the district or the Legislative Council in the matter of either fixing or enhancing the grazing fees or in classifying the villages into forest and non-forest or ordinary villages ;

(g) if the answer to (f) above is in the negative, whether the villages or the Legislative Council were consulted and, if not, what the reasons are for not consulting them ;

(h) whether it is a fact that all the cattle living in a forest village have been charged with grazing fees irrespective of the fact that some or any of them went to grazing or not ;

(i) whether the people of some villages complained of such a levy of charges upon all the cattle in their villages, whether some of these villages were consequently exempted from a levy of this nature, what those villages are that were thus exempted, what the names of the villages are that were not exempted and what the reasons are for making such a differential treatment ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) Yes. Forest villages are those which contribute land to forest. Non-forest villages are those which do not contribute any land to forest.

(b) The number of forest villages in the Belgaum Division is 329. A list of these villages is placed on the Council table.

(c) The classification of villages into forest and non-forest villages was in force until September 1909 when it was abandoned. It was however revived in July 1915 with a view to giving priority in the matter of grazing and concession rates in regard to the levy of grazing fees to forest villages in consideration of their having contributed land to forest. The grazing rules in which the classification has been defined will be found printed in Article 437 of the Bombay Forest Manual, Volume II, a copy of which is to be found in the library.

(d) Yes. The rates are—

Buffaloes, cows,
oxen, horses,
mules and donkeys

Rs. a. p.

Sheep and goats

Rs. a. p.

Forest villages

Buffaloes, cows,
oxen, horses,
mules and donkeys

Rs. a. p.

Sheep and

Rs. a. p.

Non-forest villages

(e) The rates for the forest villages mentioned in the reply to clause (d) came into force in the Gujnal and Gokak Ranges from 9th April 1925 and in the Khanapur, Nagargalli and Patne Ranges from 17th July 1925. The rates for the non-forest villages came into force from May 1924. Previous to these dates the rates were two annas for every buffalow, cow, ox, horse, mule or donkey and one anna for every sheep and goat of both forest and non-forest villages.

(f) and (g) Government have come to no such decision. They have always sought to elicit the views of the villagers affected in all matters of forest administration, and in the Advisory committees which are being established they are creating a machinery which will facilitate such consultation. It is not the practice of Government to consult the Legislative Council in regard to the ordinary details of administration.

(h) Yes, except in the case of cattle in the forest villages of the Gujnal and Gokak Ranges and in the Gokak and Hukeri talukas.

(i) Some complaints were received and considered. The forest villages in the areas mentioned in the reply to clause (h) were exempted from the levy of the charges on all cattle, because stall feeding on a large scale is practised in these villages. The complaints of the villagers in the Khanapur and Patne Ranges are under consideration. The names of the villages which were exempted from payment of fees for all their cattle and of those which were refused such exemption are shown in the list referred to in the reply to clause (b).

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : No reply has been given to my question in (a) namely, what the actual basis is that has been adopted in making such classification.

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : It is stated in the reply.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : Why is it not necessary to consult the Legislative Council in regard to such an important matter as the fixing of grazing fees ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : The answer is that it is not the practice of Government to consult the Legislative Council in regard to the ordinary details of administration.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : In view of the fact that forest is a transferred subject under the Reforms and grazing fees affect the every day life of a large class of people who contribute towards the cost of the Forest Department, is it not necessary that their representatives who are members of the Legislative Council should be consulted ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : It is for the executive department to submit proposals but the wishes of the Council are taken into consideration by Government when passing orders.

Under this rule the revenue patel of the village or the village accountant is authorised to issue passes for the removal of fire-wood or timber.

(b) No such complaints have been received.

(c) and (d) Government will consider the suggestion made by the honourable member.

Mr. B. R. NANAL : Why should in the Ratnagiri district alone that practice of the talatis issuing passes be maintained ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : The question will be considered.

VACCINATION DEPARTMENT : CONTRIBUTION BY LOCAL BOARDS

Mr. B. R. NANAL (Ratnagiri District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the year from which the Local Boards have been made to contribute to the expenditure incurred on the Vaccination Department and its employees, within their respective jurisdictions ;

(b) the rules, if any, by which such contributions are regulated ;

(c) the proportions in which the extra expenditure is shared between Government and the Local Boards ;

(d) whether the Local Boards possess any control over the staff employed by the Department within their areas ;

(e) if the answer to the last question is in the affirmative, the nature and extent of that control ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) The Local Boards began to contribute to the expenditure on vaccination from the year 1871-72. The vaccination establishment was reorganised in the year 1872 and the Local Boards were enjoined to pay the contributions.

(b) The principles regulating the contributions were :—

(1) that each taluka should be provided with an itinerant vaccinator,

(2) that each vaccinator should be paid from the Local Funds.

It is an obligatory duty of the Local Boards under section 50 (e) of the District Local Boards Act, 1923, to make adequate provision for public vaccination.

(c) The expenditure on account of the vaccinators serving under the Local Boards is met by them. Government, however, bear the following expenditure. When the pay of vaccinators was revised in 1919, Government agreed to bear half the cost of the revision and subsidies are paid to each Local Board on account of the Government's share. The pay of the vaccinators was further revised in 1921 when a time scale pay, viz., Rs. 30—1—50 per mensem was sanctioned for them. The extra cost on account of this scale over and above the total of the original pay and the temporary and provisional allowance is charged to provincial revenues. The liability of Government on this account is, however, subject to reconsideration when new revenues from taxation are placed at the disposal of local bodies. The cost borne by Government is in the nature of contribution to be continued by them so long as their financial circumstances permit. Government undertake to make a contribution of Rs. 5 per mensem per candidate vaccinator, provided the local body gives pay of Rs. 20—1—25 per mensem to the candidate vaccinator. Government also undertake to make a contribution of Rs. 5 per mensem per vaccinator maintaining a pony (or equivalent) on condition that the Local Boards in the Ratnagiri and Kanara Districts pay Rs. 10 per mensem and those in the remaining districts pay Rs. 20 per mensem on this account. No recovery on account of pension and leave contribution is made on account of vaccinators as these officers are exempt from the payment of the contribution.

(d) and (e) All vaccinators paid from Local Funds are subordinate to the Public Health Department except in the Surat, West Khandesh, Sholapur, Bijapur and Sukkur Districts, where the control of vaccination has been transferred to the Local Boards. In these districts vaccinators are employed by the Local Boards and are under their control as other local employees.

Mr. B. R. NANAL : May I know why only in the case of some districts the control over the vaccinators should be given to the district local boards while in others not ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Because an experiment was tried in five district local boards only while in others no experiment was made.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : May I know the five districts ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I do not remember the others except Surat.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : Since when has this experiment been tried ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Before 1925 that experiment was tried in five districts.

VERNACULAR READERS : TRADE DISCOUNT

Mr. B. R. NANAL (Ratnagiri District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) what rate of trade discount was allowed by the contractors of Government vernacular readers in pre-war days and since what time and under what circumstances the rate of 10 per cent. was first introduced ;

(b) what margin of profit the rate of 10 per cent. was expected to leave to the retail sellers after excluding all trade expenses ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) The attention of the honourable member is invited to the Government Press Notes no. 3132, dated the 12th December 1916, and no. 471, dated the 24th February 1917, copies of which will be found in the reading room of the Legislative Council.

(b) If the whole sale dealers and village dealers are eliminated, a profit of 5 per cent. is likely to accrue to the retail dealers.

TRAINING COLLEGE, POONA : ADDITIONS AND ALTERATIONS

Mr. N. E. NAVLE (Ahmednagar District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that Government have sanctioned additions and alterations to the out-houses of the Male Training College, Poona ;

(b) if so, what is the amount sanctioned for the purpose ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) Yes.

(b) Rs. 17,107.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE : In view of the decrease in the number of students is it necessary to incur this expenditure ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I want notice of that question.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE : Is it a fact that the expenditure is being incurred for the construction of a separate building for Brahmin students only ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I do not know anything exactly about it ; if it is so, it is because the non-Brahmin students objected to use the same dining room with the Brahmins. Some trouble arose and it may be on that account some provision has to be made.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV : Is it not a fact that the Brahmins objected to dining with non-Brahmins ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Originally the objection came from the non-Brahmins.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE : Is it not a fact that there is enough room available for providing kitchen to Brahmins ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I am not aware of it.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV : Did not non-Brahmins take food served by Brahmins ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Yes.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV : Did the non-Brahmins object to dining with Brahmins ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : So far as I know they wanted a partition.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : As the whole building grant is Rs. 20,000 in the budget of the current year will not this consume almost the whole of the building grant ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : The honourable member is a mathematician and he can see himself.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Should this communal fight cost Government Rs. 17,000 ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : The situation is inevitable and something has to be done.

CHALISGAON COURT : WATER SUPPLY

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR (East Khandesh District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that there is no arrangement about water supply in the Court compound at Chalisgaon and that this causes considerable trouble to the litigants and persons who have to come to Court particularly in the hot season ;

(b) whether they are aware that the Subordinate Judge, Chalisgaon, and the members of the Chalisgaon Bar have been making representations in this connection for several years past ;

(c) what steps they propose to take to remove this inconvenience at an early date ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a) The wells in the compound have gone dry. In the hot season arrangements are made to supply water.

(b) Government have not received any such representation.

(c) The matter is under consideration.

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR : May I know whether the arrangements are made by Government ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : So far as I know they are made by Government.

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR : Is it not a fact that the vakils have to contribute something towards it ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : I am afraid I cannot tell the honourable member off-hand without notice.

DEPUTY DIRECTORS OF AGRICULTURE : TRAVELLING ALLOWANCE

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR (East Khandesh District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(i) the amounts paid by way of travelling allowance in the years 1925 and in 1926 to—

(a) The Deputy Director of Agriculture, North Central Division,

(b) The Deputy Director of Agriculture, South Central Division,

(c) The Deputy Director of Agriculture, Gujarath,

(d) The Deputy Director of Agriculture, Dharwar (Karnatak),

(ii) whether any amount by way of maximum has been fixed with regard to the travelling allowance to be paid to a Deputy Director of Agriculture?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN :

			1925-26	1926-27
			Rs.	Rs.
(i)	(a)	.. .. .	3,258	3,278
	(b)	.. .. .	2,989	1,530
	(c)	.. .. .	4,038	3,657
	(d)	.. .. .	4,328	3,312

(ii) The expenditure on travelling is limited to the budget provision made for the travelling allowance of the Deputy Director and his staff.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : Do Government intend to introduce permanent travelling allowance for these officers?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : I require notice, because that will have to be enquired into.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : Do Government know that other officers in other departments have been given permanent travelling allowance?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : When an official has to tour over several districts I do not think he is given a permanent travelling allowance.

Mr. P. R. CHIKODI : Other touring officers in other departments are given permanent travelling allowance?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : Some of them are.

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR : Why should not Government apply the same rule in the case of these officers?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : If the honourable member gives notice I will make enquiries.

NAGARDEOLA STATION PLATFORM

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR (East Khandesh District): Will Government be pleased to state whether they are aware of the necessity of a suitable platform at Nagardeola Station on the G. I. P. Railway as there is considerable passenger traffic there.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Yes. The Railway Administration have now arranged for a low-level platform to be provided.

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR : May I know whether the platform has been provided or is to be provided ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Arrangements are being made but it has not yet been actually constructed.

GOVERNMENT SERVANTS, NANDURBAR : WATER SUPPLY

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR (East Khandesh District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware of the fact that every clerk in Government service at Nandurbar has to spend not less than five or six rupees per month for water carriage from the months of March to July every year ;

(b) if not, whether they propose to make any enquiry into the matter ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : (a) and (b) Information has been called for.

FLOOD : DAMAGE AND RELIEF

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI on behalf of Mr. G. I. PATEL (Ahmedabad Millowners' Association) : Will Government be pleased to place on the Council table general details—

(a) of the flood damage in Gujarat, Kathiawar and Sind during the last monsoon ; and

(b) of the measures of relief given by Government and non-official agencies ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) The general details of the damage caused by the floods in Gujarat and Sind have been laid before the Council in the discussion on the demands for supplementary grants. This Government has no information about Kathiawar which is not within its jurisdiction.

(b) As in (a) in regard to the measures for relief taken by Government. The honourable member is referred to the non-official agencies for information about the measures which they have taken.

COMPULSORY PRIMARY EDUCATION, AHMEDABAD

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI on behalf of Mr. G. I. PATEL (Ahmedabad Millowners' Association) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Compulsory Primary Education Act of 1923 came into operation in the city of Ahmedabad municipal area from 1st April 1925 ;

(b) whether in spite of over two years having elapsed the citizens are without the facility of having compulsory primary education ;

(c) whether it is a fact that the execution of such an important measure has been unduly delayed owing to the correspondence between them and the Ahmedabad municipality having remained pending decision for several months ;

(d) whether by the 1st of April 1928 the Ahmedabad city will have the benefit of compulsory primary education ;

(e) the approximate amounts of additional burden which the Government and the Ahmedabad municipality will have to bear respectively during each of the first three years of compulsory primary education in Ahmedabad ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) The Bombay Primary Education Act, 1923 came into operation in the Ahmedabad City Municipal Area on the date on which the Governor General's assent was given in February 1923, and it was put into force in the same area on the 1st April 1925.

(b) Yes.

(c) The delay in the first instance was due to the following facts, viz., the scheme forwarded by the Ahmedabad Municipality was not submitted in the forms prescribed by the rules and did not contain all the necessary information to enable Government to examine it with a view to seeing how far it complied with the requirements of the Bombay Primary Education Act, 1923, and the rules thereunder nor did it specify clearly the immediate and ultimate financial liabilities which would devolve upon Government and the local authority. The local authority was accordingly called upon to supply all the requisite detailed information. When this information was received it was found that there were several points which required further elucidation and the local authority had to be further addressed in the matter. It should also be noted that the scrutiny of a compulsory education scheme for a big city like Ahmedabad necessarily takes considerable time. The recent delay in the issue of orders regarding the scheme has been solely due to the difficulty of finding funds from which to meet the extra cost to Government on account of it. In this connection the attention of the honourable member is invited to Educational Department Press Note No. 624-F, dated the 4th October 1927.

(d) No statement can be made on the point at present.

(e) Assuming that the scheme is introduced from the 1st June 1928, the approximate amounts of additional burden to be borne by Government and the Municipality in 1928-29 will be as follows :—

Recurring				Rs.
Government	..	..	..	83,928
Municipality	..	..	..	83,928
Non-recurring
Government	..	..	..	22,500
Municipality	..	..	..	22,500

Figures of the estimated expenditure for 1929-30 and 1930-31 are not available, but it may be noted that the average annual cost of the scheme to Government and the Municipality will be Rs. 1,36,000 each approximately.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : With regard to (c), what is meant by the "recent delay" ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : It will be found from answer (c) that the scheme as put forward was not in proper form and was wanting in certain details, and consequently there was correspondence over the matter. After that was gone over, the last delay was due solely to the difficulty of finding funds.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : For what period the scheme has been hanging fire due to want of funds ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Three months.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Do Government consider that one lakh is excessively large ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : This is not the only amount ; there are several other schemes amounting to about ten to twelve lakhs.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : Are there several schemes relating to Ahmedabad city ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : No. There are several schemes relating to other local authorities.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : All compulsory schemes ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : No ; many of them voluntary, and some compulsory.

KING EDWARD HOSPITAL : COMPLAINT ABOUT NEGLIGENCE

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI on behalf of Mr. G. I. PATEL (Ahmedabad Millowners' Association) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that one Mr. D. M. Wadia, on or about the 21st August last, having met with an accident at Parel and having stood in need of immediate medical help was carried to the King Edward Hospital, Bombay, which was the nearest hospital but was not attended to for fully an hour and a half ;

(b) whether it is a fact that on his being brought to the hospital and put in a ward, on the operation table, he was informed by one Dr. Nariman who thought it to be a case of fracture of the arm that the surgeon who was to make preparation for X-ray would come and do it in a quarter of an hour ;

(c) whether in spite of Mr. Wadia being in such a condition neither a nurse nor a ward-boy was sent to him ;

(d) whether such a big hospital could not supply him with a urine bottle for passing urine, which he asked for, or a few drops of a stimulant of brandy which he stood in need of, owing to giddiness ;

(e) whether Mr. Wadia after waiting in suspense for medical aid for an hour and a half being about to leave the hospital, was persistently asked by some doctors who presumably came from an outing to give them in writing that he was leaving the hospital against the will of the doctors ;

(f) whether Mr. Wadia on account of his receiving no medical aid for so long a time had to seek admission in another private surgical home ;

(g) whether they intend to inquire into the complaint and place the facts on the table ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) The facts are as stated except that Mr. Wadia was met on entering the Hospital by the Medical Officer on duty and was attended to immediately.

(b) Mr. Wadia was put on an examination table in the Casualty Room as is usual in such cases. As the attending Medical Officer wanted to make sure of its being a fracture, and to set it, preparations were ordered to be made to take a Radiogram ;

(c) The Medical Officer himself was in attendance most of the time ;

(d) A kidney tray was supplied to Mr. Wadia for passing urine in. A dose of stimulant mixture, such as was thought appropriate by the Medical Officer, was given to Mr. Wadia. Brandy was not indicated in the Medical Officer's opinion and so was not given.

(e) Mr. Wadia was not for more than 40 to 45 minutes in all in the Hospital. As he had at first consented to stay in the Hospital and as he subsequently changed his mind and wanted to leave, it was necessary in the interest of the Hospital that he should declare that he went away of his own free will.

(f) Efficient medical aid was forthcoming from the beginning. But as Mr. Wadia did not like to wait till the X-ray apparatus was ready, he left the Hospital of his own accord.

(g) A statement of facts by the Dean, King Edward Memorial Hospital, is placed on the table.

The facts are as under :—

1. Mr. Wadia was not in the King Edward VII Memorial Hospital for more than about 40 to 45 minutes as against his statement of an hour and a half. This has been verified by an actual reference, not only to the Casualty Register of this Hospital, but to the entries made in the Register of the ambulance office which supplied the ambulance to take Mr. Wadia from this Hospital to the Surgical Nursing Home.

2. Mr. Wadia was never placed on an Operation Table and left there unattended for 1½ hours as alleged. He was kept on the Examination Table of the type to be found in the Casualty Room of every Hospital. His various statements about the medical attendance he received are self-contradictory. He acknowledges being received by Dr. Nariman on entering the compound. He was also subsequently examined by Dr. Rustomji P. Mehta, Surgical Registrar of the Hospital, who is a senior Resident Officer. Emergencies of the kind from which Mr. Wadia suffered are always attended to by the Resident Medical Officers on duty. In this particular instance Dr. Nariman attended on the patient who, however, demanded the services of one of the Honorary Surgeons. On learning that the Honorary Surgeon on Casualty Duty was a personal friend of his, the patient and his friends persuaded upon Dr. Nariman to ring for him. The Surgeon was, however, not available at the time but was expected to come to his place in about quarter of an hour.

3. I have not enough staff sanctioned to permit the use of the X-ray apparatus at all hours, day and night. Even then Drs. Mehta and Nariman tendered special attention to Mr. Wadia in that they arranged to have the X-ray apparatus ready at that hour to make sure if there was a definite fracture. The arrangement for getting an X-ray photograph accounts for a substantial part of the forty minutes that Mr. Wadia was at this hospital. In any case, I feel sure, Mr. Wadia has by now realised that this much delay in arranging for the X-ray photograph and at that hour was not excessive.

4. I acknowledge that we do not keep soda water in the outdoor and casualty departments. So far no such necessity had arisen. I regret that this caused Mr. Wadia inconvenience and suffering.

5. About Brandy, however, Mr. Wadia is entirely wrong. Brandy is always available in the Dispensary, which is next door to the Casualty Department, but the Doctor in attendance thought that he was not justified in prescribing it. Brandy was, therefore, deliberately withheld on medical grounds by the Doctor and a mixture was given instead. I feel sure he was wise in the decision.

6. Mr. Wadia is not accurate in his statement with reference to passing urine. Dr. Nariman asserts that it was not one of Mr. Wadia's friends but it was he himself who undressed Mr. Wadia and helped him with a kidney tray instead of asking a Ward Boy to do so.

7. The statement that no Hospital Assistant thought even of cleaning Mr. Wadia's bruises is at complete variance with what Dr. Nariman states. Dr. Nariman says that Mr. Wadia suffered from slight abrasions which he himself cleansed with rectified spirit. It is possible that there may have been some dirt on Mr. Wadia's clothes which may have remained unattended to.

8. No students ever touched Mr. Wadia who resented being attended to by anybody except the Honorary Surgeon on Casualty Duty. The Hospital Rules do not require the attendance of the Honorary Staff except in cases of gravity and real emergency.

9. The statement attributed to the Sister-in-charge of the Outpatient and X-ray Department, who is reported to have "coolly" told the patient that this was a poor man's hospital is given without context. When one visitor with the patient said "We are Wadias and can pay anything," the Sister informed him that it was not necessary as this was a charitable hospital.

(f) which agencies were administering charitable and other funds and trying to relieve distress before Government help was made available?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Full figures cannot be made available until the relief operations are completed.

(b) and (c) The Joint Director of Agriculture at once visited Gujarat and every available member of the Agricultural Department was drafted there to advise the agriculturists. In regard to the resowing of their lands a sum of Rs. 10,000 was placed at the Director's disposal for the purpose.

(d) Information has not yet been received by Government.

(e) Dépôts for timber procured from the Forest Department have been opened at various centres under the general control of the Flood Relief Officer. Statistics are not yet available as to the extent to which the people have availed themselves of these facilities.

(f) A number of agencies announced their activities in the early days of the floods, but Government are not aware that these preceded the efforts of their own officers.

Mr. J. R. PATEL : As regards (e), may I know at what places the dépôts for timber have been opened?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : Up to the present, Nadiad, Broach and Ahmedabad.

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) Yes.

(b) The question is under the consideration of Government.

PROVINCIAL REVENUE : BOMBAY CITY'S CONTRIBUTION

Khan Saheb ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN on behalf of Mr. HOOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Bombay City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) what amounts were contributed last year under each head of revenue by the City of Bombay to Provincial revenues and the total amount so contributed ;

(b) the proportion of Bombay City's contribution to the total revenue of the Presidency ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : (a) and (b) As Government accounts are not maintained by districts or by towns, figures of revenue for the City of Bombay cannot be extracted without the appointment of a special staff in the Accountant General's Office. Moreover, it is not at present possible to obtain final figures of revenue under all heads for the last financial year, as the accounts for that year have not been finally closed. Such approximate figures of revenue in Bombay City during 1925-26 as can be gleaned from the departmental reports are mentioned below :—

					Figures in thousands of Rupees
Land Revenue ..	..	..	..	..	12,39
Excise ..	..	..	..	..	1,02,02
Stamps ..	..	..	..	..	86,59
Registration ..	..	..	..	..	2,05
Scheduled Taxes ..	..	..	..	..	13,04
					2,16,09

Figures of revenue for Bombay City under other heads e.g., Police, Education, Medical, Public Health and Miscellaneous Departments are not separately available in the Departmental reports, but since the total revenue under those heads for the whole of the Presidency amounts to only Rs. 54½ lakhs the share contributed by Bombay City cannot be very large.

PROSTITUTION IN BOMBAY CITY

Khan Saheb ABDUL LATIF HAJI HAJRAT KHAN on behalf of Mr. HOOSENALLY M. RAHIMTOOLA (Bombay City) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number of brothels in the city of Bombay ;

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : The information is being obtained.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION, BOMBAY UNIVERSITY

Mr. N. R. GUNJAL on behalf of Mr. RAJMAL LAKHICHAND (East Khandesh District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the University of Bombay has arranged for the education of students in any college for preparing the machinery required for Motors, Railways, Steamers or Ginning factories ?

(b) if not, whether they are prepared to give such education ? If so, when and where ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) The Poona College of Engineering prepares candidates for the degree of B.E.(Mech.) of the Bombay University.

The course is laid down in the Handbook of the Bombay University, pages 157-58.

(b) The University Reform Committee proposed that a Technological College should be created by the University, but as the estimated cost is Rs. 50 lakhs non-recurring and Rs. 4½ lakhs recurring, it is unlikely that such a college will be founded in the near future.

FOREST GRIEVANCES INQUIRY COMMITTEE REPORT

Mr. N. E. NAVLE on behalf of Mr. SHANKARRAO JAYARAMRAO ZUNZARRAO (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Committee appointed by Government to investigate into the grievances of the public regarding Forests has already submitted its report to Government ;

(b) if so, when will it be published for general information ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) Yes.

(b) Copies of the report have been distributed to the Members of the Legislative Council. Copies will also be distributed to the editors of the principal newspapers in the Presidency and will be available at the Government Book Depot for sale to the public as soon as the orders of Government on the report are published. This will be done within the next week or two.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE on behalf of Mr. SHANKARRAO JAYARAM-RAO ZUNZARRAO (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that woodland, protected forest, gurcharan (grazing ground) and gaothan lands in Thana District were intended specifically for the free use of the people of respective villages ;

(b) whether such forest grazing grounds and lands or portions thereof have been utilised or allowed to be utilised for other purposes than those mentioned in (a) ;

(c) if the reply to (b) be in the affirmative, will Government be pleased to state—

(i) total area of such lands diverted to other use ;

(ii) total revenue or income derived therefrom per year ;

(iii) the purpose or purposes to which such revenue or income is put ;

(d) whether they are aware that the people of the village wish that the revenue or income mentioned in (c) (ii) should be spent on works of public utility ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Woodland protected forest is primarily intended to prevent the destruction of tree growth which timber cutting involves. So far as compatible with this object, it is intended to be used for the free pasture of the village cattle and the enjoyment of certain other privileges specified in section 9 of the Thana Woodland Code. Such gurcharans as are not included in woodland protected forest are intended for the free pasture of village cattle. Gaothans are village sites and have nothing in common with the above lands.

(b) Land in woodland protected forest is given out for cultivation in the form of woodland plots, but only with due regard to grazing and other requirements, the intention of this policy being that their cultivators should exercise some watch over the neighbouring tree growth.

(c) The area of, and the revenue from, such lands given out for cultivation and other purposes is 43,077 acres and Rs. 16,242 respectively. Out of the latter amount Rs. 16,212 are credited to Land Revenue and Rs. 30-0-0 to Local Funds.

(d) No such wish has been represented to Government. In accordance with financial rules these receipts are merged in the general revenues.

PROCESSION ROUTE : SHIVAJI TERCENTENARY, BOMBAY

Mr. N. E. NAVLE on behalf of Mr. SHANKARRAO JAYARAM-RAO ZUNZARRAO (Thana and Bombay Suburban Districts): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) why the Palkhi Procession in connection with Shri Shivaji Tercentenary Celebrations in Bombay was not allowed to pass by the Suparibag Road ;

(b) whether they are aware that this action of the Authorities created great discontent amongst the public ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : On the assumption that the Honourable Member refers to the same Palkhi Procession, his attention is invited to the reply given to a similar question put by Dr. P. G. Solanki which is published at page 19 of the Question and Answer List No. 5 of the current session.

LITERACY AMONG DEPRESSED CLASSES

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) in detail all the castes, classified under the heading depressed classes by Government, apart from the backward classes, with their respective names and population in Kathiawad and Gujarat—

(b) percentage of literate—male and female—in each of these castes ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : The accompanying list gives the names of castes included among depressed classes. As for the population and percentage of literacy among them the Honourable Member is referred to pages 176-187 and 149-150 of the Census of India (1921) Volume VIII Parts II and I respectively which give the information for a few of these castes. As regards the remaining castes the information is not available and cannot be supplied without a special census which would involve an amount of trouble and expense out of all proportion to the utility of the information.

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : Are Government aware of the fact that most of the castes which are classed as depressed classes belong to the backward classes ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Yes. They are grouped together.

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : Would not Government specify the depressed classes separately in such a way that the real depressed classes will get the share allotted to them ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Government have no objection to consider the matter of specifying the depressed classes separately from the backward classes. The honourable member had better approach Government regularly.

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : For educational purposes they ought to be classified separately, I should think.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I cannot hear. Either the House ought to help me by maintaining silence, or the honourable member should speak louder.

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : Would Government be pleased to make a special arrangement for classifying the depressed classes as such as separate from the backward classes, because most of the scholarships which are set apart by Government are taken advantage of by the backward classes and the depressed classes are left behind ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : If the honourable member will put on paper what all he has to say on the subject, Government will consider the matter.

Mr. R. S. ASVALE : Is the name of Joshi under the heading depressed classes, really the name of a depressed class ?

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : If we were to forward a list of depressed castes, would Government be pleased to consider the matter and make the necessary arrangement and alterations in the list of depressed classes as it is circulated now and is before the Council ? Most of the castes will have to be deleted.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The Honourable Minister has already stated that he would do so.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : They are already classified under the Educational Code.

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : That Code also requires thorough correction.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The next question.

SCHOLARSHIPS FOR DEPRESSED CLASSES

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI (Bombay) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that students belonging to the depressed classes studying in the St. Xavier and Elphinstone Colleges are not given scholarships as yet which are meant and set apart by the Government Educational Department for Depressed Class students particularly ;

(b) If so why they are not given the scholarship even though applications from the students for the same were forwarded again and again by the students to the authorities ;

(c) whether it is a fact that such scholarships reserved for the depressed classes were given away to students of the Intermediate classes under the impression that there were no applicants from the Depressed Classes. If so the reasons for such oversight ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) and (b) All the depressed class students in the Elphinstone and St. Xavier's Colleges are in receipt of Government special scholarships.

(c) The scholarships reserved for backward class students are awarded to students of Intermediate Hindu communities only when there are no applicants from backward class students. No applications for scholarships received from eligible backward class students have ever been refused.

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : Are Government aware of the fact that in spite of the fact that applications from the depressed classes have been standing for a long time, they do not get the scholarships ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I am not aware of it.

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : I may bring to the notice of the Honourable Minister that there have been such instances, and I had to write to the Director of Public Instruction. For the future I would request the Honourable Minister for Education to remedy this defect.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : What is the question ?

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : As to the future special arrangements must be made by Government to inform the depressed classes of the scholarships available to them.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : We cannot inform the depressed classes students about it. They have to apply, and if they apply their applications will be considered. So far as I know, no applications from eligible students have been refused.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Would the Honourable Minister publish it in newspapers for the benefit of the depressed classes ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I hardly think that the depressed classes read the newspapers.

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI : They do read newspapers. Would Government inform the recognised bodies of depressed classes about these scholarships ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : These are all suggestions for action. The honourable member may take other steps to bring the question to the notice of the Council.

BACKWARD COMMUNITIES : CLASSIFICATION

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI: Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) in detail the names of communities which are called Non-Brahmins—Backward and Depressed classes ;

(b) whether non-Brahmins are indential with the Marathas, and the backward with the intermediate classes or the depressed ;

(c) which castes come under the more backward category ;

(d) the exact population in each class of the three communities (1) Non-Brahmins, (2) Backward, (3) Depressed ;

(e) sub-divisional castes of the depressed classes with their respective numbers in Gujarat, Deccan and Karnatak ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e). Attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the reply given at this session to a similar question by Mr. W. S. Mukadam.

SCHOLARSHIPS FOR DEPRESSED CLASSES

Dr. P. G. SOLANKI: Will Government be pleased to state the proportion of the depressed class Hindus to the total population in each division in the Presidency proper and the number of the scholarships set apart for their uplift in each division of this Presidency for each class of instruction ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Separate figures for the population of depressed classes only are not available as they have been included among Backward castes (as distinguished from Intermediate castes) in the Census Report. Government have not reserved any scholarships for the pupils of the depressed classes exclusively as apart from other Backward castes. The accompanying statement shows the number of scholarships available for pupils of all Backward castes.

(d) These scholarships are meant for the whole Presidency including Sind and are not distributed by divisions.

THEFTS BY CHHARAHS AT ELLIS BRIDGE

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the police authorities of Ahmedabad are aware that itinerant nomadic tribes called Chharahs living on the west bank of the Sabarmati river near Ellis Bridge are in the habit of pilfering corn, grass, wood from the carts passing on the Ellis Bridge in the early hours of the morning;

(b) if so, what steps the police authorities of Ahmedabad have taken to prevent the mischief?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOLTSON: Enquiries are being made.

REFRESHMENT BARS, AHMEDABAD · NON-CLOSURE ON HOLI HOLIDAYS

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the "Off" foreign liquor licenses were closed during the Holi holidays which fell on the 17th and 18th March 1927 in Ahmedabad;

(b) if the answer to (a) is in the affirmative why the refreshment bars which did a thumping business were allowed to be kept open in Ahmedabad during the Holi holidays?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN: (a) The Honourable Member is referred to the reply to the question asked by him on 13th October 1927. The expression "liquor shops" includes foreign liquor shops.

(b) Because Government consider it desirable not to curtail the reasonable facilities for obtaining liquor provided by refreshment rooms.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Are not the "reasonable facilities" referred to in reply to (b) availed of by the millhands and other low caste people whom Government intend to prevent from indulging in drink on Holi holidays ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : No.

REFRESHMENT BARS, AHMEDABAD : NON-CLOSURE DURING MOHARAM HOLIDAYS

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether all the liquor shops including the foreign liquor refreshment bars and "Off" licenses were closed during the Moharam holidays in Ahmedabad ;

(b) if the answer to (a) is in the affirmative, what were the reasons for allowing the foreign liquor refreshment bars to be kept open during the Holi holidays ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) and (b) The orders of Government are that liquor shops in municipal areas should be closed on Holi and Moharam holidays. These orders do not apply to refreshment rooms.

FOREIGN LIQUOR SHOP, AHMEDABAD : NON-CLOSURE DURING HOLI HOLIDAYS

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have issued a Government Resolution, Revenue Department, No. 1459-C dated 10th April 1922, to the effect that

"Government have directed that liquor shops in municipal areas should be closed on Holi and Moharam public holidays" and have appended a note to that resolution that the expression "liquor shops" includes foreign liquor shops ;

(b) if the answer to (a) is in the affirmative what were the reasons for allowing the foreign liquor refreshment bar of Messrs. E. R. Fanibanda and Sons located in "Fanibanda Building" near Sehr-Kotda Police Chowki, Ahmedabad, to be kept open during the Holi holidays ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) Yes. No note has, however, been appended to the resolution as stated.

(b) As stated in the reply to the question put by the Honourable Member on the 13th October 1927, the orders referred to in clause (a) of the question do not apply to refreshment rooms.

FOREIGN LIQUOR LICENSES : TRANSFER ON SURRENDER

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are going behind their policy of not creating a new foreign liquor license by the action of transferring surrendered licenses ;

(b) if the answer to (a) is in the negative, why the action of transferring the surrendered foreign liquor license of Messrs. D'Souza and Sons of Camp, Ahmedabad, to Messrs. E. R. Fanibanda and Sons of "Fanibanda Building" near Sehr-Kotda Police Chowki, Ahmedabad, was taken ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) No.

(b) The Honourable Member is referred to the reply to the question asked by him on the 14th October 1927.

FOREIGN LIQUOR "OFF" LICENSE TO MESSRS. FANIBANDA AND SONS

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that the granting of an "Off" license to extremely rich licensees like Messrs. E. R. Fanibanda and Sons in the immediate neighbourhood of a comparatively very poor licensee like Mr. F. C. Athayde who is the representative of the minor sons of C. Fonseca, would ruin the business of the poorer licensee by unfair competition of selling below Bombay price so as to kill the business of the neighbouring shop in the first instance and of taking maximum advantage after the neighbouring shop is knocked out of existence ;

(b) the reasons why an "Off" license was given to Messrs. E. R. Fanibanda and Sons in the immediate neighbourhood of the "Off" license of Mr. F. C. Athayde in spite of the danger of unfair competition referred to in (a) ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) Government have no such information.

(b) The honourable member is referred to the reply to his question printed in the twelfth list.

TRAINING COLLEGE, AHMEDABAD : DONATION BY MR. PREMCHAND ROYCHAND

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the amount of donation made by the late Mr. Premchand Roychand with a view to endow the training college for men in Ahmedabad and to provide that institution with a suitable building ;

(b) the conditions under which the said donation was made by the late Mr. Premchand Roychand ;

(c) whether one of the conditions made by the late Mr. Premchand Roychand in connection with his donation to the training college for men in Ahmedabad provided that the buildings constructed out of the said donation were to be used only for the purposes of that institution ;

(d) if the answer to (c) is in the affirmative on what grounds Government intend to close the Premchand Roychand Training College against the condition laid down in the donation ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) 34,000 Rupees.

(b) Mr. Premchand Roychand originally offered Rs. 20,000 towards cost of construction plus Rs. 9,000 for cost of site on condition that Government undertook to defray all the additional expenses that may be necessary for erecting a Vernacular Training College, provided that the Government contribution should be not less than Rs. 20,000.

(c) There is nothing on the records of Government to this effect.

(d) Does not arise.

GUJARAT COLLEGE : PERSONAL ASSISTANT TO THE PRINCIPAL

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : (Ahmedabad District). Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they have created a post of a Personal Assistant to the Principal of the Gujarat College ;

(b) if so, what duties the Personal Assistant is required to perform ;

(c) what amount of teaching work is done by the Personal Assistant ;

(d) the reasons why such a post has been created now in view of the fact that such a post was not found necessary during the last fifteen years since Government took charge of the Gujarat College in July 1912 from the Gujarat College Board ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) to (d) No new post of a Personal Assistant to the Principal of the college in question has been created. In order to relieve Principals of Government Colleges under this Department of administrative work of an "impersonal" nature such as assigning (1) certificates for passing First Year Examination, (2) age certificates, and (3) checking service stamps account, deadstock register, college fee account, etc., Government have left it to the discretion of the Principal of a college to select an officer from his college staff and to entrust him with work of this nature. The functions of the officer selected correspond with those of a Personal Assistant.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : There is no reply to (c). I wanted to know what amount of teaching work is done by the personal assistant.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : For particular purposes he has been styled as personal assistant ; but he is not only exclusively personal assistant.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Are not these "impersonal" duties such as signing certificates done by the principal himself and are they left to the personal assistant ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : The answer is there. "In order to relieve principals of Government colleges under this department of administrative work of an "impersonal" nature such as signing (1) certificates for passing first year examination, (2) age certificates," etc., etc., these are all done by the personal assistant,

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : But do Government regard the signing of certificates for passing first year examination as such an impersonal work as to be left to the personal assistant ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Merely signing of certificates is not of such importance.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : Is he a professor on a special grade ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : He is a professor under the ordinary professorial grade.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : No additional man is kept ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Not at all.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Is it a fact that this job is given to a favourite professor ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Not at all, because he has to do more work. He has teaching work, besides.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT : Does the personal assistant get an extra allowance for this work ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : No, Sir.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Is it true that he has light teaching work in the college ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : No.

HINDU MOSLEM TENSION, AHMEDABAD : PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the District Magistrate of Ahmedabad issued a notification ordering the people not to move on public street with Lathis and Dharias for one month from the 17th September 1927, the date of issue of the said notification ;

(b) whether it is a fact that the District Magistrate ordered the country liquor shops of Ahmedabad City to be closed from 5 p.m. from 17th September 1927 as a precautionary measure during the days of Hindu-Moslem tension for which the notification referred to in (a) was issued ;

(c) if the answer to (b) is in the affirmative, the reasons why the country liquor shops were suddenly allowed to be kept open as usual from the 19th September 1927 ;

(d) on whose initiative the previous precautionary order of 17th September 1927 as mentioned in (b) was suddenly reversed within two days of its issue and who was responsible for the reversal of that order ?

The Honourable Mr. J. E. B. HOTSON : (a) The Honourable Member presumably has in mind the order issued under section 144, Criminal Procedure Code, by the First Class City Magistrate of Ahmedabad on the 16th September, prohibiting the holding of public meetings within the municipal limits of Ahmedabad without the previous permission..

in writing of the District Magistrate, and extending till the date mentioned in that order, that is for one month or until further notice, the order which he had issued on the 12th September, prohibiting the carrying of lathis, dharias, etc.

(b), (c) and (d) The District Magistrate on the 16th September 1927 ordered that liquor shops should be closed at 4 p.m. The hour was subsequently, apparently on the 17th, altered to 5 p.m. The order remained in force until the morning of the 19th, when the District Magistrate found it possible to cancel it.

SEAMEN'S RECRUITMENT : SHIPPING BROKERS

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether their attention has been drawn to the article which appeared in the Bombay Chronicle of 11th June 1925, entitled "Shipping Brokers—Abolition demanded" by Mr. Archibald Pocock ;

(b) whether they have read the article which appeared in the Indian National Herald of 1st June 1927 under the title "Sufferings of Unemployed Seamen—Miseries caused by abominable recruitment system ;"

(c) the evils that have so far come to their knowledge by means of petitions or representations from seamen ;

(d) whether they are aware of the disadvantage of the Shipping Brokers System in its various aspects ;

(e) if so, what steps they have taken so far to remedy the evils and redress the seamen's grievances ;

(f) if not, whether they have considered the recommendations of the Clow Committee and the Government of India's order thereon ;

(g) why a period of 5 years since the promulgation of the said order has not been sufficient for Government to abolish the system and to install a "State Employment Bureau" for recruitment of seamen as suggested by the Clow Committee and the Geneva International Labour Conference of 1920 ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : (a) and (b) Yes.

(c) So far as the Government of Bombay have been able to ascertain, the allegations made against the Shipping Brokers are mainly that they do not find employment for seamen in the order of priority of application, that many of the seamen are kept waiting for years together and that it is only the favoured few that are given jobs. On enquiry, however, many of these allegations have been proved to be incorrect, and in some cases the petitions themselves were found to be not genuine. In a typical instance some of the seamen whose names appeared as signatories to the petition, when questioned by the Shipping Master, Bombay, denied all knowledge of the petition, some had died long ago, and some others were found to have been out of Bombay on the date on which they were supposed to have signed the petition. The fact that some of the seamen are unable to secure employment for long periods at a time is due partly to the prevailing trade depression and partly to the preference shown by masters of ships, while selecting their crew, to persons who have previously served under them.

(d) to (g) The question whether the existing system of recruitment of seamen in force in Bombay should be replaced by the establishment of an "Employment Bureau" as suggested by the Clow Committee was carefully considered by the Government of Bombay twice—once when the Government of India published their Resolution on the Clow Committee's report and again quite recently. On both the occasions Government came to the conclusion that the existing system of recruitment had on the whole worked satisfactorily and that there was therefore no necessity to replace it by any other system. They are, however, again reconsidering the matter and have asked the Shipping Master if possible to work out a scheme which will transfer the actual work of registration of seamen to the Shipping Master and his Assistants.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : In answer to (c), in line 6 it is stated that allegations have been proved to be incorrect. Do I understand the Honourable the General Member to mean that the allegations are denied by the other party or have they actually been proved to be incorrect ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The details are given there. In some cases it was one thing, and in some cases it was the other.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : The answer is that some of those who were supposed to have sent the petition were dead, and, therefore, there was no doubt that the petition was fictitious. Some of them who were supposed to have sent the petition were not in Bombay when the petition was supposed to have been signed. Therefore, there was no doubt that the petition was fictitious. The petition could not be signed out of Bombay ; it could not be signed by dead men.

An Honourable MEMBER : Who made the enquiries ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : The shipping master.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT : Does it mean that the allegations are to some extent correct ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : The answer to the supplementary question is in the answer.

Mr. F. J. GINWALLA : Was the Indian Seamen's Union consulted when the enquiries were made ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : No. When a petition is received making complaints, Government usually do not consult Unions.

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : What was the date of the petition ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : If the honourable member will give me notice, I will give the date of the petition.

GOVERNMENT OF BOMBAY

FINANCE DEPARTMENT

Resolution No. 2610

Bombay Castle, 5th February 1925

Read Government Resolution No. 2610 dated 17th September 1923.

RESOLUTION.—The Government of Bombay in furtherance of their policy of securing the fair representation of all castes and communities in the public services are pleased to prescribe a minimum percentage of recruitment from members of the Backward Communities to the clerical staff of all Departments in the Presidency proper. A schedule is attached* showing against each locality the classes which are considered by Government to be advanced within that locality and the prescribed minimum percentage of recruitment to the clerical staff from members of communities other than those so mentioned. The standard of qualification should be the same for all candidates ; but appointments should be so made that a minimum recruitment of at least the percentage shown in the final column from members of communities other than those shown in the second column should be secured.

2. The percentage shown in each case is a minimum and should not prevent recruitment above that minimum, where a sufficient number of well qualified candidates is forthcoming to make it possible, having due regard to efficiency, to select a higher number, with a view the sooner to render the prescribed percentages the minimum representation of Backward Communities in the clerical staff of all departments in the Presidency proper. The minimum representation should include a fair proportion of Mahomedans in the Presidency proper. The minimum recruitment should be 50 per cent. Mahomedans in Sind with a view to the eventual representation of at least that percentage of Mahomedans in the clerical staff of all Departments in Sind.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Does Government take any steps to receive any annual reports or periodical reports as to whether the resolution is properly carried out ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : I should like to have notice of that, to give an accurate reply.

BOMBAY PORT TRUST DOCKS STAFF

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Bombay Port Trust Docks clerical staff has to work ten hours during the day and then again eight hours after an interval of an hour or so after termination of the day duty ;

(b) whether such a system of making employees work for eighteen hours during day and night and compulsory attendance at 7-55 next morning is prevalent in any other Government department ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : (a) Working hours in the Bombay Docks are from 8-0 a.m. to 12-30 p.m. and from 1-30 p.m. to 6 p.m.—9 hours ; night work, which is dependent on the requirements of shipping, is from 7-30 p.m. to midnight or until 3-30 a.m. or, in cases of special emergency, until 6 a.m.

The staff is adequately paid for their overtime attendance which is limited to a maximum of 12 nights per month per individual. Acceptance of overtime work is compulsory, but every consideration is shown to cases of sickness or special circumstances.

(b) The Bombay Port Trust is not a department of Government. So far as Government are aware, such a system is not prevalent in any Government Department.

Mr. S. C. JOSHI : Will the Honourable the General Member be pleased to say what is the rate at which over-time allowance is paid ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : I would ask for notice of the question.

TEXTILE WORKERS : PROVIDENT FUND

Mr. SYED MUNAWAR : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware of any mills in Bombay giving the Provident Fund facilities to textile workers ;

(b) if so, their names, the amount of funds so far raised or made available for the purpose, the amount given as provident fund or gratuity by each of the mills, and the number of workers who have been given the benefit during the last two years ;

(c) whether in view of the improvident nature of textile workers and the absence of old age pension facilities, Government have considered the desirability of taking any steps in that direction or passing legislation for the purpose ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : (a) The recent enquiry into Deductions from Wages and Payments in respect of Fines conducted by the Labour Office on behalf of the Government of India shows that deductions from wages on account of provident fund are made by several textile mills.

(b) Some 22 mills reported such deductions but Government regret they cannot give out their names. The number of workers from whose wages the deductions were made is not precisely known. The total deductions made by the reporting mills during the first ten months of the year 1926 amounted to Rs. 94,020-5-0 for male operatives and Rs. 5,258-7-5 for female operatives. Government have no information on the other points raised.

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : (a) Yes.

(b) Preliminary investigations for additional storage are under contemplation and necessary steps are being taken with that end in view.

(c) The water rates on this canal have been revised with effect from the 15th February 1927 and the crops will be assessed at the revised rates from that date.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE : Are Government charging enhanced rates in the case of this canal ?

The Honourable Sir COWASJI JEHangIR : The answer is given in (c). The question was whether it is a fact that the water cess is levied according to the new scale, and the answer is that the water rates on this canal have been revised with effect from the 15th February 1927.

Mr. N. E. NAVLE : Have they been enhanced as a result of the revision ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Before 1925 16 villages with a population of 1,000 and above and 168 villages with a population of 500 and above were without schools. In July 1927 the number of such villages was respectively 17 and 166.

(a) the number of men belonging to the intermediate and advanced communities in the clerical branch in the office of the Director of Public Instruction :

(b) whether the proportion shows any appreciable improvement over the conditions of 1924 ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) The number of clerks belonging to backward and advanced communities in the office of the Director of Public Instruction is 4 and 38 respectively.

(b) The proportion apparently shows no appreciable improvement. It may, however, be stated that in filling temporary vacancies in the office in question preference is given to candidates belonging to backward communities when suitable men are available.

Mr. S. K. BOLE : As regards (b), the reply is " It may however be stated that in filling temporary vacancies in the office in question preference is given to candidates belonging to backward communities." Why is preference given to the backward communities in filling temporary vacancies only ? Why is not preference given to them when permanent vacancies occur ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Vacancies do not occur because the men are permanent, and it is only when they go on leave or fall sick that temporary vacancies have to be filled, and then the claims of the backward communities are taken into consideration.

Mr. S. K. BOLE : What happens when they go on pension or retire ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : No such case has occurred yet.

The Honoufable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) The population of Pal is 977 and that of Satem is 1,623.

(b) No.

(c) On account of Non-co-operation the Satem School was closed on 1st April 1922 and the School at Pal was closed on 1st September 1921. As the District Local Board, Surat, refuses to bear its own share of the additional expenditure involved in re-opening the schools it has not been possible to re-open them.

Rao Bahadur B. R. NAIK (Surat District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) Yes.

(b) No.

(c) No.

(d) The Ahmedabad District Local Board strongly desired that the new untrained teachers employed since 30th June 1923 should be paid at the same rate as the untrained teachers in permanent employment on that date and Government saw no objections to the wishes of the Board being met with effect from 1st December 1925 as the requisite funds from which to meet the extra cost to Government on this account were available.

ADEN CIVIL AND CRIMINAL JURISDICTION ACT

Mr. N. A. BECHAR on behalf of Mr. A. D. SHETH (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state whether the Aden Civil and Criminal Jurisdiction Act is to be passed by this House? If not, why not?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: The Honourable Member is probably aware that the Bill to amend the Act referred to has passed through all the stages in this House.

MEDICAL HELP

Mr. N. A. BECHAR on behalf of Mr. A. D. SHETH. (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that Bombay Medical Council has issued a notice to Dr. Mansukhlal T. Shah, M.B.B.S., a registered practitioner on the roll of the Bombay Medical Council, in connection with what appeared in "Saurashtra" under the signature of the president of the Saurashtra Seva Samiti;

(b) whether they are aware that the president of the Seva Samiti has made a statement that he is solely responsible for what appeared under his signature and none but he was responsible directly or indirectly for the matter that appeared in the print;

(c) whether they are aware that the cause that the Samiti undertook and to which publicity was given under the signature of the president was purely humanitarian and not for private gain of any individual;

(d) whether they are aware that Dr. Mathradas of Mogha whom the Samiti invited for performing eye operations accepted the invitation and performed about 1,922 operations in about 64 hours, out of which:

all except 45 operations were successful, all without any fees or charge, quite gratis, and that he did not even charge his travelling expenses of coming down from his place, and that during his stay of ten days he did not have any private practice whatsoever, treated every one, rich and poor alike, quite free of all fees and charges ;

(e) whether they are aware that this philanthropic visit of Dr. Mathradas conferred the boon of eyesight on hundreds of poor people, free of all costs and charges ;

(f) whether they are aware that Sir Prabhashankar Pattni, the president of the Council of Administration of the Bhavnagar State, having witnessed things personally, invited Dr. Mathradas to his State to render the same service to humanity in the next winter ;

(g) whether in view of the great boon Dr. Mathradas is conferring on the poor, without any idea of any private gain in return, if the Saurashtra Seva Samiti, Ranpur, Dhandhuka taluka, Ahmedabad district, invites the Doctor to give the same advantage to the Ahmedabad district, Government intend to give all facilities and encouragement as the Political Agent and the Deputy Political Agent of the Eastern Kathiawar States did in the first visit of Dr. Mathradas ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : (a) The Bombay Medical Council has asked Dr. Mansukhlal T. Shah to explain how he has permitted his name to appear in the "Saurashtra" in connection with the visit of Dr. Mathradas to Wadhwan, as it was mentioned in that Journal that the preliminary work would be done by Dr. M. T. Shah, a specialist in diseases of the eye, which, in the opinion of the Council, is wrong, as it advertises the name of a doctor to the public. There would have been no objection raised if the "Saurashtra" had stated that the preliminary work of sorting would be done by "a competent ophthalmologist."

(b), (c), (d), (e) and (f) The reply is in the affirmative.

(g) It is not understood what the words "all facilities and encouragement" are intended to convey, but there will be no objection to a notice appearing in two vernacular papers once to the effect that Dr. Mathradas, Ophthalmologist of Mogha, "will visit a certain place between specified dates."

ADEN ADMINISTRATION

Mr. N. A. BECHAR on behalf of Mr. A. D. SHETH (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether any final decision has been arrived at with regard to the administration of Aden ;

(b) whether the Civil Government as distinguished from the Military Government will remain as usual with the Government of Bombay ;

(c) whether courts of justice will remain under the High Court of Bombay ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL METHA : (a) No further decision than that announced at the last Session has been arrived at.

(b) According to present arrangements the Civil Government will remain with the Government of Bombay but, as already stated in this House, details are still under discussion.

(c) This is the intention.

ADEN ADMINISTRATION

Mr. N. A. BECHAR on behalf of Mr. A. D. SHETH (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to make a full statement without qualifications such as "As far as we are aware, etc.," of the position of Government in Aden resulting from the decision of the Imperial Government?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA: Attention is invited to the answer to the question above and to the statements made in the February-March Session of this Council and in the debate on the Aden Bill in the July-August Session. Aden will continue to be part of British India and its civil administration remains with the Government of India, the Bombay Government continuing, according to present arrangements, to exercise control and superintendence of that administration.

VILLAGE ROADS IN GUJARAT

Mr. N. A. BECHAR on behalf of Mr. A. D. SHETH (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that most of the Bhal villages in the Dhandhuka Taluka remain as so many islands in the monsoon and it is dangerous, if not almost impossible in monsoon and a month after that, to travel from one village to another;

(b) if the answer to (a) is in the affirmative, whether they intend to recommend the matter for favourable consideration to the Road Board?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: (a) It is correct that the Bhal tract being low lying becomes water-logged and villages which are not connected by roads experience difficulties in respect of communications during the rainy season.

(b) As these roads are not of provincial importance the duty of providing them devolves on the District Local Board and not on the Road Board.

ROADS IN GUJARAT AND DECCAN

Mr. N. A. BECHAR on behalf of Mr. A. D. SHETH (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the total mileage of metalled roads, of provincial roads and local board roads, in each of the different districts of Gujarat and those of the Deccan;

(b) the figures for the last ten years of the road grants made by Government to each of the different districts of Gujarat and the Deccan;

(c) the figures for the last ten years of expenditure recurring and non-recurring on provincial roads in each of the districts of Gujarat and the Deccan ?

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: The information has been called for.

EDUCATIONAL GRANTS TO DISTRICT LOCAL BOARDS

Mr. N. A. BECHAR on behalf of Mr. A. D. SHETH (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) the figures of educational grants to the district local boards of the Presidency of the years—

1920-21

1921-22

1922-23

1923-24

1924-25

1925-26 ;

(b) the datum line fixed for the boards that have taken over the control of education and the date when they took over the control of education ?

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Information has been called for.

PREVENTIVE POLICE : VIRAMGAUM STATION

Mr. N. A. BECHAR on behalf of Mr. A. D. SHETH (Ahmedabad District): Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether a number of preventive police constables are stationed at Viramgaum Station and whether they attend all the trains ;

(b) whether they examine the kit of passengers ;

(c) the grounds on which the policeman is authorised to examine the kit of the passengers ;

(d) whether the formalities such as the presence of a punch and panchatnama are prescribed or not ? If prescribed, whether the formalities are observed by the men on duty ;

(e) whether any register is kept wherein the daily cases which the policeman on duty may be examining on doubt and the result thereof might be recorded ? If not, why not ?

The Honourable Mr. G. B. PRADHAN : (a) An excise staff consisting of 1 Amaldar, 4 peons and 1 female searcher is posted at Viramgaum Station. This staff is present at the station on the arrival of all trains.

(b) The staff examines the kit of only such passengers as are considered likely to be in illicit possession of excisable articles or about whom previous information of the likelihood of them being smugglers has been received.

(c) Excise men are authorised by law to examine the kit of suspected passengers with a view to the prevention of offences under the Excise laws.

(d) Such formalities as are prescribed by law or by rules are duly observed.

(e) A Register of searches made is not maintained. A "Crime Register" showing the particulars of cases detected is however maintained. A register of all searches made would serve no useful purpose, but, on the contrary, would give much unnecessary work to the Excise Department and cause inconvenience to the public, since it would necessitate the detention of the parties searched in order to ascertain their names, addresses, and other particulars. As Viramgaum is a junction such detention might frequently involve the missing of connecting trains.

FOREST LANDS : DHOLKA TALUKA

Mr. N. A. BECHAR on behalf of Mr. A. D. SHETH (Ahmedabad District) : Will Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that in the village Dhanavada in the Dholka Taluka of the Ahmedabad District, just on the boundary of the village there are two thousand Bighas of land belonging to some Talukdars all of which are full of dense Babul forests ;

(b) whether they are aware that touching the two thousand Bighas of land stated in (a) there are one thousand Bighas of land belonging to the Thakore Saheb of Sanand in the limits of another village of the same taluka namely Ramodra and this land too is full of the same type of dense Babul trees ;

(c) whether they are aware that lands mentioned in (a) and (b) are a great resort of different animals in great numbers who regularly ravage the crops of surrounding villages every year ;

(d) whether they intend to take any action in the matter and if so, what ?

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU : (a) Yes. In Dhanwada village, taluka Dholka, there are 1,075 acres of wanta land belonging to three talukdars. Of this area 500 acres are waste and are covered with babul trees.

(b) There is no village called Ramodra, but the honourable member probably refers to the village of Sakodra in Dholka Taluka belonging to the Sanand estate, where there is wanta land measuring about 602 acres lying waste and covered with babul trees.

(c) Yes.

(d) As the waste lands belong to the talukdars no action can be taken by Government in the direction of clearing the land of trees. The Thakor of Sanand is however having his jungle land cleared, and the work has been going on for the last eight months. Some portion of the Dhanwada jungle is also being cleared by its owners through the agency of the same contractors who are working for the Thakor of Sanand.

(Further consideration of Mr. R. G. Pradhan's Motion to present an address to His Excellency the Governor.)

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Sir, I do not know whether to attach too great importance to this motion or too little importance, on account of the fact that no honourable member has thought fit to say a single word about a motion which took half an hour in moving. Sir, I quite understand the honourable member's point of view and I think there is a good deal to be said for what he has urged. The honourable member, I noticed, read extracts from the Montagu-Chelmsford report as well as the Joint Parliamentary Committee's report. He also stated that the Government of India and several provincial Governments have adopted the system of committees. I think there are a few more provinces than were referred to by the honourable member in his speech. What I noticed he omitted to mention was the functions that such committees are to perform. They are, as stated in the Joint Parliamentary Committee report, to be determined entirely by His Excellency or the Government. The honourable member was good enough to refer to the committee which is attached to advise the Finance Department, known as the Finance Committee. I do not know whether the honourable member is aware of the circumstances in which that committee came into existence and also the speeches that were made by honourable members questioning I believe the desirability of having a Finance Committee. Even now at several of these meetings I notice that honourable members are not desirous of expressing their own views. I have no quarrel with that attitude, but the committee was constituted in order to enable discussions across the table and to enable Government to lay before the chosen members of this House in an informal manner all the information that they possess with regard to the financial condition of the presidency. But the committees which my honourable friend urges, namely, standing committees would have to express their views and would have to say whether or not they approve of certain proposals that are put before them for consideration. I am not sure how far the House is prepared to allow these committees to express their opinions. I understand that there is a certain amount of apprehension that such members of the House as may be selected—because they are not to be elected—to join these committees may commit themselves by the expression of their views. I do not know that that is altogether a misfortune. On the contrary I think it will be an advantage.....

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : For them or for Government ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : It will be of advantage. The opinion that I just now mentioned has been expressed to me by several leading members of this House.....

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Privately ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Quite informally, and I was hoping that had there been time honourable members would ventilate their views before the House. I was hoping also that the honourable member opposite (Moulvi Rafiuddin Ahmad) as the leader of an influential party, would have given us the benefit of his opinion. I am therefore at a disadvantage in the absence of the expression of views. Government have not the slightest desire to press the committees upon an unwilling House. I personally think that this question has come up somewhat late. In view of the early appointment of the Statutory Commission I am wondering whether it is worth while starting upon a new system at this late stage. The question of cost has been referred to by the honourable member, but I do not attach much importance to that point. I should only say that in view of the early discussion that is bound to take place on the whole method of administration in the provinces before the Statutory Commission, I do not know whether it is worth while to pursue this matter now, and in the absence of any strong expression of views on the subject by the opposite benches I think, Sir, that it would be advisable if the honourable member thought fit to withdraw his motion for the present. Government, I fear, without the expression of views that I have alluded to, would not be prepared to support the motion at the present juncture.

Question put and lost.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN (Nasik District): Mr. President, the next motion which I have to move reads as follows :—

That the following address be presented to His Excellency the Governor of Bombay :

“ May it please Your Excellency,—

We, the members of the Bombay Legislative Council, respectfully pray that your Excellency may be pleased to appoint immediately Council Secretaries as provided for under section 62 (4) of the Government of India Act. ”

The honourable members will notice the reference which my motion makes to section 52 of the Government of India Act. I will therefore read the relevant portion of that section. Clause (4) of that section reads as follows :—

“ The governor of a governor's province may at his discretion appoint from among the non-official members of the local legislature, council secretaries, who shall hold office during his pleasure, and discharge such duties in assisting members of the executive council and ministers as he may assign to them.

There shall be paid to council secretaries so appointed such salary as may be provided by vote of the legislative council.

A council Secretary shall cease to hold office if he ceases for more than six months to be a member of the legislative council. ”

Thus there is this statutory provision in the Government of India Act for the appointment of council secretaries. According to that provision council secretaries may be appointed by His Excellency the Governor from among the non-official members, not necessarily elected members but also from nominated members, and they may be appointed in order to discharge duties connected not only with the transferred departments but also with the reserved departments. This question of the appointment of council secretaries was considered by the Muddiman committee. That committee carefully went into the question, a lot of evidence was presented before that committee as regards it and the Muddiman committee has urged, after full and careful consideration of the views of Ministers and Ex-Ministers and others on this point, that council secretaries should be appointed, at any rate to help the Government in the administration of the transferred departments.....

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : The honourable member also gave evidence.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : Yes. There is this provision in the Government of India Act itself and that provision has been fortified by the considered opinion of the Reforms Enquiry Committee in the year 1925. There should therefore be no objection whatever to the appointment of council secretaries. I do not know what the attitude of the House or of the Government is going to be with regard to this motion. The Honourable the Leader of the House gave expression to a sense of embarrassment whilst speaking on my previous motion. Personally I also feel very greatly embarrassed by not being able to know or to anticipate either the attitude of the Government or the attitude of the Council itself. Probably, the attitude will be the same as has been adopted with regard to my previous motion. Very likely no honourable member will come forward to express any view on this motion, and as, perhaps, owing to a lack of debate the Honourable the Leader of the House may have the final word on this motion just as he had on the other motion, I propose to anticipate objections and do my best to reply to them.

Sir, one objection that was expressed in connection with my last motion, which, I dare say, will be repeated by the Honourable the Leader of the House in speaking on this motion, is that the statutory commission will be coming very shortly, I want to deal with that objection. I am not a political prophet nor am I in the confidence of the Government, whether it is the Home Government or the Government of India or our Bombay Government. No doubt however that Lord Birkenhead has declared that he is no slave of dates. A few months ago Earl Winterton said in the House of Commons that the time for the appointment of the Royal or Parliamentary Commission was drawing so near that the question of the precise date of the appointment of the Commission must be governed by practical considerations. Only this morning I came across a statement made by the London Sunday Times that the Statutory Commission would in all probability be appointed in the summer of the next year, and that the Commission would enter upon its labours in the winter of that year. No doubt under the Government of India Act, we are bound to have the Commission in the year 1930, and the surmise will not be far wide of the mark if we think that in all probability the Commission will be appointed and enter upon its labours in the year 1929, but it should be obvious to this House that the Commission will take at least one year to finish its labours and then when its report is submitted the Government will take a good deal of time to consider that report. Probably there will be an exchange of communications between the Home Government and the Government of India and the Provincial Governments and I do not think I am making an extravagant estimate when I say that full one year or more will be taken in arriving at decisions on that report and in giving statutory embodiment to the proposals that may be made by the Commission. So it comes to this that nearly four years from now will have been passed and the Honourable the Leader of the House asks us to wait for four years before doing what should have been done by this Government on their own initiative long ago. Are we going to do nothing of this kind for carrying out the proposals which have been made in this motion or the proposals that were made in the former motion for four years more? Will that be right? Will that be justifiable? That is the question which I ask. In fact, I submit, the near appointment of the Royal Commission is an argument in favour of my motion, because one of the questions which the Commission will have to enquire into is this, whether the Government of India Act has been worked to its fullest possibilities, whether all avenues of advance within the structure of the Act have been explored; whether the purposes of the Act have been carried out to the fullest possible extent within the terms of the Act. That will be one of the questions which the Commission will have to decide. Having considered all this what will be the position? The Commission will find out that the Government have not appointed Council Secretaries, have not appointed standing committees, not only that proposals to that effect were rejected; that Government did not receive those proposals sympathetically. The Parliamentary Commission will come to know all these things and what will be the verdict of the Commission? The Commission will say: "Well, the British Parliament and the British people have made provisions in the Government of India Act which could have been utilised by the provincial legislatures and by the Government to develop the purposes of the Act; but even though we have provided for such possibilities of advance under the Act, Government and the people did not care for them." That is bound to be the verdict of the Royal Commission on these matters. Is that a verdict which we should justify by our action? That is the question for consideration which I submit before the House and which I hope will influence their decision on this matter. The Honourable the Leader of the House said some time ago that he did not want to impose standing committees and probably the appointment of Council Secretaries on an unwilling House. If that is to be the sense of the House on such important matters of constitutional advance within the terms of the Act, if that is to be the sense of the House on matters upon which it is our duty to make such progress as is possible even under the restrictions imposed by the Government of India Act, if, I say, that is to be the sense of the House, then all I can say is that that sense is not a genuine reflection of any sane, reasonable and progressive public opinion in this presidency. The House in that case will be expressing not the better mind of this presidency; it will cease to be a genuine reflection of the opinions of those whom the members represent in this Council. It will become more and more a gramophone of the opinion of some members of the Government. I think, Sir, that if that is going to be the sense of the House, it will not do credit to this House. There is no reason why, in view of the early appointment of the Royal Commission we should not make such progress as is possible within the terms of the Act itself. The British Parliament and the British Government expect that such progress should be made. If I may remind the House, the Honourable the Home Member of the Government of India said some years ago, when the question of further constitutional reforms came before the Legislative Assembly that there was considerable scope for progress within the terms of the Act itself, and that progress should first be made by the legislatures and the people. If in spite of that, this Government maintain a rigid attitude—I have not the least hesitation in calling it an unreasonable attitude—well, then above and beyond the voice of the Government, I will appeal to His Excellency the Governor himself, that irrespective of the opinion which may be expressed by members of the Government or this part of the House that this motion should be carefully considered by him and effect should be given to the recommendations contained therein. I take my stand on the instructions issued to His Excellency by His Majesty on behalf of the British Government. In the instructions it is stated :

[Mr. R. G. Pradhan]

“ And whereas it is our will and pleasure that in the execution of the office of Governor.... You shall further the purposes of the said Act to the end that the institutions and methods of Government therein provided shall be laid upon the best and surest foundations, that the people of the presidency, shall acquire such habits of political action and respect such conventions as will best and soonest fit them for self-government.”

His Excellency the Governor is enjoined by the British Parliament to further the purposes of the said Act.

What are the purposes of this Act ? One of the purposes of the Act is to train the people of this country in the exercise of responsible Government. The Government of India Act provides for the appointment of council secretaries in order that this may be a means of education in responsible government. The Joint Parliamentary Committee has recommended the appointment of standing committees in order that the political education of the people of India may be furthered. In other words the appointment of standing committees and the appointment of council secretaries are some of the means which the British Parliament and the British people have conceded in order to give education to the people of India in the exercise of responsibilities, in order that in course of time, according to the principles and the policy embodied in the preamble to the Government of India Act, full responsibility may be given to them. That I submit is one of the purposes of this Act. In order to fulfil that purpose, it is necessary to carry out the recommendations as regards the means made in the Act. Therefore, as I have said already, if the House remains stolid and support Government, I then would go to His Excellency and appeal to him to follow the instructions that have been given to him by the British Parliament that he shall fulfil the purpose of this Act. I maintain that His Excellency is bound by those instructions and that, therefore, he may be pleased to accept this recommendation, whatever may be the views of this or that side of the House—whatever may be the views of the members of Government. Under those instructions it is the bouden duty of His Excellency the Governor to carry out the recommendations that I have made. The argument that the Royal Commission is coming may appear plausible, and it may appeal to some members on this side of the House, but Sir, it has very little substance, on the contrary if rightly considered it will support my contention. For these reasons, Sir, I submit that this motion should be carried.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Sir,.....

An Honourable MEMBER : Sir, the question has not been proposed.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : It has been proposed. It was moved during the last session ; it was proposed and postponed for this session. Both this address and the last one were moved and proposed.

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : Sir, as the senior Minister who has been in office since the Reforms, I should like to make a few observations on this address. In the first Council, myself and my two honourable colleagues seriously considered this question ; so we did in the last Council ; and we have done so on this occasion also. We have not been pressing for the appointment of Council Secretaries, because, after due consideration, we have definitely come to the conclusion that it is against the interests of the people, and specially against the interests of the opposition. According to the Act, the Council Secretaries are to be appointed from among the non-official members of the local legislature by the Governor, to hold office during his pleasure and to discharge such duties of assisting the Members of the Executive Council and Ministers as may be assigned to them, and lastly their salaries are to be voted by this honourable House. Well, honourable members know already that during the sessions of the Council our official secretaries are always over-worked, and they find it difficult to attend the Council and also do their ordinary work. If Council Secretaries are appointed, the official secretaries will be relieved of much of the Council work because the duty of the Council Secretaries will naturally be to support the Ministers or Members to whom they are attached. Naturally we will have seven more members from the other side added to this side. If the House is willing to add seven more, we have no objection. (An Honourable Member : Should they support the Government necessarily ?) The Council secretaries should support the Ministers or Members. I cannot appoint a Secretary who will stand up to oppose me. No doubt they will get some sort of practical training when they are appointed. But I think the appointment of such secretaries was not meant, in my opinion,—I may be wrong—for the present constitution. What is our present constitution ? We are composed of a reserved half and a transferred half. Again, the transferred half consists of three Ministers who are drawn not from one party but—I must admit this to my shame—from different parties. Such appointments are feasible when there are only two parties in the Council, the party in power and the opposition. If the Ministry is drawn from one party, we can then appoint seven of that party to assist the Ministers. But if we appoint Secretaries under the present constitution, it will be reducing the Council to a farce. However, if the House wishes that the Governor should appoint these Secretaries, then the wishes of the House will be placed before His Excellency the Governor. If the other side of this House expresses itself strongly in favour of that, I am sure His Excellency will be pleased to accede to their wishes.

[Sir Ghulam Hussain]

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): Sir, I oppose the address moved by the honourable member Mr. Pradhan. Situated as we are, this address will be more a curse than a blessing. We are working now a dyarchical system of government; we have not got complete autonomy. If the Bombay Presidency had complete provincial autonomy it would have been a different question altogether. Just now, we are working under very adverse circumstances. The House consists of 20 members whom we must style as the official bloc (4 Executive Council Members and 16 officials), that is to say 20 persons always voting according to the Government whip whatever may be the merits of the question. Now, to these 20 we have to add 3 Ministers, and we get 23. And if we add 7 Council Secretaries to that rank the number will be 30. Now, when Ministers are appointed, they are required to have at least 9 or 10 persons to support them in season and out of season. If we add Council Secretaries to this number of persons who support Government for roping up Ministers, the House will be reduced to the position of a mere mutilated body to register the decrees of Executive Government, and whatever popular element exists in this House will be altogether wiped out of existence. However admirable and laudable may be the motives of the honourable mover, I cannot subscribe to the views he holds. Certainly, when we get provincial autonomy and complete independence; when the nominated bloc disappears; when the House consists only of elected members; when the whole House becomes practically speaking a popularly elected House; then such a proposition may be brought forward. But we cannot do so before we get complete provincial autonomy, and as long as we are working under the dyarchical system of government, in which the executive is altogether irresponsible to this House this proposition would further mutilate the House. The mutilated condition in which this House has been placed during this session is evidence of what would further happen if the Secretaries are appointed. I therefore strongly oppose the presentation of the address which the honourable member Mr. Pradhan has proposed.

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI (Western Sind): Sir, I was very anxious, when the honourable member moved his motion, to know from him exactly what were the duties that he intended these secretaries to perform. If he intended the seven secretaries to be added to act as gramophones, he should have said it and I think the House would have then materials before them to go to His Excellency with a request to appoint seven more gramophones. I do not want to describe the state of affairs that will arise, because my honourable friend from Ahmedabad rural has given expression to language which cannot be imitated. Therefore, I would have been very glad to hear from the honourable member who moved the motion to know whether any other Legislative Council or any other Governor of any province has appointed any council secretaries, either to the Executive Council Members or Ministers. (An Honourable Member : Madras.) So far as I am aware, I know in Madras only one secretary was appointed. The Raja of Panagal, when he was leader of the Non-Brahmin Party and a Minister, had appointed one council secretary and no more. Under what circumstances he appointed, I do not know. It may be that he wanted to do less work and wanted the secretary to work more. We have got here seven members on the side of Government,—Executive Councillors and Ministers,—who are ready to work unto death, to work their hardest, and, therefore, I do not think, Sir, that we want to add seven more secretaries to the ten we have already got, that is to say, raise the number to seventeen, in addition to the Government seven members we have already got. I think the honourable mover wanted to justify in very high language and to impress the other side by the message from the King Emperor, and beyond the fact that when the Royal Commission comes we ought to show a good record in having acted up to the regulations, which may even be detrimental to us, I do not think the honourable member made out any case for seven more gramophones, and I feel it my duty to oppose this proposal.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR (Karachi City) : Sir, the honourable mover the member from Nasik deserves the gratitude of this House for the labour which he is taking for the constitutional advance of this country. Sir, unfortunately, his enthusiasm is based upon some instinct or sincerity that we are really advancing, that the Government of England is really anxious and willing even by instalments to transfer the power from them to the people. Sir, you will excuse me my pessimism about this matter. I personally do not share the optimism of my honourable friend in his belief that he enunciated in the Montagu-Chelmsford Reforms that we are even to that extent being given credit for ordinary responsible government in the so-called reforms. Sir, my own feeling is that unless and until you have behind your demands some sanction in the country, no Government is likely to yield the power which they have not yielded all these years. One or two instances which have encouraged so many Indians in their belief that England is sincere to transfer her power because they have done so in the case of Australia, because they have done so in the case of New Zealand, because they have done so in the case of South Africa, are not likely to hold good in our case. India is much bigger than England, and if India is going to be given even in terms of instalments the kind of freedom for which we are all yearning, then I think India will rule England instead of England ruling India. Sir, that being my own feeling, I personally would like to disabuse my honourable friend and others of his faith in the British Government giving or making this country autonomous or independent at all. He is basing all his remarks upon those reports on reforms, and even when the question of the appointment of secretaries was touched in the Montagu-Chelmsford Scheme, men like Mr. Sastri and others had their grave doubts as to the utility of those secretaries and the very fears or the very sentiments expressed by the Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government were what they themselves expressed. They knew that we were throwing in the arms of Government so many more members who are likely to take their point of view, if and when they are coming under the surroundings of those members on the front bench. Sir, that is a fact which has been evidenced by the proceedings that have gone on in this House, although my experience is very limited in its working. But, Sir, as has been rightly pointed out by my honourable friend from Ahmedabad rural, already what little position this House possesses is weaning from day to day. Sir, the small sense of responsibility, even in the matter of transferred departments which could have been inculcated by a Government really earnest and sincere to transfer responsibility to the people has not been realised. As I have already said, the spirit of reforms has not entered into the mind and the heart of Government. They have followed a policy of divide and rule, and instead of making even the transferred departments a unitary system, they have gone on with Ministers on individual basis, and have from the very beginning not given to the spirit of reforms a spirit of responsibility. Therefore, my own feeling is that devoid of responsibility as we are, divided in this House as we are, I am not at all certain whether this House at all gain by the addition of these seven secretaries to the already large number of secretaries, deputy secretaries, under secretaries, assistant secretaries, and God knows how many secretaries, with which this side of the House is already dissatisfied. Therefore, I do not think, Sir, that my honourable friend from Nasik is really using his talents and energy in advancing the cause of freedom of this country. If we are all earnest about freedom and Swaraj, and, Sir, let me tell you, from what is going on in this House, I have my great fears if anybody is really anxious for Swaraj and the manner in which proceedings have gone on leads me to the firm belief that we are more anxious to lick the boots of Government, rather than..... (Honourable Members indicated dissent.)

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I do not think that is a right expression and think that the House has rightly interpreted it. The honourable member should withdraw it.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR: I am prepared to withdraw that expression, Sir, if it is an undesirable expression. It may be a rather blunt language and might have been put into better language. But that is more or less the condition in this House, Sir, and that is my personal view which you will permit me to express.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE: Has the honourable member withdrawn the expression? I think he merely said he was prepared to withdraw.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I think the honourable member has withdrawn that?

Mr. N. A. BECHAR: I have. Sir, if the amount of sensitiveness and zeal which the honourable member from Satara has shown in this matter had been shown by him about the freedom and powers of this House, I think he would have made a greater advance even within the limited power that we may possess. But, Sir, all that enthusiasm and zeal are used more on the Government than on the non-official side.

Now, Sir, having given my frank opinion on this matter, I hope my honourable friend from Nasik (Mr. Pradhan) will not misunderstand us in believing that we are against this proposal on this very principle, or merely because there is some other influence working on us. So far at least as I am concerned, I claim to be a free lance. I have not the slightest fetters on either side, and I say that the reason why I am against this proposal is that we are really trying to throw ourselves in the lap of Government to a larger extent than we have already thrown ourselves, and because of the fact that we have to go to the Governor. . . . .

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The honourable member's time is up.

Mr. N. A. BECHAR : Also, it does not appeal to men like myself who have not certainly got that fervour about Swaraj with which we were fighting during the non-co-operation movement. With these words, I am sorry I cannot agree to the motion which has been brought forward by my honourable friend.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD (Central Division) : Sir, I am very much in sympathy with the motion which has been moved by my honourable friend on my left (Mr. Pradhan), but I am not prepared to vote for it. Sir, nothing could be a greater confession of the failure of dyarchy than the attitude of this House to-day upon these two motions. If, Sir, it is agreed by the Minister that the appointment of these Secretaries will be very little help to Government, that means to say that the Ministers are nothing but the creatures of Government. I do hope. . . . .

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : They are Government, not creatures of Government.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : They are Government ; and yet they do not like to have several more supporters of Government. But they maintain that the appointments would be injurious to the interests of the people. I do not see the consistency of this reasoning. I am myself not prepared to support such a motion ; but on different grounds. In Parliament the under-secretaries perform a very great function, and without under-secretaries parliamentary government in England could not possibly be conducted. The under-secretaries to Government are practically the apprentices and candidates for Cabinet office. They learn the work, they discharge their duties and they relieve the Ministers. I do believe that the authors of the Montagu-Chelmsford Report earnestly and sincerely hoped that this provision would be utilised by the several provincial Governments in India. It is an excellent provision ; there can be no doubt about it, but, as has been stated, this House is so hopelessly divided with regard to parties, that it is not in a position to utilise this provision for the present. Sir, with regard to the Government of India Act I ask what could we not have done under it? We have two Indian Members on the reserved side of Government, purposely added to put before that side of Government the popular view. Then we have three Indian Ministers responsible to this side of the House. Five, as against two European Members and His Excellency the Governor. They can do a good deal for Indianisation, and that was, I believe, the intention of the British Government. It is therefore astonishing that our Ministers themselves and our Members of the Executive Council say that it is no use appointing secretaries....

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN: I say we are ready, if the House agrees.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: There are difficulties but I am pointing out the original intention of the British Government and the purpose of the Act. It is not the fault of the British Government, if we do not carry out the Act. There are no doubt difficulties, but we have also our responsibilities. Sir, difficulties exist only to be met and solved and not to be shelved. There are parties here who in season and out of season talk of Swaraj and unity. But they are not ready to carry out the Act and its provisions, which are for our benefit. It is a hopeless state of affairs; I shall be the last person to say that the British Government is responsible for it. It is Indian opinion, it is the conditions in India that cause these difficulties. It has been pointed out by my honourable friend who has moved this motion that if we do not avail ourselves of the facilities which are already given to us, with what face could we say to the Commission that we are ready for full Swaraj? If there be any obstacles in the way, why do not honourable members get up and say "We are ready to accept this motion, provided such and such a facility be given to us?" Is it right for them to say "we are so divided that we shall not be able to carry out the intentions of the Act and whatever facilities are given to us?" I think it is a hopeless state of affairs. I do say it is entirely our own fault. When the debate is read by the Government of India, and, the Secretary of State, what will they think of the attitude of the people of India? Sir, the senior Minister has pointed out the real position. I do not blame him. He has given us the benefit of his experience, and I think he is the only Member who has sincerely carried out the intentions of the Act. He has had a long tenure of office and he has gained the confidence of this House. If he would suggest some means to enable us to accept motions of this kind, and fulfil the intentions of the Act.....

Rao Saheb D. R. PATIL: Then you would change your opinion?

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD: Certainly, the House will then change its opinion. The House has not adopted an unalterable attitude in the matter. I also hope the Honourable the Leader of the House will also give us the benefit of his experience. He has been a Minister responsible to this side of the House, and he has been a Member of the reserved side of Government, and even before that, he has been a person of great public experience. I do hope that he will not give a stereotyped reply, but point out to us if there is anything which we could do in order to be able to carry out this resolution. With the best of intentions the honourable mover has brought the motion before us ; I admire his energy, I admire his industry, I admire his parliamentary style and tactics and he has very ably put his case before us. But I am afraid he has not convinced the House and therefore it will not accept the motion.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN (Nasik District) : The Honourable Minister for Local Self-Government has tried to give a distorted colouring to this question by saying that seven council secretaries will have to be appointed. That is absolutely wrong. It has pained me to see that the Honourable Minister has made such a statement. The Act does not require that seven council secretaries should be appointed at all. Two would be quite enough. The Madras Government, when they appointed council secretaries, appointed three. So absolutely no importance need be given to the exaggerated statement which the Honourable Minister has made. It will be quite enough if two are appointed. It will quite serve the purpose of the Act if two or three are appointed. It is not at all necessary that every member of the Executive Council and every Minister should be provided with a council secretary. Then, Sir, he made the statement that the appointment of council secretaries will be against the interests of the people and of the opposition. I venture to contradict the first part of this statement. It is not at all against the interests of the people. As regards the statement that it will be against the interests of the opposition, well, this solicitude for the interests of the opposition is very amusing. Coming as it does from a member of the Government which has practically destroyed all opposition in this Council, the statement is extremely suspicious. What will be the position ? My honourable friend the member for interruptions said that there would be seven more gramophones ; well, in this House, without there being Council secretaries, there are many more gramophones. The Government and Ministers are getting all the support that they want, much more support than they want, even though there are no council secretaries. Even members of the Swaraj party, of the responsive co-operation party—my erstwhile followers—the new pompously named party—I forget the name, it has some such name as the Coalition Nationalist Party—all of them are going to the Government lobby on important and vital questions even though there are no council secretaries and members of standing committees. Well, I ask, Sir, how is the situation in this Council going to be worse by the appointment of council secretaries ? My honourable friend the member for interruptions whispers : “Are you going to add yourself to the number ?” Well I understand the spirit of that remark. It is a personal insinuation and my reply to that insinuation is that I declare on the floor of this House that even though I am offered the Council Secretaryship I shall refuse it. My honourable friend, the member for interruptions is absolutely free from and innocent of ambition (Laughter). He does not want to be a member of the Executive Council. He does not want to be a Minister. He is so saintly and good-natured and so ethereal that he is absolutely free from all worldly ambitions.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : This is very pleasing and amusing, but it is all personal.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : The honourable member made a personal insinuation and I thought it my duty to reply to it. Had he not made that suggestion I would certainly not have made this remark.

It is easy to talk in this light hearted manner. My honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan said "we are going to have full responsible Government. Let this vicious system of dyarchy be abolished and then council secretaries can be appointed." It is easy to talk about full responsible Government and so on. I myself had hoped that the day was not far distant when not only full provincial Government but full national Government would be established in this country. But unfortunately the sad developments that have taken place during the last few years are bound to defer the realisation of such a hope, at present the state of affairs is distressing, disappointing—and what shall I say—demoralising. What is the use of talking of having full responsible government and Swaraj and all that sort of thing? The Royal Commission may come early next year or may not come early, but depend upon it, the political situation in this country has undergone such sad changes that I should not be surprised if the recommendations made by that Royal Commission are of a retrogressive character. Depend upon it, it is writ large upon our foreheads that we shall have to do the best under the circumstances.....

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : I rise to a point of order, Sir. Is all this relevant ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : What is not relevant ?

Mr. B. G. PAHALAJANI : The Royal Commission and all that.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : It does bear on the question.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : My submission is this that we shall have to make the best of the opportunities that we have got under the Government of India Act. It may be amended, it may be improved when the Royal Commission comes, but I do not think that its essential features will be altered. My friend the Minister for Local Self-Government said that this provision of the appointment of council secretaries was not intended for the existing constitution.....

The Honourable Sir GHULAM HUSSAIN : In my opinion it was so.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : He says that that was his own opinion. His opinion may be anything but as a member of Government he is bound to loyally carry out the provisions of the Act. Whatever his personal opinion may be in a matter like this, he must cast aside his personal opinion and he must be true to the constitution under which he is a Minister to His Excellency the Governor. The question was gone into by the Reforms Enquiry Committee and they decided that this provision about the appointment of council secretaries should be given effect to. In view of that it is not open to any member of Government to say that this was not intended for the existing constitution.

[Mr. R. G. Pradhan]

I have said enough on this motion and I do not propose to take the time of the House. I do not at all expect that this motion will be carried. I know full well that it will meet the same fate as the previous motion, but I feel that I have done my duty in clearing the situation, in clarifying the atmosphere and I feel bold to think that this discussion which we have had just now will serve at least one purpose, namely, that knowing our present constitutional position, our present political condition, we should consider seriously and earnestly whether we should not find out and follow a new, a truer and a better path. With these words I commend my motion to this honourable House.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Sir, I am not sure whether the honourable mover prefers the silence of the House on his previous motion or the adverse opinions that have been given expression to.....

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : I prefer the adverse opinions.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : The honourable member prefers the adverse opinions. One might expect that from a member of his courage and knowledge. I am not sure whether that courage is not leading him into a position where he has to assume the role of a prophet. He is forced to bring into requisition what in his opinion may be expected to be the conclusions of the Royal Commission, that most of their conclusions apparently will be extremely unfavourable to the aspirations which the honourable member always possessed if forsooth this simple motion is not accepted. There is a saying about a prophet who hath no honour in his own country and I am anxious to avoid its application in the present instance for I admire the honourable mover and I have a great deal of sympathy for the solitude in which he unfortunately finds himself, for he complains of the desertion of his erstwhile small band of followers.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Is the Honourable the Leader of the House right in referring to us as the honourable mover's followers ?

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I do not know whether the honourable member was not one of his followers. I am very glad to hear he was not. If the honourable mover attacks, no doubt with good reason but some bitterness, other parties in the House for some action that they may have chosen to take after due deliberation, I think he has himself to blame if he invites some criticism on his attitude or on his motion from those members of the House. If events do not turn out as satisfactorily as one would have them I submit there is no reason to allow valour to outrun discretion. I was myself not prepared to follow the honourable member in his vision into the future as to what may or may not be the recommendations of the Royal Commission, but anticipating the honourable member's sensitiveness for such a kind of result as he has forecasted, I ventured to advise him on the last occasion that he might not press his motion. I am sure it is not necessary for me to make any such suggestion now.

[Sir Chunilal Mehta]

I would like to refer to some of the constitutional issues that have been raised in this motion. I would also like to refer to the history of what has been done in the other provinces ever since this Act came into force. I notice that the honourable member omitted altogether any reference to what has been done in other provinces, largely because he, as a student of constitutions must know that several of the other provinces (I think there are four) tried the experiment and abandoned it in spite of the coming of the Royal Commission. He also took to task my honourable friend, the Senior Minister. I think the Honourable the Minister for Local Self-Government was perfectly frank and sincere in the expression of his views as well as his experience in the last so many years. I can claim to speak with some knowledge because I was with him then. Will it surprise the honourable member and his friends opposite if I tell him that in the first place.....

An Honourable MEMBER : He has no friends.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : He has friends, if not followers. Will it surprise him if I tell him that within the first four or six months of the constitution of the Reforms, we, as Ministers, had several suggestions for taking up members as council secretaries? We decided after consideration to wait for a little time to see the working of the Council and also to see what other Councils were doing. After those six months there was no member of the House who was either anxious to put himself forward as a council secretary nor was there a suggestion that council secretaries should be appointed to act with either the Ministers or the Members. Sir, the change of policy, of the opposition party against which the honourable member has spoken so vehemently had not then taken place and yet since June 1921 up till almost the present day, we have had no suggestion that any council secretaries should be appointed. Was it then open to the Minister to have moved in this matter as recommended by my honourable friend? Is it then justifiable on the part of the honourable member in the rush of his eloquence to cast aside almost all the constitutional practices and to appeal to His Excellency the Governor alone, because in this opinion he is misguided or not properly advised by the executive councillors or ministers or by the House? (Mr. R. G. Pradhan : It is constitutional.) My honourable friend says that it is constitutional; and I admit that within the letter of the law it is constitutional. But we think that before invoking the assistance of the instructions to the Governor the honourable member would at least have given some importance to the weight of opinion that has been expressed by those who have been working the machine and those members who sit opposite who have helped in the working of that machine. Sir, the honourable member complained that he was not given an opportunity to know what the views of Government or of the attitude of the honourable members opposite were with regard to his motion. Possibly it was because he did not care, would not care, to find out what they were. As a matter of fact, last evening, when the honourable member asked my opinion about his motion I had to frankly inform him that I was waiting for the expression of views on the part of the non-official members. I gave him sufficient warning as to what our attitude would be. It was open to him to get at least a few supporters to his point of view. It is not the fault.... (Mr. R. G. Pradhan : Does the Honourable the Leader of the House suggest that I should canvass support outside the Council ?) No, Sir, I did not suggest any canvassing ; but I do suggest—and I am not ashamed of the fact that I do talk matters over with honourable members with reference to Council affairs—that he might have consulted in the same way his honourable colleagues. I do not think it would be unconstitutional, at the most it is courteous. It is not altogether safe to discard that method, however much one may rely on the strength of his eloquence. (Mr. R. G. Pradhan : On the merits of my case). As to the merits of the case, the decision of the House has already been given. (Mr. R. G. Pradhan : Not conclusive.)

I will venture to quote certain facts and opinions from official documents which I am sure the honourable member cannot controvert. Let us take the Reforms Enquiry Committee to which the honourable member referred in his opening speech. For want of time no doubt, the honourable member quoted only the summary of recommendations. But let us look into the body of the report. This is what paragraph 105 has to say on this question. The Committee devoted a good deal of time and thought to this question as the honourable member has already informed the House. Without taking much of the time of the House I will read only extracts though the whole paragraph would give a better idea :

“ The Central Provinces Government for example state that council secretaries were appointed but they did not make their influence felt or win a recognised position. In the opinion of that Government the experiment must be classed as a failure. In Bihar and Orissa also where the suggestion has been made that council secretaries should be appointed to take the place of the ordinary departmental secretaries for work in the Council with the motive of eliminating the suspicion of official influence over ministers, the Bihar and Orissa Ministers observe that they cannot do without their departmental secretaries who are in constant touch with the departments, and are therefore in the opinion of these ministers in a better position to give them the assistance they need than any council secretaries. We consider therefore that the provision enabling such appointments to be made should be retained for use in those provinces where such appointments are desired. On the transferred side we think that the Act should be so amended as to provide that the minister should make recommendations for the appointment of council secretaries.”

The honourable member will notice that it is for the minister to make the recommendation for the transferred part of Government. (Interruption). That is the deliberate conclusion to which the committee has arrived and they did not invoke the assistance of instructions to Governor. They proceed :

“ The council secretaries on the transferred side should hold office during the minister's pleasure.”

(An Honourable Member : Minister's pleasure ?) Is my honourable friend prepared to advocate this part ? (Mr. R. G. Pradhan : Yes). He is bolder than most of the members of this House ; he is bolder than even the members of that committee, for they go on to say :

“ It may be constitutionally inexpedient to provide definitely for the latter provision in the statute. We consider, however, that on the transferred side of the administration, the council secretaries should hold and vacate office with the minister. This is one form of patronage.”

[Sir Chunilal Mehta]

What has been the experience in the various provincial governments ? In Madras no one can say that this experiment has not been given a fairly long trial. It is true that the council secretaries were attached only to the transferred side and they were in existence from 1921 to 1926. They have now been abandoned. In the United Provinces they lasted for two years from 1921-23. The same was the case in the Central Provinces. In Burma the child grew to the age of only six months though it saw the light of day so late as 1925 and has now ceased to exist. This, Sir, has been the experience of the various Councils. Does the honourable member wish to suggest that if the Honourable Ministers did not find themselves bold enough to try this experiment, after this repeated experience in the other provinces, they are much to blame ? I am not going to say that they should not do so, because the statutory commission is within sight. The honourable member is apparently annoyed at my reference to that commission. To go back to the time before experience was gained I might refer to the opinion which was expressed by the Government of India in its despatch on constitutional reforms in 1919 on this subject :

“ This suggestion (namely, that council secretaries should be appointed) has been favourably received by most of the Governments which have noticed it.....The Government of Bengal take emphatic objection to the proposal. They think that the introduction of under-secretaries appointed from the Council, would complicate an already difficult situation and that the responsibilities to his constituents of an under-secretary who is an elected member may be a cause of embarrassment.

We do not intend that these under-secretaries should share in the administration or be regarded as extra ministers. ”

The Muddiman Committee also, Sir, have something to say on the question of the salaries to be given to the Council Secretaries :

“ When Council Secretaries are appointed, we consider that they should receive a reasonable salary, and accordingly, on the analogy of the arrangement we have suggested as regards the Ministers' salaries, we should provide that their salaries should be determined by an Act of the local legislature. ”

I believe this report was made somewhere in 1924. There was therefore time for any honourable member who was anxious to press for the appointment of Council Secretaries and who thought that he was supported in his view by the Muddiman Committee's report, to have taken steps for the purpose.

Sir, I am now speaking purely from memory, but the honourable member will correct me if I am wrong, and my recollection is that the honourable member belonged to one of those associations who voice a large body of public opinion in this presidency and who were against the constitution of a cabinet of the size of seven members in the major provinces. I shall stand corrected if the honourable member contradicts me.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : They were never against the appointment of three Ministers.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I said against a whole strength of seven.

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : They were against having four Executive Councillors and three Ministers. That was the recommendation made in the Montagu-Chelmsford report itself.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : All I am saying is that the Bombay Presidency Association, of which the honourable member, I believe, was a distinguished office-bearer.....

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : No.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : At least a member—all I am saying is that the Bombay Presidency Association was one of those public bodies who carry some weight and who in 1920 memorialised Government against the excessive strength of the proposed Cabinet. I am not prepared to say whether they said two Ministers or three Ministers, but they certainly said that the Cabinet should not be as much as seven. On the last motion I said that I did not pay much importance to the question of cost that would be involved in the proposal; on this occasion, Sir, I certainly do. The honourable member has given no indication of the salary which he would like to propose.....

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : It is not my personal question.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I have never for a moment suggested that this was a personal question; on the contrary I wish to give clear expression to my belief in the honourable member's utter sincerity and the purity of his motives. But as he alluded to the cost on the occasion of the last motion, Sir, I certainly think that when moving this resolution, he might have given some idea to the House as to what in his opinion ought to be the salary to be attached to the Council Secretaries. He did not in his opening speech say even what number of Council Secretaries should be appointed, whether seven or less. I cannot see at all why, if they are to be attached to the Ministers, the poor Members of Council should be deprived of the benefit of Council Secretaries.

(Mr. R. G. PRADHAN made some remarks which were inaudible).

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : All the more reason, in my opinion, that Council Secretaries should be attached to Members of Council. But the honourable member discarded.....

Mr. R. G. PRADHAN : One Secretary may be attached to a Minister and a Member of Council.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I should have been in a much better position to deal with this question if the honourable member had explained in his speech exactly what he wanted. He did not do so, and now he suggests all sorts of permutations and combinations of Secretaries with Ministers and Members. Now, I believe that the strength of the Cabinet is such that they at any rate do not require assistance for carrying on their work. And I think in the present state of our finances it would not be wise to spend a large sum of money on Council Secretaries, especially when it is difficult to define what their duties are to be, what exactly their relations ought to be on the one hand with the Ministers or the Members and on the other hand with the rest of the administration, including the Secretaries. It is not so easy a matter, as the honourable member seems to imagine, under a system of dyarchy. When there is full responsible government, certainly Council Secretaries will be appointed by the party in power in order not only to train members who may, as the honourable member said, be candidates for office but also to strengthen their own party. I think there is a good deal to be said for Council Secretaries and I am not opposed to them but I am afraid I cannot accept the motion if there is no strong support in its favour. Every non-official member who has spoken on this motion has been adverse to the suggestion. I have not the least desire to influence the honourable member's decision; I have no doubt that he will prefer to remain in solitary grandeur. But let him not say that any decision to which the Government may come or any view that the Council may take on both the motions which have been placed before them ought in the slightest degree to prejudice the case before the Royal Commission.

Question put and lost.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I must remind the House that this resolution was moved during the last session and there were a number of similar resolutions repeated again by honourable members. The Secretary had to inform them that because of this resolution which was moved and was pending for further consideration, those resolutions need not be tabled. The House now understands that the absence of the honourable member Mr. Nariman, who moved the resolution during the last session, does not matter in the consideration of this particular resolution which is to be disposed of.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Satara District) : I understand, Sir, some committees have been already announced by the Education Department as having been appointed. There was some discussion last time and at that time the Honourable Minister for Education suggested that he was thinking of doing something and that the mover of the resolution may wait. But, as nothing was done, no doubt the resolution was moved. But I submit that, in the altered circumstances of the case, namely, that the committees have been appointed and announced, it may be considered whether it would be worth our while to spend more time on this resolution, especially as the honourable mover is not here to-day and I do not know how we can proceed, whether to drop the resolution by not proceeding with the further discussion or to allow it to drop itself. No doubt, if the mover was here, we would have been in a position to ask him to withdraw, so that our valuable time could have been concentrated on some other important subject. I would, therefore, appeal to the honourable members not to carry on any debate on this resolution, so that the resolution may be negatived.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV (Satara District) : Sir, the amendment I wanted to move was that there should be no names of the committee suggested by the House, and that amendment.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Order, order. I understood the honourable member Rao Bahadur Kale to make a few remarks on the motion itself. But the Secretary understands that the honourable member has placed a question before me whether this resolution should be proceeded with in view of the Government having appointed committees. Is that so ?

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE : Yes ; that is the question.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I do not mind taking the sense of the House first on that, and if the House agrees.....

Rao Saheb D. R. PATIL : I want to propose adjournment of the consideration of this question to the next session.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Why ?

Rao Saheb D. R. PATIL : Because we want to go on to the next resolution.....

Mr. B. V. JADHAV : I want to speak, Sir, on the question. The amendment I had tabled was that Government should be left free to nominate a committee and to carry on the enquiry they intended to do, and I was given to understand that the honourable member Mr. Nariman, the proposer of the resolution, was willing to accept my amendment. The Honourable Minister has now announced the formation of two committees which will go into this question. But I want to bring to the notice of this House that the constitution of the two committees that have been announced by the Honourable Minister is, I think, not satisfactory from my point of view. I am very unwilling, Sir, to give expression to any communal feelings, but I am very sorry to say that the constitution of the committees obliges me to draw the attention of this House to this rather disagreeable subject.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I rise to a point of order whether the question which the honourable member is just referring to is in order. He said he wanted to move an amendment to drop all the names from the resolution, and now he says the constitution of the committees announced is not satisfactory.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV : I wanted, Sir, to place full reliance upon the discretion of Government and I shall point out that the committee to consider the question of physical training, for instance, consists of our honourable friend the member for the University, Mr. Hamley, Mr. L. B. Bhopatkar, Dr. Sumant Mehta, Miss Motivala, Khan Bahadur Shah Nawaz Khan Bhutto, Mr. Chhotalal Purani, Mr. J. G. Gune and Mr. K. R. Kanitkar. All these are for the physical side. I have no objection against any particular individual in this list. But I want to point out that physical culture has been carried on by the communities which are called the backward communities, and the Honourable Minister has not thought fit to include any name belonging to these communities on the committee on this subject. It was expected, Sir, that as the communities backward in education were the communities which have preserved the physical education up to this time and had kept up their traditions of sound physique, that some members of those communities would be included in this list. But what I find is that the members of one particular community have been chosen pre-eminently to work on this committee. I was told, Sir, that Mr. Bhopatkar and Mr. Gune have themselves formulated schemes of physical education. I submit that that was the very reason why they were the best persons to give evidence before the committee and to have placed their schemes for the judgment of the committee. Now, they are made the judges, and as every one knows the father is always partial to his own child. So, the schemes formulated by these experts, as they are called, will be much favoured by the committee as constituted, and that, I think, may not be satisfactory. I bring these facts to the notice of the Honourable Minister, to point out to him that these persons Mr. Gune and Mr. Bhopatkar would make the best witnesses, and their evidence before the committee will be of the highest importance. But here they are proposed to be made the judges in their own cause, and I think therein lies some danger. I hope the Honourable Minister will see his way to correct this, as he thinks fit. I do not want to move any amendment with that object, but I simply make these remarks for the information and consideration of the Honourable the Minister.

In the formation of the other committee also, I think the same thing will be found, that although it is a very big committee and care has been taken to appoint members from various communities, the addition of one or two names to it will improve it. I think there need be no discussion on this motion and I therefore support the honourable member Rao Bahadur Kale's motion.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I should like the point to be distinctly understood. I wonder if the Honourable Minister for Education has understood the honourable member. The honourable member has pointed out, as regards the committee on physical training, that the two members of the committee, Nos. 3 and 8, Messrs. Bhopatkar and Gune, should not be members of the committee. But I do not know whether he has mentioned any names.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV: I have not suggested any names.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: No names to be added or replaced.

Mr. B. V. JADHAV: I leave that entirely to the Honourable Minister.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: As regards the second committee of 14 members, the honourable member has suggested that it should be enlarged by some further representation.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI: Sir, on the last occasion, I mentioned to the House that long before April last, I was considering the question of appointing committees on these subjects, and that I had sent down my own views to the department for suggestions and alterations, if any. In the meantime, notice of a resolution was given by the honourable member Mr. Munshi and several other honourable members also, in order that the resolution might stand high up in the ballot. I then stated that two committees were going to be appointed shortly, and I requested the honourable mover, on that assurance, to withdraw the resolution. At that time, he did not withdraw the resolution, though several honourable members of the House asked him to do so. Thereafter, the committees have been appointed, and experts on the subjects have been selected. Of course the number of members of such committees cannot be very large, and consequently, selections have been very carefully made. The complaint is now made that certain communities are not represented on them. I may respectfully submit that, with reference to the revision and co-ordination of primary and secondary courses and the provision for vocational and industrial training, which is the function of the first committee, and also with reference to physical training, which is the function of the second committee, there could be no difference in the treatment of the subjects for communities. The subjects are common to the whole presidency and to all the communities of the presidency; and in view of that, the best names that occurred after due inquiry have been selected for that purpose. Persons who take an interest in the subject could very well appear as witnesses, and therefore there should be no difficulty to any community in placing their views before the committee. However, I have received certain suggestions, one from the honourable member Mr. Jadhav that a member from his community may be appointed on the committee on physical training. I have also received a wire from the Sind Hindus that they do not find a place on the physical training committee. Karnatak also claims representation on the committee. All that I can say at present is that I will consider the matter, and do what is possible in the matter, without unduly enlarging the committee.

Rao Bahadur S. N. ANGADI : Is there any representation given to the Karnatak ?

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD (Central Division) : Sir, on the last occasion when the question was for discussion before the House, as has been pointed out by the Honourable Minister, the honourable member for the University did not accept the suggestion to withdraw the resolution.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I want to correct my honourable friend's impression. It was the honourable member Mr. Nariman who did not withdraw the resolution in spite of the honourable member for the University pressing him to withdraw.

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Originally it was the motion of the honourable member Mr. Munshi, at whose instance, Mr. Nariman and many others sent in notices. Now, we are told, Mr. Nariman did not withdraw the resolution although requested by Mr. Munshi to do so. Sir, one can easily understand why the honourable member Mr. Munshi wanted the resolution to be withdrawn. He has obtained the sort of committee that he desired and he has been made its chairman. He has been appointed chairman of the committee on physical training. I do not know that he is either a giant in strength or an expert in gymnastics. I am not aware that he is an expert in physical training. No one knows his qualifications for being made the chairman of a committee on physical training. There was very good reason as I said for him to see that the resolution was withdrawn. And, as has been pointed out by my honourable friend Mr. Jadhav, it is very strange that the Honourable the Minister could not find a suitable expert on physical training among the members of the martial races in this Council. There is no doubt on the committee one Muhammadan member from Sind, and I have no doubt he can take care of himself. But I fail to understand why no Muhammadan members from the Presidency were not appointed : Were there no competent Muhammadans in the presidency to be placed on that committee ?

Then, Sir, the resolution which was given notice of by the honourable member Mr. Nariman is the more extensive in scope. The subjects for which the two committees have been appointed do not cover the whole ground. I do not know why committees from this House were not appointed. Secondly if Government wanted to appoint outside committees, why did they not put in more members of this Council on them ?

You will find, Sir, hardly one or two members of this Council on those committees and this is a great reflection on the intelligence of this House so far as educational questions are concerned. It is a reflection also on the representative character of this House.

In the selection of the committees the Honourable Minister has made a new departure. Formerly when Government appointed such committees, they did so from among the members of this House. At any rate former Ministers took the members of this House into their confidence in the selection of such committees. Sir, I enter my protest against the constitution of the committees which are full of his own party. The Minister was not justified in ignoring the interests of Moslems and the Marathas. We all hope that he would rectify his mistake and put in some representatives of other communities on the committees. In education of all subjects, the backward communities are most interested and I would appeal to the Honourable Leader of the House and other members of Government whether they consider it fair that representatives of the various communities interested should have been left out. Sir, I have always found the Honourable Minister very courteous but he never gave us anything substantial. With these observations, Sir, I am ready to abide by the advice which has been given to us. But I expect these committees to be more representative and the Minister to give more consideration to the demands of the communities that are ignored by him.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): I find, Sir, that memberships to such committees are offered as rewards for supporting Government and those who oppose them have been systematically left out. Quality does not at all enter into the calculation and it is a most regrettable thing members who opposed the Government have no place on such committees whatever their qualifications may be.

Mr. S. K. BOLF: I fully associate with what has been said by the previous speakers and I think the chairman of the physical training committee ought to have been a man of strong physique. What inspiration can be drawn from such a chairman I do not know. I think these who possess good physique and have studied this subject ought to be there. Moreover a man like Professor Kanitkar who has spent his life in educational matters ought to have been the chairman of the committee. But instead of that he has been made the secretary. It is quite strange and very absurd. I do agree with my honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan that this is nothing but a reward for those who supported the University bill. I submit, Sir, that the committee ought to have been more representative. There is much of communalism there though people say that they do not want communalism. Therefore I submit the Honourable Minister should reconsider this question and make the committees representative of all the sections of the House.

Rao Bahadur S. N. ANGADI (Belgaum District): I am very much surprised that the honourable member Mr. Munshi should have been appointed chairman of the physical training committee. I find him a physical wreck. For the important post of chairman of the committee of physical culture one should have expected that a better man than the honourable member Mr. Munshi would have been appointed. Of course I have nothing to say against his intellectual capabilities; he is an able advocate of the Bombay High Court; he is certainly a man of high calibre. So far as these qualifications are concerned I have nothing to say.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: I think the House is becoming personal about an honourable member who is absent. The general question as to what sort of chairman should be appointed can be discussed without being personal.

Rao Bahadur S. N. ANGADI: My point is this. Some person who knows the subject of physical training and who has studied it should have been selected. But here we find, the reverse is the case and I object to it. I have nothing more to say.

Mr. JAIRAMDAS DOULATRAM (Eastern Sind): Sir, I had no mind to speak on this question but for the very interesting and amusing remarks made by the most ancient member of this Council— I mean the honourable member Mr. Rafiuddin Ahmad. I never knew that the chairman of any committee had anything to do except to guide the deliberations of the committee, whether that committee deals with the question of physical training or intellectual training. It is surprising to me to see responsible members of this Council claiming experience of the working of this Council for the last 25 years suggesting that the chairman of the physical training committee ought to be a giant or a gymnast. I can assure the honourable member who has started this idea that when Mr. Nariman and a host of other members suggested his own name for inclusion on the committee they were impressed not by the fact that he was physically strong but by the fact that his brain would be useful, despite his age, in assisting in the deliberations of the committee. It appears to me, Sir, that if there is anything in the argument advanced, the Honourable Minister will reconsider the whole question, and if it is a question of finding out the strongest man for the chairmanship of the committee, probably my honourable friend Mr. Gunjal would be selected. But I hold that the functions of a chairman of such a committee differ in no respect from the functions of the other members of the committees, except that he has also to guide the deliberations of the committee.

In view of the remarks made by the honourable member Mr. Rafiuddin Ahmad I would seriously suggest to the Honourable the Minister to revise the entire personnel of the committee.

Mr. S. A. SARDESAI (Bijapur District): Sir, I think that the committee to be appointed by this important resolution is also an important committee, and I think that I should not be discharging my duty properly to this honourable House and to my constituency if I did not speak on this most valuable occasion. I think the Honourable the Minister committed a blunder in not making the committee representative. I do not think that he should consider communal representation but what I say is that the members of the committee should be from all provinces like the Karnatak, Gujarat and some other parts. I certainly do not agree with the last honourable member who said that one who is to become the chairman of the physical culture committee should not be necessarily well versed in that science. I completely disagree with him, because I am of the opinion that a man who is to be the chairman of physical culture committee should know physical culture himself thoroughly and he should be able to put forward the best possible suggestions for physical training. Suppose, Sir, you wish to appoint a man on a committee and to make him the chairman of that committee, he should be a man who is able to discharge his duties properly and if he is totally ignorant and not conversant with his duties, what will be the result? I think that I should give a note of warning to Government members and also to private members that their duty lies in selecting the best men to sit on a committee who will be able to discharge their duties properly, and this is an occasion on which the Educational Minister committed a great blunder in appointing a chairman who is not competent to discharge his duties. We often commit mistakes in India in appointing big European officials to posts for which they are not fit. This would simply indicate that they are not wanting in self-respect. The Education Minister will resent my remarks, I know but duty is duty and I must bring him to task (Laughter). Duty is duty and I must do my duty by correcting not only opponents but friends also, even at the risk of incurring their displeasure and without any fear or without the fear of being contradicted. I think at this moment we are concerned with the formation of the committee and when the occasion comes for discussing this resolution fully.....

Rao Saheb D. R. PATIL : This is that occasion.

Mr. S. A. SARDESAI : I think if this is the occasion, I should say that this subject of education is such an important subject that there can be no other subject of greater or equal importance than this resolution. The education that is being imparted in India is very meagre and not well-planned. I had in mind to give a good many suggestions on this resolution but for want of time I may be very brief.....

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I should like to point out that the question is not whether such a committee should be appointed or not. A committee though not exactly in the terms but in the spirit of this resolution has already been appointed. Any discussion in supporting the resolution as to whether such a committee should be appointed or not would therefore be out of order. The question this House has now to consider within its proper scope is : whether the constitution of the committee is satisfactory or not, and I think the honourable member has argued on that point.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI (Surat District) : Sir, I wish to move that the consideration of the resolution be adjourned sine die.

[Mr. H. B. Shivdasani]

This matter has been discussed and I am sorry to say that in the course of this whole year we have not been able to consider fully even one resolution. This is a resolution which has been brought forward from the last session and as a committee has already been appointed, it is more like flogging a dead horse and I therefore say that it should be adjourned so that we could discuss at least one more resolution so that we could say that in one year we were able to discuss two private resolutions.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Sir, I beg to oppose the amendment for the very reasons that the honourable member himself has given. I do not see what object there is in postponing this sine die, whatever the meaning of those words "sine die" may be. The best plan would be to dispose of the resolution as there has been sufficient discussion on it. If the honourable member who moved the resolution had been here I should have said that he might withdraw it. That course is not available now and the only course now open to us is to dispose of this resolution after defeating the amendment so as to save the time of the House.

Question put and lost.

Mr. H. V. PATASKAR : I move a closure, Sir.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I accept the closure.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : Sir, if you go through the names of the members who have been appointed on these committees, you will find that those who are experts in the subject of primary and secondary education have been appointed on the committee. There is a limit to the number to be placed on a committee and in view of the expense that will be involved it was necessary to limit the number. Again I really do not find myself in agreement with the honourable members who say that several members of this House should alone form the committee and no one else should be on a committee. If that is so, then.....

MOULVI RAFIUDDIN AHMAD : Nobody said so.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : If that is not so, yet there is a limit which we have to observe in forming any committee. This committee has already been appointed and consists of fourteen members representing various branches of subjects, such as primary education, secondary education and also vocational education and industrial education. Most of the communities are also represented. There are Mahomedan members and there is the member from the Maratha community in the person of the Deputy Director of Agriculture who represents the branch of agriculture as well as the Maratha community, so that selections have been made both with reference to individual proficiency in the subjects and to give representation to the various communities.

With reference to the Physical Training Committee, the Bombay University has been concerning itself and taking very great interest with reference to physical training. Principal Kanitkar has placed before the

[Dewan Bahadur Harilal D. Desai]

University a scheme of physical training in which all the colleges which are located in Poona are to share and as the University has taken that subject in hand and as the honourable member Mr. Munshi is also taking an amount of interest and has sufficient go in him which would enable him, as chairman, to get through the work within a short time, he was appointed as chairman and particularly in view of the great interest he is taking in the matter.

Of the other members, Mr. Bhopatkar has taken great deal of interest in the gymnasium of the Poona city. So also Miss Motiwalla has studied the subject in Norway and Sweden and she is an expert in the subject. Dr. Sumant Mehta has interested himself in the subject and Mr. Puranic also has taken an abiding interest in physical training. I have already stated that I will consider any deficiency which requires to be made up. Under these circumstances no useful purpose will be served by lengthening the discussion and I trust the honourable House will reject the resolution.

Question put and lost.

Mr. V. N. JOG (Dharwar District) : Sir, the resolution I wish to move is as follows :—

“ This Council disapproves of the resolution issued by Government on the report of the Land Revenue Assessment Committee and recommends to His Excellency the Governor in Council that the Bill for the amendment of the provisions of the Bombay Land Revenue Code, 1879, relating to the principles of revising the assessment of land revenue should be drafted in consultation with non-official members of this Council before it is submitted to the Government of India for sanction. ”

It consists of two parts. By the first part I wish that this Council should record its disapproval of the principles of assessment which have been enunciated in Government Resolution No. 1790/24, dated 13th May 1927. By the second part of the resolution I wish that the bill on this subject which is to be introduced should be drafted in consultation with some non-official members of this House instead of being drafted by the Legal Remembrancer alone. In this connection I submit that the principles which have been enunciated in that resolution with regard to the assessment would be rather oppressive and harsh on the overburdened agriculturists of this presidency. The main principles which have been enunciated in the resolution are (1) that the basis of assessment should be the rental value ; (2) with regard to the pitch of assessment it is stated that it should not exceed 50 per cent. of the rental value ; (3) with regard to the period of settlement the previous law is kept intact ; (4) with regard to the rate of revised assessment, no doubt, Government have agreed with the opinion of the committee and have stated that it should not exceed 25 per cent.

There were several other recommendations of the Land Revenue Assessment Committee with regard to the check on the settlement officers, first was in respect of a standing committee. When the settlements were made there was another check laid down by the committee, namely, that if the report on settlement recommended by the settlement officer was not in consonance with the principles laid down by the

[Mr. V. N. Jog]

Advisory Committee that report should not be accepted and that the enhanced assessment should not be given effect to until the Legislative Council has given sanction to it. These two salutary checks upon the arbitrary procedures of the settlement commissioners have not been accepted by Government. In this respect I should like to go into the history why this resolution of Government has come into being.

It has been a standing grievance of this presidency as well as of the others that the land tax is very burdensome—it is excessive. On account of the excessiveness of these taxes the agricultural industry, the premier industry of India, has been suppressed. It has not been progressive on account of the poverty of the agriculturists who are squeezed out to the extent to which they ought not to have been. In this respect it has been stated several times that though the law has laid down certain principles, by the rules arbitrary powers are given to the executive. There are no proper checks and by some arbitrary procedure the rates are increased and several settlements are being effected. There are not also other checks and no clear principles are laid down in the method of arriving at this assessment. But when reforms were being introduced there was a large body of evidence that the law of land assessment should be brought under proper control. Being impressed with this argument the Joint Parliamentary Committee recommended that legislation should be introduced very speedily by which some control should be exercised with regard to several matters concerning land assessment. They laid down certain principles among others which were about 5 or 6. The first is with regard to the basis of assessment; the second is with regard to the method of valuation; the third is the pitch of assessment; the fourth is the period of settlement; and fifth is the revised rate of assessment; and the sixth is, in general terms, the checks on this system which concerns the general welfare of the persons who pay these rates. The matter on which legislation was required, though legislation in this respect is no doubt a difficult one was laid in the year 1919 by the Joint Parliamentary Committee. These recommendations were not acceded to till the year 1924. In the year 1924 my honourable friend Mr. R. G. Pradhan moved a resolution that there should be a committee appointed to go into this question, and to investigate the various points concerning the land revenue assessment and that only after passing a legislation embodying all safeguards revision of land assessment should be proceeded with. He further stated that if any rates were introduced before that, they should not be enforced. This resolution was passed; but it was accepted by Government in a modified form. The Government accepted a certain portion of it and appointed a committee to go into this question. This committee mostly consisted of the members of this House as it was constituted then, and submitted its report, I believe, in the year 1925.

The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU: In the year 1926.

Mr. V. N. JOG: All right, it does not matter. And then the resolution of Government, as I have already said, was issued in last May. Now, I beg to explain to the House briefly what the exact recommendations of the Committee were, what recommendations have been accepted by Government and what recommendations have been rejected. With regard to the basis of assessment, the committee came to the conclusion—no doubt there are divergences of opinion—but if you read their report closely, you will see that they have come to the conclusion, that the basis of assessment should be the net value; i.e., gross profits less all the expenses incurred in deriving those profits: it should be based not upon the rental value, but upon the net value. No doubt the casting vote has set aside this decision, and the committee as a whole has not accepted it finally, but paragraph 39 of the report clearly shows that what the committee wanted was that the basis should be net profits of cultivation, that is gross profits less all the expenses incurred in deriving those profits. In this connection I might remind the House that even the old law, though its words were not quite definite, was to the same effect. Section 107 of the Land Revenue Code says:

[Mr. V. N. Jog]

“In revising assessment of land revenue regard shall be had to the value of land in the case of land used for the purposes of agriculture to the profits of agriculture.”

As they have used the words ‘profits of agriculture’ it can very well be inferred that it is the net profits which a landowner or a cultivator derives that they have in view. The old law as it stood was all right. But Government introduced certain rules to regulate the procedure to arrive at these profits, but those rules introduced certain principles which had no close connection with the question of net profits. Ordinarily, net profit would be gross produce minus the cost of cultivation, such as the value of labour, manure, seed and such other things which are necessary to get that produce. Instead of considering only these things, the settlement commissioners consider several other things when they deal with the question of revision of assessment, which have only some indirect or remote connection with the matter. They consider, for instance, road communications, market price, the prosperity of the village, and all these subsidiary things. Then again section 100 of the Land Revenue Code gives discretion to these officers to increase the rates, and the rates, as I have already said, Mr. President, began to tell very harshly upon the poor agriculturists. Now, when the committee considered this question, they did not lay down what should the highest pitch of assessment with regard to the rental value, but what they had in mind was that the basis of assessment should be some such things as the net profits or the net yield of the land and that it should not exceed 25 per cent. Now, on this point the Government have come to the conclusion that the main basis on which the assessment should be levied is the rental value. They have stated on page 2 of the Resolution:

“After the fullest deliberation Government accept the view of the official members of the committee, which has since received the weighty support of the Indian Taxation Enquiry Committee’s report, that rental value, where it can be ascertained, must be adopted as the sole basis for fixing the assessment, all other considerations being regarded as merely subordinate factors, useful only as explanatory or confirmatory of, or supplementary to the foregoing factor.”

[Mr. V. N. Jog]

Though the non-official view by a majority was in favour of the net produce, Government preferred to discard that view and accept the opinion of the Commissioners and the officers of Government that, rental value must be the basis. In this connection I should like to draw the attention of the House to the fact that the opinion of the non-officials does not stand alone. In certain chapters of the report; the various systems followed in Madras, Burma, etc., are described. In Madras the assessment is based upon the net produce. Burma has adopted a similar system, although the words used are vague; they have said "rental produce." They say:

* * "The basis of assessment should be the balance remaining after deducting from the value of the yield the cost of production, that is, the true and full cost of cultivation including an adequate allowance for all labour expended by the cultivator and his family on the land."

As the time is short, I do not want to go into the opinions which have been given by several authors with regard to this question. I will only quote one opinion for the present. It is Bastable, who in his work on Public Finance says:

"The fairest and most productive land tax is on the whole that which takes the net return as its standard."

Sir, this is the opinion of several authorities, that in the interests of the State as well as of the landowners from whom the State derives its revenue, the basis of assessment should be the net produce. Government say in their resolution that they are fortified by the opinion of the Taxation Enquiry Committee. I am unable to agree with their reading of the opinion of the Taxation Enquiry Committee, although their report may warrant the meaning that Government want to put upon it. The Taxation Enquiry Committee have said that the basis of assessment should be the annual value, and that opinion is also quoted in the report of the Land Revenue Assessment Committee. So, on the first question I submit, Sir, that the basis of the assessment should be the net value or the net yield, whatever the word we use. It is not a question of using the word, because the Government resolution says that all these words are vague, but what I wish this House to do is to lay down the principle that it must be the net value. The question becomes difficult when we come to the method of assessment, and Government wish to say that this method is very difficult as there are uncertain vague factors in calculating all these items, and they want that handy and very commodious principle of rental value. I submit, Sir, that there might be difficulties, and, as my honourable friend the Moulvi Sahib only to-day in the morning has said, difficulties have to be solved. The duty of the Government is not to run away from the difficulties and oppress the already overburdened land owners or peasant proprietors. They have to find out the methods by which these difficulties should be solved. There must be some procedure, and if proper items which are to be deducted in arriving at this net value are arrived at, then in my opinion the difficulty is not insurmountable. With the help of experienced and able officers like our Settlement Commissioner, I think we shall be able to solve many such difficulties.

[Mr. V. N. Jog]

Even now we have got certain experience and data of value in agricultural farms and Dr. Mann, the retiring—I think he must have retired by this time—Director of Agriculture, has shown that by crop experiments they can arrive at certain values of the various items concerned. There might be some mistakes, certain inaccuracies, but on the whole, what we are concerned with is the benefit of the industry, the prosperity of the industry and also the improvement of the condition of the poor agriculturist. On the whole, my opinion is that the basis of the assessment should be the net value. Then, with regard to the question of these rents the rental value is not as correct as it ought to be, there is a fallacy that the rental value would be the safest and most accurate item which will be the guiding factor. In this connection, the fallacy to which I would refer is that Government is, I think, from their resolution under the impression that the lands which are leased out are more numerous than the lands cultivated by the peasant proprietors themselves. But I submit that more than 50 per cent. of the lands are cultivated by the cultivators themselves. During the course of the discussion on the fragmentation of holdings bill we have seen how these owners who have got a strong feeling of attachment to their land cut up several portions of land and cultivate themselves. We have brought a special legislation to see that these lands should not be cultivated in small holdings. There should be consolidated holdings and so on, which goes to show that in the villages, which are more numerous than towns, the lands are cultivated by the poor peasant proprietors themselves. There might be instances of absent landlords and landowners who may take land and lease out their lands. But these are in my opinion not more numerous than the owners themselves cultivating their lands. Then, there is another consideration. We have not got economic rents. When a cultivator takes up the land of another, he never calculates what his gain would be. His sole idea is that he wants some land to cultivate. It is a question of existence with this peasant proprietor or cultivator, and in competition several times, instead of being without work, he raises the rent and is willing to give whatever rent is asked by the landlord. That will not be the correct rent and on the basis of this rent we are going to infer that a land which is cultivated by the peasant himself or the owner himself would bear that rent. I beg to submit, Sir, that principle is wrong. Therefore, on this question I submit that this Council should lay down this principle that it should be the net produce or the net value, which should be taken as the basis of assessments and they should also lay down what principal items are to be deducted in arriving at this, and all this should be made a matter of provision in the law. Though there might be difficulty, that difficulty has to be grappled with. So, I submit that the suggestion which the Government resolution has made to the Legal Remembrancer to draw a draft in accordance with their basis and with their percentage is quite oppressive and it should not be accepted, we should lay down certain other principles which would be borne in mind by the members whom I want to be co-opted in drafting this bill to aid the Legal Remembrancer in drafting the bill.

[Mr. V. N. Jog]

Then, coming to the pitch of the assessment, the assessment committee has said it should be 25 per cent. that it should not exceed 25 per cent., whereas Government say it should be 50 per cent. 50 per cent. is too oppressive.

It is laid down in the resolution that 50 per cent. should be the highest pitch. I submit it should not exceed in the least 25 per cent. I am not even agreeable to the standard which the committee has laid down of 25 per cent. To my mind it will work harshly. I would not go beyond 20 per cent. The committee has said 25 per cent. At present we may go on that basis and amendment at the time of the legislation may be moved.

Then, coming to the period of settlement, the fourth point, this question is also rather difficult. The dissenting opinion in this report is in favour of permanent settlement. That is the opinion also of some witnesses. Some have said it may be 99 ; some have said it may be 50 ; some have said 40. But the law is left as it is in the resolution and also by the committee. Thirty years is adopted. But I submit that on the whole it would have been better if a permanent settlement had been recommended after the inequalities of the rates have been removed. Where there is already a larger tax which a person pays, it might be reduced ; wherever Government think that the proper tax is not being already levied, that is, under-assessed, a slight increase might be made, and when all these things have taken place, if a permanency of tenure is given, it will be in the interests of the agricultural industry and of prosperity of the agricultural population.

Then, coming to the rate of the revised assessment, I submit that the rate recommended even by the committee is rather high. No doubt, Government have concurred with the opinion of the committee and said that 25 per cent. should be the rate for the taluka. Formerly, by the rules there were several rates, 33 per cent., 66 per cent. and 100 per cent. Now, wherever there is a second revision, the resolution says that it should not exceed 25 per cent. I submit, Sir, that this rate is rather too high ; it should not exceed more than 20 per cent. However, if my opinion is accepted, namely, that there should be a permanent settlement, then this question will not arise at all.

Then, with respect to the other recommendations which have not at all been accepted, the first is with regard to the advisory committee. The report suggests that there should be four non-official members of this House elected by the House on the advisory committee. I submit that that recommendation is very salutary as a sort of guide and check to the settlement officer. The committee has given scope to the Government to have two more men, their own experts, to guide the advisory committee, if they think that the non-officials who have been elected by this House are not quite able to cope with this matter. Therefore, two seats have been left open where Government can have their own experts, to guide the committee in giving their advice. Some such sort of check is necessary in the interest of the agriculturists.

[Mr. V. N. Jog]

Then the last recommendation which the committee has made is with respect to the settlements being brought before the Legislative Council for final sanction. I think that is quite necessary. After all, the subjects are to be taxed, and whenever there are the settlement reports on the strength of which the whole of the presidency is to be taxed, I think it must be with the vote of this Council. Then only would there be certain responsibility introduced in the matter of taxation, and I submit very strongly that this recommendation must be brought into the statute and laid down by a separate section.

(At this stage the bell was rung to indicate that the honourable member's time was up).

Mr. V. N. JOG : I have only a few words to say with regard to the second part of my resolution. The second part of my resolution is with reference to the co-option of members in drafting the bill, in order that there should be an easy passage for the legislation. Such legislation laying down clear principles of assessment we want very badly. The people have been crying that the principles of assessment should be brought under closer regulation. If the Legal Remembrancer alone drafts the bill, embodying the principles enunciated by the Government resolution, it will be very difficult. The people would not accept it, and we, as the representatives of the people, would not accept it. The result will be that there will be no legislation, and settlements will go on as they have been going on so far. I submit, Sir, if the bill is drafted in consultation with the non-official members, introducing the several principles which have been laid down by the committee in this report and indicated by me in my speech then the passage of the bill would be very smooth, and the most desired thing which has been long overdue would be achieved.

With these words, I commend the resolution for the acceptance of the House.

Question proposed.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : There are several amendments to the resolution, and the first on the list is by the honourable member Mr. Ginwalla.

Rao Bahadur R. R. KALE (Satara District) : Sir, I want to move a motion under Standing Order IV, 4. Having regard to the important nature of this resolution and its far reaching effects, and having regard to the very short time at the disposal of this House, I would suggest that the consideration of this resolution should be carried over to the next session under Standing Order IV, 4. In support of this motion. I wish to make a few observations. There are several amendments which have to be taken into account, and again some of the honourable members on this side have left, and it would be really premature to discuss this resolution in their absence. For these reasons, I do hope that the Council will carry my suggestion.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : The motion moved is :

"That the consideration of the resolution be postponed till the next session."

Question put and carried.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT: The consideration of the resolution is postponed to the next session.

Dr. M. K. DIXIT (Surat City): Sir, I rise to move the resolution that stands in my name in the agenda. It is :

“ This Council is of opinion that the rules regarding the use of text-books in recognised schools in the Bombay Presidency have been found unsatisfactory and recommends that Government be pleased to modify them on the following lines :—

(1) Headmasters should be allowed full discretion in the selection and use of text-books, library and prize books in their schools, the Educational Department having a veto, which should be exercised on moral and political grounds and should state the objections against any book in detail.

(2) As regards the suitability of a book from the 'educational point of view, the Department should have the power of recommendation only.”

(3) That the headmasters of recognised schools should not be required to make a declaration, in their annual return to the Department, to the effect that they use only sanctioned books.”

Sir, in support of this, I would say that Government control the educational system of our country in several ways, and of these there are some which interfere with the national growth of our country. And of those that interfere with the national growth, the system of sanctioning text books is one of the most important. If the system of sanctioning text books is modified or adopted on the lines of the resolution that I have moved it will be very useful in the interests of education in our country. We would like to have text books which introduce illustrations of Indian life, Indian customs, Indian culture and the Indian heroes. These will appeal more in India, than those which will speak of mountain ranges of Alps in preference to the Himalayas, the Nile in preference to the holy Ganges or the Brahmaputra. All these would be doing an immense amount of good to the children of this country. The choice of books plays a very important part in the development of reasoning power and of character of the children. In the first place if these text books were written in a systematic and rational way, then they will be very useful in developing the character of the boys. They will be useful to the teachers also. In fact the system of selecting text books should be left in the hands of the head masters, that is, they should enjoy greater freedom in the selection of text books. There are various ways in which the Education Department at present controls the selection of text books. I do not like to go into details as the time at my disposal is very short, hardly ten minutes. I would suggest that if this system were adhered to it would prejudicially affect the political interests of the country, the educational interests of the children and the economic interests of the publishers in this country. All these are prejudicially affected at present as we have no control over the selection of text books. I will not, as I said, go into details, but I submit, Sir, that the present system of sanctioning text books should be modified and the mutual censorship on the education of boys and girls of this country should cease. I will merely put this resolution to the acceptance of the House, as the time at my disposal is over.

Question proposed.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN (Ahmedabad District): I move that under standing Order IV, 4 (1) the consideration of this resolution moved by my honourable friend Dr. Dixit be adjourned to the next session.

[Mr. J. C. Swaminarayan]

Question proposed.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : I find, Sir, that honourable members on this side of the House do not desire to support the motion moved by my honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan. Sir, I do not know what really the object of the motion is because there are only a few minutes left before we adjourn. The natural consequence of the motion that has been moved by my honourable friend Dr. Dixit and the discussion that is likely to follow is that the whole of this resolution will automatically go on to the next session.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : It would be considered as talked out unless the Honourable the Leader of the House relies upon any rule for the statement he makes.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : My recollection is that on a previous occasion a resolution remained unfinished and it was continued in the next session. I cannot quote chapter and verse at the moment but I think the resolution was about primary education.

Mr. H. B. SHIVDASANI : That was also adjourned by a separate motion.

Mr. J. C. SWAMINARAYAN : Further discussion is not allowed under the rules and standing orders.

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : I may inform the Honourable the Leader of the House that unless he relies upon any rule the question will be considered as talked out.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : Then, Sir, as this is your ruling that the resolution, unless it is decided upon to-day, gets talked out, supposing Mr. Swaminarayan's motion is thrown out, what will be the consequence ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : If there is time, I will allow discussion and when the time is up I will ring the bell and the discussion will stop.

The Honourable Sir CHUNILAL MEHTA : It goes out in any case then ?

The Honourable the PRESIDENT : Yes.

The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI : I oppose the motion of my honourable friend Mr. Swaminarayan.

APPENDIX I

BILL No. III OF 1927

(A Bill to provide for the establishment and the better regulation of Cotton Markets in the Bombay Presidency)

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE

We the undersigned members* of the select committee appointed to consider Bill No. III of 1927 a Bill to provide for the establishment and the better regulation of Cotton Markets in the Bombay Presidency, have the honour to submit the following report :—

1. We have carefully considered the provisions of the bill and have made the following charges in it :—

(1) We have decided to exclude the town of Karachi from the operation of the Act and have made the necessary changes in the preamble and in clause 2 of the bill.

(2) We have decided unanimously that cotton waste should not be included in the definition of cotton given in clause 3 (i) of the bill.

(3) We consider it desirable that the Act should contain a definition of the words "grower of cotton" in view of the fact that by clause 5 of the bill growers of cotton are given the right to elect not less than half the members of the market committee. We have, therefore, inserted the necessary definition in clause 3 (ii) so as to provide that dealers and brokers of cotton who happen also to be growers of cotton will not be treated as growers of cotton for the purposes of clause 5 of the bill.

(4) We are of opinion that it is not necessary to constitute divisional cotton committees merely for the purpose of advising or recommending to Government that cotton markets should be established. In our opinion this function can be more adequately performed by the district local boards. We have, therefore, deleted clauses 3 (iii) and 6 (v) of the bill, and have amended clause 4 by substituting "the district local board" for "the divisional cotton committee." We consider that a cotton market should be established only upon representations made by the local boards and have made the necessary change in clause 4.

(5) We think it necessary that there should be on each market committee a representative of the district local board of the area in which the market is situated, in addition to a representative of the municipality if the market happens to be in a municipal area. Clause 5 has been amended accordingly.

(6) We consider it desirable that provision should be made by rules for the preparation and revision of lists of voters and for the payment

* Note.—The signatures of Messrs. Jairamdas Doulatram, A. Duguid, W. S. Mukadam and Rao Saheb D. P. Desai will be notified when received.

[Appendix 1—contd.]

of expenditure in connection with elections. We think that the expenses of the elections should come from the market committee fund. The necessary amendments have been made in clauses 6 (2) (i) and 12 (iv).

(7) We have made it clear that, wherever penalties are provided for offences under the Act or rules thereunder, they can be inflicted only on conviction by a magistrate. The necessary changes have been made in clauses 6 (3), 7 and 17.

(8) We have amended clause 12 so as to provide that the market committee fund shall be expended only for the four purposes mentioned in the clause.

(9) We have added an explanation to clause 16 to make it clear that sale by an individual of his own cotton, outside the market, will not constitute the setting up of a market within the meaning of the Act.

2. We recommend that this report, together with the minutes of dissent, if any, and the bill as amended, should be translated into Marathi, Gujarati, Kanarese and Urdu, and should be published with the translations in the Bombay Government Gazette. It should be also translated into Sindhi and the translation published in the Sind Official Gazette.

(Joint Minute of Dissent by the Honourable Mr. G. B. Pradhan, LL.B., M.L.C., Mr. Balak Ram, I.C.S., M.L.C., Mr. J. W. Smyth, I.C.S., M.L.C.)

Clause 4 of the Bill as originally drafted was so worded that Government would take the initiative also, if they so chose by consulting the Divisional Cotton Committee about the desirability of declaring any particular place as a cotton market. The select committee has deleted the words "after consulting, etc.," and has substituted the district local board in place of the Divisional Cotton Committee. We have no quarrel about the substitution of the district local board for the Divisional Cotton Committee, but we do think it desirable that there should be the power of initiation in the Government also. Suppose for instance that a Local Authority like a city municipality desires that their place should be declared a cotton market,—and it must be remembered that there are many municipalities in the cotton producing districts where large markets of cotton exist,—and for some reason or other the district local board does not choose to make a representation, then the Government must be able to take the initiative. Oftentimes owing to negligence or various other causes the district local board may not take the initiative by making a representation; then according to the new clause nothing can be done. We do not mean to argue that Government would be prepared to force cotton markets where they are not wanted; but it is absolutely necessary that Government should possess the power of starting inquiries with a view to see if it is desirable that a particular place should be declared a cotton market or not.

We would, therefore, propose that there should be the following amendment to clause 4:

After the words "The Local Government may" and before the words "upon a representation, etc.," add the following words:—

"After consulting the district local board and such other Local Authorities as they deem necessary or."

(Minute of Dissent by Rao Bahadur S. T. Kambli, M.L.C.)

The power to make a recommendation to Government for establishing a cotton market in any area in a district is given by the Select Committee solely to the District Local Board of that area. I disagree with this view. The municipalities within the area of a district are important local bodies and their views in such an important matter are worth obtaining and ought to be obtained and considered. These important local bodies are entirely ignored by the amended provisions of clause 4 of the bill. This neglect of these important local bodies is likely to lead to a friction and to a bitterness of feeling which ought to be avoided in the best interests of the Presidency.

[Appendix 1—contd.]

My view is that the initiative of making a recommendation should be vested in a joint body consisting of the members of the District Local Boards and of the members of the municipalities of the district concerned. Such a joint body should be constituted for the purposes of this Act and the function of such a body should be to make recommendations to Government for establishing cotton markets under the Act if and when they think fit and proper to do so. My sole object is that the municipalities and District Local Boards should always act in sympathy and not in opposition to each other.

The municipal towns in the cotton growing areas in this Presidency, especially in the Karnatak, have hitherto played an important part, and they will hereafter continue to play an important part, in the growth and development of cotton trade in this Presidency. Hence it is quite necessary that in such an important matter as the establishment of cotton markets under this Act, the municipalities and the District Local Boards should act in concert. On no account would it be prudential if the municipalities were to be excluded out of consideration in such a vital matter. To avoid friction and to arrive at a sound conclusion on such a vital and complicated subject, viz., the establishment of a cotton market under this Act, a joint body or board consisting of the members of the District Local Board and of the members of the municipalities in the district should be set up and this newly constituted board or body representing both rural and urban interests should be empowered to make recommendations to the Government under clause 4 of the Bill.

I desire to add a proviso to clause 16 of the Bill to the following effect, viz. :— “ Provided that towns or cities which have hitherto enjoyed the right or privilege of holding cotton markets within their respective areas should not be deprived of their right or privilege to continue to hold such markets. ”

In the different parts of the Presidency there are various towns or cities especially in the Karnatak which have been holding cotton markets from a pretty long period of time. Several people have invested large sums of money in erecting pressing and ginning factories within the limits of these cities. There will be found many people who have invested large sums of money in erecting godowns and warehouses in these towns for providing special facilities for the storing of cotton in case the grower of cotton thought it necessary not to sell his cotton at once or on the day when his cotton was brought into market in the expectation of getting a better price for his cotton at a future date. These and other considerations of a similar nature incline me to desire the addition of a proviso of the nature mentioned above to clause 16 of the Bill.

(Minute of Dissent by Major W. Ellis Jones, M.L.C.)

The intention of the Select Committee was to provide that a person who trades in cotton but who is also a cotton grower shall not be treated as a cotton grower for the purposes of clause 5 of the Bill. The addition to clause 3 should read “ a grower of cotton shall not include a dealer or broker in cotton although such a person may grow cotton. If a question arises whether any person is a grower of cotton or not for the purposes of this Act, the decision of the Collector shall be final. ”

The majority of the committee assumed that Divisional Cotton Committees were now to be created for the first time merely for the purposes of this Act. The contrary is the case as Divisional Cotton Committees have been established in the Presidency since 1922 and advise Government on cotton policy. Hence they are the bodies which naturally would be called on to advise Government in this and similar matters.

Clause 3 (iii) and clause 6 (v) merely give these committees legal recognition for the purposes of the Bill.

There is no objection to a provision in the Bill that district local boards shall be consulted but to entirely omit all reference to Divisional Cotton Committees, and to leave the initiative entirely to district local boards is to ignore the wider cotton interests and to jeopardise the success of the Act. In my opinion clause 3 (iii) should be retained and clause 4 (i) should read “ The Local Government may, upon a representation made by either the Divisional Cotton Committee or the District Local Board, by notification in the Bombay Government Gazette, declare that any place shall be a cotton market established under this Act. ”

(Minute of Dissent by Mr. R. S. Asavale, M.L.C.)

I regret to have to differ from some of my colleagues in the standpoint from which they view or examine this all important and vital question of establishment and the better regulation of cotton markets in the Bombay Presidency.

As the present Bill III of 1927 is for the benefit of the growers of cotton and indirectly the cotton trade to get better prices, fairer weightments and to prevent illegal deductions, I would suggest that the growers of cotton should have the right to elect not less than two-third members of the Market Committee and that the expenses for the preparation and revision of lists of voters and for the payment of expenditure in connection with elections should be borne by the Government.

(Minute of Dissent by Mr. V. N. Jog, M.L.C.)

1. I do not agree that the district local board should be the only body that can call for the establishment of a market, and I oppose strongly the view that no markets could be established unless upon a representation made by the district local board.

2. The application of such a useful measure as the establishment of open cotton markets should not be left to the sole initiation of the district local board. The district local boards as they are at present constituted are new bodies, and have been found in several cases rather slow in initiation and action. Their duties are multifarious and already burdensome, and it is doubtful whether they will keenly interest themselves in this question. I think it highly desirable that it should be open to Government who in this particular case is the Governor acting with the advice of a popular Minister, to take the initiative in consultation with important interests concerned, in the establishment of open and regulated cotton markets. The good results hoped for and anticipated by the Bill will be tardy and take a long time to materialise if the initiative be left exclusively to the district local boards.

3. Another point which I wish to emphasise is the district local boards are not the only bodies which are interested in the establishment of open regulated cotton markets. No doubt they are bodies consisting mainly of the representatives of the landowners and cultivators and are interested in saying whether they want such a market or not. It is not necessarily and often that a person who is interested and takes a real interest in the growers is elected on the boards. There are several instances in the local boards where doctors, lawyers, merchants and commission agents who have influence in the districts and talukas are returned as the representatives of the landowners and growers. The object of the bill is to secure proper and adequate price and full and true weight for the cotton sold by the cultivator, who in addition is to be freed from the many illegal and unlawful deductions to which he is subjected. Many other associations and bodies have come into being mainly with a view to improve the economic condition of the rural masses, e.g., co-operative societies, taluka development and agricultural associations. I therefore think that the district local boards with their multifarious functions are not the only repositories of the interests of the agriculturists.

4. Further the object of the bill is to encourage the cultivator to grow good cotton of unmixed quality and to bring his produce in unadulterated condition to the open markets so that the person who consumes his produce may get his money's worth and help him to better his economic condition by offering him adequate price. The present position as amended altogether ignores the other interests concerned in the matters. The consumers, many of whom live in towns and cities and the dealers should in fairness be consulted in the matter. What kind of markets we can have if they are not situated in the towns and cities? Most of the cotton markets which are unregulated at present are in the cities and towns. Many of the municipalities have assigned particular sites for such markets and have granted in long leased spaces for godowns, office buildings, etc., for the conveniences of buyers and sellers. What is wanted in such places is the regulation and control to remove the many ills that are complained of. To avoid friction between rural and urban areas a mixed body composed of various interests will be necessary to be consulted before the market is declared to be open.

[Appendix 1—contd.]

5. Of course I think that the area of the cotton market is limited to a few miles. The markets would be more than one in a single district. Considered from this point of view also, the district local board would not be the proper body to say what particular places shall be markets.

6. I would even consent to a division committee as a consulting body if its constitution would be determined by the Act and not left to the rules.

7. I am of opinion that the limit of punishments to be awarded for breaches of market laws, rules, etc., is pitched too high. The maximum punishment should not exceed two hundred rupees.

8. The explanation to clause 16 requires a slight change so as to ensure that within the limits of the markets no new place is used for practical purposes as a market by indirect means, taking advantage of this explanation.

The intention of the Select Committee was to provide that a person who trades in cotton but who is also a cotton grower shall not be treated as a cotton grower for the purposes of clause 5 of the Bill. The addition to clause 3 should read—

“a grower of cotton shall not include a dealer or broker in cotton although such a person may grow cotton. If a question arises whether any person is a grower of cotton or not for the purposes of this Act, the decision of the Collector shall be final.”

(Minute of Dissent by Mr. H. V. Pataskar, M.L.C.)

I am of opinion that ginned cotton should not also be included in the definition of cotton given in clause 3 (i) of the Bill. The Bill is intended to protect growers of cotton from being fraudulently dealt with by merchants dealing in cotton. The class of cotton growers who needs such protection are those who sell unginned cotton. Ginned cotton is generally sold either by petty traders or those rich and influential cotton growers who are not in such a position as to allow themselves to be fraudulently dealt with by merchants dealing in cotton in open markets. They need no special protection and are well able to take care of their own interests. It is not desirable that the right of individuals to sell their commodities in any way they like, and to any persons they like and at any place they like should be unnecessarily interfered with by the State. I therefore urge that ginned cotton should be excluded from the definition of “cotton” in clause 3 (i) of the Bill.

[Appendix 1—contd.]

I agree to the proposal that there should be a definition of a "grower of cotton," but the definition suggested is to my mind not appropriate. The definition proposed lays down that "A grower of cotton shall not include a dealer or broker in cotton." A broker must in any case be excluded from the category of a grower of cotton. A habitual dealer must also be excluded. But the proposed definition is so worded as to exclude a bona fide grower of cotton who had even once in his life-time purchased cotton for some extraneous reason. There is a large class of cotton growers at least in the district of East Khandesh who occasionally lend money to other growers of cotton and in turn have to purchase on occasions cotton from them towards the satisfaction of their debts. They are not professional dealers in cotton and are mainly growers of cotton. They ought not to be excluded from the class of cotton growers. To my mind the definition should be "A grower of cotton shall not include a habitual dealer in cotton or a broker in cotton."

In clause 3 (iii) of the Bill the constitution of Divisional Cotton Committee was laid down. It had made provision for representation of the interests of dealers in cotton on that committee. By deleting this clause altogether and giving the functions of that committee to the district local boards, there has been left no provision for even the eliciting of opinions of the dealers in cotton before the establishment of a market in any particular area.

There is again another point on which I differ about the proposed amendment in clause 4. The existing cotton markets are mostly established in places situated in municipal areas and outside the jurisdiction of District Local Boards. The Act is intended mainly for regulating such markets and it is therefore of utmost importance that the municipalities concerned should also be consulted before the establishment of any markets in municipal area. Not only that, but if an existing market situated in a municipal area is likely to be affected by the establishment of a market under the proposed Act at a place near that area but outside its jurisdiction the municipality in whose area there is an existing market should be consulted. I am of opinion therefore that in clause 4 as proposed at present after the words "The District Local Board" the words "and after consulting such local bodies as are likely to be affected by the establishment of markets under this Act" should be inserted.

Clause 16 of the Bill should in my opinion be omitted altogether. If the new regulated markets are beneficial to the growers of cotton they will naturally go to those markets only for selling their cotton, and freedom should be left to any grower of cotton who would prefer other private markets even when the new regulated market is there. The setting up of a private market need not therefore be penalised.

The explanation proposed to be added to clause 6 is also faulty. The explanation prevents a man from selling his own cotton to any one he likes within the limits prescribed for the cotton market, but outside the market itself. A man must be left free to sell his cotton to any one even within the limits of the new proposed market.

As I am opposed to the retention of clause 16, I am also of opinion that clause 17 which has been necessitated by clause 16 should also be omitted.

(Minute of Dissent by Rao Saheb D. R. Patil, M.L.C.)

In my opinion representation given to cotton growers in the composition of the cotton market committee contemplated by clause 5 is inadequate and it ought to be increased to two-thirds as the Bill principally aims at safeguarding the interests of the cotton growers.

So far as explanation to clause 16 goes I think a cotton grower should be allowed the liberty of selling his cotton at his doors even if his house happens to be within the limits of the cotton market, as it is just possible that the village of a cotton grower may come within the limits of the cotton market. To avoid such a contingency it is necessary to substitute the words "at his doors" for the words "outside the limits of the cotton market" appearing in the last line of the explanation.

(Minute of Dissent by Rao Bahadur Bhimbhai R. Naik, M.L.C.)

In my opinion the funds of the market committee will not be adequate to meet the election expenses of the election of the members of the market committee and I propose therefore that such expenses should at least, for the first five years, be borne by Government.

(2) When a market committee has been superseded, all members of the committee shall, as from the date of the order, vacate their offices as members.

(3) When a market committee has been superseded, all property and rights vested in it shall, subject to all charges and liabilities affecting the same, vest in Government.

[Appendix 1—contd.]

Provided that if no new market committee is constituted for the cotton market under section 5, all property that shall remain after the satisfaction of all the debts and liabilities of the superseded market committee shall vest in the local authority of the area in which the cotton market is situated for the purpose of any object of public utility in the said area.

16. No private market to be opened in or near places declared to be cotton markets.—Wherever the local Government has, by a notification under section 4, declared any place to be a cotton market, no person shall, within the area of such cotton market or within a distance thereof to be notified in the Bombay Government Gazette in this behalf in each case by the local Government, except with the sanction in writing of the local Government expressed over the signature of a Secretary to Government and subject to such conditions as may be imposed in such sanction, set up, establish or continue or allow to be continued any market for the purpose of the purchase and sale of cotton.

Explanation.—A person shall not be deemed to set up, establish or continue or allow to be continued a place as a market for the purpose of the purchase and sale of cotton if he sells his own cotton outside the limits of the cotton market.

17. Penalties.—Whoever in contravention of this Act, sets up, establishes, continues or allows to be continued any market for the purpose of the purchase and sale of cotton, or violates the conditions under which he has been allowed to set up, establish or continue, any such market, shall on conviction by a magistrate be punished with fine which may extend to Rs. 500, and, in case of a continuing breach of the provisions of section 16, with fine which may extend to Rs. 100 for each day after the first during which the breach continues.

18. Offences to be triable only by First Class Magistrates.—No offence under this Act or under any rule made under section 6 shall be triable by a magistrate other than a magistrate of the first class.

BILL No. XXI OF 1927

(A Bill to amend the law relating to the University of Bombay)

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE

We, the undersigned members* of the Select Committee appointed to consider Bill No. XXI of 1927 (an Act to amend the law relating to * Note.—The signatures of Messrs. J. B. Petit, Noor Mahomed, Jairamdas Doulatram, R. G. Pradhan, Dr. M. D. Gilder and Dr. B. R. Ambedkar will be notified when received.

[Appendix 2—contd.]

the University of Bombay), have the honour to submit the following report :—

2. We have carefully considered the Bill and have made several changes in it.

3. We have amended clause 2, so as to give Government the power of fixing by notification in the Gazette the date on which the new Act should come into force.

4. We have amended the definition of “ teacher ” in clause 3 (h), so as to leave it to the Senate to decide by a statute who are to be treated as teachers for the purposes of the Act.

5. We have, after careful consideration, decided that it is desirable to retain the provisions for the appointment of a Rector if at any time the creation of such a post appears necessary. We think that the appointment should be made by a majority of at least three-fourths of the whole number of Fellows. The necessary amendment has been made in clause 12.

6. As suggested by the Government of India, we have inserted a new clause 5 providing that the Governor General shall be the Visitor of the University and defining his powers. The clause which we have inserted is based on section 8 of the Andhra University Act (Madras Act II of 1926).

7. As suggested by the Government of India, we have deleted clause 7, sub-clause (5), which provided for the school-leaving examination board. In consequence of this amendment, original clauses 24 and 31-(2) (k) become unnecessary and have been deleted. We have provided for a board of post-graduate studies.

8. We have made a formal amendment in clause 8 deleting sub-clauses (a), (b) and (c). As the three posts of Chancellor, Vice-Chancellor and Rector are mentioned under the heading of ex-officio Fellows in clause 13, it is unnecessary to mention them specifically here.

9. We have amended clause 11, so as to make it clear that the Vice-Chancellor shall be responsible for the proper administration of the University and shall when present preside at the meetings of the Syndicate and exercise, in addition to the powers specifically conferred on him, such other powers as may be conferred on him by this Act and by the Statutes, Ordinances and Regulations.

10. We have considered the question whether it is necessary to provide for the appointment of a Pro-Vice-Chancellor and have decided that it is not necessary.

11. We have made the following amendments in the constitution of the Senate as laid down in clause 13 :—

(a) We have transferred the Registrar of the University to the class of ex-officio Fellows mentioned in class (I) A.

(b) We have amended B (vi) and provided that only the Secretary to the Government of Bombay, Public Works Department, shall be an ex-officio Fellow as it is possible that the two posts of Chief Engineer and Secretary to Government, Public Works Department, which are at present held by the same officer may in the future be held by two different officers.

[Appendix 2—contd.]

(c) In B (vii) we have provided that the Vice-Chancellors of only such other Universities as are established by law shall be ex-officio Fellows.

(d) We consider it undesirable that the principals of all colleges which are permitted to send up candidates for degree examinations should be ex-officio Fellows. In our opinion, only a certain number of the principals elected by themselves should be on the Senate. We have therefore removed them from the class of ex-officio Fellows and transferred them to II-A under the class of Ordinary Fellows. We have provided 13 seats for them and, in order to ensure that the various territorial divisions of the Presidency and also the various kinds of colleges should be adequately represented, we have provided that out of the eight seats allotted by us to principals of Arts colleges, at least one should be held by a principal of a college in each group in the Presidency and that colleges teaching pure science, medicine, agriculture, engineering and law should each have one seat for each type of college.

(e) We have increased the number of seats allotted to University teachers from 5 to 10.

(f) We have provided that the elections by the principals, by University teachers, teachers and by head masters shall be from among themselves.

(g) We have further provided that the five seats allotted to head masters should be distributed, one being allotted to each of the five groups.

(h) The groups have been arranged on the basis of the present educational divisions of the Presidency, and power has been given to the Senate to decide to which groups the schools and colleges in Indian States should be attached. The substitution of these groups for the Revenue Divisions involves the giving of two more seats to the municipalities and local boards. The members elected by the municipalities and local boards need not, in our opinion, necessarily be from among themselves.

(i) We have considered the question whether it is desirable to prescribe some educational qualification for the representatives of the municipalities and local boards and have decided that no such qualification should be prescribed.

(j) We have decided that one seat should be assigned to the Bombay Millowners' Association and one to the Ahmedabad Millowners' Association.

(k) We think it desirable that of the five representatives allotted to the Legislative Council of the Governor of Bombay, one should necessarily be the representative of the University on the Council if he is not already a member of the Senate. We have made the necessary amendment in II-A-vii.

12. We have made a small amendment in clause 15 (2) excepting Life Fellows from the operation of that clause.

13. We have amended clause 17 so as to provide that the recommendation of the Senate for cancelling the appointment or election of any Fellow should be supported by at least two-thirds of the whole number of the Fellows of the University. We have deleted the provision in this clause which made a person whose appointment or election had been cancelled ineligible for re-appointment or re-election.

14. We have made the following amendments in clause 18 :—

(a) Slight verbal amendments have been made in sub-clauses (1) and (2) (b).

(b) We have deleted the existing sub-clause (e) and have transferred this power to the Syndicate under clause 21 (q). We have inserted a new sub-clause (e) giving the Senate the power to make provision for the physical and military training of students.

(c) We have deleted sub-clause (h) as we consider that this power should be given to the Syndicate and have given the power to the Syndicate under clause 21 (p).

15. We have amended clause 19 (3) to make the assigning of a Fellow to a Faculty optional.

We have also amended clause 19 (5).

16. The following amendments have been made in clause 20 :—

(a) We have provided that the Vice-Chancellor must be in the Syndicate.

(b) We think it desirable that the seven persons to be elected by the Faculties should be elected not by the Faculties themselves but by the Academic Council from among themselves, each Faculty being represented by at least one member. We have amended sub-clause (1) (d) accordingly.

We have amended sub-clause (1) (e) so as to provide that nine persons shall be elected by the Senate from among the Fellows who are neither Principals, University Professors, University Teachers, Teachers nor Head Masters.

(c) We have inserted a new sub-clause (2) providing that members of the Syndicate must be Fellows of the University and should hold office for three years.

17. We have made the following amendments in clause 21 :—

(a) The proviso in sub-clause (b) governs other clauses besides (b). We have therefore relegated it to the end of the clause.

(b) We have amended sub-clause (c) so as to give the Syndicate the power to deal with all regulations framed by the Academic Council and not merely the regulations laying down courses of study.

[Appendix 2—contd.]

(c) We have amended sub-clause (f) so as to provide that appointments shall be made on the recommendation of a committee of selection where such a recommendation is required by the Act or Statutes.

(d) We have amended sub-clause (h) so as to give to the Syndicate the power to issue instructions for maintaining the efficiency of colleges and to take action against them in case such instructions are disregarded.

(e) We have inserted a new sub-clause (i) giving the Syndicate the power to require reports, returns and other information from the colleges.

(f) We have deleted sub-clause (l) which gave the Syndicate power to appoint the Board of Post-Graduate Studies, as we have provided for such a Board in clause 7.

(g) We have inserted two sub-clauses (m) and (n) giving the Syndicate power to provide for buildings, furniture, apparatus, etc., needed for carrying on the work of the University and the power to enter into, vary, carry out and cancel contracts on behalf of the University.

(h) We have transferred to the Syndicate (in sub-clauses (p) and (q) of clause 21) the powers mentioned in sub-clauses (e) and (h) of clause 18.

18. In clause 22 we have provided that, so long as there is no Rector, the Vice-Chancellor shall be a member of the Academic Council. We have amended sub-clauses (iii), (v) and (vi).

19. We consider it desirable that the Academic Council should have the power to elect its own Chairman, and have amended clause 24 (I) accordingly.

We have made some verbal amendments in sub-clause (2) (b) of clause 24 and have inserted two new sub-clauses (j) and (k).

20. Clause 24 of the original Bill has been deleted as suggested by the Government of India. We have inserted a new clause 25 providing for the constitution and functions of the Board of Post-Graduate Studies.

21. We consider that a Committee of Selection is necessary to advise the Syndicate as regards appointments of whole-time University Professors or University Teachers and have inserted a new clause 28 to provide for such a committee.

22. We do not consider it desirable that the consent of the Vice-Chancellor should be necessary for the conferring of honorary degrees, and have amended clause 30 accordingly.

23. We think it necessary that before any person's degree, diploma, license, title or mark of honour is cancelled, he should be given an opportunity to explain. We also think that such cancellation should only be made by a decision of not less than two-thirds of the total number of the Fellows of the Senate. We have made the necessary amendments in clause 31.

[Appendix 2—contd.]

24. We have inserted two new sub-clauses in clause 31 providing for the restoration on good cause shown of any degree, diploma, license, title or mark of honour which may have been cancelled.

25. We have deleted from clause 32 (1) the words “ under the direction and regulation of the Government of Bombay.”

26. The following amendments have been made in clause 33 :—

(a) We consider that the functions of the Faculties should be determined by the Syndicate, not by the Senate, and have amended clause (g) accordingly.

(b) The original sub-clause (k) has been deleted as provision for the School-Leaving Examination Board has been deleted. We have inserted a new sub-clause (k) providing for the holding and control of the Matriculation Examination.

(c) We have deleted sub-clauses (n), (p), (q), (r), (t), (u) and the latter portion of (o) (renumbered as (n)) from this clause as we consider that these powers should be given to the Syndicate. We have also deleted sub-clause (s) as we consider that this power should be transferred to the Academic Council.

We have deleted sub-clause (v).

27. We have deleted sub-clause (1) of clause 34 and have inserted a new clause 44 (1) making provision for the contingencies referred to in the original clauses 32 (1) and 42 (1).

28. The following amendments have been made in clause 35 :—

(a) In sub-clause (e) we have substituted the Matriculation Examination for the School-Leaving Examination.

(b) We have amended sub-clause (g).

(c) We have inserted new sub-clauses (l) and (u) and have amended the proviso.

(d) We have made small verbal amendments in sub-clause (2).

29. The following amendments have been made in clause 36 :—

(a) We have added some words to sub-clause (1) to make it clear that the regulations of the Academic Council must be submitted to the Syndicate for approval and have made some consequential and verbal changes in sub-clause (2).

(b) We have added a new sub-clause (3) providing for cases in which the Academic Council and the Syndicate may not be able to agree.

30. We have made a slight verbal amendment in clause 38.

31. We have amended sub-clauses (2) and (3) of clause 39, leaving the decision as regards the affiliation of colleges to the Senate instead of to Government. A consequential amendment has been made in sub-clause (3).

32. We have made a slight verbal amendment in clause 42 (1).

33. We have amended clause 47 so as to save the existing jurisdiction of the High Court.

[Appendix 2—contd.]

34. We have made some verbal alterations in clause 48 and have re-drafted clause 49.

35. We recommend that this Report, together with the minutes of dissent if any, and the Bill as amended should be published in English in the Bombay Government Gazette. We do not consider it necessary to translate them into any vernacular language.

(Joint Minute of Dissent by Mr. H. Hamill, M.L.C., Mr. Balak Ram, I.C.S., M.L.C., and Mr. C. W. A., Turner, I.C.S., M.L.C.)

We dissent from the following decisions of the Select Committee :

(1) Paragraph 5.—The majority demanded by this paragraph virtually makes it impossible for the University to create the office. We think that a majority of 2/3rds of the Fellows present at a meeting of the Senate should be enough to authorise the University to create the office of Rector. The appointment of the individual should, as in the case of a University Professor, be left to the Syndicate. This body should be compelled by the Act when appointing a Rector to follow a procedure similar to that laid down for the appointment of University Professors.

[Appendix 2—contd.]

(2) Paragraphs 9 and 16. —We think that these amended clauses 10* and 19* of the Bill will require to be modified to provide for the position of the Rector on the Syndicate. If a Rector is appointed he ought to preside over the Syndicate, and the Vice-Chancellor in consequence ought not then to be a member of the Syndicate.

(3) Paragraph 11 (d).—We consider it essential that every affiliated full grade College should be represented on the Senate and that the proper representative of a College is the Principal. We therefore suggest that the original provision of the Bill in this respect be restored.

(4) Paragraph 16 (b), last sub-paragraph.— We think it unwise to prevent the Senate from electing to the Syndicate Principals of Colleges if it desires to do so. We therefore think that the word "Principals" be deleted from the amended clause 19 (1) (e) of the Bill.

(5) Paragraphs 18 and 19.—We consider that the Rector, if any, should be ex-officio Chairman of the Academic Council, and that till a Rector is appointed the Vice-Chancellor should perform this duty. Clause 23 of the Bill should be amended accordingly.

(6) Paragraph 31.—We think that the power of affiliation should remain with Government as at present and that clause 37, sub-clauses (2), (3) and (4) of the Bill should remain as in the original draft. We also think that clause 37 (1) (h) should be restored.

(Minute of Dissent by Mr. J. C. Swaminarayan, M.L.C.)

The discussions in the Select Committee were conducted in a great hurry and in many cases popular amendments were thrown out only by the casting vote of the Chairman. Hence it follows that those proposals did not emanate only from the extremist members of the Committee. Almost half the Committee endorsed some of the important proposals and, had it not been for the Chairman exercising his right of vote twice, they would have been carried.

The proposal that the Vice-Chancellor should be elected from among the Fellows was supported by ten members of the Select Committee and it was thrown out by the casting vote of the Chairman. The Rector, against whom there is a good deal of opposition in the public and the Press, remained only by the casting vote of the Chairman. I am strongly of opinion that under the present circumstances it is absolutely unnecessary to saddle the University with a salaried officer costing 36,000 rupees per annum. When the post-graduate departments increase in number and the necessity of a permanent officer arises, it would be very easy to make a small amendment in the Act at that time. It is simply futile to keep the provision on the Act at present and give temptation of canvassing as soon as the Act is passed. Though the Select Committee has provided that a majority of at least three-fourths of the whole number of Fellows will be necessary for the creation of the post of a Rector, the section should not be allowed to stand even in that form. In that form, the section will preclude the creation of the post of a Rector almost for all time to come. Even if the amended section is allowed to stand, it will be necessary to amend it further when the necessity of a Rector really arises. So at present the section for the creation of the post of a Rector must be thrown out altogether. These important matters of the election of the Vice-Chancellor and the deletion of the provision for the creation of the post of a Rector will have to be fought out on the floor of the House at the time of the second reading and amendments to that effect will have to be tabled.

Coming to the constitution, I have to say that though the Select Committee has kept up the large number of nominated Fellows originally provided in the Act, it is necessary to reduce that number. Nominated element should not be more than twenty per cent. and the number of nominated Fellows should not be more than thirty. Again, while city municipalities and district local boards have been given the right of franchise, town municipalities have been left out altogether. If instead of the city municipalities we mention the word "municipalities" only, all the municipalities, whether city or town, will be included and the difficulty will be removed without increasing the number of Fellows.

The powers of affiliation and disaffiliation must be vested in the Senate and the provisions about reference to Government and final decision vesting in Government must be removed. The decision of the Select Committee is inconsistent. The power of affiliation is given to the Senate but in the case of disaffiliation, Government-approval is retained. This defect, I hope, will be removed at the time of the second reading. At the same time, no additional powers should be given to the Syndicate about curtailment of affiliation or disaffiliation but those important matters must remain solely in the hands of the Senate.

(2) The Collector shall also report the minimum size of a profitable cultivable plot of jirait and bagait land, respectively, and of a combination of jirait and bagait land in the area, and any other prescribed particulars.

32. Particulars of the notification declaring that a scheme shall be prepared.—The notification mentioned in section 27 shall contain the following particulars:—

(a) the consent of the necessary majority of holders required by section 31,

(b) the area to be consolidated,

(c) the minimum size of holdings of the different classes of land to be included in the consolidation scheme,

(d) the time within which the consolidation scheme shall be completed.

33. Consolidation officer to be assisted by three persons from the village.—(1) On the issue of a notification under section 27 the Governor in Council shall appoint some officer to be consolidation officer for the purpose of the consolidation scheme.

[Appendix 3—contd.]

(2) The consolidation officer on proceeding to the village or area in question shall take the assistance of three persons from the village or area of whom one shall be the revenue patel of the village and the others shall be members of the Sanitary Committee or of the Village Panchayat, if any, or if there is no Sanitary Committee or Village Panchayat, shall be appointed by the Collector.

34. Consolidation officer to consult persons summoned to assist him.—The consolidation officer shall, in the proceedings under this Act, so far as may be, consult these three persons, but shall not be bound by their opinions.

35. Duties of consolidation officer.—The consolidation officer shall—

(a) make a plan of the area in respect of which it is proposed to make a consolidation scheme showing all existing sub-divisions by survey numbers, pot numbers and sub-divisions,

(b) draw up a list of all holders in the area showing :—

(i) the separate holders of plots,

(ii) the joint holders of plots,

(iii) the persons having any other interest in or charge on the land affected, such as claims to maintenance, leases other than annual, mortgages, incorporeal and any other subsisting rights.

36. Publication of plan and list and notices to holders and all persons interested.—The plan and list so made shall be published in the village, at the taluka town, and at the district headquarters, together with a general notice inviting claims and objections and separate notice shall, so far as possible, also be served on all persons believed to be interested in the land affected. The notices shall specify the time within which all claims and objections will be received by the consolidation officer.

37. Consolidation officer to inquire into all claims and objections made to him.—On the expiry of the period specified in the notices under section 36 the consolidation officer shall hold a formal inquiry and shall hear and decide all claims and objections made to him

38. All subsisting rights to be valued by consolidation officer.—When all the claims and objections, if any, made to the consolidation officer have been finally determined by him, he shall proceed to value the rights of all persons who have been found to have an interest in the land affected as holders or mortgagees, or for maintenance, or a charge or any other interest.

39. Matters to be considered by the consolidation officer.—In making such a valuation, the consolidation officer shall take into consideration—

(i) the market value of the land at the date of publication of the notification under section 27,

(ii) the value of any trees or buildings on the land,

(iii) the damage likely to be sustained by any person by reason of severance of any land from other land,

(iv) the value of the remaining portion of any lease for more than a year,

[Appendix 3—contd.]

- (v) the amount due on any mortgage of the land,
- (vi) the capitalized value of any charge for maintenance, or any other interest in the land.

40. Agreement to be specified in the valuation.—Where there are several persons interested in such valuation and they agree to the apportionment of the land proposed by the consolidation officer the agreement shall be specified in the valuation and shall be final and conclusive and binding on all persons. Such agreement shall be reduced to writing, read and explained to the parties and signed or otherwise authenticated by the consolidation officer and all the persons interested.

41. Tribunal of Arbitration.—If there is any dispute as to the apportionment of land, the consolidation officer shall refer the dispute to the President of the Tribunal of Arbitration for the decision of such Tribunal.

42. Composition of Tribunal.—The Tribunal of Arbitration shall consist of a President and two assessors. The President shall be the District Judge, one assessor shall be a person having no interest in the land of the village and appointed by the District Judge. The other assessor shall be the consolidation officer.

43. Removal of assessors.—The Governor in Council may, if he thinks fit, remove for inability or misconduct or any other good and sufficient reason the assessor appointed under section 42 or the consolidation officer.

44. Place where Tribunal may sit.—The Tribunal of Arbitration may sit either at the headquarters of the President or at any other place, within the local limits of his jurisdiction, which he may consider convenient for the decision of any matter before such Tribunal.

45. Right to appear by recognised agent.—Every party to any proceeding before the Tribunal of Arbitration shall be entitled to appear either in person or by his recognised agent.

46. Powers of President.—All questions of law and procedure shall be decided by the President. All other questions shall be decided by the President and the two assessors or by the majority of them.

47. Powers of Tribunal.—The Tribunal of Arbitration may accept, modify, vary or reject the proposals of the consolidation officer.

48. Decision of Tribunal to be final.—Every decision of the Tribunal of Arbitration shall be final and conclusive and binding on all persons.

49. Tribunal not a court.—Nothing contained in this Act shall be deemed to constitute the Tribunal of Arbitration to be a court.

50. Remuneration of non-official Assessor, and payment of incidental expenses of Tribunal.—(1) The non-official assessor appointed under section 42 shall be entitled to such remuneration as may be fixed by the Collector from time to time subject to the approval of the Governor in Council.

(2) The remuneration payable to the non-official assessor and all expenses incidental to the working of the consolidation scheme and the redistribution scheme shall, unless the Governor in Council, otherwise determines, be payable by the persons who have benefited by the redistribution of the holdings in such manner as the consolidation officer shall determine. Such sums shall be recoverable as arrears of land revenue.

51. Valuation by consolidation officer to be final.—The consolidation officer's valuation of all rights involved in a consolidation scheme shall be final and conclusive and binding on all persons.

52. List of persons interested and value of their interest to be published.—When the valuation of all the rights affected by a consolidation scheme has been finally determined, a list of the persons having an interest in the land affected and the value of such interest shall be posted in the village chavdi, and notice of such interest and its value shall be sent to each such person.

53. Area affected to be divided into plots not less than standard unit.—The consolidation officer shall then frame a redistribution scheme in respect of such area containing proposals for the division of the area being dealt with into plots, none of which shall be less in extent than the standard unit, and each of which shall contain as far as possible a due proportion of jirait and bagait land. The redistribution shall be made in such a manner that the new holdings shall, so far as may be, conform to the previous holdings.

54. And to provide for maximum convenience for cultivation of such plots.—The redistribution scheme shall provide for roads, tanks, rights of way, water-courses and such other conveniences in such a way as to ensure that the reconstituted plots shall be cultivable to the greatest advantage.

55. Assessments to be transferred from the old holdings to new.—When the redistribution has been completed, the Superintendent of Land Records shall determine the area and assessment of each reconstituted plot by summing the assessment of all the pieces of land which compose it. The classification and description of the land (as rice, garden or dry crops) shall not be changed :

Provided that if by the redistribution any land loses irrigation water or any other advantage for which a special rate has been levied, and that advantage is transferred to any other plot of land, the Superintendent of Land Records shall have power to reduce or enhance the respective rates. He shall also have power to class and assess under the rules for the time being in force in this behalf any land given up from roads or any other public purposes to cultivation and to remit the assessment on any land transferred from cultivation to roads or any other public purposes.

56. Settlement guarantee.—The settlement guarantee shall not be affected by such re-assessments.

57. Alienated land not to be included.—Alienated land shall always be separately demarcated and shall not be included in any consolidation scheme.

58. Total valuation of reconstituted plots.—The reconstituted plots shall then be revalued in such a way as to provide for the values of all the rights which have been determined and valued under the foregoing provisions and posted under section 52 and so that the total value shall equal the total sum due under that section.

59. Right of any holder to elect for compensation instead of new holding.—Any person willing to receive compensation instead of reconstituted land shall be allowed to do so, if this is possible under the redistribution scheme.

60. Disposal of plots not wanted by holders or persons interested.—If any original holder or person interested is not willing to take any reconstituted plot under the redistribution such plot may be allotted for its valuation under section 58 to any other person willing to take it.

61. Adjustment of interests of new holders.—Persons who have been allotted new holdings in the redistribution shall have the values of their old holdings set against their new ones and shall be debited or credited in the scheme, as the case may be, with the difference in value between the two.

62. Credit of value of holdings.—Persons who were original holders and who have got no new holdings in the redistribution shall be credited in the scheme with the value of their old holdings.

63. Debit of value of holdings.—Persons who were not original holders and to whom plots have been allotted under the redistribution shall be debited with the value of the plots allotted to them.

64. Other claims how to be adjusted.—When all the allotments of reconstituted plots have been made and the sums due or owed on them have been fixed the scheme shall deal with the remaining interests involved.

65. Interests on plots.—When persons liable for such an interest have obtained plots on allotment the value of the interest shall be placed as a charge on such plots.

66. Interests paid off.—When such persons have not obtained plots in the redistribution the interest shall be paid off from the sums allotted to them in the valuation.

67. Provisions for payments under the scheme.—The scheme may provide that any charges placed on the land may be defrayed by a loan under the Land Improvement Loans Act, 1883, the amount of which shall then form a first charge on the land, or that they shall be defrayed by annual instalments which, if in arrear, shall be recoverable as an arrear of land revenue or the holders may themselves pay off any such sums.

68. Submission to Government for sanction.—When the scheme has been completed it shall be submitted to the Governor in Council for sanction through the Collector and the Commissioner, and, if the Governor in Council is satisfied that the scheme will be for the benefit of the area, and that all claims and interests have been provided for, he may sanction the scheme.

69. Government sanction.—If the Governor in Council sanctions the scheme, a notification shall issue, publishing it in the Bombay Government Gazette and at the District and Taluka headquarters and in the village.

[Appendix 3—contd.]

70. Contents of notification.—The notification shall state the date from which the scheme is to come into effect and the result of its coming into effect.

71. Legal effect of publication of notification.—On the publication of the sanction of the Governor in Council to the scheme the whole of the redistributed area shall be deemed to vest in Government as if it had been acquired under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, and until it is I of 1894 re-allotted.

72. Issue of sanads by Collector.—The Collector shall then grant to each of the holders of the new plots a sanad in the prescribed form with a map showing the area and boundaries, and the obligations which are attached to the plots, and the assessment or other charges upon the land.

73. Holders to be put into possession.—The Collector shall then on such date as may have been notified for this purpose place the holders in possession of the plots allotted to them under the scheme.

74. Concessions in order to assist consolidation.—In any case in which consolidation of holdings has been or is being effected in accordance with the provisions of this Act—

(b) half the assessment on the consolidated area shall be remitted for three years ;

(c) tagai may be granted if the object of the grant of the tagai is to carry out any of the purposes of this part.

75. Bar of legal proceedings.—No suit or other legal proceeding shall be maintained in respect of the exercise of any discretion conferred by this Act or against any public servant or person duly appointed or authorized under this Act in respect of anything in good faith done or purporting to be done under the provisions thereof or the rules made thereunder.

76. Rules.—(1) The Governor in Council may make rules consistent with the provisions of this Act to carry out the purposes and objects of this Act.

(2) In particular, and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may prescribe—

(a) the selection of members of the District Local Board for the Committee to be appointed under section 4 and the filling up of vacancies in their number ;

(b) the manner in which the notice referred to in section 6 shall be published ;

(c) the manner in which the standard units prescribed by the Commissioner under section 8 shall be published ;

(d) the manner in which the valuation made by the Collector of the shares of persons not provided with land at the partition shall be distributed among those provided with land under sub-section (1) of section 21 ;

[Appendix 3—contd.]

(e) the manner in which scattered fragments of an estate shall be auctioned under sub-section (3) of section 21 ;

(f) the particulars to be reported by the Collector under sub-section (2) of section 31 ;

(g) the procedure to be followed by the consolidation officer ;

(h) the procedure to be followed by a Tribunal of Arbitration under this Act ;

(i) the procedure to be followed generally in carrying out the provisions and objects of this Act ;

(j) the form in which sanads shall be granted by the Collector under section 72 ;

(k) any other matter required to be done under or in furtherance of the provisions of this Act for which provision is, in the opinion of the Governor in Council, necessary.

(3) The making of rules under this section shall be subject to the condition of previous publication.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The subject of the excessive sub-division and fragmentation of agricultural holdings has engaged the attention of Government for a number of years. The evils resulting from these processes may be briefly stated as follows :—

(a) they impede cultivation and cause a waste of time ;

(b) they prevent permanent improvements to land being undertaken, as it is impossible to use labour-saving implements or even iron ploughs on land which is broken up into scattered pieces ;

(c) they preclude the proper organization of labour and capital and cause a waste of a large amount of arable land in boundaries ;

(d) they prevent a cultivator from living on his farm, result in second crops not being grown when they can be, in some cases send the land out of cultivation altogether, cause enmity amongst neighbours leading to quarrels and litigation, and, generally speaking, produce an uneconomic situation. The excessive sub-division of land in certain areas of the Presidency has gone so far as to amount to a serious hindrance to cultivation resulting in a general diminution of their crop outturn. In the interests of cultivation, therefore, it is necessary now to take measures to check the evil.

2. The object of this Bill is to remedy these evils so far as it is possible to do so. This it is proposed to do in three ways—

(1) by prohibiting all future sub-divisions of land into plots which are agriculturally uneconomic ; (2) by ensuring that all transfers of land shall henceforth be towards the consolidation of holdings instead of in the direction of their fragmentation ; and (3) by setting up machinery which will, where necessary, redistribute into plots that can be cultivated at a profit holdings which have become so fragmented as to be no longer worth cultivating.

3. The Bill, which deals only with agricultural land, consists of two parts, which though distinct and separate, are connected to this extent that they deal with the same subject, namely, the sub-division and fragmentation of holdings. The first part consists of proposals to prevent further sub-division and fragmentation. In order to protect existing rights, as far as possible, separate provisions have been made for existing fragmented holdings and new fragmented holdings. So far as the existing fragmented holdings are concerned, it is not proposed to interfere with transactions relating to them (with the exception of leases) otherwise than by the right of pre-emption given by clause 12. As for leases, the lease of any fragmented holding, whether new or old, to any person other than the occupant or the lessee of a contiguous plot, is prohibited. The only distinction between an old and a new fragmented holding in the matter of cultivation is that while an old fragmented holding can be cultivated by its occupant the cultivation of a new fragmented holding even by the occupant himself (except as provided in clause 19) is prohibited. It will be seen that it is the cultivation and not the ownership of fragments which leads to unprofitable cultivation and that the cultivation, at any rate, of fragments which are brought into existence hereafter must be prevented if an enactment of this nature is to be at all effective.

The scheme may be briefly outlined as follows :—

(1) In districts or areas to which Government shall extend the provisions of the Act standard units will be selected by the committee appointed under clause 4, having regard to the character of the crops in the particular area.

(2) After standard units have been fixed for any area any person who desires to transfer his land which is less in size than the standard unit (otherwise than by lease or mortgage without possession) shall give the first right of refusal of it to the owners of the adjoining lands, and it is only when no neighbour has notified his desire to exercise such right that the owner can sell his land to any other person. Under clause 14 a suit may be instituted by a neighbour to enforce such right of pre-emption. In the case of new fragmented holdings which may come into existence after the passing of the Act the owner is debarred from transferring his plot except to the occupant, or, in the case of a lease, to the lessee or owner of a contiguous holding, and a transfer not so made is void. Under clause 19 the cultivation of a new fragmented holding is prohibited unless such holding is combined with a contiguous plot or plots so that the total area so cultivated shall be equal to or exceed the standard unit.

(3) Sections 117A and 117B of the Bombay Land Revenue Code shall be amended, so as to prevent the sub-division of land by the Courts by the partitioning off of portions below the standard unit.

(4) Tagai may be granted and stamp and registration fees may be remitted with the object of furthering the purposes of the Act.

(5) The Courts and Revenue Officers shall not recognize a partition involving the separation of land of less size than the standard unit.

4. The second part of the Bill is a consolidating measure, the object being to consolidate scattered and fragmented holdings in certain selected and specified villages. Considerable areas have been consolidated in Germany, France, Italy, Austria and other European countries.

[Appendix 3—contd.]

Consolidation has also been carried out in the Punjab by the Registrar of Co-operative Societies, with the help of the Societies, and without recourse to legislation. Similar attempts in this Presidency have not been successful. The method must be very slow.

A Consolidation Act has also already been placed on the Statute Book by the Government of His Highness the Gaikwar of Baroda.

The provisions of the Bill will not apply to inam lands because of the inherent rights attaching to such lands.

The second part of the Bill is largely based on the Bombay Town Planning Act, 1915. In particular a Tribunal of Arbitration based on the Town Planning Act will be instituted for the villages or areas in question. The provisions, however, are not so intricate as in the case of the Bombay Town Planning Act, as consolidation will be effected in rural areas only. There are also provisions for the grant of tagai and for other special concessions, in order to encourage consolidation. The provisions of the Bill do not apply to Sind.

Notes on Clauses

Clause 3.—In framing the definition of “local area” it is assumed that standard units may be determined by the Commissioner either for the district as a whole, or for a part or parts thereof, according as local conditions may require. Any area in a district for which standard units have been so determined will be a “local area” for the purposes of the Act.

Clause 4.—Provision for the duration of office of members of the District Local Board, the vacation of office by them on their ceasing to be members of the District Local Board, the removal of any such member, the manner in which the selection should be made and the vacancies should be filled up, the conduct of the business of the Committee and other matters incidental or ancillary thereto will be made by rules made under clause 76 (2) (a).

Clauses 10 to 15.—These clauses provide that after a plot of land has been entered as a fragmented holding in the Record of Rights and notice of such entry has been given to the occupant, the owner shall, if he desires to transfer the land by sale, exchange, mortgage or otherwise, first offer it to his neighbours and that it is only when none of his neighbours is willing to take it that he shall be entitled to transfer it to any other person. In the case of a lease, the land shall be leased either to the occupant or to the lessee of a contiguous plot. Any transfer of such a plot made in contravention of these provisions is void.

These clauses apply to plots of land of less size than the standard unit which are in existence when the Act comes into force. Separate provision is made for plots of land of less size than the standard unit which come into existence after the Act comes into force. (Vide clauses 16 to 19.)

Clauses 16 to 19.—These clauses aim at stopping the creation of new plots of land of less size than the standard unit after the Act comes into force. Any transfer of a plot of land which has been entered in the Record of Rights as a new fragmented holding (whether by sale, exchange, mortgage or otherwise) except to the occupant, or, in the case of a lease, to the lessee or owner of a contiguous holding, is prohibited and, if made, shall be void. Nor shall a new fragmented holding be cultivated unless it is combined with a contiguous plot so that the total area so cultivated shall be equal to or exceed the standard unit. Thus while the creation of new fragmented holdings by sub-division of land will be stopped by the restrictions on the transfer of such holdings the restrictions on the cultivation of such holdings will, it is hoped, tend to bring into existence plots of land which can be cultivated at a profit.

Clause 20.—As the transfer of fragmented holdings in contravention of the Act is void it is necessary to leave open to the transferees of holdings so transferred such remedies as may be open to them under the law for any consideration which they may have paid for the transfer.

Clause 21.—This clause provides that in partitioning an estate paying land revenue to Government the Collector shall so divide the estate as not to leave any fragmented holding or to create any new fragmented holding.

Clause 24 prescribes the further procedure to be observed in sub-dividing the land.

Clauses 27 to 40.—The remedies proposed in Part I are intended to prevent future fragmentations and to eliminate the fragmentations already effected, but these will obviously operate very slowly in eradicating the evil and it would appear that a more radical remedy is called for if the evil is to be effectively checked in time. It evidently must be similar to the operation now well known as “town planning” in urban areas. The idea is to demarcate an area in which fragmentation has proceeded very far and to remodel it into holdings which are of a size which can be profitably cultivated and to return the remodelled plots, as far as possible, to the original owners, compensating with cash payments those who will get no land in the consolidated area by reason of their original holdings being too small to entitle them to a new plot, unless, they are prepared to make up the deficiency by buying a new plot.

Clauses 41 to 72.—When the proper valuation of all rights and interests has been finally determined by the Consolidation Officer or by the Tribunal of Arbitration, a list in accordance with the decisions shall be drawn up and published. This will form the basis of the ultimate settlement when a redistribution scheme for the area has been sanctioned.

The scheme will be so framed as to form as many workable economic plots out of the entire area as may be possible and to provide roads and other amenities so that the plots, as redistributed, can be cultivated to the greatest advantage. The old assessments will then be imposed on the new holdings but not in such a way as to increase the amount of land revenue to be paid and the classification of the land will similarly not be changed. Nor will the settlement guarantee be affected. The redistributed area will then be regranted so far as possible to the original holders of the plots which have been reconstituted. The interests of all concerned will then be adjusted on the basis of the valuation which was made by the Consolidation Officer by money payments, such payments being effected where necessary by instalments or by means of advances by Government in the shape of tagai loans on easy terms.

The redistribution scheme, when completed, will be submitted to the Governor in Council for sanction and, if sanctioned by him, will be published. The Collector will then grant a sanad to each holder of the new plots with a map showing the area and boundaries and the obligations which are attached to the plots and the assessment or other charges on the land. The Collector will then place the holders in possession of the plots allotted to them under the scheme on the date notified in this behalf.

APPENDIX 4

STATEMENT OF DEMAND FOR A SUPPLEMENTARY GRANT

RESERVED 8. The Honourable Sir Cowasji Jehangir

Additional funds required for the Back Bay Scheme

In the current year's budget the voted provision under "59, Bombay Development Scheme" is Rs. 44,81,738 or Rs. 44,82,000. Of this Rs. 23,27,000 is for works and repairs and maintenance of Back Bay Scheme, including the provision for payment of customs duty on imported stores. Owing to the causes specified below, the expenditure during the year on works and repairs and maintenance of the Back Bay Scheme is likely to be in excess of the budget provision by Rs. 9.21 lakhs :—

	Amount of excess Rs. (Lakhs)
(1) A liability of Rs. 1.53 lakhs on account of the expenditure incurred on re-conditioning the dredger "jinga" remained unpaid last year and consequently the budget provision made for it last year lapsed. In addition there was an excess of Rs. 2.98 lakhs on the original estimate for re-conditioning which was not taken into account when the budget estimates for the current year were framed. These two items make up the total liability of Rs. 4.51 lakhs to be met this year. This dredger is required for completing the reclamation of block No. 1 of the Back Bay Scheme, provision for which has been voted by the Council at its last budget session .. .. .	4.51
(2) Excess on the original estimate for the dry filling of block No. 8. It was estimated, when the budget for the current year was framed, that this work would cost Rs. 9.15 lakhs, but the sanctioned estimate for the year actually amounts to Rs. 11.58 lakhs. The original provision of Rs. 9.15 lakhs is included in the item of Rs. 21.37 lakhs for dredging and filling which was voted by the Council at its last Budget Session .. .. .	2.43
(3) Dry filling of block No. 1 by trains. This work was not contemplated when the budget for 1927-28 was framed, but has since been found to be desirable .. .. .	1.28

[Appendix 4—contd.]

	Amount of excess
	Rs. (Lakhs)
(4) The provision of Rs. 1·18 lakhs voted by the Council for storm-water drains is found to be insufficient, as efforts are now being made to speed up the work in storm-water drain No. 6. This involves an extra expenditure of Rs. 25,000. Some new petty works in connection with the storm-water drains in blocks Nos. 7 and 8 which were not foreseen when the budget estimates for the current year were framed, are also now found to be necessary in view of the heavy monsoon conditions; the estimated expenditure this year on these unforeseen work amounts to Rs. 9,000 Total .. ..	·34
(5) The provision of Rs. 37,095 voted by the Council for repairs and maintenance is likely to be exceeded by Rs. 18,000 .. ..	·18
(6) Miscellaneous petty works not foreseen when the budget estimates for this year were framed, but are now found to be necessary. These works arise only out of the items of works in the scheme for which the Council had voted provision before .. ..	·47
	<hr/> 9·21

It will be seen from the details given above, that the excesses are solely on account of the items of works for which the Council had in its previous Sessions, voted budget provisions or for small unforeseen works arising out of such items of work; there is nothing in these excesses pertaining to any entirely new works for which the Council has not voted any provision. Against this total anticipated excess of Rs. 9·21 lakhs on works and repairs and maintenance in the Back Bay Scheme, there are the following anticipated savings aggregating Rs. 3·16 lakhs, on the budget provision for other items under "59, Bombay Development Scheme"—

	Amount of savings
	Rs. (Lakhs)
(1) Anticipated savings from the budget provision for land acquisition for the Back Bay and Suburban Schemes .. ..	1·56
(2) Anticipated savings from the budget provision for works and repairs and maintenance in Suburban Schemes .. ..	·90
(3) Anticipated savings from the budget provision under "B-Establishments" .. ..	·50

[Appendix 4—contd.]

	Amount of savings Rs. (Lakhs)
(4) Amount utilised for unforeseen small works in Back Bay Scheme from the provision of Rs. 75,000 for reserve with Government for unforeseen works .. .. .	20
	3.16

Therefore a supplementary grant of Rs. (9.21 lakhs total anticipated excess in Back Bay Scheme — 3.16 lakhs total savings in other items =) 6.05 is required. In addition a provision of Rs. 40,000 is necessary to meet the charge on account of premia on the insurance policies of the three dredgers "Colaba," "Kalu" and "Jinga." Thus the total supplementary grant required this year under "59-Bombay Development Scheme" is Rs. 6,45,000.

A statement giving an abstract of the budget provisions under "59, Bombay Development Scheme" as passed by the Council and the revised estimate now proposed, showing how the supplementary grant of Rs. 6.45 lakhs is arrived at is appended.

Against this supplementary demand may be set, for forecast purposes, a saving of Rs. 3.78 lakhs on the expenditure for January-March 1927 which was shown in Forecast A submitted to the Council during the last budget session.

Demand voted and now increased
59, Bombay Development Scheme,
Rs. 44,82,000 + Rs. 6,45,000.

Purchase of anti-rinderpest serum, Sind Veterinary Department

A provision of Rs. 6,000 has been made in the current year's budget for the purchase of sera for the Civil Veterinary Department in Sind. Owing to widespread outbreaks of rinderpest and other cattle diseases in the Nawabshah, Larkana and Sukkur districts, large quantities of sera had to be used and the expenditure at the end of April 1927 amounted to Rs. 5,950. The Superintendent therefore applied for a further grant of Rs. 4,000 for expenditure during the rest of the year. As the grant was urgently required, Government have sanctioned it in anticipation of the sanction of the Legislative Council and propose to meet it by re-appropriation from the reserve at the disposal of the Finance Department.

Additional grant for refunds under "7-Stamps"

By the Indian Finance Act of 1927 the Stamp duty of one anna in respect of cheques and drafts was abolished with effect from 1st July 1927. In consequence of this enactment the full refund of the value of the stamps already embossed on cheque and draft forms now in possession of Banks and firms in Bombay and Karachi cities has to be allowed. This contingency could not be anticipated when the current year's budget was framed, and the provision on account of refunds was based on the average of the past actuals. The amount provided was consequently exhausted by the end of August last. In order to enable the Superintendents of Stamps to pay up the outstanding claims and to meet the abnormal demand during the remaining portion of the current financial year an additional grant of Rs. 1,11,500 has been sanctioned for the Stamp Depôts, Bombay and Karachi. The sanction of the Legislative Council was anticipated as the matter was urgent. The Legislative Council is now requested to sanction the expenditure from the Reserve.

The Government Distillery at Nasik is a commercial undertaking of the Excise Department. All transactions regarding the distillery are therefore accounted for according to the general principles laid down for Government commercial undertakings. Last year the Legislative Council passed the demand for a supplementary grant of Rs. 1,56,975 for the construction of a mhowra godown (Rs. 1,26,394) and for the provision of increased spirit storage accommodation (Rs. 30,581). These works could not be completed during that year and the balance required for completing them during the current year has been provided under the head 41-Civil Works. According to the account procedure, however, provision for carrying out such works should be made under 6, Excise—Investments in Government Commercial Undertakings. The formal sanction of the Legislative Council is therefore requested to an additional grant of Rs. 31,166 under the head referred to for completing the two works, as shown below :—

Expenditure on Famine Relief

In the course of the current financial year, applications have been received by Government for the allotment of funds for famine expenditure for which no provision was made in this year's budget. As the money was urgently required sums aggregating Rs. 1,80,507 have been allotted by Government and the sanction of the Legislative Council is requested to the transfer of this amount from "43-B, Transfers to Famine Insurance Fund" to "43-A, Famine Relief." The details of the expenditure are as follows :—

	Rs.
(1) Measures for the relief of distress in the Poona District .. .. .	30,000

Owing to the failure of the late rains the rabi crops in the eastern part of the district, which is mainly a rabi tract, have failed almost everywhere, except in Indapur Taluka and a part of Purandhar Taluka. It was necessary to start relief measures in this tract in the shape of doles to inferior village servants, bonuses to low paid patils and gratuitous relief to infirm persons remaining behind in the affected villages. A sum of Rs. 30,000 was therefore placed at the disposal of the Collector. Out of this allotment, the following expenditure was incurred up to 31st August 1927 :—

	Rs.	a.	p.
(a) Special Relief Establishment (2 Relief Head Karkuns, 3 Circle Inspectors and 5 peons) ..	1,071	2	0
(b) Bonus to Patils .. .. .	1,711	15	0
(c) Dole to inferior village servants .. .. .	6,533	2	6
(d) Dole to infirms .. .. .	4,864	5	1
Total ..	14,180	8	10
Balance ..	15,819	7	2

The balance that will remain after any additional expenditure that may be incurred will lapse to Government.

(2) Grant of extra remuneration to village officers and servants in the Dharwar District .. .. .	Rs. 3,300
---	-----------

The Legislative Council sanctioned at the last session a grant of Rs. 3,300 for extra remuneration to village officers and inferior village servants in the Bijapur District, where there was scarcity last season. Subsequently it was reported to Government that it was necessary to give similar relief in certain talukas of the Dharwar District adjoining the Bijapur District where conditions were similar. Gratuitous relief was necessary for 287 inferior village servants in 113 villages at the rate of Rs. 2-4-0 per head per month for five months, and Government allotted a sum of Rs. 3,300 for this purpose.

(3) Expenditure in connection with the storage of grass fodder at Palghar, Godhra and Dohad ..	Rs. 1,47,207
---	--------------

[Appendix 8—contd.]

Government entered into contracts with the Bombay and Mofussil Grass Trading Company for the storage of grass as a precautionary measure against famine at (1) Nawapur, Chinchpada and Khandbara and (2) Palghar, Dohad and Godhra. The necessary provision was made in the budget estimates under 43-A-Famine Relief. The first contract, viz., that for Nawapur, Chinchpada and Khandbara, has been cancelled and the contractors have been paid Rs. 50,000 as part compensation for the termination of their contract, with the approval of this Council. Government subsequently considered whether the contract for storage at Palghar, Dohad and Godhra should not be similarly cancelled and in the meanwhile no provision was made in this year's estimates for the continuance of the storage operations at these three places. It has now been decided that the contract should be continued till it is due to expire in March 1930, and a sum of Rs. 1,46,500 is accordingly required to finance operations during the current year.

A sum of Rs. 250 is also required to pay the accountants appointed by Government to examine the accounts of the contractors in connection with the cancellation of the Nawapur, Chinchpada and Khandbara contract.

In addition to these amounts, a sum of Rs. 457-3-9 is required on account of the payment of law charges in connection with an appeal preferred in the High Court by certain individuals under the Land Acquisition Act to determine the amount of compensation to be awarded by the Land Acquisition Officer in connection with the acquisition of certain land in the Panch Mahals District for the storage of famine fodder.

Construction of a bandhara at Hated in the West Khandesh Division

The Satpudas contain almost inexhaustible supplies of grass but access to them is difficult on account of the absence of drinking water for men and cattle. For the improvement of water-supply in these grazing areas, Government have approved the construction of a bandhara at Hated in the Shirpur Range of the West Khandesh Division. A provision of Rs. 9,595 has been made for this work as shown below :—

Rs. 4,800 under “ 43-A—Famine Relief.”

Rs. 4,795 under “ 52-A—Capital Outlay on Forests.”

It is estimated that an expenditure of Rs. 4,800 will be incurred on it during the current year. As the work is to be executed through the agency of the Public Works Department, the expenditure is debitable to that Department under “ 41, Civil Works—Provincial.” As the money was urgently required, an amount of Rs. 4,800 was allotted by Government and the sanction of the Legislative Council is requested to the additional grant of this amount under the latter head. The corresponding grant voted under the head “ 43-A—Famine Relief ” will not be expended.

RESERVED 6. The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU.Expenditure on Famine Relief Works in the Southern Division

In February 1927 the Commissioner, Southern Division, after reviewing the agricultural situation in the Eastern portion of the Division, made certain suggestions for an expansion of the Public Works Department programme for 1927-28 with a view to meeting any demand for employment which might arise out of the partial failure of the rabi crops. The area affected was the whole of the Bijapur District and the Eastern portions of Belgaum and Dharwar. The Commissioner therefore proposed that the following works should be undertaken as soon after 1st April 1927 as practicable :—

Name of work	Amount of estimate	Expenditure likely to be incurred in view of scarcity during the current year	Remarks
	Rs.	Rs.
1. Completing the gap in the Pala-Badami Road between Hirehal (Dharwar District) and the Malaprabha river at Tolachgud (Bijapur District).	36,280	5,000	The Commissioner, Southern Division, and the Superintending Engineer, Southern Circle, are of opinion that it is a very useful work. When it is completed and a causeway is constructed at Tolachgud later on, the road will be a first class through fair weather route connecting the Eastern parts of Dharwar and Bijapur Districts.
2. Building a causeway over the Benihalla at Navalgund (Dharwar Division) to carry the Annigeri-Bijapur Road.	44,769	8,000	A causeway carrying this road over the Malaprabha river at Govankop has been completed. The addition of the proposed causeway will establish through communication between Gadag and Hubli with Bijapur and the Northern part of the Belgaum District.
3. Resurfacing miles 49-51 of Nipani-Chikodi-Mudhol Road at Gurlapur up to Mudhol State limits.	8,000	3,970	Owing to inadequate repair grant due to the financial stringency this road is not in good order and especially miles 49-51 have greatly deteriorated. These miles were metalled in 1909-10 and again resurfaced with murum in 1917-18. The resurfacing proposed is very necessary.

Appendix 10—contd.]

Name of work	Amount of estimate	Expenditure likely to be incurred in view of scarcity during the current year	Remarks
	Rs.	Rs.
4. Completing or repairing about eight miles (25 to 33) of Gotur-Tasgaon Road.	43,000	15,000	This is a direct fair weather road from Belgaum to Bijapur, Miraj and Tasgaon in Satara District and is in good condition throughout except for the portion eight miles in length. That portion is a cart track of the worst description and is liable to flooding from the Krishna river and the proposed improvement is necessary.
5. Repairing the section from Huvin Hippargi to Talikot, about thirteen miles of the Bagewadi-Talikot Road.	17,600	10,000	This is the main line of communication between Bijapur and the Nizam's Dominions and Talikot itself is a place of some commercial importance. The proposed works are therefore necessary.
6. Constructing a causeway near Talikot over the Don river.	43,326	1,000
		42,970

The proposal for the commencement of these works was agreed to by the Superintending Engineer, Southern Circle. Orders were accordingly issued in April 1927 to take them up as an expansion of the Public Works Department programme for 1927-28, on the understanding that the conditions prevailing in the areas rendered such scarcity relief works necessary and that they should be kept open only while the need for them as such existed.

Subsequently the Commissioner recommended, for similar reasons, the commencement of the work of improving miles Nos. 39-46 of the Hubli-Sholapur Road estimated to cost Rs. 44,153. The Hubli-Sholapur Road is a link road connecting Dharwar District with Kanara and Bijapur Districts, hence a very important arterial road. It has more importance now than it had in the past owing to the construction of the causeway at Govankop. Moreover, the road is situated well within the affected parts of the Dharwar District and thus affords relief to unskilled labour in the vicinity in need of employment. The Commissioner's recommendation was accepted by Government, and orders to take up the work were issued in May 1927, the amount required for expenditure on it during the current year being Rs. 6,000.

[Appendix 10—contd.]

If it is decided to complete any of these works, after the scarcity is over, as ordinary works, they will be financed from funds under the head 41, Civil Works—Provincial.

The total amount required under the head 43-A, Famine Relief for all the works mentioned above is Rs. 48,970 (Rs. 42,970 plus Rs. 6,000). This amount cannot be met from the provision under the head “43-A, Famine Relief” and the sanction of the Legislative Council is requested to the transfer of the amount from “43-B, Transfers to Famine Insurance Fund” to “43-A, Famine Relief.”

Expenditure due to floods

Owing to the situation created by the recent disastrous floods in Gujarat and Sind it has become imperatively necessary to provide funds for emergent works and repairs which had to be started immediately in order to repair the damage caused to buildings and roads in the affected areas. As the reserves with Government were quite insufficient to meet this heavy and unforeseen expenditure, the officers concerned were directed to review their grants and to surrender all savings that might, for any reason, be anticipated by them, so that they might be utilised to meet the expenditure due to floods. The amounts required to meet the expenditure on repairs to buildings and roads under the head 41-Civil Works—Provincial are as follows :—

A sum of Rs. 2,35,935 can be made available from the savings reported by the local officers and from the reserves with Government under the head 41-Civil Works—Provincial (Transferred). A supplementary grant of Rs. 1,15,000 is therefore very urgently required and the sanction of the Legislative Council is requested thereto. An equivalent amount in the Reserve (Transferred) with the Finance Department has been set apart for the purpose.

Expenditure in connection with a donation for the X-ray Department of the Goculdas Tejpal Hospital, Bombay

A new block for the X-ray Department and library of the Goculdas Tejpal Hospital, Bombay, has recently been constructed and on the occasion of the opening ceremony by His Excellency of the Prince of Wales Wards, which have also been built lately at that institution, three generous donations of Rs. 75,000 for the X-ray Department and Rs. 10,000 for the library from Mr. Samaldas Purbhoodas Jeevandas, J. P., surviving trustee of a fund to be utilised in memory of his brother and his brother's wife, Seth Devidas Purbhoodas Kothari and Bai Hemkorbai Devidas, and of Rs. 2,000 for the library from Sir Temulji Nariman, Kt., a trustee of the N. J. Wadia Charity Fund, were offered. The last mentioned donation is not accompanied by any special conditions but certain conditions are attached to the former two donations and one of these is that Government will supply the staff and a sufficient grant to work the department and to maintain it and the library in efficient working order.

The question of acceptance of Mr. Samaldas' second donation of Rs. 10,000 is still under consideration. The average annual additional cost involved in the acceptance of the donation for the X-ray Department is estimated at Rs. 11,520 and the additional cost for five months of the current year, assuming that the proposals are sanctioned from 1st October 1927, will amount to Rs. 3,305.

The necessary buildings of the X-ray Department have been completed and are ready for the equipment. The Surgeon General had proposed the purchase of a new X-ray installation at this Hospital at an estimated cost of Rs. 65,000 but owing to financial stringency his proposal could not be adopted. This Department, when properly equipped, will be of the greatest value, both as regards the current work of the Hospital and its future development as a post graduate teaching course. It is moreover a department which is certain to grow rapidly and the facilities for training there will be very valuable and should lead to the institution of a practical course. With the new equipment proposed to be obtained a very large amount of actual treatment both X-ray treatment, electrical treatment and massage, in addition to the routine taking of X-ray skiagrams, can be commenced in this Department.

Having regard to the benefits thus excepted to accrue to the medical profession and the general public, Government are prepared to accept the donations for the X-ray Department and adopt the proposals regarding maintenance submitted by the Surgeon General with the Government of Bombay in that connection. The sanction of the Legislative Council is, therefore, requested to the grant of Rs. 3,305 to meet the additional expenditure involved in the acceptance of this donation during the current financial year. As no sufficient savings are available under the head "32-Medical," it is proposed to re-appropriate the amount of Rs. 3,305 from the Reserve under "47-Miscellaneous—Transferred." As this action involves transfer of funds from the head "47-Miscellaneous—Transferred" to "32-Medical—Transferred," sanction of the Legislative Council is necessary.

Until now all the works pertaining to the Bombay Development Scheme being in the constructional stage, all expenditure incurred thereon was classified under the capital expenditure head "59-Bombay Development Scheme" and the interest and sinking fund charges incurred in connection with the borrowings of the Development Department for all works were merged in the provisions made under the heads "19,-Interest" and "21-Appropriation for reduction or avoidance of debt." As some of the schemes of the Development Department especially the industrial housing schemes, have now sufficiently developed to warrant the opening of a revenue account for the Bombay Development Scheme as a whole, it has been decided, with the sanction of the Secretary of State for India, to open a new revenue expenditure head "42-Civil Works (Development)" with a corresponding revenue receipt head "XXXI—Civil Works (Development)" with only one sub-head for the present, namely that pertaining to the industrial housing schemes. As the reserves with Government were quite insufficient to meet this heavy and unforeseen expenditure, the officers concerned were directed to review their grants and to surrender all savings that might for any reasons be anticipated by them, so that they might be utilised to meet the expenditure due to floods. *Statement of demand for a supplementary grantRESERVED 12. The Honourable Mr. J. L. Rieu.*Expenditure on flood relief

In consequence of the phenomenal rainfall in the last week of July in the districts of Ahmedabad, Kaira, Broach and the Panch Mahals in Gujarat and Hyderabad and Thar Parkar in Sind relief measures to deal with the situation caused by the floods had to be undertaken. The Collectors were instructed to proceed with tagai grants to agriculturists for the restoration of lands, the purchase of seed and cattle, and the rebuilding of houses to the extent essential for the effective conduct of agricultural operations. They were also authorised to make free grants when charitable funds were not immediately available for relief of distress by the supply of food, clothing and the provision of temporary shelter.

2. The following expenditure has hitherto been incurred on measures for the alleviation of distress in the affected areas :—

(1) Loan of Rs. 25,000 to the District Local Board Broach, for opening cheap grain shops.—The District Local Board, Broach, decided to open cheap grain shops in the Ahmod and Jambusar talukas and asked for a loan of Rs. 25,000 without interest. The loan is to be returned when the shops are closed. As no charitable organisations were then reported to have opened such shops in this area, Government sanctioned the loan from the Famine Insurance Fund. The loan when returned will be credited to that Fund.

(2) Grant of Rs. 75,000 to the Collectors of Broach and Ahmedabad for general relief measures.—This is being utilised on the provision of materials for constructing huts, free distribution of seed and for general relief measures.

(3) Grant of Rs. 15,000 for opening timber depôts in areas affected by the floods.—The Chief Conservator of Forests has undertaken departmental operations to supply bamboos and small rafters for the flooded areas. The exact quantity of materials required has not yet been estimated. In the meanwhile an amount of Rs. 15,000 has been sanctioned. It will be expended in places from which export by rail or sea to the affected areas is easy.

(4) Allotment of Rs. 2 lakhs for purchase of corrugated iron sheets.—This amount is required for the distribution either free or at concessional rates of corrugated iron sheets to distressed people of the lowest classes for the construction of huts. From this amount a sum of Rs. 1,18,531-4-0 has already been paid to the Central Flood Relief Committee for the purchase of 500 tons of these sheets.

(5) Advance of Rs. 10,000 for supply of seeds, etc.—This amount was placed at the disposal of the Director of Agriculture for the supply of seeds, implements and bullocks for resowing in Gujarat.

(6) Establishment of the Flood Relief Officer Gujarat (Rs. 2,076).—Government appointed Mr. J. H. Garrett, I.C.S., as a special officer for a period of four months to co-ordinate the various activities of all

[Appendix 15—contd.]

Departments in the four districts of Gujarat which have been affected. The Special Officer is to keep directly in touch with the Bombay Central Flood Relief Committee and other non-official bodies in connection with the various forms of relief which these bodies are undertaking. To assist him in the work the following establishment has been sanctioned by Government :—

One clerk on Rs. 150 per mensem.

One typist on Rs. 75 per mensem.

One Naik on Rs. 18 per mensem.

Three peons on Rs. 16 per mensem each.

Conveyance allowance to clerk and typist Rs. 12 per mensem each.

Local allowance to peons Re. 1 each per mensem.

Travelling allowance Rs. 400.

Contingencies Rs. 400.

(7) Appointment of a Flood Reconstruction Officer, Thar Parkar District (Rs. 3,000).—It was necessary to appoint a special Mukhtiarkar as Flood Reconstruction Officer in the Thar Parkar for a period of four months, more specially to deal with the question of rehousing on sanitary lines, as the sub-divisional officers and Mukhtiarkars are too busy with the ordinary takavi and remission work. The extra charge on account of this officer and his establishment amounting to Rs. 3,000 as shown below was therefore sanctioned by Government :—

(1) Special Officer on Rs. 420 consolidated pay plus Rs. 5 tentage.

(2) One clerk on Rs. 80 per mensem.

(3) Two peons on Rs. 20 per mensem each.

(4) Contingencies Rs. 25.

(5) Travelling allowance Rs. 180 per mensem.

BILL No. XXXV OF 1927

A Bill further to amend the Bombay Port Trust Act, 1879

(As published in the "Bombay Government Gazette" of the 29th September 1927)

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Bombay Port Trust Act, 1879, in manner hereinafter appearing; And Whereas the previous Bom. VI of sanction of the Governor General required by section 80A (3) of the 1879. Government of India Act has been obtained for the passing of this Act; 5 & 6 Geo. V, It is hereby enacted as follows:— c. 61.

1. Short Title.—This Act may be called the Bombay Port Trust (Amendment) Act, 1927.

2. Amendment of section 22 of Bom. VI of 1879.—After sub-section (6) of section 22 of the Bombay Port Trust Act, 1879, hereinafter called Bom. VI of the said Act, the following shall be inserted, namely:— 1879.

"Contributions to welfare fund.—(6-A) for authorizing the payment of contributions to any welfare fund which may be established by the Board for the benefit of the officers and servants appointed under this Act and the Chairman:

"Contributions or appropriations to special funds.—(6-B) for authorizing the payment of contributions or appropriations to any special fund or funds which may be established by the Board for any of the purposes of this Act:

Provided that no such special fund shall be established without the previous sanction of Government; and the maximum amount to which any such special fund may be allowed to accumulate shall be fixed from time to time by Government."

3. Amendment of section 49 of Bom. VI of 1879.—In section 49 of the said Act,—

(a) for clause (1) the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"(1) (i) the salaries, fees, allowances, pensions, gratuities, compassionate allowances or other moneys due to the trustees and to the officers and servants appointed under this Act;

(ii) the contributions, if any, duly authorized to be made,

(a) to any provident fund established by the said officers and servants, or,

(b) to such provident fund or welfare fund, if any, as may be established by the Board for the benefit of such officers and servants and the chairman;

(iii) the contributions or appropriations to such special fund or funds as may be established by the Board for any of the purposes of this Act; and

(iv) if any such provident fund or welfare fund or special fund be established by the Board, the cost and expenses, if any, which may be incurred by the Board in the conduct and administration thereof;"

[Appendix 16—contd.]

(b) the following proviso shall be added to the said section, namely :—

“ Provided also that the Board shall have power and shall be deemed always to have had power at any time to apply, with the sanction of the Government, the moneys credited to the general account in payment of any other charge not included in the foregoing clauses of this section.”

4. Amendment of section 50 of Bom. VI of 1879.—In section 50 of the said Act, —

(a) the following shall be added to clause (3), namely :—
“ or welfare fund ;” and

(b) the following shall be inserted as clause (6), namely :—

“ (6) the payment of contributions or appropriations to any special fund or funds established by the Board under the provisions of this Act to which the Board consider contributions or appropriations should be made from the pilotage account as well as or instead of from the General Account.”

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Board have from time to time created certain special funds by appropriation from revenue for purposes of replacements or for meeting expenditure caused by loss or damage from fire, shipwreck or other accident or by depreciation to property or investments, or other emergency arising out of the conduct of their operations under this Act. It is also considered desirable to establish an Employees Welfare Fund for the purpose of providing subscriptions or donations, as may in the opinion of the Board be necessary, for the upkeep and financial assistance of clubs, institutes or other objects connected with the welfare of employees and for payment of rewards to employees for life saving or other meritorious acts. There is, however, no specific provision in the Act empowering the Board to establish such funds. Clauses 2, 3 (a) and 4 of the Bill, therefore, give the Board the necessary power to establish these and other similar funds for the purposes of the Act.

The amendment contained in clause 3 (b) is considered necessary to enable the Board to make payments in respect of unforeseen items of expenditure not expressly mentioned in section 49. Under the existing Act all the monies credited to the General Account have to be applied by the Trustees of the Bombay Port Trust in payment of the charges specifically mentioned in section 49 of the Act, but it has been found from actual experience that the business of a great public body like the Bombay Port Trust cannot be carried on without the expenditure, from time to time, of small sums of money, the necessity for all of which could not possibly have been foreseen when the Act was framed, and which, with the changing circumstances which necessarily attach under modern conditions, cannot all be foreseen now. It would involve expense and very considerable delay if the Act had to be altered so as to legalise various payments which, from time to time, might be found to be necessary, but which were not provided for by the Act. It is proposed therefore to add a further proviso to section 49 of the Act empowering Government to sanction the payment of any charge which is not expressly or impliedly authorised by the Act. The fact that the Trustees will have to apply to Government for sanction for such payments will provide any safeguard which may be considered necessary for the protection of the monies of the Trustees. In order to remove any doubts as to the legality of any necessary expenditure already incurred with the sanction of Government but which is not expressly authorised by section 49, provision has been made that the Board shall be deemed always to have had power at any time to apply, with the sanction of the Government, the monies credited to the General Account, in payment of any other charge not mentioned in the section.

BILL No. XXXIII OF 1927

A Bill further to amend the Bombay District Police Act, 1890

(As published in the "Bombay Government Gazette" of the 24th September 1927)

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Bombay District Police Act, 1890, in manner hereinafter appearing; And whereas the previous sanction of the Governor General required by section 80-A (3) of the Government of India Act has been obtained for the passing of this Act; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

5 and 6 Geo.
V, c. 61.

1. Short title.—This Act may be called the Bombay District Police (Amendment) Act, 1927.

Cf. Bom. IV of 1902, s. 3 (b). 2. Amendment of section 3 of Bom. IV of 1890.—In clause (b) of section 3 of the Bombay District Police Act, 1890, hereinafter called the said Act, after the word "Act" the words "and shall include, subject to the provisions of sub-section (2) of section 22-A, an additional police officer" shall be inserted.

Cf. Bom. IV of 1902, s. 9. 3. New section 22-A of Bom. IV of 1890.—After section 22 of the said Act the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

"22-A. Power to appoint additional police officers.—(1) Any District Superintendent may in his discretion appoint, for such time and on such pay, and of such rank or grade, as he shall think fit, additional police officers to keep the peace or preserve order at any place, or to enforce any of the provisions of this or any other Act in respect of any particular class or classes of offences,—

(a) on the application of any person, at the charge of such person, or

(b) without such application, at the charge of any person for whose profit or benefit any large work, or any public amusement, likely to impede traffic or attract a large concourse of people, is being carried on :

(2) Every additional police officer so appointed shall, on appointment,—

(a) receive a certificate in the form of Schedule C ;

(b) be vested with all or such of the powers, privileges and duties of a police officer as are specially mentioned in the certificate ; and

(c) be subject to the orders of the District Superintendent.

(3) Notice to be given for discontinuance.—In any case in which such police officers are appointed on the application of any person, such person may, by giving notice in writing, require that on the expiry of one month from the receipt by the District Superintendent of such notice or on the expiry of such shorter period as the District Superintendent may fix, the appointment of such police officers shall cease.

(4) Payments to be accounted for.—All moneys received by the District Superintendent for the payment of any such additional police officers shall be accounted for by him.

(5) Disputes as to payment of cost.—In the event of any dispute in any case under this section the decision of the District Magistrate shall be conclusive as to the amount to be paid, and as to the person by whom it is to be paid, and the sum so ascertained may, on the requisition of the District Superintendent, be recovered by the Collector from such person as an arrear of land revenue."

4. New section 51A of Bom. IV of 1890.—After section 51 of the said Act the following section shall be inserted, namely :—

"51A. When police may arrest without a warrant.—Any Police officer may, without an order from a Magistrate and without a warrant, arrest any person committing in his presence any offence punishable under section 3, 4, 5 or 6 of the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1890."

5. Schedule C.—After Schedule B to the said Act the following schedule shall be inserted, namely :—

"SCHEDULE C

(See section 22-A)

Form of certificate for additional police officer appointed under section 22-A

A. B. has been appointed by the District Superintendent of Police to the police of the district of _____ and is vested with the powers, functions and privileges of a police officer under sections _____ of the Bombay District Police Act, 1890, for the purposes of sections _____."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The object of this Bill is to enable the agents of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to be vested with the powers of a police officer in places to which the Bombay District Police Act, 1890, applies. In the City of Bombay the agents of the Society are invested with the powers of a police officer under section 9 of the City of Bombay Police Act, 1902, but there is no corresponding section in the Bombay District Police Act, 1890, under which the agents of the Society can be invested with similar powers. It is, therefore, proposed to insert a section in the Bombay District Police Act, 1890, similar to section 9 of the City of Bombay Police Act, 1902.

2. In order to make the working of the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act practicable, offences under sections 3, 4, 5 and 6 of that Act have been made cognizable by clause 4 which is based on section 33 (i) of the City of Bombay Police Act, 1902.

Statement of demand for a supplementary grant covered by reappropriation

RESERVED 14. The Honourable Mr. J. L. RIEU.

Grant for the maintenance of, and repairs to, the kadbi stacks in the Sholapur District (Rs. 5,600).

Kadbi has been stored at various centres in the Sholapur District as a reserve against famine. The kadbi stacks were provided with roofing with iron sheets. The stacks which had been provided with double sheet roofing are in good condition, but the system of single sheet roofing with corrugated iron sheets which was adopted at some depôts has not proved satisfactory. The roofs of these stacks were recently blown away by heavy winds. The two sheet roofing was therefore adopted at these depôts also. Immediate action was necessary as the rains had started and there was danger of water getting in, if repairs were not effected quickly. An expenditure of Rs. 4,230 was therefore incurred and an additional sum of Rs. 270 will be required for further repairs.

2. A sum of Rs. 1,100 is required for payment to the rakhwaldars in charge of these depôts. The details of this expenditure are as follows :—

	Rs.
Pay of 7 rakhwaldars at Rs. 12 per mensem each and 2 temporary men at Rs. 15 per mensem each employed from 1st March 1927 to 31st May 1927 plus Rs. 3 contingency per mensem (Rs. 117)	351
Pay of 6 rakhwaldars at Rs. 12 per mensem each plus Rs. 2 contingency per mensem from 1st June 1927 to 28th February 1928	666
Unforeseen expenditure	83
Total ..	1,100

3. The total expenditure on account of the items specified in paragraphs 1 and 2 amounts to Rs. 5,600. No provision was made in the current year's budget for the purpose. The sanction of the Legislative Council is now requested to the transfer of this amount from "43-B-Transfers to Famine Insurance Fund" to "43-A, Famine Relief."

Statement of Demand for a supplementary grant

TRANSFERRED 15. The Honourable Dewan Bahadur HARILAL D. DESAI.

Expenditure in connection with extra sanitary measures required to be undertaken in Gujarat as a result of the floods

As a result of the recent floods in Gujarat insanitary conditions prevail in many localities. While these conditions continue there is risk of an outbreak of epidemic disease and a rise in the incidence of diseases like malaria, dysentery, enteric fever. The local bodies concerned are primarily responsible for the sanitary measures required, but in view of the extraordinary situation created by the floods, Government have decided to provide funds for special measures of relief which may be deemed necessary by the Public Health Department. It is difficult to frame an accurate estimate of the cost of the measures which may be required. In anticipation of the sanction of Government the local officers have already spent more than Rs. 6,000 for such sanitary measures as were deemed essential by the Public Health Department. In addition the Department expects to spend about Rs. 5,000 more on supply of disinfectants and the employment of conservancy staff. The funds available under "33-Public Health" under the control of the Director of Public Health have already been seriously depleted by the expenditure on measures to combat the cholera epidemic in the Southern and Central Divisions. The sanction of the Legislative Council is therefore requested to a lump grant of Rs. 12,000 for extra sanitary measures as a result of the floods under "33, Public Health." As no provision exists in this year's budget for this unforeseen charge, it is proposed to meet it from the Reserve (Transferred) with the Finance Department.

BILL No. XXX OF 1927

A Bill further to amend the Bombay Children Act, 1924

(As published in the "Bombay Government Gazette" of the 23rd September 1927)

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Bombay Children Act, Bom. XIII of 1924, in manner hereinafter appearing: AND WHEREAS the previous sanction of the Governor General required by section 80-A (3) of the Government of India Act has been obtained for the passing of this Act; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. Short title.—This Act may be called the Bombay Children (Amendment) Act, 1924.

2. Amendment of section 7 of Bom. XIII of 1924.—To sub-section (2) of section 7 of the Bombay Children Act, 1924, hereinafter called the said Act, the following proviso shall be added, namely:—

“ Provided that when the Court is presided over by a salaried Presidency Magistrate, such examination need not be reduced to writing, but the Court may, if it thinks fit, before the matter is brought before it, require the matter to be reduced to writing.”

3. Amendment of section 51 of Bom. XIII of 1924.—For clause (a) of sub section (1) of section 51 of the said Act, the following shall be substituted, namely:—

“ (a) if passed by a juvenile court:—

(i) in the City of Bombay, to the Chief Presidency Magistrate; and

(ii) in any other place to which the Act applies, to a District Magistrate.”

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The objects of this Bill are explained in the following notes on clauses:—

Clause 2.—It has been suggested that the procedure of the juvenile court will be simplified if a proviso on the lines of proviso (b) to section 200 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, is added to section 7 (2) of the Act. The amendment in this clause gives effect to this suggestion.

Clause 3.—It has been suggested that section 51 (1) (a) of the Act does not expressly provide for appeals against orders passed by a juvenile court in the City of Bombay as there is no District Magistrate in the City of Bombay. This clause, therefore, makes the necessary provision.

Explanation.—A vehicle shall not be deemed to be kept for hire if it is let for hire only occasionally by private agreement.”

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The object of this Bill is to make certain amendments in the Bombay Public Conveyances Act, 1920, which appear necessary in the light of experience gained in the working of the Act during the last seven years. The amendments are explained in the following notes on clauses.

Clause 2.—Under section 2 (c) of the Act “ licensing year ” means the calendar year commencing on the first day of January of each year. Conditions vary in different districts and it is believed that it will lead to administrative convenience if the year is left to be fixed by the Commissioner of Police (or other corresponding officer) to suit local conditions instead of being fixed by a legislative enactment. This clause, therefore, gives the Commissioner of Police the power to fix the licensing year after previous publication.

Clause 3.—This clause is intended to reduce the fee levied at present under sub-section (2) of section 6 for making the inscription required by section 3 at any time other than when a license is granted or renewed at the annual renewal, and to provide that for any such inscription a licensee should pay the actual cost of making the inscription only. The amount of such cost will be determined in accordance with rules made in this behalf by the Commissioner of Police.

[Appendix 22—contd.]

Clause 4.—This amendment is necessary to facilitate the detection of unlicensed horses which are used for drawing public conveyances.

Clause 5.—Section 9 of the Act makes it obligatory on the Commissioner of Police to brand a horse when granting a license. The number of horses used for public conveyances must necessarily vary with the area and population of a place and in some places both licensing and branding are found unnecessary. This clause, therefore, provides that horses shall be branded, besides being licensed, only if the Commissioner of Police thinks that branding is necessary.

Clause 6.—Under section 13 as it stands at present the Commissioner of Police is bound to provide badges to drivers of public conveyances. It is considered desirable to make the provision optional so as to enable the Commissioner of Police or the corresponding officer in the mofussil, to dispense with badges if he thinks that local conditions do not require them to be provided.

Clause 7.—Owners (licensees) of public conveyances often leave the place for which their license is granted and stay away for a long time leaving some person in charge of their business ; but they do not inform the Police Department of this change. It, therefore, becomes very difficult, should a licensee be required (vide section 32), to ascertain during his absence, who has been left in charge. This clause provides for such difficulty.

Clause 8.—Calls for no remarks.

Clauses 9 and 10.—The amendments made by these clauses are consequential.

Clause 11. - In the mofussil every officer in charge of a police station is not necessarily an Inspector and parties to a dispute under section 31 are put to inconvenience by having to go to an officer of the rank mentioned in sub-section (2) of that section. This clause is intended to remove this inconvenience.

Clause 12 (b).—It is necessary to give the Commissioner of Police power to provide a penalty for a breach of the rules made under section 35 if the rules are not to be a dead letter. As for the amendment made by clause 12 (a) vide clause 3.

Clause 13 (a).—In view of revised section 37 contained in clause 14, section 36 (2) (c) (ii) becomes superfluous.

Sub-clauses (b) and (c) call for no remarks.

Clause 14.—This clause is an amplification of existing section 37. The High Court has decided that a conveyance which is ordinarily let for hire but which is not used for the purpose of plying for hire is not a public conveyance within the meaning of the Act. It is desirable that every conveyance which is kept or ordinarily let to the public for hire should be brought within the purview of the Act. This clause, therefore, gives power to the Governor in Council in the City of Bombay, and elsewhere to the Commissioner, to apply all or any of the provisions of the Act or any part of any such provision, or, if they cannot be conveniently applied as they stand, to adapt the same to any vehicles or to any class of vehicles which are kept, or ordinarily let, for hire, but which are not used for the purpose of plying for hire. Conveyances which may be let for hire only occasionally but which are not kept or ordinarily let for hire are excluded.

BILL No. XXII OF 1927

A Bill to amend the Mahul Creek (Extinguishment of Rights) Act, 1922

As published in the "Bombay Government Gazette" of the (11th August 1927)

Bom. IV of 1922. WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Mahul Creek (Extinguishment of Rights) Act, 1922, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. Short title.—This Act may be called the Mahul Creek [Extinguishment of Rights (Amendment)] Act, 1922.

Bom. IV of 1922. 2. Amendment of preamble and section 2 of Bom. IV of 1922.—In the preamble and section 2 of the Mahul Creek (Extinguishment of Rights) Act, 1922, hereinafter called the said Act, the words "tidal rights and" shall be repealed.

3. Amendments made by section 2 to have retrospective effect.—The amendments made by section 2 shall be deemed to have been made and to have had effect from the date on which the said Act came into operation.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

When Bombay Act IV of 1922 was passed, it was intended to extinguish rights of navigation only in the part of the Mahul Creek described in section 2 of the said Act. The words "tidal rights" occurring in the preamble and section 2 of the said Act which were suggested in the provisional draft of the Bill, however, remained till the Act was passed. This Bill is, therefore intended to give effect to the original intention by an amendment of the preamble and section 2 of the Act so as to extinguish rights of navigation in the creek only. As the amendments proposed in clause 2 are intended to carry out the original intention, clause 3 gives them retrospective effect from the date on which Bombay Act IV of 1922 came into operation.

BILL No. XXXI OF 1927

A Bill to amend the Bombay Primary Education Act, 1923

(As published in the "Bombay Government Gazette" of the 24th September 1927)

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Bombay Primary Education Act, 1923, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :— Bom IV of 1923.

1. Short title.—This Act may be called the Bombay Primary Education (Amendment) Act, 192 .

2. Amendment of section 9 of Bombay IV of 1923.—In sub-section (1) of section 9 of the Bombay Primary Education Act, 1923, for the words "on the recommendation" the words "after considering the suggestions, if any," shall be substituted. Bom. IV of 1923.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The object of this Bill is to remove the doubts which have been expressed as to the power of a local authority to appoint the School Board Administrative Officer under sub-section (1) of section 9 of the Act. It has even been contended that under the existing section a local authority can appoint a School Board Administrative Officer only if a recommendation is made by a School Board and that when such a recommendation is made the local authority has no option but to accept it as binding. It is evident that such could not have been the intention of the legislature as it would leave the parent body, which is responsible for financing the School Board, practically no voice in the matter. This Bill, therefore, makes it clear that the power to appoint the School Board Administrative Officer shall, subject to the approval of Government, be vested in the local authority alone and that while it shall be the duty of a local authority to consider the suggestions, if any, of the School Board before making the appointment of a School Board Administrative Officer, the local authority shall not be bound to accept such suggestions.

BILL No. XXIII OF 1927

A Bill further to amend the Gujarat Talukdars' Act, 1888

(As introduced on the 6th August 1927 and published in the "Bombay Government Gazette" of the 25th August 1927)

Bom. VI of 1898. WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Gujarat Talukdars' Act, 1888, in manner hereinafter appearing; And whereas the previous sanction of 5 and 6 Geo. V, c. 61. the Governor required by the section 80C of the Government of India Act has been obtained; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. This Act may be called the Gujarat Talukdars' (Amendment) Act, 192

Bom. VI of 1888. 2. Repeal of section 31.—Section 31 of the Gujarat Talukdars' Act, 1888, is hereby repealed.

Bom. VI of 1888. 3. Amendment of section 33 (1).—In sub-section (1) of section 33 of the Gujarat Talukdars' Act, 1888, omit the words "127 to 136, both inclusive."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Clause 2.—Protection given by section 31 to the Talukdars for the preservation of the integrity of Talukdari estates has been misused and Talukdars, feeling secure under the protecting section, have led extravagant lives, bringing chronic indebtedness in their train. Even Government are tired of managing indebted estates and are leasing them or allowing them to be leased to private individuals who ruthlessly exploit the cultivators with a view to wring maximum profit out of the bargain. The repeal of section 31 will compel the Talukdars to keep their expenditures below their incomes and will remove a fruitful source of hardship and misery to their inferior holders.

Clause 3.—It is desirable that the exemption from the sections 127 to 136, both inclusive, of the Land Revenue Code, 1879, granted to Talukdars should be removed in order that it would be possible to determine the respective rights of Talukdars and their subjects by regular survey of their village sites and by introduction of record of rights.

BILL No. XXV OF 1927

A Bill further to amend the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888

(As introduced on the 6th August 1927 and published in the "Bombay Government Gazette" of the 25th August 1927)

In sub-section (2) of section 11 of Bombay Act III of 1888 as amended by Act I of 1925—

“As a place of residence” between the words “occupied” and “of which” and also substitute word “five” instead of “ter” the last word of the same paragraph.

THE STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Under the present Act a trader who is a sub-tenant may hold two or more votes one for his place of business and another for his place of residence as the same name appears either twice in one and the same ward or in different wards if he has business place in one ward and a residence in another ward. This is not right as it leads to multiple voting and therefore the system is faulty and should be stopped.

The lowering of franchise to Rs. 5 is a necessary step in advancing real democracy. In other urban areas the franchise has been reduced and a vote is given to a tenant who pays Re. 1 per month. Moreover owing to the depressed condition of trade in the city of Bombay, the Government has been obliged to reduce rents of the Development Department Chawls and a large number of people who had upto now a right of voting will be disfranchised and therefore the lowering the franchise is desirable.

BILL No. XXVI OF 1927

Bom. III of 1888.

Bom. III of 1888.

IV. The following shall be inserted as sub-section 4 of section 24 of the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888 :—

"For the purposes of the reserved seats 'Backward Classes' shall mean persons belonging to any of the following Marathi speaking Hindu castes, viz., the Maratha, Kunbi, Mali, Koli, Bhandari, Shimpi, Lohar, Kumbhar, Bhoi, Bori, Lonari, Bhavin, Deoli, Shinde, Ahir, Khatri, Parit, Gabit, Gavad, Gavandi, Gavli, Gurav, Nhavi, Kasai, Kasar, Koshti, Sali, Sangar, Sutar, Teli, Agle or Agri and Vanjari castes."

"Provided the Local Government may notify in the Gazette any other caste as being entitled to the benefit of reserved seats by declaring it to belong as the case may be either to the Backward Classes or the Depressed Classes whereupon it shall be held to be entitled to such benefit."

[Appendix 27—contd.]

V. The last column of Schedule B of the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888, shall be repealed and the following three columns shall be substituted for it:—

Consecutive No.	Name of the Ward	Boundaries	Number of members to be elected for each Ward	Number of seats reserved for Backward Classes	Number of seats reserved for Depressed Classes
1	....	....	7	1	1
2	....	....	11	1	1
3	....	....	16	1	1
4	....	....	12	1	1
5	....	....	18	2	2
6	....	....	12	2	1
7	....	....	13	2	1

VI. In line 11 of sub-section 2 of section 11 of the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888, the word "ten" shall be substituted by the word "five."

VII. Sections I to V (both inclusive) of this Act shall come into operation from the 1st of January 1929. Section VI of this Act shall come into operation on the 1st of October 1926.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The object of this Bill is to democratise the constitution of the Municipality of the City of Bombay.

It has been a matter of bitter experience that in a general election the Representatives of the Backward and the Depressed Classes are nowhere and in their absence there is hardly any one to pay heed to the grievances of these unfortunate classes. To do away with such a sad state of affairs the Bill proposes a scheme of Reserved Seats in the interests of these two classes. However in setting apart seats for these two classes particular care is taken to preserve as far as possible the number of seats now open to general election. This is done by reducing the number of seats that are at present filled up by nomination and co-option each one-half and adding them to the seats that are filled up by election. The result is that notwithstanding the reservation of 18 seats for the Backward and the Depressed Classes there remain under the new scheme 71 free seats.

Occasion is also taken to correct distribution of the elected seats to be filled up by each Municipal Ward by introducing the more democratic principle of representation according to population.

Another important change in the Municipal constitution which the Bill seeks to make is to lower the franchise from a Rs. 10 rental to a Rs. 5 rental. Under the existing franchise it has been found that out of a total population of 11,37,782 population numbering 10,42,488 is deprived of the vote. In these days it is undesirable to allow 11,37,782 people to be governed by 95,294.

APPENDIX 28

BILL No. XXVII OF 1927

A Bill further to amend the City of Bombay Municipal Act (Act No. III of 1888)

(As introduced on the 6th August 1927 and published in the "Bombay Government Gazette" of the 30th
August 1927)

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888, in the manner hereinafter provided ; it is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. In section 5 (1) of the said Act the clause, "The Corporation shall consist of one hundred and six councillors," shall be substituted by "The Corporation shall consist of one hundred and ten councillors."

2. In the same section 5 (1) of the said Act, before the clause "And ten co-opted councillors elected by....." the following shall be added :—

"Four shall be representatives of labour employed in different trades and industries in the City who shall be nominated by Government in consultation with the respective labour organisations."

3. In section 5 (1) of the said Act, the following words shall be added to the Clause "Seventy-six councillors elected at Ward elections" :—

"Each ward being entitled to return such number of representatives as may be justified by the proportion which its population bears to the total population of the City." (Schedule B of the Act be revised accordingly.)

4. In paragraph 1 of section 11 (2) of the said Act, the word "Ten" shall be substituted by the word "Three."

5. These changes in the qualifications of electors and addition to and redistribution of seats shall come into force with effect from the municipal general elections of 1929.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The object of introducing this Bill is explained in relation to each of the several amendments proposed under the bill.

Clauses 1 and 2.—In view of the fact that labour interests as such have not been recognised in the City of Bombay Municipal Act, as in the case of Local and Imperial Legislatures, and also of the fact that the three capitalist bodies, viz., the Chamber of Commerce, the Indian Merchants Chamber, and the Bombay Millowners' Association, have been provided with representation in the said Act, it is considered desirable and fair, that there should be at least four representatives of labour in the Bombay Municipal Corporation. The total number of seats in the Corporation have been increased by four, namely, seats allotted to labour, in order that the existing arrangement in other respects may not be disturbed.

Clause 3—This change is intended to rectify the arbitrary allocation of seats at present in force.

Clause 4.—This change is necessary in view of the facts, (1) that at present the qualifications of voters at the City Municipal Ward elections are the same, as that of voters at Provincial Council elections, though the matters coming for discussion before the Legislative Council are much more important, and of less immediate interest to individual voters, than the matters which are usually discussed and decided in the Municipal Corporation. It is therefore just and fair that the qualifications should be lower in the case of the latter, than in the case of the former. (2) That when the qualification of the monthly rental of not less than Rs. 10 was laid down in the Act, the rents of houses in Bombay had considerably gone up. Now that the rents have been reduced, and thousands of people who were formerly paying Rs 10 or over per month are now paying less ; also that the rate of rent in the chawls built by Development Department Improvement Trust, and some private landlords, has been reduced, a large number of people who formerly exercised municipal franchise in the city will have to be disenfranchised if the figure of rental stated in the Act is retained.

BILL No. XXII OF 1927

[A Bill to amend the Mahul Creek (Extinguishment of Rights) Act, 1922]

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE

We, the undersigned* members of the select committee appointed to consider Bill No. XXII, A Bill to amend the Mahul Creek (Extinguishment of Rights) Act, 1922, have the honour to submit the following report :—

We have carefully considered the provisions of the Bill and have decided to add a proviso to clause 3 to make it clear that no claimants for damages should in any way be prejudiced by the retrospective effect given to this bill by clause 3.

We recommend that this report, with the minutes of dissent, if any, and the bill, as amended, should be published in English only. No translation into any vernacular is necessary.

(Minutes of dissent by Mr. H. A. Lalljee, M.L.C., and Sir Vasantao A. Dabholkar, Kt., M.L.C.)

We do not agree with the majority report though a slight improvement has been made over the original Bill.

The fact that the owners of salt works have suffered damages is made clear to us because of the developments which have been made by the Port Trust on this site and nearer the site besides the construction of the Bridge.

One of the rights given to the Port Trust by the existing Act is “whereas it is therefore necessary to extinguish all Tidal-rights and rights of Navigation in the said Creek over and above the site of the said bridge” and therefore during the last five years from 1922 to 1927 the Port Trust has taken advantage of this right with the result that the high tide water does not rise to the level as it used to do and consequently the Salt-works are suffering on account of this scarcity of water. We therefore suggest in all fairness that a provision be made in the amending Bill which will enable the owners of Salt-pan such compensation as they are entitled to by reason of the operations of the Port Trust during the last five years. It was suggested by the Honourable the General Member that the Salt-

*Note.—The signature of Mr. K. M. Munshi, M. L. C., will be notified when received.

[Appendix 29—contd.]

works' owners are only entitled to damages caused by the stiffening of the bridge, but we submit it is not so, and cannot be so. The very Title of the Bill is the Extinguishment of Rights (Tidal and Navigation) of the Mahul Creek and not the stiffening of the Bridge. There are many owners of Salt-pans some of whom are poor and have not been able to put in their claims for damages and those who have put in have already incurred heavy costs.

APPENDIX 30

BILL No. XXIX OF 1927

A Bill further to amend the Bombay City Municipalities Act, 1925

(As introduced on the 6th August 1927 and published in the "Bombay Government Gazette" of the 25th August 1927)

Bom. XVIII of 1925 WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Bombay City Municipalities Act, 1925, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. Short title.—This Act may be called the Bombay City Municipalities (Amendment) Act, 1927.

2. Amendment of sub-section 78 (2).—In sub-section 78 (2), for the words "ten per centum" substitute the words "at least one-tenth or not more than one-sixth" and add the words "according to the discretion of the municipal borough" after the word "valuation" where it occurs for the second time.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Before the passing of the City Municipalities Act, 1925, Municipalities had the discretion of deducting a percentage of the annual letting value for repairs, etc., determined in accordance with the varying conditions, prevailing in them. Ahmedabad Municipality used to deduct one-sixth of the annual letting value for repairs, etc., but on account of the compulsory provision of deducting ten per centum of the annual letting value in the new Act, the said municipality has no other alternative except that of deducting only one-tenth of the annual letting value with the result that the rates to be paid by all the ratepayers will be increased and the additional burden will fall more heavily on the poor. This Amendment Bill restores the discretion of the Municipalities to determine the percentage of deduction according to the varying circumstances by prescribing the minimum and maximum percentage of deduction.

APPENDIX 31

A Bill to amend further the Bombay City Municipalities Act XVIII, 1925

(As published in the "Bombay Government Gazette" of the 26th September 1927)

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Bombay City Municipalities Bom. XVIII Act, 1925, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as of 1925. follows :—

1. This Act may be called the Bombay City Municipalities (Amendment) Act, 1927.
2. In the proviso (a) to section 24, substitute "1928" for "1927."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The original Bill, XVIII of 1925, contained no provision for the extension of the term of the municipalities in existence under the old Act. Act I of 1927 only partially remedied the defect by enabling the Government to extend it up to 31st December 1927. At present there exists no provision in the Act for extending the term of the municipalities, whose election was held before June 1926 (when the new Act came into operation), but whose ordinary term will expire after 31st December 1927. In view of the fact that no general election can be held in accordance with the rules framed under the old Act, and in view of the fact that the new rules must in ordinary course take long to come into operation on account of section 221 in the Act, it is necessary to bring this Bill to prevent a standstill of, and a dead-lock in, the municipalities the extension of whose term has not been provided for by the amending Act I of 1927.

24th October 1924	No separate action was taken on the Resolution as, on a notice of a similar Resolution previously received from Mr. Lalji Naranji, representing the Indian Merchants' Chamber, Government had already taken action in referring the Resolution of which notice had been given by Mr. Lalji Naranji to a representative Committee for investigation and report. However, immediately after Mr. Nariman's Resolution was passed, Government invited four members of the Legislative Council Messrs. Lalji Naranji, A. N. Surve, K. F. The grant of takavi for seed and cattle was not recommended by the District Officers and there had been no particular loss of cattle from the floods. ## GOVERNMENT OF BOMBAY

REVENUE DEPARTMENT

Resolution No. 1790/24

Bombay Castle, 13th May 1927

Letter from the Secretary, Land Revenue Assessment Committee, Bombay, No. 1790-B./24, dated 6th October 1926—Submitting the report of the Committee.

RESOLUTION.—The thanks of Government are due to the members of the Committee for their report, and in particular to Sir Lalubhai Samaldas, C.I.E., who at great personal inconvenience officiated as Chairman for some time and gave both his time and his energies unsparingly to the work.

2. The report is not unanimous. Of the twenty-two members only seven have signed it without qualification. The seven official members have appended a joint minute of dissent, and the Commissioner of Settlements, Mr. Anderson, a separate one. Six non-official members have appended joint or separate minutes of dissent, whilst two non-officials, Mr. R. G. Soman and Rao Saheb D. P. Desai, have expressed their inability to sign the report, although they have explained their views at great length in separate notes. The report proper is divided into six chapters, the first five of which are either preliminary or historical, and do not invite comment. The various recommendations of the Committee follow in Chapter 6, and the decisions of Government thereon are contained in the following paragraphs.

3. Basis of assessment : Paragraph 33 of the Report.—In the opinion of the official members of the Committee the amendment of section 107 of the Land Revenue Code, as proposed in the main body of the report, will not make the principles of assessment any clearer or more definite than they are at present. They hold that the only way to obtain a satisfactory definition of these principles is to affirm that rental value must be adopted as the basis for fixing the assessment. The bulk of the non-official witnesses and several members of the Committee are of the opinion that the assessment ought to be based on the net profits of cultivation. The members of the Committee were very evenly divided on the subject of how to calculate these profits, and various suggestions were made. It was agreed by a majority of one that it was not possible to define net profits, and that the terms "value of the land" and "profits of agriculture" used in section 107 of the Land Revenue Code were vague. In spite however of the decision that net profits could not be defined, it was then resolved that section 107 be amended as follows :—

"In revising the assessments of land revenue regard shall be had to the profits of cultivation. The Settlement Officer shall take in account the following factors :—

(i) the state of communications during the previous settlements,

[Appendix A—contd.]

- (ii) the proximity of markets,
- (iii) the trend of prices,
- (iv) the general economic conditions and history of the tract.
- (v) the results of crop experiments, and
- (vi) rental value.

In order to ascertain the rental value, the real rents paid in open competition by tenants to landlords during five years immediately preceding the revision settlement, excluding years of abnormal prices, shall be taken into consideration."

Government are constrained to remark that this proposal is in fact hardly less vague than the existing section of the Code which it is sought to improve, and that therefore it does little to remove the defect pointed out by the Joint Parliamentary Committee.

After the fullest deliberation Government accept the view of the official members of the Committee, which has since received the weighty support of the Indian Taxation Enquiry Committee's report, that rental value, where it can be ascertained, must be adopted as the sole basis for fixing the assessment, all other considerations being regarded as merely subordinate factors, useful only as explanatory or confirmatory of, or supplementary to, the foregoing factor. Government wish to emphasize that this decision will merely give legal effect to the existing principle upon which Bombay settlements are already based. They accordingly approve the amendment of section 107 of the Code, as proposed by the official members, subject to the modifications that for the words "the rental statistics" in the second sentence of the amended section the words "the data relating to rents" should be substituted, that the words "measured by" in the third sentence should be omitted, and that, in the proviso, for the words "the portion of the rental value due to the said improvement shall be excluded from the assessable rental value" the words "the increase in the rental value of such land due to the said improvement shall not be taken into account in fixing the revised assessment thereof" should be substituted.

4. Cultivating and non-cultivating landlords: Paragraph 37 of the Report.—Government agree with the view of the Committee that no distinction should be made between cultivating and non cultivating landlords in fixing the assessment, in order to prevent land passing out of the hands of bona fide agriculturists.

5. Paragraphs 8 and 39 of the Report.—The Committee were unable to make any recommendation on the question of fixing a maximum percentage of the rental value as the assessment which the State is entitled to take, opinions on the subject varying from 10 to 75 per cent. It was recognized that settlement officers had usually regarded 50 per cent. as the maximum, but that in practice they had rarely, if ever, worked up to it. The Committee however decided by a majority that the assessment should not exceed 25 per cent. of the profits of cultivation, i.e., the gross profits less all the expenses incurred in deriving those profits. Government consider that the views of the Committee on this question are inconsistent with one another. In the case of rental value, which is, generally speaking, a factor which can be determined with a high degree of certainty and accuracy, the report makes no recommendation as to the proportion to be reserved to the State, while in the case of the profits of cultivation, on the other hand, which, as is indicated in the report of the Indian Taxation Enquiry Committee and as is indeed evident, is a factor the determination of which is a difficult, if not impossible, task, the report recommends that the State demand should be limited to a maximum of 25 per cent. The Indian Taxation Enquiry Committee in their discussion on the subject of the rate of assessment, i.e., the percentage of the annual value to be reserved by the State, made no definite recommendation. They appear to have been of opinion, however, that what they refer to as the "standard rate" should approximate in the first instance to the existing percentage. For the ascertainment of the latter, however, they had no sufficient information. But such information as they had pointed to a standard rate of 25 per cent. In so far, however, as their observations can be interpreted as a recommendation in favour of the adoption of this percentage, it should be recollected, first, that the rate which they were discussing was not apparently an absolute maximum, such as is proposed (as applied to "profits of cultivation") in the present Committee's majority report, but a standard, i.e., an average rate, and secondly that their general attitude of predisposition towards a lowering of the standard rate appears to have been largely influenced by the assumption that in future a considerably larger share of the annual value than is at present the case would be taken in the shape of rates for expenditure on local objects. Finally, there is the general consideration that the object of the legislation now proposed, as was indicated by the Joint Parliamentary Committee, is to give legislative sanction to the existing principles and practice of land revenue assessment, and there was no suggestion on the part of that body that the passing of such legislation should be made the occasion for any radical departure from such principles and practice. For these reasons the Governor in Council considers that he may appropriately adhere to the present practice of regarding 50 per cent. of the rental value as the maximum limit of the proportion which the State is entitled to take, and that this as a principle should be embodied in the law on the subject. Section 100 of the Land Revenue Code should be amended accordingly.

6. Paragraph 40 of the Report.—Government agree with the view of the Committee that Mr. Shivdasani's scheme for fixing a permanent assessment in kind, but recoverable in cash, is unworkable.

7. Limits of enhancement of assessment : Paragraph 41 of the Report.—Government note with approval and endorse the views of the Committee contained in this paragraph on the right of the State—

(1) to an increased revenue from the land to meet the growing demands of the country and to maintain the administration on an efficient scale ; and

(2) to take its share in the unearned increment derived from land. They recommend that the limit of enhancement should be reduced from the present limits of 33 per cent. for a taluka or a group of villages, 66 per cent. for a single village and 100 per cent. for an individual holding to a general limit of 25 per cent. in the case of all talukas that have already undergone a second revision. The Governor in Council accepts this recommendation, and section 107 of the Code should be amended accordingly.

8. Periods of settlement : Paragraph 42 of the Report.—The Committee propose to leave the existing orders unchanged. Government concur in their opinion as regards the Presidency proper. In view, however, of the economic and other changes that the Lloyd Barrage may bring about in Sind, Government desire to retain a free hand in the matter so far as that Province is concerned.

9. Exemption of improvements : Paragraph 43 of the Report.—The report is emphatically of the opinion that the law on this subject should remain as it is. The Governor in Council accepts the Committee's recommendation.

10. Standing Advisory Committee : Paragraphs 44 and 45 of the Report.—The non-official members of the Committee strongly recommend that a standing Advisory Committee of the Legislative Council be set up to examine all revision settlement proposals and that, if the recommendations of the Committee on any such proposals are not accepted by Government, the proposals shall not be put into force, unless and until the sanction of the Legislative Council is obtained. The arguments of the official members against this recommendation have been fully set forth in the report, and they have the approval of Government. The Governor in Council regrets that he is unable to recommend to the Government of India the insertion of a clause in the Land Revenue Code to give effect to this suggestion.

11. Subsoil water rate : Paragraph 47 of the Report.—The non-official members of the Committee are of opinion that subsoil water shall not be made the subject of assessment and recommend that the practice be discontinued, and that the rates hitherto charged on such water shall be remitted. Government do not consider that the arguments of the official members opposing the abolition of this rate have been successfully met, and they are unable to accept the recommendation.

12. Himayat assessment : Paragraph 48 of the Report.—This proposal is entirely outside the Committee's terms of reference, and Government see no valid ground for making any such general enquiry as is proposed.

13. Paragraph 49 of the Report.—The point referred to in this paragraph has engaged the attention of the Fallow Rules Committee.

14. Paragraph 50 of the Report.—Government accept the Committee's proposal that section 214 of the Land Revenue Code be amended so as to include suspensions and remissions of land revenue and the process of valuation of crops in order to determine suspensions and remissions as matters, the regulations of which may be made by the Governor in Council. The section should be amended accordingly.

15. Paragraph 51 of the Report.—In this paragraph the non-official members of the Committee propose that the Settlement Officer shall have the assistance of two representatives of the cultivators elected by the Taluka Local Board in preparing his settlement. Government agree with the arguments of the official members against this proposal, and regret that they cannot see their way to accept it.

16. Settlement of villages in Sind: Paragraph 52 of the Report.—Government recently caused a special enquiry to be made with a view to ascertaining the practicability of this proposal. The result of the enquiry was to show that it would be unworkable. Government are not prepared to re-open the question now.

17. In paragraph 36 of the report it is stated that non-agricultural assessments were not referred to in the questionnaire, but that the Committee propose to deal with this question in a supplementary report. Although the Committee were furnished with certain information regarding the law and existing practice in respect to non-agricultural assessments, Government, as at present advised, do not consider that the subject of such assessments can appropriately be dealt with by that body. It is indeed questionable whether, when it made its recommendation in favour of the statutory regulation of land revenue assessments, the Joint Parliamentary Committee had in view assessments other than those on lands held for agricultural purposes. The contrary view would be inconsistent with the reference to the due representation of rural interests, those of the tenantry as well as of the landlords, which appears in that part of the Committee's report in which this recommendation is advanced. In the course of the debate, which preceded the passing of Mr. R. G. Pradhan's resolution, practically no allusions were made to the question of non-agricultural assessments, and it is apparent that the ordinary land revenue settlements of agricultural land were then contemplated as the subject of the proposed enquiry. The question of the principles by which non-agricultural assessments should be governed has recently been the subject of close study at the hands of a number of officers who are specially competent to deal with this technical matter, and Government now have before them ample materials on which to arrive at a decision as to the changes, which it is desirable to introduce into the existing law and practice regulating these assessments. In these circumstances Government do not propose to ask the Committee to reassemble for the purpose of dealing with this subject.

18. The Remembrancer of Legal Affairs should be requested to draft the requisite amendments to sections 100, 107 and 214 of the Land Revenue Code in accordance with the orders conveyed in paragraphs 3, 5, 7 and 14 of this Resolution. If the sanction of the Government of India is given to them, it is the intention of Government to introduce a bill in the Legislative Council to give effect to them at as early a date as possible.

By order of the Governor in Council,

J. W. SMYTH,
Secretary to Government.

GOVERNMENT OF BOMBAY

REVENUE DEPARTMENT

Resolution No. L.C.—1145-B

Bombay Castle, 24th June 1927

Letter from the Secretary, Anna Valuation Committee, No. A.V.C., dated 3rd September 1926—Submitting the report* of the Committee appointed by Government in their Press Note No. L.C.—1145-B., dated 28th June 1924.

RESOLUTION.—The report is a majority one. Of the eleven members, Messrs. Pratt and Anderson were unable to sign it, as the former had retired from service and the latter was on leave out of India. Two members, Mr. H. L. Painter, I.C.S., and the Thakor Sahib of Amod, have appended minutes of dissent. The thanks of Government are due to the members of the Committee for the care with which they have conducted the enquiry and formulated their recommendations.

2. Paragraphs 1 to 5 of the report do not call for comment. The Committee's main recommendations are contained in paragraphs 6 to 11.

3. Paragraphs 6 and 7.—In his dissenting minute of 26th January 1926 the Thakor Sahib of Amod states his objections to the procedure proposed in paragraph 6 for the valuation of crops, and suggests that an advisory committee consisting of agriculturists and inamdars and presided over by the Mamlatdar would be more suitable. Government regret that it is now too late to consider the Thakor Sahib's suggestion, which should have been brought before the Committee. They approve the procedure suggested by the Committee in paragraph 6, with the reservation that clauses (i) and (ii) of it should be amalgamated, the subsequent clauses being renumbered.

In his dissenting minute Mr. Painter proposes to exclude paragraph 7, as he considers that sufficient publicity is already provided for in paragraph 6 (ix). Government agree with Mr. Painter and consider that it will be enough if the procedure laid down in paragraph 6 is amplified by so much of the proposals in paragraph 7 as relate to the submission and consideration of petitions of objections against the valuations published under (ix).

The form of procedure as thus revised and approved by Government will be as follows:—

“6. (i) A Committee shall be formed for every village for which an anna valuation is to be prepared consisting of the Circle Inspector * Printed as an appendix to this Resolution.

[Appendix A—contd.]

(as Chairman), the Talati or Kulkarni, the officiating Revenue Patil and two representative agriculturists selected by the Circle Inspector.

(ii) The Circle Inspector shall give not less than three clear days' notice of his visit to the village.

(iii) The Committee shall meet in the month preceding the harvesting of the main crops of the village and record its opinion as to what the anna valuation should be for each of them.

(iv) This opinion shall be signed by each member of the Committee. If the Committee is not unanimous, each member shall record his opinion over his own signature or mark.

(v) The opinion or opinions thus recorded shall be forwarded by the Circle Inspector to the Mamlatdar, who shall proceed to make a provisional decision.

(vi) The Mamlatdar shall fix a date by which the opinion or opinions referred to in section (v) above shall reach him.

(vii) If the opinion or opinions are not received by the date fixed by the Mamlatdar, he shall make his provisional decision on such other data as may be available.

(viii) The Mamlatdar shall publish his provisional decisions in the taluka kacheri and in the chawdis of all the villages concerned.

(ix) Any objection to the provisional decision of the Mamlatdar shall be made within 15 days from the date of its publication in the taluka kacheri or chawdis, and all objections which have been submitted to his superior officers, whether in person or by petition, shall be taken into account by the Mamlatdar, before he makes his final decision.

(x) Unless the Mamlatdar, on a consideration of the objections presented or for any other reason, sees fit to amend his provisional decision, such decision shall stand as his final decision. In any case where he amends his provisional decision, the amended decision shall be published in the same manner as the provisional decision.

(xi) The Mamlatdar's decision, if revised by the Collector, shall be similarly published in the taluka kacheri and the chawdis.

(xii) The Collector may select any field in any village of the taluka for a crop test with a view to checking the accuracy of any anna valuation.

It must, however, be understood that for the purposes of the suspension of land revenue annewari valuations are required only in seasons below the average or, in good seasons, when there are suspended arrears of revenue to be collected.

4. Paragraph 8.—In his dissenting minute Mr. Painter objects to the whole of this paragraph except the first sentence. Government consider, however, that the Committee's recommendations (a) and (b) are intended simply to determine the standard to be applied. The statistics referred to indicate nothing more than what is to be regarded as the average quantitative outturn of land of average classification in the village. Then, this standard having been determined, the valuer, by making quantitative estimates of the actual outturn for a number of particular fields of average classification, will be in a position to determine what ratio the average outturn of the season bears to the outturn of a normal season, or, in other words, whether the crops should be valued at say 12, or 8 or 6 annas. On this understanding Government accept the Committee's recommendations.

5. Paragraph 9.—The Committee recommends that the number of rain gauge stations should be increased. Government will give effect to this recommendation as funds permit.

6. Paragraph 10.—Government endorse the opinion of the Committee and are considering proposals for the conduct of a series of crop experiments.

7. Paragraph 11.—Government agree with this proposal and will take steps to carry it into effect as soon as possible

Appendix to the Government Resolution, Revenue Department,

No. L.C.—1145-B., dated 24th June 1927

REPORT OF THE ANNEWARI COMMITTEE

This Committee was appointed by Government in pursuance of the following resolution moved by Mr. Navle and carried at a meeting of the Legislative Council held on 20th March 1924 :—

This Council recommends to the Governor in Council that a mixed committee of official and non-official members of this Council, with a non-official majority, be appointed to consider the most suitable method or methods of fixing the anna valuation of crops.

2. The Committee sat on the 24th and 31st July 1924 and on the 12th March 1925. It now presents to Government the recommendations embodied in the following paragraphs.

3. The Committee has given its careful consideration to the alleged defects in the present system, the chief of which are that an insufficient number of fields are examined by the revenue officers to enable them to arrive at fair conclusions, that the opinions of the agriculturists themselves are not taken sufficiently into consideration and that the original estimates framed by the subordinate revenue officials, the Talatis and Circle Inspectors, are too frequently enhanced by the higher officials. In order to remove these defects the honourable mover of the resolution, which gave rise to this Committee, laid before it a scheme, the principal feature of which was that the crop valuation should in the first instance be done by a small committee, consisting of the Circle Inspector, the Patil, the Talati (or Kulkarni) and two local agriculturists, whose opinion, if unanimous, should be accepted as final. In the event of a difference of opinion the scheme proposed that the matter should be referred to another committee, composed of the Mamlatdar, the President and Vice-President of the Taluka Local Board. In the event of a further disagreement, it was proposed that the matter should be referred to a third committee, consisting of the Collector and the local Member of the Legislative Council representing the rural area concerned and the President of the District Local Board.

4. After a careful consideration of this scheme the Committee has found itself unable to recommend its adoption on the main ground that it did not provide sufficiently for the control and supervision of the higher revenue officers, that the procedure proposed was unworkable by reason of its elaborate formality and delays, and that it would place the responsibility on persons imperfectly qualified for such a task owing both to a lack of experience or training and to personal bias. The Committee as a whole is of the opinion that it is of the utmost importance to enlist the advice and co-operation of the agriculturists themselves in the earlier stages of the process of anna valuation, but in view of the short space of time, in which it is possible to frame an estimate, which can only be done when the crops are standing and the season of harvesting approaching, it is quite impracticable to adopt any elaborate system of check and countercheck. In order to arrive at fair conclusions within the brief time available a simple system of valuation is absolutely inevitable.

5. A considerable difference of opinion exists on the question of the number of villages that should be examined at the time of making the valuation. A detailed examination of each and every village in an area in which the seasonal conditions render an anna valuation necessary is not, the Committee thinks, within the range of practical politics. The Committee has therefore considered whether it would not be feasible to divide each taluka into homogeneous groups on the basis of the season's rainfall and to select in each group one village in which to hold a detailed examination of the main crops. There is in the view of the Committee much to recommend this proposal, provided that the actual division of a taluka into homogeneous groups and the selection of villages within the groups be placed in the hands of a Committee, the majority of whose members are selected by the agriculturists from among their own numbers. The main objection to this proposal is that there would be a danger of wrong grouping, which would vitiate the whole valuation. There would also be a danger of the wrong selection of a village as typical with the result that the group valuation might be either too high or too low. In these circumstances the Committee thinks it would be preferable to continue the present system, under which as many villages as possible in each affected area are examined by the revenue officers. The Committee, however, attaches the greatest importance to these officers acting in much closer co-operation than at present with the local agriculturists, and to make this possible it makes the following specific recommendations to Government and strongly urges their adoption.

6. (i) That the Circle Inspector should be assisted by two representative agriculturists in each village for which he prepares an anna valuation.

(ii) That a Committee be formed for each of these villages, consisting of the Circle Inspector himself (as Chairman), those two representative agriculturists, the officiating Patil and the Talati (or Kulkarni).

(iii) That the Circle Inspector shall give not less than three clear days' notice of his visit.

(iv) That the Committee shall meet in the month preceding the harvesting of the main crops of a village and record its opinion as to what the anna valuation should be for each of the main crops.

(v) That this opinion shall be signed by each member of the Committee. If the Committee is not unanimous, each member shall record his opinion over his own signature or mark.

(vi) That the opinion shall be forwarded by the Circle Inspector to the Mamlatdar, who shall proceed to make a decision.

(vii) That the Mamlatdar shall fix a date by which the opinion must reach him.

(viii) That if the opinion is not received by the date fixed by the Mamlatdar, he shall make his decision on such other data as may be available.

(ix) That the Mamlatdar shall publish his decision in the taluka kacheri and in the chawdis of all villages concerned.

(x) That the Mamlatdar's decision shall be subject to revision by his superior officers.

(xi) That if his decision be revised by his superior officers, the revised decision shall be similarly published.

(xii) That the Collector may select any field in any village of the taluka for a crop test with a view to checking the accuracy of any anna valuation.

It must, however, be understood that for the purposes of the suspension of land revenue annewari valuations are only required in seasons below the average or, in good seasons, when there are suspended arrears of revenue to be collected.

[Appendix A—contd.]

7. The Committee is further of the opinion that wider publicity than at present should be given to the proposed valuation to enable objections to be recorded and considered before final orders are passed. It therefore recommends that a provisional annewari valuation should be published by the Collector for every village in which such valuation is made at least one month before the date fixed for the collection of the first instalment of the assessment, kharif or rabi, as the case may be. This valuation should be published in the taluka kacheri and also in the chawdi or school of every village concerned, or, where there is neither chawdi nor school, in some other conspicuous place. Any objection against the valuation should be made within 15 days from the date of publication in the taluka kacheri and all objections submitted to the Collector, whether in person or by petition, should be taken into account by him before he passes final orders. The Committee does not think it necessary to publish the provisional valuation in the Taluka Local Board office as well, but recommends that a copy should be supplied by the Collector to any Taluka Local Board applying for one.

8. As regards the method of valuation the Committee does not think it possible to lay down any formal directions for the guidance of the village committee, as it recognises that the non-official members of such committee will rarely be in a position to apply any technical formulæ but must base their valuation almost entirely upon their practical experience. At the same time the Committee thinks that it would be advantageous to lay down certain principles for the guidance of the several officials responsible for the annewari valuation. It has therefore decided to recommend to Government the acceptance of the joint proposals made by the Commissioners, including the Settlement Commissioner and the Director of Agriculture, in their letter to Government No. C.N.R.—102, dated 20th December 1923, in which letter it was suggested that the procedure for ascertaining the valuation of any particular crop should be:—

(a) To ascertain the average classification value of the total area of land in a village under that crop, which can easily be found by comparing the average acre assessment of that land with the maximum rate;

(b) To work out from the taluka table the number of pounds in a 12-anna crop or land of that classification.

Note.—The tables are made for 12-anna soil. Therefore if the average classification value is 6 annas and the table shows 1,500 lbs. as the normal 12-anna crop, then the normal crop for the soil in that village would be 750 lbs. per acre. In cases in which the average classification value works out to more than 12 annas the yield in pounds for lands of such classification can be worked out from the figures in the taluka tables. Thus if the average classification value is, say, 15 annas and the table shows 1,500 lbs. as the normal 12-anna crop, then the normal crop for the 15-anna soil should be taken as 1,875 lbs. per acre; and

[Appendix A—contd.]

(c) To make local inquiry and observation while the crops are still standing and record a definite opinion as to the average acre outturn in the village of the particular crop under consideration, which opinion must be based on his own estimate of the actual outturn on various fields which he has himself seen or tested.

9. The Committee is of opinion that the present number of rain gauges per taluka is insufficient for the purpose of estimating the rainfall in each group of villages. It therefore recommends that the number be substantially increased so that each homogeneous tract in a taluka should possess its own gauge.

10. The question of crop experiments is another matter to which the Committee has given close attention. It understands that a scheme is being prepared for the creation of a special establishment of expert agricultural officers for the purpose of—

(a) examining and analysing the official records of crop experiments in order to co-relate the information contained therein with the information regarding the nature of the season in which the experiments were made and the classification value of the soil, and

(b) making a series of fresh experiments in order to ascertain the standard crop in fairly good year on land of each classification value. To this scheme the Committee gives its unqualified and unanimous support in the belief that the figures of output that would be obtained by the proposed examination and analysis would serve as a most valuable check on the present official statistics of standard output, and that if the results of the new crop experiments suggested were compared with the Agricultural Department's tables of the yield in lbs. per acre, they would in course of time enable Government to verify the anna valuations of their revenue officers.

11. Finally the Committee recommends that the agricultural standards in the Agricultural Department should be re-investigated with a view to revision over the whole Presidency, especially in precarious tracts.

Minute of dissent by Mr. H. L. Painter

Explanatory note regarding my desire to exclude from the Report, paragraph 7.

I fail to see that this recommendation will have the effect of producing the wider publicity which is its avowed object; sufficient publicity is already provided for in paragraph 6 (ix). Apart from this there will be two valuations, viz., the Mamlatdar's and the Collector's provisional, which may well be conflicting, since the latter would not, apparently, be based on the former. Further, so early a provisional valuation of the kind contemplated could only be of the roughest possible type—far removed from the accuracy which these recommendations aim at—and would in practice only be adhered to by chance.

Explanatory note regarding my desire to exclude from the Report the matter in paragraph 8 beginning with "At the same time....." and ending with "himself seen or tested."

1. (a) can be done.—Having done it the officer will know that the land under a particular crop in a particular village bears an average classification value of so many bhag annas.

2. (b) can be done.—By doing it the officer will deduce that the outturn of the crop referred to in (a) would be so many pounds per acre if that crop were a normal (or 12-anna) crop.

3. (c) is the current practice, with "outturn" expressed in pounds per acre instead of in so many annas as against a 12-anna "normal," the latter being converted into terms of the former by reference to the table used in (b).

4. Thus (a) and (b) lead to one thing, and (c) leads to another thing. The first thing is a statistical fact: the second is, as it always has been, an estimate based on observations. To call the arithmetical exercise leading to the first together with the observations leading to the second "a procedure" is absurd, because there is no concatenation whatever between them; the mere lumping of them together cannot produce it.

5. The correctness of the estimate (c) will not be more capable than the old anna estimate of immediate verification by reason of it being expressed in pounds per acre instead of in annas, since the actual outturn in pounds of the whole crop can never be known.

(The accuracy of an estimate could be checked by crop experiments conducted locally in the same season. But no such experiments are contemplated in the "procedure," and rightly so, since in any case the result of the experiments and the consequent justification (or otherwise) of the estimate would come months after the practical result of the acceptance of the estimate, viz., the Collector's orders regarding collection of Land Revenue, had been given effect to.)

6. The result of this proposed "procedure" thus leaves us precisely as we were; all we have done is to introduce a lot of abstract symbols and to emerge from our intricate equation with the discovery that  $X = X$ !

Commissioner, N. D.

Minutes of dissent by the Thakor Soheb of Amod

I may add that the proposals should be considered experimental ones. Let us see how it works and by experience the matter will be settled in its own way. Whatever the annewari is estimated, it is after all an estimation made by ordinary people and it could not be exactly what is the desire of the mover. Until there is a share system no exact valuation and estimation could be made; and I do not think that the present system is absolutely bad.

I may request that in inami and talukdari villages care should be taken that the proprietors may not find causes for complaints in fixing the annewari whenever such need arises.

30th December 1925.

NAHARSINGHJI,
Thakor of Amod.

I have gone through the report and I am sorry to express my disapproval, for matter would be worse from bad. To form a committee of Circle Inspector and a few agriculturists will not serve the purpose with any advantage, but on the contrary chances are that more mischiefs will be played to the disadvantage both to Government and the public.

I think if an advisory committee may be constituted of, from agriculturists and inamdars headed by the Mamlatdar, it will serve the purpose alright. If the committee comes to unanimous conclusion, the matter will be settled or in case any disagreement arises the matter will be finally settled by sub-divisional officer and the Collector after mutual consideration. Moreover, it will be advisable to see that the final order of the Collector is issued 15 clear days before the date of instalment, and the tenants may be given 15 clear days, before the final order of the Collector, to advance their grievances if there may be any.

No. P.—83/14/5/1927

At the meeting of the Legislative Council held on March 17th, 1927, the following Resolution proposed by Rao Bahadur R. R. Kale as amended by the amendments of Mr. Pataskar and Mr. R. G. Pradhan was carried by a majority :—

“ This Council reaffirming the principle of the resolution as amended and carried by it by a majority on the 15th March 1924, recommends to the Governor in Council that he will be pleased to give immediate effect to it by introducing the necessary legislation after taking into consideration the report, the minutes of dissent and suggestions of the members of the Land Revenue Assessment Committee and making provision for giving retrospective effect to such legislation in view of the fact that in many cases new revision settlements were proceeded with and new rates introduced after the resolution of 15th March, and pending such legislation to issue orders to the revenue authorities concerned not to collect the assessment enhanced in revision after 15th March 1924. ”

In his speech on the debate the Honourable the Revenue Member explained that the attitude of Government towards the original Resolution might have been somewhat different, if the mover had not accepted the amendment that the collection of any assessments enhanced in settlements revised since March 15th, 1924, should cease, but that in consequence of the acceptance of the amendment Government were unable to accept the Resolution.

Government have now completed their consideration of the report of the Land Revenue Assessment Committee, and they desire to emphasize the fact that the recommendations of the majority report with one exception include no proposal involving any radical departure from existing practice in respect to the principles of land revenue assessment. The exception referred to is the recommendation which would have the effect of restricting to a maximum limit of 25 per cent. the proportion of the State share in the profits of cultivation. Government are unable to accept this recommendation. Consequently in the legislation which they propose to introduce to give effect to the decisions which they have reached on the Committee's report, they see no necessity to include a provision giving it retrospective effect.

Government desire to make it clear that the effect of this decision is that the collections of the assessments enhanced in settlements revised since March 15th, 1924, will not be suspended, and that they propose to repeat the procedure of last year and to introduce in the current revenue year those revised settlements which are due to come into force in the revenue year 1927-28.

The Bill to amend the Land Revenue Code is now being drafted, and will be introduced in the Legislative Council after it has been submitted to the Government of India and received their sanction.
